SEAWAY TO OPEN TOLL GATES FOR ENTIRE MIDWEST

Will Save Chicago Area $7,000,000.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Manufacturers, farmers, industrial workers, and shippers in twenty-two states in the Mississippi valley were heralded yesterday as the coming beneficiaries of the Illinois waterway, which the state is pushing to completion as the key to the economic barriers which the Panama canal has placed on the whole middle west.

Traffic experts estimate that when the artery is thrown open, linking the Great Lakes basin with the Gulf of Mexico, the saving in freight rates to shippers in the Chicago area alone will amount to $7,000,000 a year.

Felt as Far as Rockies.

It is figured the reduction in transportation costs will be felt as far west as the Rockies, in Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana, and as far east as Pennsylvania. All the intervening area is to be affected. Among the special beneficiaries of the new water route and its development of trade are the states of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa.

Surveys made from time to time have pointed out that the producers of grain, the smaller industrial towns scattered throughout the valley, and the ports along the river and the lake shore in Wisconsin and Michigan have an interest in the project.

The tables show more than 70 per cent of American agriculture is affected. Nearly one-half of the entire industrial payrolls of the United States have a stake in the venture.

Facilities Determine Volume.

The volume of traffic which will pass through the Illinois waterway is variously estimated. It is held to depend upon the amount of barge service which will be available. Over on the Mississippi, on the completed portions of the route, the demand for river transportation is reported to be ten times the present capacity of the barge lines.

The department of commerce has found that more than 7,000,000 tons of freight are available and awaiting to go upon the upper Mississippi and in Illinois. Chicago itself has a great tonnage waiting to get into the south by water. Already more than sixty concerns are shipping by rail to St. Louis and thence by river. One authority estimates that soon after its completion, the Illinois waterway will be handling a commerce of between 5,000,000 and 7,000,000 tons. Part of it will be shipments from and into the Chicago area, while part of it will be through traffic with cities in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and other states as points of origin or destination.

Key to Toll Gates.

The Illinois waterway is the missing link in a Mississippi valley water system of 9,000 miles of consolidated navigable water routes. The 63 mile stretch in the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers between Lockport and Utica, where the state is constructing the waterway, is held to be the key to the midwest's future. By throwing the great lakes into connection with the Mississippi river and the gulf it is expected to demolish what President Hoover has termed "the row of toll gates around the middle west."

Three years ago in his Chicago speech, Mr. Hoover gave a fresh interpretation of the transportation problem of the middle west. He held that the economic setting of the region has been distorted by the realignment of railroad rates after the war and by the opening of the Panama canal.

New York Nearer Pacific.

The compression of the middle west by the coast regions, due to the cheap water rates through the Panama canal, was reduced to a few striking figures by Mr. Hoover. Using the number of cents it takes to carry a ton of staple goods at present rates as a measuring rod, he said:

"We find that before the war New York was 1,904 cents away from San Francisco, while it is now only 1,680 cents away. But Chicago, which was 2,610 cents away from the Pacific coast before the war, is today 2,946 cents away.

"In other words, Chicago has moved 336 cents away, while New York has moved 224 cents closer to the Pacific coast."

The advantage given New York is thus 560 cents. The disparity exists all through the mid-continent region, and in some points it is even much greater than in Chicago. Since the opening of the Panama canal the midwest states, which are paying a large share of the cost of the Panama canal, have lost millions of dollars of

CAR FALLS 200 FEET; INJURED MOTHER GOES FOR AID BUT SIX DIE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Simone Vargas, 32, in spite of terrible injuries, clambered up a 200 foot cliff and stopped a passing motorist to beg aid for her father, Daniel Vargas, and her five children, after their auto went over a cliff along the Los Angeles-Bakersfield ridge route near Newhall last night. But when helpers reached the scene of the crash, the five children and grandfather were dead. Nor is Mrs. Vargas likely to recover.

Four of the victims' bodies were found 200 feet from the smashed car. The accident occurred when the auto's brakes failed to grip.

CHICAGOANS SAIL, BUT LANDING IS UP TO THEIR WIVES

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two young Chicagoans sailed aboard the French liner De Grasse, hoping that their wives, who had sailed earlier, would meet them at the dock in France with their passports and enable them to land.

They are David Karno, 3945 Adams street, and Charles Liebner, 4927 North St. Louis avenue. Steamship officials said they had tried to obtain jobs with the crew. Failing, they bought tourist third class passages, $90 each, and persuaded the company to take them to France on the ground their wives had joint passports.

Should the wives fail to appear with the passports the young adventurers will be returned to America without disembarking.

6 Nations Meet to End Europe Peace Perils

THE HAGUE, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Statesmen of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan meet here Tuesday to wipe the international slate clean of troubles hanging over from the world war.

The first item on the agenda is the adoption of the Young plan for reparations payments.

The principal feature of the new scheme, which is to replace the Dawes plan, is the reduction of the amount charged against Germany for reparations from the original total of about $31,000,000,000 to $8,812,447,200, payable in 58 years.

International Bank Substituted.

A new organization which the financial experts, who met in Paris early this year, named the "Bank for International Settlements," is to be substituted for the reparations commission and for the agent general for reparations. The Young plan also calls for the restriction of deliveries in kind on reparations to a period of ten years, beginning with a maximum of $178,540,000 and decreasing to $82,800,000 the tenth year, when they cease.

Most of the governments interested already have signified their acceptance of the plan concerning reduced amounts Germany must pay.

The only criticism of the plan is that the proposed bank would have powers that might make it an important rival to the central state banks, and perhaps exercise a controlling influence over international finance. Owen D. Young, originator of the plan, held that some institution of the kind will become necessary, whether it is accepted in connection with the reparations scheme, or independently.

Will Fix Payment Dates.

With these questions out of the way, the conference can fix the date for the application of the Young plan, and the consequences of the reparations settlement; complete evacuation of the Rhineland, and an agreement as to the constitution of a committee of conciliation, temporarily or permanent, to watch over any armaments on the left bank of the Rhine.

France Sends 56 Members.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 3.—A French delegation composed of fifty-six members headed by Premier Briand, leaves here Monday on three special cars for The Hague to attend the government's conference. In addition to the new premier, the government will be represented by Minister of Finance Henri Cheron and Minister of Labor Louis Loucheur.

The French thesis, like that of Italy and Belgium, will be that the Young plan must be considered as a whole and either accepted or rejected without alteration.

DOG DAYS ARRIVE FOR CITY POLICE —NO BUSINESS

"Well, the dog days are here, and let's hope they last a while," yawned Deputy Police Commissioner Stege at midnight last night after one of the quietest intervals of police work in recent years. The commissioner knocked wood and went home.

Since 4 p. m., not a police squad had made an arrest, nor was there cause for one. A motorist reported his car stolen, but later remembered he had left it in a downtown garage.

A housewife telephoned of a shooting at 634 West 46th place—some one next door had dropped an electric light bulb, it developed. Another shooting was reported at Clark street and Diversey avenue. It turned out to be only a tire blowout.

The bureau lockup was almost empty of prisoners and the desk sergeants dozed between routine calls at the 41 district stations. The situation was equally quiet and just as satisfactory at the fire department, where the last alarm, a false one, had been registered at 6 p. m.

CAN'T ORGANIZE TRUTH, SO HINDU ENDS PET ORDER

OMMEN, Holland, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Members of the Order of the Star in the East, who have been attending an international congress in a little city of tents among the pines of the Castle Eerde estate, were taken completely by surprise today when their leader, Jiddu Krishnamurti, young Brahmin, announced dissolution of the order.

Krishnamurti, who a year ago identified himself with Buddha and Jesus Christ as world teachers, had been hailed by some, who sat at his feet, as divinely inspired.

In explaining his action today, he said that the order had been preparing for him eighteen years and yet its members were not willing to face the truth. "What then is the use of the organization?" he asked. He declared that his only work was to make men free and that no organization was needed for that.

BOY, 6, ESCAPES TRAINS; DIES IN FALL OFF TRUCK

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A year ago Neil Vern Withey, 6 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Withey of Waterman, was caught on the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks as trains approached from opposite directions. The little fellow with unusual presence of mind stood still between the tracks and the trains sped past without touching him. Yesterday he fell off a truck and was run over and killed. Neil's brother, Adelbert, 16 years old, was backing the truck up to a grain elevator.

3 QUIT UTILITIES BODY; GOVERNOR IS READY TO ACT

Expect New Board in Few Days.

By filing officially the resignations of three of its members, Gov. Emmerson yesterday publicly manifested his readiness to proceed at once with the reorganization of the Illinois commerce commission, commonly referred to as the utilities commission.

He sent to Secretary of State Stratton's office for filing the formal withdrawals of Chairman Patrick H. Moynihan of Chicago, Commissioner Paul Kuhn of Batavia and Commissioner James Clark of Bloomington, three of the six Small appointees still on the commission, the seventh place being vacant through the death of Dan Jackson, Chicago Negro ward leader.

Other Three Believed on Way.

Inquiry following his action brought statements that the resignations of the other three are believed to be on their way. Those three are W. J. Smith of Waukegan, whose appointment followed the Small trial in that city, Alex J. Johnson, publisher of the Svenska Kuriren, a Chicago newspaper, for many years a protege of Fred Lundin, and Hal W. Trovillion, one of Small's Egyptian leaders.

Republican leaders throughout the state who have been waiting for months for the big plums to drop off the Emmerson tree immediately showed new signs of life when they heard this news. To them the utilities commission promises one of the most promising fields open to the aspiring, but, not content with definite announcement of the governor's action in that one matter, they immediately spread other reports they said they had heard.

Many Discussed for Boxing Board.

Of course, there were many names discussed for appointment on the boxing commission, the governor having ordered the resignation of the three present commissioners [details of which appear in the sporting section], but the gossips went further afield and said that there will be immediate action on two other important commissions.

There was general credibility so far as one of these bodies—the industrial commission—was concerned, since it has been constantly on the verge of scandal all through Len Small's two terms and it has been said, with apparent reliability, that none of these handlers of workmen's compensation claims and allied matters meets with the approval of the seven months' old administration.

Lets Tax Commission Alone.

But when the talkative ones included the state tax commission, headed by William H. Malone, their conversation was discounted by several months knowledge that Gov. Emmerson has been telling his intimates that he has no thought of burning his fingers on the Cook county revaluation situation, and that he will let the tax commission alone until conditions in Chicago not only have cooled down but have jelled into final form.

But Mr. Emmerson's decisive step in connection with the utilities commission—accepting the resignations of three of the members and thereby reducing its membership below the majority point—was accepted without question as meaning that he is ready right now to name at least four new commissioners who can function as a legal quorum until he is ready to name their three associates.

Almost two weeks ago he said he hoped to have such a quartet selected by Aug. 1—four men he knows well enough to be sure of their ability as well as their integrity—but just as he encountered difficulty in persuading his selections for his cabinet to make the sacrifices required by their acceptance, he is said to have encountered resistance here which he believes will be overcome, so far as four men are concerned, by tomorrow or the next day, so that he can announce their appointment.

Brundage Denies Offer.

Early reports that he had offered the chairmanship to Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general, have met with double denials, Mr. Brundage resenting the fact that he had been placed in the position of being a state job seeker, and now there is only one man whose name is heard frequently in this connection.

That is Charles W. Hadley, former state's attorney of DuPage county and more recently special assistant attorney general under both Brundage and Oscar E. Carlstrom, his assignment

New Baby Auto in Its Garage by Mail Order

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Negotiations are under way for the large scale production and sale in the United States of a distinctly original "baby" automobile, it was learned today. Three models of the car have been built and representatives of business and engineering firms, of the department of commerce and of the New York Times have been taken for demonstration rides in them. The general agreement is that the tiny car is unique in construction and so far as revealed by the demonstrations, remarkable in performance.

The "baby" car is the invention of James V. Martin of Martin Aeroplane factory, Garden City, L. I., where the models were built. Mr. Martin is now negotiating with a Wall street firm to finance a company to manufacture the car and with a large mail order house for its distribution. He said today that although he expected his plans to reach early consummation, he was not yet prepared to make a definite announcement of details. He added that the car could be made to sell for $200.

Will Be Simple in Form.

Although even smaller in outside measurements than the little automobiles of Europe it is in its construction, rather than its size, that Mr. Martin claims uniqueness for his car. He insists that it is "not a scaled-down edition of a larger car but an entirely new departure in small car design."

The car, in effect, consists of a body with an engine in it and four wheels. There is no chassis or chassis frame. Each wheel is independently mounted in the reinforced body and there are no axles in the usual sense of the word.

Neither are there any springs and rubber "aviator cord" is used in the suspension of each wheel instead. This is the cord made of rubber under tension which is used for the suspension of airplane wheels. It permits each wheel to "take the bumps" independently of the three others. Thus road shocks are not imparted to the body itself.

How It Is Steered.

The wheels are kept under the control of power and steering mechanism by universal joints in the hubs.

The coupé models that have been built have a wheelbase of sixty inches. This compares with the seventy-five inch wheelbase of the Austin seven, the English car for which an American manufacturing company is being formed, and 103½ inch wheelbase of the model A Ford, the smalest American car now in production. Thus, though not much more than half the length of the Ford, Mr. Martin's coupé seats two full grown persons comfortably and three can get into it.

The car is equipped with a four cylinder air cooled motor and such usual attachments as electric starter, speedometer, ammeter, etc. It weighs only 600 pounds and a man of ordinary strength can easily lift up one corner or even one side of it. Mr. Martin claims it can make 50 miles on a gallon of gas.

Mr. Martin plans to have it shipped in a weather proof packing case with a hinge door which can be used as its garage, any one being able to push the baby car in or pull it out at will.

Mrs. George McGraw, 45 years old, 144 North 1st street, Highland Park, wife of a motorman on the North Shore Electric line, was found probably fatally slugged in her home early this morning, and the Highland Park police are confronted with a mystery. Mrs. McGraw was taken to a hospital, where it was found she had suffered a fractured skull, and it was said she probably would die.

According to George Sullivan, 55 years old, a roomer in the McGraw home, he was awakened by moans from Mrs. McGraw's room and investigated. When he found the woman unconscious he notified the police. They found that early in the evening Mrs. McGraw had gone out with two automobile salesmen, G. M. Jones and John Mahoney, of 526 Lincoln place, Highland Park, to learn to drive a car they were selling her. They were taken into custody but denied knowing anything about how Mrs. McGraw had received her injuries. They said that after giving her a driving lesson they let her out of the machine near her home and had not seen her afterward. The police held Jones, Mahoney and Sullivan for further investigation.

AIR GIANT NEARS BERMUDA; HITS UP 80 MILE CLIP

Passengers Revel All Night in Sky.

BULLETIN.

New York, Aug. 4.—(Sunday.)—(Special.)—The Graf Zeppelin, rushing toward the American coast at a speed of 60 miles an hour, was less than 1,000 miles from its destination at 11 o'clock last night (New York time). Its speed and position made it appear that the great airship would reach Lakehurst, N. J., early this afternoon.

News of the Zeppelin's progress came in a message received at 11 p. m. yesterday (eastern standard time) at the navy wireless station at Arlington and relayed to navy officers at Lakehurst. The message gave the position of the Zeppelin at 11 p. m. (New York time) as 35.40 north latitude and 58.05 west longitude.

This would place the Zeppelin 935 land miles from Lakehurst, and indicated it had traveled 500 land miles in eight hours.

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Overcoming some motor trouble which had bothered her yesterday, the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was nearing the American coast late tonight and her arrival at Lakehurst appeared likely by noon tomorrow.

At 3 o'clock New York time this afternoon the dirigible reported herself within 1,300 miles of Lakehurst, or at 51 degrees west and 36.10 north. Private messages timed about the same hour told of the big ship running into head winds and said the craft was rocking slightly. In a radio message received at the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen tonight, as reported by the Associated Press, the Graf Zeppelin said:

"Everything is in the best of order aboard; splendid weather. Following direct course to New York. Hope to fly over New York Sunday noon. Now making speed of 130 kilometers an hour [about 80 miles]."

Storm Ahead of Ship.

The weather bureau at Washington this evening warned that the airship faced the danger of squalls between Bermuda and Lakehurst.

According to Dr. James H. Kimball, meteorologist of the New York weather department, the weather map indicates that some "slight disturbances" were ahead of the dirigible during the afternoon, but he said that so far as his advices showed these would not be sufficiently violent to materially hinder the airship's progress.

A low pressure area was moving northward from Cape Hatteras at that hour, but Dr. Kimball thought it would have passed well out to sea before the Zeppelin arrived in that locality. Light northweasterly winds were reported from the region of the Bermudas.

An earlier message received shortly after noon indicated that the Graf was then some 1,500 miles directly east of Lakehurst, or approximately in 43 degrees 30 minutes north latitude and 45 degrees longitude. This estimate was based on a report that the airship had been in wireless communication with the steamship America around 8 o'clock this morning. According to the message, the dirigible was about 100 miles away from the America at the time of the interchange of messages.

Weather conditions at that time were reported as satisfactory, with the skies clear and visibility excellent, although the airship reported that she had been encountering head winds.

Reports "All's Well."

Still another report came from the navy department at Washington, which said the airship had reported "All well" at 4 a. m. today, Washington time. The Graf was then at latitude 36.20 north and longitude 37.20 west, which was about 425 miles southwest of Fayal, Azores, and some 1,750 miles southeast of Lakehurst.

In her first wireless to the navy department at 8:05 o'clock last night, the Graf reported that she was ninety miles south of Pico, one of the Azores group.

The later radiograms indicated that the speed had been increased during the night and that she was hitting up a pace during the morning of 70 miles an hour.

Passengers Enjoy Trip.

All the accounts agreed that the eighteen passengers and the crew of forty-one and the stowaway, whose identity seems to be something of a mystery, were in excellent health and enjoying their trip to the utmost. There are two women on board, Mrs. Janette Crouse, wife of George E. Crouse, a merchant of Syracuse, N. Y., and Mme. Renee Gourevitch, wife of a Russian pianist. Early reports said that both appeared to be enjoying their experience immensely.

Besides her passengers, the Graf Zeppelin carries fifteen bags of mail, containing 30,387 leters and 31,499 postcards.

Preparations for the dirigible's accommodation went on feverishly at the Lakehurst naval air station. The navy dirigible Los Angeles and the smaller blimps have been moved to one side of the huge hangar to make room for the German visitor, a ground crew has been drilled to the last minute detail on the method of getting the dirigible housed and caring for the passengers when she settles down in front of the hangar, and other preparations completed.

Runs Into Head Winds.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The Graf Zeppelin was running into head winds this afternoon during her trans-Atlantic voyage toward Lakehurst, acording to a message intercepted by Albert L. Byler, Reading railroad watchman, who is operating a wireless set on top of the Reading terminal here. The message, received at 3:42 o'clock daylight saving time, read as follows:

"Running into head winds. Overcast. Winds from southwest. Position approximately 47.20 west; 35.30 north. All well. Ship rocking slighly."

Twelve hours earlier the Reading station had picked up a message which placed the air liner 500 miles west by southwest of the Azores and contained information that the wind motors, which generate electricity for lights and other purposes aboard the Graf Zeppelin, had developed minor trouble.

Reserve Motor O. K.

A reserve motor was reported in good condition, however. The earlier message after giving the position as 39.30 west and 36.20 north, continued:

Here the reception was cut in on call name G L D repeated several times, with a test signal. The operator could not determine whether this was the Graf trying to summon its home staton or the home station calling the Zeppelin. The mesage soon after continued:

"Wind motors not working so well at times. The reserve motor is O. K."

ALL NIGHT PARTY IN AIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—Only a few messages are reaching Germany from the Graf Zeppelin and the country is indignant at the scarcity of news. At the Friedrichshafen works, the directors were deeply pained because they had received no word from Dr. Eckener since 6:30 a. m. today.

The first message, which reached Berlin today at 8 a. m., after the ship had passed the Azores, said:

"We are making better progress now. Our speed is 78 miles per hour right now. We left the Azores behind us and the weather is wonderful. The baby gorilla, Susie, has become accustomed to her surroundings and is now capering around to the delight of the passengers."

A few hours later a second message said:

"An all night celebration was held amid drinking of sparkling wines and singing of American and German songs, until dawn broke through with an inspiring beauty and grandeur. Then the canary birds broke forth into song."

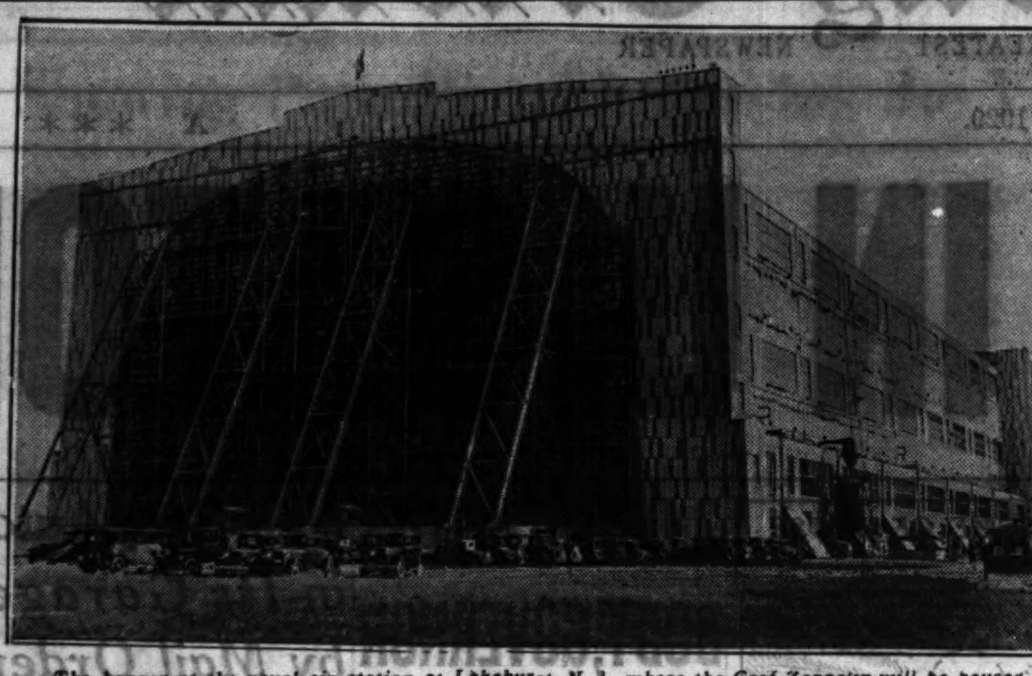
Personal telegrams from the passengers praise the beauty of the flight but bemoan "the agony of not being allowed to smoke."

SIGHT TWO WHALES

BY HERBERT S. SIEBEL.

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—We passed two whales at 11:30 a. m., going in the same direction. Our position at noon was 36 degrees, 4 minutes north and 43 degrees, 36 minutes west. Our speed was 128 kilometers an hour [about 76 miles] and we had covered up to noon 5,519 kilometers [about 3,311 miles]. About half of the passengers are smoking synthetic cigarettes.

Naval Station at Lakehurst Ready for Zep Today



The hangar at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., where the Graf Zeppelin will be housed after its arrival, which is expected to be today. The Los Angeles, U. S. dirigible, has been moved to one side to make room for the visitor from Germany.

Fails to Form Holland's Cabinet; Crisis Unsolved

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Aug. 3.—Holland's ministerial crisis, which has lasted a month, today remained unsolved when Ruys De Beerenbrouck, president of the second chamber, failed to form a cabinet based on the three right parties. This means that the attempt to restore a right coalition is definitely impossible. De Beerenbrouck is now trying to form a so called extra-parliamentary cabinet.

ALL COUNTY TAX SPENDERS CALLED TO RATES PARLEY

Malone Asks Adjustment to Benefit Suburbs.

Chairman William H. Malone of the state tax commission yesterday called a meeting for Tuesday of all 418 governmental units in Cook county. The purpose of the session is to evolve an adjustment of tax rates so that the entire county will benefit from the realty reassessment.

Without such an adjustment in rates property owners in Chicago will receive an average reduction on their tax bills of between 18.1 and 21.4 per cent while the owners of real estate in the county outside the city will receive a boost of between 49.72 and 51.106 per cent.

"The suburbs," said Mr. Malone, "can save themselves by cutting the rates for their local governments, such as their municipalities and their school boards, so that their revenue will be the same as it was in 1927. The bulk of the suburban tax is for these local agencies and the increase in the rural contribution to state and county government costs will be insignificant to the home owner.

Same Revenue for Chicago.

"As for Chicago, the board of education, the sanitary district and the county are concerned, their rates can remain at the legal maximum and they will receive approximately the same revenue as they would have obtained had there been no reassessment.

"Political leaders representing the big tax spenders have flooded me with appeals to increase the realty assessment, promising to make me mayor of Chicago, governor of Illinois or United States senator. But my position remains the same—there will be no increase in taxes this year; there has been too much waste and corruption in government operations with taxes of other years to give the spenders more."

The board of assessors has taken a position that will have the same results. The board will meet tomorrow to fix the percentage of market values that will be used for assessed values. Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, reported on Friday that the total market value of Cook county real estate is $9,500,000,000. The assessors decided that 37 per cent is the largest factor they would approve. This percentage would give the tax spenders approximately the same revenue as they received last year.

Tax Spenders Start Protests.

Spenders did not wait for Tuesday's meeting to begin their clamor against the economy measure. From the city hall Victor S. Petterson, acting deputy controller, gave out a statement that the municipality will have a $6,000,000 deficit because of the failure of hopes to receive an increase in revenue. At the county building, Michael O'Connor, clerk of the county board, declared that the county government finances will sink to $3,000,000 in the red. The sanitary district and the board of education told similar stories.

"They are suffering," said Mr. Malone, "but the pain will do them good. A fat man isn't comfortable when he is on a reducing diet, but he feels better afterwards.

"I am highly gratified by the results shown by the reassessment as it approaches completion. The hundreds of thousands of tax dodgers are back on the books for their fair shares of the burden of supporting the government. By elimination of the 'fixed' tax bill, the property owners without political pull will enjoy a relief when they receive their bills late this fall."

First Scientific Appraisal.

The reassessment is not only the first scientific realty appraisal for taxing purposes in the history of Cook county, but also the first in any county of Illinois. Mr. Malone said that the percentage factor fixed in Cook county will influence the factor in the entire state. Approximately half the value of Illinois real estate is located in Cook county.

"It is the duty of the state tax commission to equalize as between counties," said Mr. Malone. "The logical development will be that the other counties will follow Cook. The next step will be a general readjustment of tax rates by the legislature to apply upon a 100 per cent valuation.

"Under the present system the tax is determined by two variable factors. The legislators retain a curb on taxation by fixing a maximum rate, but the local assessors upset the effect of the rate by varying up or down the per centage of actual value that is used for the assessed value."

Explains Taxation Theory.

The constitutional requirement for uniformity in taxation is based on the sound political theory that the cost of government should be borne in proportion to the value of property assessed. The suburbs of Chicago, in holding their assessed valuations to a minimum and boosting their local tax rates, have escaped paying their fair share of the state and county taxes, Mr. Malone explained. The tax commissioner is a suburbanite, a resident of Park Ridge.

With actual, rather than merely theoretical, equalization as between the counties, there would be a shifting about of the tax burden. These changes would be appreciable, but not nearly as severe as will be the transfer of the tax load on Cook county individuals from the fair tax payer to the tax dodger, Mr. Malone said.

Mr. Malone also announced yesterday that the state tax commission, in placing the new assessments against railroads and capital stock, was going to follow the principles incorporated in the rules it imposed on Cook county assessors. These require open meetings and permanent records for public inspection.

RADIO HOOKUP WILL DESCRIBE FLIGHT OF ZEP OVER U. S. TODAY

New York, Aug. 3.—The National Broadcasting company tonight announced plans to broadcast on a nation wide hookup a description of the progress of the Graf Zeppelin from the moment it appears over the United States until it comes to rest at Lakehurst, N. J.

Arrangements have also been made to put officers and passengers of the ship on the air to describe their flight immediately after they arrive.

Radio stations along the Zeppelin's route will act as key stations for a description of the flight while the ship is in the air.

POLICE SLAYER GETS 78 YEARS IN PRISON CELL

Also Sentenced on Four Robbery Counts.

John Wysocki, 37 years old, confessed slayer of Policeman John Sweeney, was in the penitentiary last evening starting to serve a 78 year sentence for the murder as well as four consecutive one year to life sentences for robbery with a revolver. The sentences were imposed yesterday morning by Judge Otto Kerner in the Criminal court. Before night Warden David Moneypenny of the jail and Chief Deputy Bailiff Charles Mugler had placed Wysocki in the penitentiary at Joliet.

Not only did Wysocki get a heavy sentence for the murder, but Judge Kerner ordered him into solitary confinement for 24 hours on each anniversary of his crime and for the first 10 years of his stay in the penitentiary. Policeman Sweeney was slain on July 7.

State Waives Death Penalty.

Wysocki's punishment was quickly determined, but it was pointed out by court attachés that he had escaped the electric chair, the maximum sentence for murder. The state's attorney's office was willing to waive this punishment, it was announced, in exchange for speedy justice.

Wysocki was arrested two weeks ago as a robbery suspect. He confessed to Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the Racine avenue police that it was he who had shot Policeman Sweeney to death a few weeks before when the latter attempted to question him at Chicago avenue and Noble street. Wysocki had robbed a taxicab driver only a short time before.

Slayer Pleads Guilty.

The grand jury voted the indictments agains the slayer last week and on Tuesday when he was arraigned in court a plea of guilty was entered. Wysocki persisted in his plea yesterday and the judge pronounced sentence after hearing the testimony. The only mitigating circumstance offered by the slayer was the statement that he was "out of his head" when he shot the policeman. He was shot in the head some years ago and he said that had caused him to have spells of mental irresponsibility.

Cornelius Mahoney, brother in law of Sweeney, was kept under constant guard yesterday so that he would not repeat his performance of Tuesday when he floored the slayer with a blow to the chin. Sweeney's widow was hysterical when called upon to testify.

CHARTER GRAF ZEP TO STUDY 'WABBLES' OF MAGNETIC POLE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Plans for the arctic flight of the Graf Zeppelin next spring are to be concluded soon after Dr. Hugo Eckener, its commander, berts his giant ship at the Lakehurst naval air station.

John A. Fleming, director of the terrestial magnetism department of the Carnegie institution and American representative of the International Society for Exploration of the Arctic by airship, and T. A. Marquam of Fairbanks, Alaska, will fly from Washington to Lakehurst tomorrow to confer with Dr. Eckener and the other officers of the Graf Zeppelin.

The society which Mr. Fleming represents has chartered the Graf Zeppelin for a world cruise during which the north pole will be crossed and scientific observation of arctic conditions conducted. Mr. Marquam will represent the city of Fairbanks in the formulation of plans for building a mooring mast there which will be the dirigible's arctic base.

The Graf will fly over the arctic blind spot north of the Canadian coast for an extensive study by an international party of scientists of magnetic, electrical, radio and other phenomena, including, it is expected, a close study of the "wabbling" north magnetic pole.

8,000 MOBILIZED FOR GUARD DRILL AT CAMP GRANT

Gen. Foreman to Address Illinois Troops Today.

BY THOMAS WREN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Officers and men of the thirty-third division and attached troops of the Illinois National Guard mobilized in Camp Grant today and by late afternoon the old war time Illinois camp was bestir with military activities.

Eight thousand officers and soldiers of the division and guard will start on Monday an active two weeks training. Sunday will be a day of rest for the embryo soldiers, many of whom are receiving their first military training.

French Names Chosen.

Religious services for all denominations will be held tomorrow in the Mollins au Bois [woods near the 65th Brigade headquarters]. Molliens au Bois in France was the first headquarters of the Thirty-third division over there. Several other sites here in camp soon will be named after battle fronts in France, where troops of the division were engaged.

Immediately following the religious services all officers and men in camp will assemble in the center of the Molhens au Bois woods to hear an address by Gen. Milton J. Foreman, former division commander.

Pitch Tents at Daybreak.

The 131st Infantry regiment was one of the first units to move into camp. Shortly after daybreak this morning the regiment [Old First], commanded by Col. Frank M. Allen, started to pitch tents. It was followed by the 132nd [Old Second], which is commanded by Col. Fred E. Rand. Both regiments, which form the Sixty-sixth brigade, are commanded by Brig. Gen. Abel Davis.

Later in the day Col. Diller S. Myers of the 129th infantry reported at divisional headquarters at Camp Grant. This regiment is composed of companies in several Illinois towns, including Mount Morris, Waukegan, Ottawa, Dixon, Streator, Aurora, Yorkville, Kewanee, Oak Park, Pontiac, Elgin, Rockford, Kankakee, and Sterling.

Aviators Are Cheered.

This regiment was immediately followed by the 130th Infantry, commanded by Col. Albert L. Culbertson. They form the 65th Brigade under the jurisdiction of Brig. Gen. John J. Garrity, former chief of police of Chicago. Companies of this regiment are located in Decatur, Jacksonville, Quincy, Danville, Champaign, Springfield, Peoria, Delevan, Salem, Cairo, Lawrenceville, and Paris.

At noon seven aeroplanes of the 108th Observation Squadron, headed by Major Merrill D. Mann, arrived in camp from Chicago. The aviators circled the camp several times and were cheered by the doughboys. Each machine was piloted by a regular National Guard aviator.

Black Horse Unit Active.

Lieut. Col. Clinton Rush of the regular army has been placed in command of the Eighth regiment. This unit left Chicago at midnight Friday and arrived early at the camp. The troops marched from the train, with the regimental band playing war songs.

The newly formed black horse unit is attracting attention this year. Under the command of Col. Walter Fisher and Capt. Maxwell Corpening, the members face an intensive training period during the next two weeks. They will act as a guard of honor for Gov. Emmerson when he makes his first divisional review on Aug. 13.

One of the late arrivals in camp was the 108th engineers [combat]. This unit, commanded by Col. Carl E. Hobart was delayed in its arrival because of the parade program arranged in Chicago before it entrained. This organization is composed mainly of employees of Chicago public utilities and has scores of prominent Chicago engineers in its personnel.

Maj. Gen. Keehn Is Pleased.

Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commanding the division and Lieut. Col. Weymouth Kirkland, newly appointed to the judge advocate's staff, were on hand early in the morning when the first troop train entered the training grounds. Gen. Keehn stated that the division is in the finest condition it has attained since the war and that the program mapped out for the next two weeks is twice as intensive as in previous years.

"The camp is in excellent condition," said Gen. Keehn. "We have a number of improvements for the troops and if good weather prevails it is my opinion that this year's camp will be very successful."

Several regular army officers have been assigned to the division this year and many practical war problems have been mapped out for solution by the men and officers. Army men include Col. John P. McAdams, who is attending his first camp here as chief instructor; Maj. Joseph C. Hatie, Maj. W. A. Smith, and Capt. W. H. Dukes.

DRY AGENT WHO KILLED FARMER LACKED WARRANT

Poteet, Tex., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Capt. Charles Stevens, federal prohibition enforcement agent charged with the murder of Tom Chandler, 43, today testified that a bullet fired accidentally as he stumbled during a liquor raid on the Chandler farm caused the death of the farmer.

Testimony at the officer's examining trial here indicated that the raid on the Chandler home yesterday by Stevens, F. H. Hertzel, another federal prohibition agent, City Marshal Andy Aneson and Robert Lott, deputy marshal, was made without a search warrant after the officers had located a still in operation.

Lott testified that a gun, supposed to have been in Chandler's hands, was found nearby. He said there was a mark on one of the cartridges indicating that the trigger had been pulled, and that the cartridge failed to fire.

Stevens testified he received a "tip" that a farm north of Poteet housed a distillery. As he and his men approached the building to investigate, they saw a still in operation near the house. There were four men on the porch of the house. Three of them immediately retreated into the house, he said, and Chandler rose to his feet. Stevens said he ran toward Chandler with his rifle on his hip, covering the man, and called out:

"We're federal officers and you're under arrest."

"When I rushed the man, it was to keep him from shooting me," Stevens said.

The officer testified that he tripped in a sand rut and pulled the trigger of his rifle as he fell, the bullet hitting Chandler below the heart.

At the conclusion of the hearing Justice of the Peace J. Johnston set Stevens' bond at $2,000 and ordered him to appear before the grand jury at Jourdanton, Oct. 7.

BELLONI DENIES GUILT IN MILAN LOAN SCANDAL

ROME, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Ernesto Belloni tonight resigned his membership in the chamber of deputies but protested his innocence of the charges of graft in connection with the $30,000,000 American loan to the city of Milan which led to his removal from all public and official activity by Premier Mussolini last night.

Italy talked of nothing else but the scandal today and the newspapers, undoubtedly ordered to do so, played down the story although they printed the full text of the finding of the committee of inquiry which held that Sig. Belloni, who had represented Italy in international financial conferences, had used his position to enrich himself. Efforts to ascertain the names of his associates who have been placed in jail for their complicity in wasting municipal funds were unavailing.

SWANSON CALLS HOOVER CRUISER DELAY ILLEGAL

Fierce Fight Due When Senate Convenes.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—President Hoover's announced intention of suspending construction on three of the 10,000 ton cruisers of the current naval program is "contrary to law," Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.] asserted in a statement today.

The Virginia senator, who is ranking minority member of both the senate naval affairs committee and the senate foreign relations committee, declared that congress had given an unmistakable mandate for the construction of the cruisers and had vested no discretion in the President to suspend the expenditure of the funds allotted for the purpose.

"There is too much disrespect for law in America and it behooves the President, especially when he has appointed a committee to study law enforcement, to obey the law himself," asserted Senator Swanson.

Worries Administration.

His attitude, as the first senate Democrat to assail the suspension, taken with that of Senator Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], chairman of the naval affairs committee, presages a bitter fight when and if an attempt is made to pass a resolution approving the President's course.

The Swanson statement aroused apprehension in White House circles, lest the senate, after it reconvenes Aug. 19, should by prolonged and acrimonious criticism stultify the administration in its negotiations for naval reduction, now going on with Great Britain.

Senator Swanson, in his statement, pointed out that the last appropriation bill set aside $200,000 as the initial allotment for cruiser building under the new program and directed the President in "clear and explicit language to spend the money between July 1, 1929, and June, 1930."

"The President has no authority," the senator contended, "to suspend this appropriation, except upon the completion of an international agreement, which must be ratified under the constitution before it becomes effective.

Delay Explicitly Forbidden.

"Efforts were made in the senate to eliminate the time limit, to extend the time limit, and to give the President authority to expend the sums appropriated under the bill as he might deem proper. All of these efforts were overwhelmingly defeated in the senate, and the senate decided that five cruisers must be begun in each one of the three years named in the authorization bill. It is left to congress to determine whether the appropriation shall or shall not be made under the authorization and to what amount.

"When congress acts as it has done in this matter, there is no discretion left in the President, except as to the time he shall begin the work within that fiscal year. This is clearly the legal situation."

"I do not think the action of the President will aid in obtaining an international agreement between Great Britain and the United States. It emphasizes the impression held by Great Britain, that the United States has no intention of building the cruisers and that all Great Britain has to do is to delay matters and negotiate to keep the present status, which gives her navy an overwhelming superiority over ours.

United States Means Business.

"When Great Britain realizes that America is firmly determined to have a navy substantially equal to the British navy, then and not until then will any agreement be reached. We should not have our anticipations of such an agreement too hopeful, since it must be remembered that it was the former Ramsay MacDonald government which approved the building of the cruisers which made the British navy superior to the American navy."

The senator asserted his belief that the peace of the world would be accomplished through substantial equality of the American and British navies, but that meanwhile the American people are unwilling that their sea borne commerce of over 10 billions of dollars annually" shall be controlled, either in peace or war, by a superior navy possessed by any nation."

Monroe, La., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Biscuits made of poisoned flour killed a farmer's wife, her son, and a boarder and made three others violently ill on the E. L. Wallace farm, near Kilbourne.

The biscuits were eaten at yesterday's breakfast and immediately afterward all six were in agony. They were found by a passing neighbor.

Mrs. Wallace died last night, soon after W. Brakefield, the 65 year old boarder, succumbed, and at 1 a. m. today Bruce Wallace, 9, died. The other three, E. L. Wallace and two sons, Basil, 14, and Russell, 12, were reported in a serious condition, but probably will recover.

Acting swiftly in his investigation, Sheriff W. S. Smith tonight had taken five persons in custody and charged them with murder.

Those charged are Elmer Leonard, 46, a white tenant on a neighboring farm, and his wife; L. A. Draper, a white tenant on the village plantation, and two Negroes, C. P. Townsend and Burnie Townsend, the latter a woman. All defendants denied their guilt.

The sheriff said he had been advised that Leonard had had financial troubles with Wallace.

After the south seas, China will be Gilda's destination. She wants to see that part of China she was supposed to disport in in her last motion picture.

2 Unlicensed Flyers Killed as Condemned Plane Falls

Hemet, Cal., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two young aviation enthusiasts, members of a group who owned and used a condemned biplane for practice flights, died in the hospital here today as the result of the crack up of the old craft last night. The victims were Wesley Shields, 27, and Theodore McNulty, 26. An inquest disclosed that neither was a licensed pilot. McNulty, who was piloting, told physicians the motor failed when they were but 100 feet in the air.

'Ideal' Opera Couple May Talk Divorce Later.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—(AP)—A satisfactory settlement of the suit for separate maintenance filed by Miss Mary Lewis, star of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York, against Michael Franz Bohnen, has been made out of court and the case dismissed, legal representatives of Miss Lewis announced today.

The opera star, whose marriage in 1927 to Bohnen, himself a widely known figure of the opera, was described by friends as the union of the Metropolitan company's "ideal" couple, said divorce proceedings were not contemplated for the present.

Consider Divorce Later.

"A satisfactory settlement was reached," the singer said, "and Mr. Bohnen has made ample provision. The matter is very personal to me and all that I can say is that he is a very fine man and I love him, but it seemed that we could not live together.

"We are going to see how we get along living separately and after that we may consider whether a divorce is necessary."

In the suit Miss Lewis said they had found that marriage interfered with their careers. She also accused Bohnen of cruelty on four occasions.

Mate Making Pictures.

Miss Lewis is resting here for the summer while Bohnen is engaged in making a motion picture. They separated July 1. Bohnen could not be reached for a statement.

Miss Lewis said she has not decided whether she would return to New York this fall. She said she was interested "somewhat" in motion pictures but that she had not considered seriously the possibility of making a picture.

BRITISH TO TRY OUT SIX PLANES FOR TROPHY RACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The British Schneider trophy airplanes will be completed this week. English pilots will at once begin exhaustive tests to determine which three of the planes and which three pilots will represent Great Britain in the race.

Three Supermarine and three Gloster Napiers, all monoplanes, make up the sextet from which the English will choose their team, so all ten planes in the race this year will be, for the first time, monoplanes. It is believed the British machines are capable of 356 miles per hour.

Of the four nations competing in the Solent race on Sept. 7, England, France and Italy are entering three planes each and the United States only one. The order of starting for the first entries will be America, England, France, Italy; for the second, England, France, Italy; and for the third, England, France, Italy.

MEXICAN DECREE RETURNS CHURCH ANNEX BUILDINGS

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—The department of the interior today issued an order to all government representatives holding annexes to church buildings to return these annexes to the church authorities immediately. These buildings were seized three years ago along with all church property, and the previous order commanding the return of church edifices to ecclesiastical authorities did not mention them. Today's order is the result of numerous conferences between representatives of the church and the department.

The order does not include, however, buildings now occupied by federal or state authorities, or delivered to the local authorities during the three years the churches were closed. Probably five per cent of the church annexes have been taken over for public uses, such as school buildings, postoffices, court houses, libraries, and other government offices. A careful investigation of these buildings is to be made to determine the legality of their present uses.

Among the buildings returned by the decree are residences of priests, church administration offices, centers of recreation, and edifices used as church schools. These buildings run into the thousands, and the decree affects virtually every city, town, and village in Mexico. It will permit the church to function much more easily, especially in the cities and larger towns.

ORDER DEATH FOR SIX MONKS FOR RITUAL MURDER

SAMARA, U. S. S. R., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Six monks have been sentenced to death for practicing mystic rites, in which a girl named Neschadina was killed, and for maintaining at Vavilova Dola an anti-soviet commune. Ten others were sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

Witnesses testified that a favorite form of cure with the monks was to stretch the patient across the threshold and lash him with rods to drive out the devil of disease. They were also accused of practicing vice under the guise of confession and counsel.

FIND PREHISTORIC SACRIFICE ALTAR ON QUINCY BLUFF

Scientists Trace Story of Ancient Tribe.

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—A ragged band of Indians, fatigued by summer heat and exhausted by battles with tribes of the neighboring hills, dragged themselves and their dead up through the woods to a point overlooking the hazy Mississippi valley. As darkness came on, they gathered baskets of colored clay from the steep washouts at the foot of the bluffs and collected white flat sandstone slabs from the shallow clearness of Cedar creek. Then they set up a ceremonial fire for the beginning of an ancient rite.

It seemed as if it really happened yesterday as told by Dr. Wilton M. Krogmann, sitting atop the same hill above the Bottom road north of Quincy. He and six University of Chicago research students, who have been excavating all summer at the Indian mound on the tip of Parker Heights, were having a short rest period after five hours spent in digging out their thirty-third skeleton.

New Culture Discovered.

The story, as pieced together meticulously from samples of soil, bits of pottery, a fragment of an ornament and the crumbling structure of an ovenlike altar, is a fascinating speculation on the type of civilization which must have existed there four or five hundred years ago. Dr. Krogmann and other experts on archeology and anthropology believe they have discovered a culture entirely peculiar to this region.

Behind this little group on Parker Heights, Quincy itself, maple shaded and beautiful with its red brick houses and old lawns, waited for more details of the day's discoveries. Housewives, small boys, and young women, all laden with cameras, interrupted the narrative to ask when the diggers would go to work again. They wanted to know definitely what the latest finds were on their prize hill which the city had turned over to the scientific explorers.

It is difficult to reconstruct prehistoric records from the opening of the one mound, Dr. Krogmann pointed out, and the picture probably will not be scientifically verified until most of the hundred or more mounds on the hills of Adams county, and all the principal ones of the twenty-eight in the vicinity of Quincy, have been probed.

Discovery First of Kind.

But one thing is certain—the ceremonial altar discovered yesterday in the center of this Parker Heights mound is a detail never before found in the Mississippi valley. The ovenlike structure, 25 feet long, probably 15 feet wide, and five feet high, a cross section of which yesterday revealed charred wood, ashes, scraps of bark, and clays of six different colors, is enough to reward years of digging, according to these young scientists, to whom the width of a bone tells tales almost unbelievable to the uninitiated.

Dr. Krogmann outlined how the Indians might have worked. They drew a circle about 80 feet in diameter, in this particular case, for their dead, placing the bodies on their sides or backs around the circumference. The bodies were tied in flexed positions with thongs of leather. After laying on their breasts what few ornaments, arrow heads, and implements they could spare from their supply, they piled over each body a small mound of yellow earth.

Build Fire in Center.

In the center of the circle they evidently cleared a platform 25 feet in diameter, for the digging has revealed there a smooth lining of limestone slabs. Over these slabs they heaped yellow earth to a height of several feet, hollowing out in the center a space for a tremendous fire, which they tended probably during several days of ritual dances and ceremonies. At night the flames were probably visible for twenty miles across the river and the plains.

Then, on the appointed night, when the huge logs burned clear in the still air and the stones of the altar glowed from the heat, they covered it with other slabs of limestone and sealed it completely into a kilnlike structure with clays brought from the neighboring hills. Over graves and kiln they piled earth until their burial ground appeared to be only a smooth roll at the top of the hill.

Other Theories Advanced.

Perhaps it was done this way. Or perhaps the altar structure was erected as a dedication for the burial ground when a single brave or squaw was killed or succumbed to a summer fever. Perhaps the circle of graves were fashioned one by one, as the seasons wore on. It is difficult to say, the scientists point out, as all of the skeletons found, including two buried close to the top of the mound, all appear in the same state of decomposition.

Dr. Krogmann and Prof. Fay-Cooper Cole, under whose general supervision the work is being done by the University of Chicago, believe that the Indians must have been members of the tribes of the Sac and Fox or Potawatomi, for the earliest records of that district made in the journals of priests tell of pottery and ornaments of those tribes similar to the relics found near Quincy.

Two small oval pieces of pottery are not decorated. Two pipes of kilned clay are decorated only by concentric lines on the bowls. One of these pipes had ashes preserved in it and is the first to be discovered since that of Dr. Shetrone in the famous Hopewell caves in Ohio.

In addition tiny flint arrow heads, skin scrapers, and beads made of conch shells, indicating Mexican origin, were found.

Dr. Krogmann and the other diggers hope that more evidence will be revealed as they continue to work on the mound. They expect, in the part not yet uncovered, to find at least eighteen more skeletons and their accompanying material.

TEACHER DIES OF WOUND.

Roland Davis, colored, 34 years old, 6423 Langley avenue, an instructor, died in the Wilson hospital yesterday from a wound received June 14 when he attempted to chase a gang of youthful colored hoodlums from the Oakland school playground, Langley avenue and 40th street.

STATE JUDICIAL ADVISORY GROUP MEETS, ADJOURNS

Members of the Cook County Judicial Advisory council expressed regret privately yesterday when they learned that a corresponding state body, created by the last legislature, had balked at advances urging coöperation with the local group.

Eight of the fifteen members of the Illinois Judicial Advisory council met in the rooms of the Chicago Bar association and, beyond electing a chairman and a secretary, transacted no business except to adjourn for four weeks. They turned down a proposal that work start at once during the vacation season, the initial step suggested being a period of intensive study of court methods and procedure outside of Illinois.

Those who attended the meeting were Judges Norman L. Jones and Edward Shurtleff, Senators A. S. Cuthbertson and W. S. Jewell, Representatives Michael L. Igoe, Frank A. McCarthy and David I. Swanson, and John D. Black, president of the Illinois Bar association. Senator Cuthbertson was the only candidate for chairman. Representative Swanson was elected secretary.

REPORTS HUSBAND MISSING.

Mrs. Katherine Arthur, 608 Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, reported to the police yesterday that her husband, Homer K. Arthur, 47 years old, has been missing since Friday afternoon when he left his office at 184 North Wacker drive, where he conducts a typewriter concern.

PASCHEN'S AID SAYS HE'LL HALT CUNEO BUILDING

Promises to Take Advice from City Lawyers.

Construction of the Cuneo building at Randolph street and Michigan avenue appeared likely to be stopped tomorrow, in view of developments in the city hall yesterday. Superior Judge Steffen on Friday refused to grant John F. Cuneo an injunction to restrain Building Commissioner Paschen from revoking the permit for the structure.

Deputy Commissioner Robert Knight was informed yesterday by the corporation counsel's office that it is mandatory upon the commissioner to halt work on the building pending disposal of appeals against the permit before the zoning board of appeals. Knight replied that he would be guided by the city attorneys in the matter and refuse to allow the work to proceed.

Cuneo Lawyer Warns Paschen.

Notice also was served on Knight by Attorney Barnet Hodes, representing Mr. Cuneo, that the building commissioner would be held personally responsible and liable under his bond if he interfered or placed obstacles to the progress of the construction. Mr. Hodes supplemented the notice with the statement that the building commissioner would be sued for damages if the work is halted.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Frank J. Corr, Edward C. Higgins, and Leonard Ettelson, who fought the injunction proceedings before Judge Steffen, drafted the opinion which may halt the Cuneo project. They cited the statute providing for a stay of all proceedings pending disposal of the appeals by the board. The petitions have been set for a hearing on Aug. 13.

Hodes Makes Reply.

Mr. Hodes replied with the statement that the zoning board appeals are "scraps of paper" until the board formally assumes jurisdiction of the case, which will not be until it meets. There is no assurance that the petitioners will press their appeals or ever appeal before the board, he said.

The legal action to halt the construction work was started after members of the city council admitted that they knew nothing of an amendment to the zoning law under which the Cuneo permit was issued by the building commissioner. The amendment permits buildings on selected sites to soar forty stories straight up from the sidewalk instead of the twenty-three or twenty-four stories heretofore permitted.

ALLEGED FIREBUG HELD.

Charles Braham, 28 years old, 6901 Dorchester avenue, a grocer, was sent to the Psycopathic hospital for an examination yesterday when he was arraigned in Grand Crossing court for setting fire to an awning over a store at 6736 Stony Island avenue. Fire Attorney Scott Hogan said Braham has set fire to 50 houses.

ENVOYS OF CHINA, RUSSIA PAVE WAY FOR EARLY PEACE

Meet in Odd Frontier Town of Manchouli.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANCHOULI, Manchuria, Aug. 3.—This town of Manchuria, which is the northernmost garrison post of the Chinese republic, resembles a frontier town of Wyoming of more than half a century ago. Its only connection with Chinese civilization to the south is the Chinese Eastern railway, stretching 1,200 miles across the Manchurian prairies and touching the coast at Vladivostock. Its connection with Russian civilization to the north is effected through the trans-Siberian railway, stretching to Europe thousands of miles and ultimately connected with the Red Capital of Moscow.

The city is the battling ground for the European and oriental races and civilizations, the fitting settlement of which, it is instinctively felt, involves the peace of Asia and ultimately of the world.

What Is U. S. Going to Do?

It evokes the first test of the stabilizing influence of American far eastern diplomacy and multilateral treaties culminating in the Kellogg pact. Although America is on the opposite side of the world, the question is on everybody's lips, Chinese and Russian as well as Japanese: "What is the United States going to do?"

The Chinese desire to reach a peaceful settlement. This is indicated by the fact that Chinese delegates crossed the border in order to meet Russia's delegate, M. Melnikoff, who claimed that sickness prevented him from returning the visit and stated his intention of sending his secretary at once to the Chinese side of Manchouli.

Soviet Delegate Forced to Wait.

The first meeting of the Chinese and Russian delegates since the break of relations occurred at Station 86, located a few miles north of the city of Manchouli on Russian territory, somewhere near the international boundary, which itself is indefinite and unsurveyed. The only marks on the landscape are the remnants of a wall constructed by Ghengis Khan ten or twelve centuries ago. According to the Chinese delegates, Tsai Yunhsing and Li Shou-kun, the soviet delegate, M. Melnikoff, waited at this point for two days for the arrival of the Chinese delegates.

May Meet at Harbin.

According to the statement of Tsai Yun-hsing the preliminary conference on July 31 was favorable, due to a decision on both sides to appoint delegates for a formal conference to meet within a week, probably at Harbin, the scene of the original trouble.

The first questions to be considered will be the questions of mutual withdrawal of troops and the re-establishment of the railway and mail communication.

The Chinese delegate, Tsai Yun-Hsing, declared that the soviet ultimatum to China had been automatically nullified. While the first steps have been taken to end the deadlock leading to peaceful settlement of the controversy, visible evidence in the city for many hours indicates the strained situation and the likelihood of a clash.

Manchouli Now Paralyzed.

Manchouli, located on the Chinese side, is a town of 30,000 population, of whom probably 10,000 are Russians and the remainder Chinese, with a sprinkling of Mongols and Japanese.

Manchouli, normally a thriving frontier town, is now paralyzed. Only a few shops operated by white Russians are open, while most of the Chinese merchants have evacuated to Harbin, the railway having sold 8,000 tickets during the first two days of the trouble. Only one hotel is functioning now, occupied by one Englishman, who was caught on the Chinese side of the border while going home to Europe, and a large number of Russian women and children, the wives and families of ousted soviet officials trying to get across the border.

On Edge of Great Plain.

Manchouli is located on the edge of an almost limitless Chinese plain, resembling that of Kansas, Nebraska, and the Dakotas, with occasional mud villages, which are occupied by Chinese pioneering farmers, interspersed among similar villages of Russian settlers. The chief signs of life are occasional flocks of cattle, horses, or sheep attended by Mongol nomads.

The Chinese have a garrison of about 5,000 so-called railway troops stationed at Manchouli. The Chinese troops are equipped only with rifles and ammunition, and a few machine guns. The soldiers belong to the governor of Kirin, Chang Tso-Hsiang, apparently being second class troops, because Mukden is holding its best troops as a reserve in the Mukden-Harbin vicinity.

All communication across the boundary is prohibited by the Chinese government. The strength of the Russian force on the Siberian side of the boundary is unknown, but it is stated at Manchouli that the soviets have eight regiments of infantry and cavalry between the boundary and Chita.

Soviet Planes Over Manchouli.

The chief subject of conversation among the Manchouli population was the demonstration flights of the soviet airplanes. It was stated that the purpose was to impress the Chinese delegates. It was stated also that the Russians have a large number of armored tank cars equipped with machine and field guns for campaigning purposes in the event of a decision being made to cross the boundary.

Russia Remains Firm.

MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—[U.P.]—Russia remained firm today in its demands that the Nanking government return the seized Chinese Eastern railway to a "status quo ante" and reiterated semiofficially that unless this is done a direct conference for the settlement of the Manchurian dispute is impossible.

Chinese Soldiers Desert.

MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Tass news agency today reported a group of Chinese soldiers at Manchouli, Manchuria, deserted to the Russian town of Manchuria just across the border, declaring they had no wish to fight against Russia. Bands of Chinese soldiers continued to make small raids near Pogranichnaya and had seized carts, horses and other property. It was also reported that the Chinese authorities of the Chinese Eastern railway had dismissed forty more Russian employés.

HOOVER, PARTY GONE TO MOUNTAIN CAMP TO SPEND WEEK-END

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—While President Hoover and eight members of his cabinet scattered to nearby mountain retreats or seashore resorts for the week end, Vice President Curtis, Secretary of Commrece Lamont and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur remained to brave the heat wave which has blanketed the capitol for nearly two weeks.

The President left yesterday with Postmaster General Brown, Attorney General Mitchell, Brigadier General Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, and other close friends for his Virginia mountain camp, planning to return Monday morning. The President plans to discuss pending problems.

Postmaster General Brown will present tentative program reduction of the huge postoffice deficit which has caused the President considerable anxiety, and Attorney General Mitchell probably will be asked to report on the Leavenworth penitentiary convicts' riot.

Secretary of State Stimson left yesterday to spend the week-end in the mountains, but declined to reveal where. Secretary of War Good left for Portland, Me., and Secretary of Labor Davis went to Atlantic City to spend the week-end with his family.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde is attending the agricultural conference at Baton Rouge, La., and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon went as usual to his summer home near Pittsburgh, Pa. Secretary of the Navy Adams expects to spend two weeks on the Massachusetts coast.

"DIPLOMA MILL" DOCTOR IS HELD FOR BLACKMAIL

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Dr. R. B. Horton, Kansas City physician whose license has been revoked in connection with alleged "diploma mill" activities, was arrested on a blackmail charge today.

The complaint was brought by Dr. C. A. Beard. He alleged Horton attempted to extort $1,000 from him by representing that unless payment was made Dr. Beard's name would appear in a news story among a list of graduates of a Kansas City medical school.

Dr. Beard notified the county prosecutor of the alleged demand and was furnished with marked bills which he tendered to Horton today. County officers who rushed into Horton's office to arrest him met with resistance and Horton threw the money out the window before he was subdued.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

CHICAGO GREETS U. S. TO ROME AIR PIONEERS TODAY

Royal Welcome Planned; Here Two Days.

The Rome trans-Atlantic flyers, Roger Q. Williams and Lewis Yancey, will fly into Chicago from Washington this morning for a two day visit, accompanied by more then fifty airplanes and six blimps which will parade up the Lake Michigan shoreline from Lansing, Ill., to the Sky Harbor airport shortly after noon. Yancey and Williams will fly the Bellanca monoplane in which they hopped over the Atlantic to Spain and thence to Rome.

The welcome extended Yancey will be that accorded to a native son, as he was born on the west side, where his father was for many years a police sergeant at the old Maxwell street station.

Escort of Army Planes.

The two will take off from Washington with an escort of five army planes and will fly directly to the Ford airport at Lansing, where they will meet their convoy and start for Chicago. Three navy planes from Great Lakes will meet the squadron at Sky Harbor as they circle the airport before landing for a round of welcoming ceremonies which are scheduled to begin shortly after 3 p. m.

After the ceremonies Williams and Yancey will make general demonstration flights in their plane, taking prominent Chicagoans along as passengers. At 6:30 they will be guests of honor at a dinner at the airport.

Early tomorrow the flyers will make an inspection tour of Chicago's airports and at noon will head a procession from the 8th street ramp through the loop. They will proceed north on Michigan to Jackson, thence west to La Salle and north to Monroe to the Press club, where they will be entertained at luncheon. Opie Reid, novelist, will be the principal speaker.

A banquet at the Palmer house tomorrow night will close the festivities. Last night nearly a thousand reservations had been made for the occasion. Among the speakers will be Superior Judge Harry B. Miller; Col. Paeglow, commander of the blimp squadron from Scott field, and the Italian consul general, Giuseppe Castruwccio, himself a former Italian war aviator.

Endurance Kings Demonstrate.

The endurance flyers, Dale "Red" Jackson and Forest O'Brine gave a demonstration yesterday morning over Grant park of how they refuel their St. Louis Robin during their record 420 hour flight. They took off from the municipal airport and at 11:10 were flying low over the lake front in contact with the refueling ship piloted by C. Roy Wassel and P. V. Chaffee, who supplied them with gas, oil, food, and supplies during the endurance test. Both planes flew low in plain view of thousands of spectators lining Michigan avenue.

After the exhibition O'Brine and Jackson turned south and flew to Springfield, where they were scheduled to make a short stop to visit Governor Emmerson. Hopping on to St. Louis, they will make a brief halt before proceeding to Kansas City for a civic welcome. They were accompanied by the refueling ship and another plane carrying Maj. William Robertson, sponsor of the endurance flight.

EDISON'S PRIZE WINNER TELLS HOW HE DID IT

Huston Disagreed with Prof in 2 Answers.

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Wilber Brotherton Huston, the 16 year old Seattle boy who won the Edison scholarship and thereby became officially designated as America's brightest youth, consented today, though with some reluctance, to reveal a few more of the answers he gave to the posers in the Edison questionnaire.

"I would like it very distinctly understood, however," said the youth, in the hotel at East Orange, where he is the guest of Thomas A. Edison, "that I do not for a moment wish to pose as a know-it-all. Just because I happened to win the scholarship, I am not absolutely extraordinary. I do not want to pose as a Solon before anybody."

Disagreed With Professors.

As far as the eighteen questions on physics, chemistry and mathematics were concerned, said Huston, he agreed, in substance, with the correct answers as given by scientists and college professors, except in two cases.

Then he consented to give a few answers not already given in the former interviews. One of these questionnaire posers was:

"What do you consider four of the most important qualifications necessary to success in any pursuit?"

To this, Huston's reply was:

"Ambition, the will to work, education and stamina."

Advises Check of Instruments.

Another question was:

"If you had been given a certain experiment to perform and had been informed that it could have been done successfully, but you had failed ten times, what would you do?"

Huston replied:

"I would check my instruments and my chemicals and try it again. If then I got no results I would try again with a varying procedure."

He answered the question regarding the heat of water and mercury and in this case his reply differed somewhat from that of a New York professor. "If the professor's answer was correct," Huston explained, "then I was wrong."

Regarding the diameter of copper wire and alloy and their respective resistances he also differed with the same professor. On all the other questions, however, his answers agreed in every detail with those published as being the correct ones.

Tonight Huston told a radio audience that he has blushed himself into a severe case of sunburn since receiving the Edison scholarship award.

INTERVIEWED FROM LONDON.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—London was so interested in the selection of Wilbur B. Huston by Thomas Edison as his protégé from the picked candidates of every state that the Daily Express interviewed him 3,000 miles away in East Orange, N. J., over the trans-Atlantic telephone.

Young Huston, already the scientist, was so interested in the trans-Atlantic system that the interviewer had difficulty in getting him to talk about himself.

Finally he revealed that fencing was his favorite game and said, "I play a little baseball. I am not much good though."

3 QUIT UTILITIES BOARD; GOVERNOR IS READY TO ACT

for several years having been the civil suit against Len Small which was won in the Supreme court.

It is understood that Philip Collins, a Legionnaire leader prominent in the Carlstrom camp, was offered a place on the boxing commission but declined with a statement that he had his eye on the utilities commission. Whether it will come his way is uncertain since it is not known whether Emmerson would consider him within the category of personal friends he desires to name.

Brinkman a Possibility.

William M. Brinkman, former member of the legislature, whose son, Francis, was legal secretary to Speaker Shanahan during the last assembly, has been strongly indorsed for one of the commissionerships. Gov. Emmerson knows him and he is considered a possibility.

The governor has said that he attaches particular importance to the utilities commission at this time because of the part it will play in the valuations of the Chicago transit lines in the event of a merger. For that reason it is believed he will give Chicago special consideration in selecting its personnel.

Seeks Assistant Commissioners.

In addition to naming the commissioners, Gov. Emmerson faces the task of choosing five assistant commissioners, as the incumbents are considered unacceptable to him. One of them is Milton Weil, author of "Big Bill the Builder" for the writing of which, at Mayor Thompson's insistence, Len Small rewarded him with a $5,000 a year salary with no worries attached.

Another assistant commissioner is Will Colvin, former superintendent of pardons and paroles, whom Small was forced to retire from that position after the murder of Warden Klein at Joliet and other scandals.

Confessed Shoplifter's Fake Story Fools Court

John Kelly, 70 years old, a confessed shoplifter, was arraigned before Judge Borelli in the Grand Crossing court yesterday. He was discharged when he said he was once a successful physician and was trying to reach the home of his son, John Jr., in Gary. Judge Borrelli and several court attachés gave him money to enable him to reach his son's home. Later it was discovered that the medical diploma was a fiction.

SIX PLANS MADE FOR PARK AROUND MEDICAL CENTER

Six plans for the creation of a park to surround the west side medical center have been prepared by engineers of the Chicago Plan commission for the committee headed by Col A. A. Sprague which recently proposed the improvement, Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the plan commission, said yesterday.

Though the matter is not officially before the plan commission, Mr. Taylor pointed out that Col. Sprague and Michael Zimmer, warden of the county hospital, are both members of the commission. It is expected that they will propose that the commission give its approval to the project.

"I believe that such a park is a needed improvement," said Mr. Taylor. "The main element is that of cost and who is to pay the bill."

1,500 SEA SCOUTS PUT ON BIG SHOW FOR NAVAL CHIEFS

Ten Chicago Lads Act as Guard of Honor.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ARROWE PARK, England, Aug. 3.—The web footed members of the Boy Scouts assembled here for the world jamboree had their inning today.

While 50,000 land scouts skidded around in the mud and tried to keep dry from the rain which has been pouring steadily for the last 24 hours, 1,500 sea scouts walked the deck in the international naval display at Wst Kirby, on the sea coast near by.

The American contingent of sailor boys from Chicago and St. Joseph, Mo., took no part in the pageant, but ten Chicago youths from the national sea scout flagship, Old Ironsides, under Skipper Louis Oloff, resplendent in their white gob uniforms, formed the guard of honor for the distinguished guests who watched the sea scouts of other lands go through their capers.

British Officials Review Scouts.

Prince George, honorary commodore of the British sea scouts, was unable to be present on acount of illness, nor was Admiral Beatty, hero of Jutland, able to come on account of other pressing engagements. Sir Robert Baden Powell, chief scout, however, reviewed the sea scouts, and among the officers in the reviewing stand were Vice Admiral A. V. Campbell of the British navy, Howard F. Gillette of Chicago, national sea scout commodore, and Thomas J. Keane, director of the American sea scouts.

The Hungarian sea scouts, coming from a landlocked country which lost its sea coast in the world war, gave an exhibition of seamanship which received the applause of even the hard boiled officers of the British navy. The Hungarian youths showed how to ski on the water and later gave a striking display of rescue work with collapsible boats.

A Drama of the Sea.

The main event on the program was the sea pageant of the British scouts, entitled "The Incredible Adventures of Capt. Curdle," a blood curdling drama of British sea life in the old days of the three masted schooners.

Tomorrow the scouting activities will be dropped and the Sabbath spent in worship in the respective religions of the scouts, of which there are some fourteen different ones.

The highest prelates of the Anglican and Catholic churches will personally conduct the respective services. The archbishop of Canterbury will preach the sermon to the Protestant members and Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, will conduct the Catholic services.

For the Jewish scouts there will be special religious exercises, as well as for the Chinese, Japanese, and Indians. The latter represent six varying Indian faiths.

Despite continued rain almost since the camp opened, both the International hospital and the American hospital reported tonight that they are practically empty. Dr. N. B. Cole of Johns Hopkins, chief of the American hospital, said he had but three cases of minor cuts and a half dozen bad colds out of 1,300 boys, a record of which he claimed even the United States army could not boast.

STAR WILL WED

CAROL DEMPSTER.

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Carol Dempster, motion picture actress, and Edwin S. Larsen, New York banker, have taken out a license to marry. The ceremony probably will take place this month. Miss Dempster gave her age as 27 and Larsen his as 30.

1 KILLED, 2 SHOT AS KENTUCKIANS CLASH AT POLLS

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two outbreaks of violence and a comparatively light vote in the 120 counties marked the state-wide primary election today to nominate candidates for county offices, for 100 seats in the house of representatives and for 20 in the senate.

At Blaze a man was shot and killed and another dangerously cut in an altercation just before the polls closed, and at Frankfort, the capital, at a voting booth two men were wounded by bullets fired by a man in an affray with a policeman.

The voting was light because of rain in several sections of the state and the absence of state-wide issues. The nearest approach to an issue was vindication or repudiation of Gov. Flem D. Sampson's program of free textbooks. Racing, for the first time since 1921, was not an issue.

DOCTOR FACES TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Marion, Ill., Aug. 3.—[U. P.]—Motion to quash an indictment against Dr. John P. Huff of Caterville, charged with the murder of Lorene Morris, Herrin schoolgirl, in an illegal operation, was today overruled by Judge Charles Mitchell. The case will come to trial Sept. 3.

1 DEAD, 2 HURT IN BUS CRASH AT FLOSSMOOR

Overturns After Collision with Professor's Auto.

The driver of an Idlewild Country club motorbus was killed and two other persons were injured; one critically, when the bus collided with an automobile and overturned last night at Illinois street and Western avenue, Flossmoor.

Patrick Cullen, 23 years old, 330 West 61st street, died an hour after the accident. R. P. Gage, 34 years old, professor of theology at the University of Toronto, Toronto, Ont., who was driving the smaller car, was taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital at Harvey with a possible skull fracture.

Miss Alice Brown, daughter of the manager of the Idlewild club, who was riding in the bus, suffered minor cuts and bruises. George Bernstein, 12 years old, a caddy at the club, escaped injury.

Prof. Gage was on his way to visit friends at Broadview college, Brookfield. According to the Flossmoor police, he ran past a stoplight and crashed into the bus.

Cullen's death and five others in Cook county brought the 1929 motor toll to 489. The other victims:

Raymond Tamosinas, 3 years old, 3746 South Union avenue. Fatally injured when struck by a hit-and-run motorist as he was playing in the street in front of his home.

James Durkin, 15 years old, 3845 Parnell avenue. Crushed to death when he fell from the running board of an ice truck beneath its wheels. The driver, Charles Sack, 3809 Parnell avenue, was held.

Yip Ben Lee, 55 years old, a Chinese, 2224 Wentworth avenue. Killed as he crossed the street in front of his home by a hit and run motorist.

Helen Mendrek, 9 years old, 1140 Chicago avenue. Died of injuries received on June 19 when she was struck by a truck while playing in the street near her home.

Henry Neumann, 74 years old, 1937 Potomac avenue. Died of injuries suffered on July 26.

Four Highland Park youths were injured seriously early this morning when their automobile collided with another car on Dundee road near Sky Harbor. Both machines were overturned in the crash. The injured, all of whom were taken to the Wheeling hospital, are: Paul Lencioni, 20 years old; Samuel Ugolani, 20; Harry Preaty, 18, and Merle Allen, 18, driver of the car. The names of the two occupants of the other automobile were not learned.

Freight Saving in Chicago Area, $7,000,000.

The injury to industries has been reflected in the establishment by many concerns of branch factories near the seaboard. One typical figure used by the Illinois Manufacturers' association gives an illustration:

"It costs $3,060 to ship a carload of first class freight from Chicago to San Francisco and only $1,200 from Baltimore to San Francisco, although Baltimore is 6,040 miles from San Francisco and Chicago is only 2,270 miles. It is much cheaper for a middle western manufacturer to ship his goods by rail to an eastern port and thence to the western coast than it is to ship by the direct rail route."

The argument is emphasized that the effect of the completion of the Illinois waterway will be open for the Chicago area and for the entire middle west and the southern states in the valley, a trade territory in which they are either handicapped or shut out by the rates in effect from the Atlantic seaboard and the east, where a $5,000,000,000 steel and power combine is fighting the lakes to gulf waterway.

Effect Already Felt.

Even with the Mississippi river system incomplete, with its outlet to the great lakes still dangling in the air, the water route has already shown its effect in lowered transportation costs in regions tapped.

Sugar is spoken of as an illustration. Officials of the Mississippi Valley association point to a saving of 10 cents a hundred pounds on sugar moving from New Orleans to Minneapolis and St. Paul. It amounts to $60 a car if taken off the barge and put on the rails at St. Louis. If it moved by water all the way the saving is $72 a car. The Inland Waterways corporation, the government system, is operating sixty barges and four towboats from St. Louis to the Twin Cities.

On a joint haul where both water and rail service is used the shipper saves approximately 20 per cent of the rail rate that parallels the water haul. If the freight originates on the river and is consigned to another point on the river the shipper may save as much as 50 per cent of the rail rate between the river ports.

Coast Gets Eastern Trade.

The Mississippi Valley association refers to canned goods as an instance of the Panama barrier.

"A large proportion of the canned goods used in the central states, especially in the Chicago territory," it says, "comes from the Pacific coast. The all rail rate on these canned goods to the middle west is $1.05 per hundred. With the opening of the Panama canal, a rate by water to New York was made of 40 cents per hundred. This enabled New York wholesalers to sell California canned goods as far west as the Indiana territory around South Bend in competition with Chicago. The center of the canned goods industry in the Mississippi valley is in Wisconsin. The rate on Wisconsin canned goods to New York is 65 cents per hundred, and the 40 cent rate from California takes the business.

"Since the barge line opened, it was found that canned goods, vegetables and fruit produced around Terre Haute, Ind., could find a market in New Orleans from which they had been barred by high freight rates. A considerable movement has now developed of canned goods produced in the valley to southern trade territory by way of the Mississippi river."

Joint Service in Use.

Even with the Mississippi water system crippled by the missing link, the 63 mile Illinois waterway which the state is pushing to completion, many products are using joint rail and river service from Chicago by rail to St. Louis and thence by river to New Orleans for transfer. The goods go out for export trade, or through the Panama canal to the Pacific coast, or are transferred to rail for points in the southeast and southwest.

Grain and the effect of the Illinois waterway on the farmers is one great phase. President Hoover in campaign addresses declared the transportation disturbance growing out of the Panama canal is a contributing cause of the farmers' post-war troubles. He set forth that the price of grain to the farmer should be increased 10 cents a bushel by modernization of the Mississippi and the great lakes systems of waterways, which wou'd decrease the cost of carrying grain to the world's markets.

Cites Rate Reductions.

Mr. Hoover at that time gave out some figures. On the stretch between St. Louis and New Orleans he said the government barge line was giving a down river rate on wheat of 8 cents a bushel less than by rail, while "we have seen the barge line extended to St. Paul and Minneapolis, 12 cents per bushel lower than by rail, and we have seen the upriver rates on coffee and sugar 16 cents per hundred pounds less than by rail."

One illustration given during the congressional hearings had to do with a shipment of ten carloads of industrial motors moved by a Wisconsin manufacturer to Seattle last year. The shipment originated on a railroad that served Seattle. The company found it necessary, because of the rate structure, to move the motors to the Atlantic seaboard by rail, thence by ship through the Panama canal, thereby saving $3,000 on the consignment. With the Illinois waterway completed, such a shipment would take the water almost direct, saving the rail freight to the eastern seaboard.

RESEARCH CHEMIST IS FOUND DEAD FROM GAS IN TIGHT LABORATORY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Norman W. Metcalf, 31 year old research associate in the chemistry division of the bureau of standards, is dead, a victim of the illuminating gas which was part of his equipment for highly technical work in a closed, draft free laboratory.

The son of a professor emeritus of Oberlin college, where he received his bachelor of science degree, he leaves a widow and four year old son. His body was found in his locked laboratory, with a wet army blanket wrapped around his head and body and a gas tube lying on it, after he had failed to keep an appointment at the bureau entrance.

He had his master of science degree from the University of Illinois, and had been working at the bureau for more than a year on charcoals, clays and general absorbents with the object of making his findings the basis of a thesis for the degree of doctor of philosophy, which he hoped to receive next year at the same university.

PLAN TO OPEN CONGRESS PLAZA IN SIX WEEKS

Chicagoans who use Michigan avenue will see a complete Congress street plaza and twin bridges in use within another six weeks, Supt. George T. Donoghue of the south park board declared yesterday. He also announced advertising for bids tomorrow on several important projects whose construction was delayed by proceedings in the Circuit court. The bids, which will be returnable Aug. 21, will be submitted to the south park board at its meeting on that date.

More than $700,000 will be expended on finishing the Congress street plaza, the opening of the Ericcson drive from 39th street to 51st street, and improvement of the assembly hall in Hamilton park to include a library and bigger gymnasium. Egress from the city along the outer drive will be completed with the elimination of the bottle neck at 39th street, which for months has choked automobile traffic, at an expense of $400,000. This should be completed within four months.

Further improvements contemplated later include the acquisition of land for a Second ward park for colored persons; a new fieldhouse for Foster park, 83d street and Loomis avenue; a small fieldhouse projection in Washington park; expansion of the south park commission's garage, and a new power plant for Sherman park.

MASS EVIDENCE OF LAKE DAMAGE TO CHICAGO FOES

Expedition Reports Havoc Done by High Water.

Clarence Bergstrom, attorney for the sanitary district of Chicago, returned yesterday from a three weeks' survey of lake level conditions on the Wisconsin, Michigan, and Ohio shore lines. He brought back proof of the havoc caused by the highest water in 35 years and also proof that the diversion of water at Chicago is in no way responsible for the low levels of recent years.

The evidence collected by Bergstrom with the help of Willard Rhodes, sanitary engineer, will be presented next month before Charles Evans Hughes, master in chancery, who is preparing data for the United States Supreme court decree on diversion. Bergstrom says he now has conclusive legal proof that no reason exists for emergency action against lake diversion. He will show that the lake waters are now about four feet higher than two years ago, and that the states which complained that they were being robbed of water are now suffering from high levels.

Damage Is Found General.

Bathing beaches, parks, piers, and even railroad tracks along the shores of the complaining states have already lost or may soon lose their usefulness because of the high levels, Bergstrom said. Unless the waters recede before the coming of the autumn winds general and serious damage may be expected, he found. Natives of many lake towns visited realize this impending danger, according to Bergstrom. He said several of them remarked "You fellows must be sent here from the sanitary district of Chicago" while his party was engaged in taking measurements and pictures.

The sanitary district expedition was dispatched with instructions to determine existing conditions which would refute the testimony of Chicago's opponents before the Supreme court and to obtain further data which Attorney Bergstrom will use to justify the Chicago contention that no emergency exists for restraining the diversion here for purposes of sanitation.

Tells Havoc Caused by Water.

At Bay City, Mich., Bergstrom found that the rising waters have covered most of the city park and are now at the steps of the pavilion. The bathing beach at Green Bay, Wis., is under deep water and the lake has come up to the park lawn. At Traverse City, Mich., a railroad has used loads of rocks for an improvised dike to stem the waters and save its tracks from being washed out.

The state park at Erie, Pa., is suffering damage from the four foot rise in level and a highway along the shore line has been washed away in sections. A protecting breakwater is now being constructed to save the road. At numerous points, Bergstrom declared, piers have been damaged and several of them have lost their usefulness.

Take 160 Photographs.

The Sanitary district party took 160 photographs and many measurements. At each point visited a water gauge was employed from a permanently stationary object, such as a shipping dock. When the measurement data are assembled they will show, Bergstrom said, that the general rise in the levels of Lakes Michigan, Huron, and Erie has been at least four feet since 1926, when Chicago's opponents brought their heaviest guns to bear on the Chicago diversion.

The power and shipping interests, however, are benefiting from the situation, the attorney said. Cargo ships can take on heavier loads because of the deeper water, he pointed out.

The Bergstrom party made its tour by automobile, first visiting the Green Bay, Wis., region. The expedition then proceeded to Menominee, Mich., and ferried across Sturgeon bay and up to Washington island. North Port Point and Traverse Bay, Mich., were the next stops, and after them came Bay City and the St. Clair flats above Detroit, where conditions due to the high water may be considered serious, Bergstrom said.

Follows Ohio Shoreline.

Along the Ohio shoreline of Lake Erie the investigators made stops at Sandusky, Cedar Point, Port Clinton, Cleveland, and other places. The survey was concluded after observance of conditions at Erie, Pa., and Buffalo, N. Y., and the Alexandria bay region.

"Our survey will completely vindicate Chicago," declared Bergstrom. "Those states which have been putting out so much propaganda during low water periods are now giving Chicago its opportunity to give them a laugh."

Ousts Wife for Back Seat Driving; She Asks Divorce

Mrs. Elizabeth F. Bezzio, 638 Oakdale avenue, yesterday filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court against her husband, George Leo Bezzio, 2839 Abbott court. The bill, drawn by Attorney Harry X. Cole, charges that Bezzio forced his wife to get out of their auto a few miles from Milwaukee in 1928 when he objected to her back seat driving. It also alleges habitual drunkenness.

SOCIETY LEARNS OF ANNA CURTIS' SECRET MARRIAGE

Wed to Leslie Olmsted Since Jan. 19.

The secret marriage Jan. 19 last of Miss Anna Louise Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Curtis of the Parkway hotel, to Leslie B. Olmsted, was admitted last night by Mr. Olmsted, who resides at the Belmont hotel. The marriage took place after the young couple had eloped to Crown Point. They were married by Justice of the Peace Howard H. Kemp.

Friends Help Keep Secret.

The bride's parents were kept in ignorance of the wedding and the engagement of the couple was to have been announced by them shortly from their summer home at Trout Lake, Woodruff, Wis. Mr. Olmsted admitted that friends of himself and his wife had aided them in keeping the marriage secret, but did not give an explanation of this desire for secrecy.

Friends of the couple would invite the young bride to spend week-ends with them, Mr. Olmsted explained, and he would join the party. In this manner Mr. and Mrs. Curtis did not know of the marriage of their daughter, although many in society knew of the wedding.

Bride Made Debut in 1925.

Mrs. Olmsted has been known as a leader of young society people since her debut in 1925. Mr. Olmsted is sales manager of the Vim Sporting Goods company, 2220 Diversey parkway, of which his father is president.

2 Bandits Beat Woman, Take $6,000 in Dresses

Two bandits entered the Adeline Frock shop, 4628 Lincoln avenue, yesterday, slugged Miss Ella Stewart, a clerk, and escaped with dresses and coats valued at $6,000. The men had an accomplice who backed a truck to the rear of the door of the store. The robbers then loaded the dresses on the trucks after locking Miss Stewart in a rear room.

FACES ILLINOIS BIGAMY CHARGE.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—[U. P.]—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson has issued a requisition on the governor of Missouri for the return to Madison county of William Walker, wanted on a charge of bigamy. He is under arrest in Kansas City.

CAR PLAN'S COST TO RIDERS STILL IS 'X' IN PROBLEM

Figures on Proposed Rate of Return Lacking.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The street car riders of Chicago paid a return of 7.82 per cent last year on the agreed valuation of the surface lines—the city's purchase price. In 1927 the riders paid 7.77 per cent and the year before 7.91 per cent. Part of the money, 6.1 to 6.3 per cent, was awarded the companies and the remainder went to the city as compensation for the use of the streets. But all of it came out of the pockets of the car riders.

Attorney Walter L. Fisher and Ald. E. I. Frankhauser, [49th], representing the city, have been talking about the "return" on the proposed consolidated and elevated lines for two weeks. The representatives of the companies have been conferring with Fisher and Frankhauser for a shorter period on the same subject.

Neither the city nor the companies so far have named any figures.

Figures Still Unmentioned.

The city's announced position is that the companies shall have an agreed fixed return on a present investment of about $260,000,000 and on new money invested in extensions and improvements a return that will cover the exact cost. To this shall be added a compensation for efficient and economical services. Neither Mr. Fisher nor Ald. Frankhauser has indicated not indicated whether they desire to whether their proposal, in their opinion, means more or less than the car riders now pay.

The companies have said that they desire "a just and reasonable return" on an agreed valuation, to be raised or lowered by the local transit commission as conditions require. Again, there have been no figures of what the companies think their proposal means to the car riders. Until each side puts forth its estimate in figures, it is impracticable to reckon how much they are fighting about.

The 7½ Per Cent Report.

Last autumn when the Kelker ordinance was under consideration the representative of the north and west side surface lines contended persistently for a return to the company "of not less than 6½ per cent." The south side lines' representative acquiesced in that expression. The elevated roads presented no figure with which they would be satisfied.

Now all three are united on "a just and reasonable" return, and financial friends have given out the report that this means 7½ per cent to the companies, adding that a lower rate will make the program difficult to finance and will increase the cost of money obtained.

The companies declare that this is not their position.. They assert they want a return justified by conditions. If conditions warrant a lower rate than 7½ per cent, they are willing to take it; but if conditions require a higher rate, they want it. That is their position. In either case the rate is to be determined by the local commission appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the city council.

Neither Mr. Fisher nor Ald. Frankhauser has said what he thinks reasonable compensation for economy and efficiency means in dollars. Under the 1907 ordinances the companies received 5 per cent on the agreed valuation, and in addition, 45 per cent of the net receipts.

If that 45 per cent can be called a reward for efficient service, then the companies in the 20 year franchise period received $31,994,725 for economy and efficiency in management. Fisher and Frankhauser have pay less or more for economy or efficiency to the consolidated company.

Would they stand for the car riders paying a return of 10 per cent on agreed valuation? The riders on the surface lines paid 10.53 per cent return on the agreed valuation in 1908 under the 1907 ordinances. In 1909 the riders paid 9.94 per cent; in 1910, 8.51 per cent; and in 1911, 8.45 per cent. Those figures cover the major portion of the reconstruction period. Incidentally the car riders paid the highest return on the investment in the year when the average cash fare was the lowest for the 20 years.

The lowest return paid by the car riders was in 1919, the post-war year when prices of materials and labor bounded upward, and the companies were clamoring for an increase in fares. The car riders paid only 5.54 per cent return on the capital invested that year.

The highest return in cash for any one year was in 1922. That figures out 8.25 per cent. Part of the return paid was given the city as compensation for the use of streets.

It is proposed in the ordinance for the consolidated company that compensation shall be paid the city. In addition, it is commonly supposed that advantage will be taken of the new law which permits the amortization of the property. The city has said that it desires amortization and the companies have not objected.

Regardless of the merits of amortization, it means an extra expense unless—as many advocate—the city's compensation be set aside as an amortization fund. But what any of these features mean to the car riders cannot be reckoned with safety until the conferees name some figures. They are to resume their discussions tomorrow.

British Plan Nonstop Hop, London to S. Africa

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The royal air force long distance Fairey Napier monoplane, which made a nonstop flight from England to India, is now being overhauled preparatory to an attempt to make another nonstop flight to South Africa. The former trip covered 4,130 miles, while the distance of the projected flight to South Africa is 6,000 miles. The same pilots, Squadron Leader Arthur G. Jones Williams and Flight Lieut. N. H. Jenkins, will be aboard.

FALL KILLS A CRANE MAN.

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Carl P. Otte, 38, crane man at the Otis elevator company, was instantly killed here this afternoon when he fell 10 feet striking on his head when he was installing a new crane.

SALESMAN DIES IN MYSTERY FALL FROM 3RD FLOOR

Louis Witt, 26 years old, 4077 Nelson street, a salesman, fell from a third story window at 2301 West 21st place last night and was killed. Police at the Marquette station received information that a man was kicking the windows out of the building at the 21st place address, and Policemen George Joerns and Edward Quille were sent to investigate. As they arrived they saw a man hanging by his hands from the window. When they called to him he lost his grip and fell.

From a letter in his pocket addressed to Theodore Polek, a salesman for the Empire Roofing Supply company, 2445 West 21st place, for which Witt also worked, his identity was traced. His body was identified by his sister, Mrs. Lillian Bulger, wife of Fred M. Bulger, president of the Empire company. What Witt was doing in the neighborhood and why he was kicking windows out of the building mystified the police.

ORDERS ARREST OF 4 IN POLICE BRUTALITY QUIZ

Judge Directs Civil Service Body to Try 3 Others

CRIMINAL COURTS.

John Wysocki, murder, sentenced to 78 years in the penitentiary and also given four sentences of one year to life for robbery, to run consecutively, by Judge Otto Kerner.

Thomas Johnson, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Arthur Grundies, larceny, sentenced to one to twenty years in Pontiac reformatory; John James, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in Pontiac reformatory; John Pokal, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Warrants for assault with a deadly weapon were issued yesterday against four policemen of the Chicago Lawn station and the civil service commission was ordered to prefer and hear charges of police brutality against them and three other policemen. Judge Edgar Jonas in the Felony court took this action after he had started his investigation into the charges against the policemen as a result of the complaints of Joseph Wojciechowicz, 24 years old, 5347 South Peoria street, and Lawrence Masterson, 5211 South Aberdeen street.

Policemen William F. Ward, James Stepanek, Frank Vail and John Shortall, the latter a squad leader, were the men named in the warrants. Sergt. Harry C. Smale and Policeman James Quinlan and Thomas McCarthy are the others involved, who escaped the warrant proceedings but who were ordered before the trial board.

Sergeant Denies Charge.

Sergt. Smale vigorously protested his innocence and said he was prepared to show by records that he was not even in the police station the night he alleged beatings were administered.

Judge Jonas told the sergeant that the records were a matter of defense before the trial board.

The two youths, who were arrested on automobile theft charges, were ordered to bare their bodies so that the commanding officers present in the courtroom could see the evidence of their charges of brutality. The young men, neither of whom had any previous police record, deny the charge against them.

Commends Lockup Keeper.

Shortall, the squad leader, was accused of being the ringleader by the defendants. They said Sergt. Smale handed him the blackjack, but took no part in the beatings. Thomas E. Morris, the lockup keeper, was exonerated and commended by the judge because the defendants said he had protested against the brutality.

Policeman Ward, one of the arresting officers, aroused the judge when he attempted to explain the condition of the defendants by saying that one man tripped and fell on the sidewalk and the other bumped against a gate in trying to escape.

Warns of Perjury Action.

"Be careful or we may have some perjury warrants as well as assault charges," said Judge Jonas. "You are not talking to a boy or a novice. There can be no doubt that these wounds were inflicted by a human being armed with a club or blackjack. You cannot make me or any one else believe that these young men fell against a weed or over a gate.

"It is just actions like these which has caused the public to lose confidence in the policemen. Juries will not believe them when they give evidence, especially of confessions where a charge of brutality is made."

MRS. ALVIN T. HERT.

[Copyright: Underwood & Underwood.]

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The resignation of Mrs. A. T. Hert of Louisville as vice chairman of the republican national committee has been in the hands of Hubert Work, retiring chairman of the committee, since February, she said in a telephone conversation with the Courier-Journal from her summer home at Mackinac Island, Mich.

It is expected the resignation will be presented for action Sept. 9, when the committee will act on that of Mr. Work.

Mrs. Hert declared, however, that she still will hold the position of republican committee woman from Kentucky.

Mrs. Hert told the Courier-Journal she hopes Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Scranton, Pa., will be her successor.

FOREIGN SALES OF U. S. PLANES SET A RECORD

$5,000,000 Worth Exported Thus Far in '29.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Foreign demand for American made airplanes, aircraft engines and parts, is taxing the capacity of the industry, according to export figures for the first half of 1929, prepared by Leighton W. Rogers, chief of the aeronautics trade division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. The remarkable performances of American planes and engines on long distance flights in 1927 and 1928 is held responsible for much of the increased demands.

The total value of all aeronautic exports for the first six months of the year was $5,174,656, more than three times as great as the total for the same period of 1928, which reached $1,676,838. During the first half of the year 199 airplanes were shipped abroad, as against 87 for the same period of 1928, while during the same period 178 aircraft engines were exported as against 65 a year ago.

May Duplicate Auto Record.

If the present pace of increase in aeronautic exports continues the industry will write the same record as the automobile industry has done in recent years, and half the world will be riding in American built airplanes.

The export figures for the first half of the year are considered the more remarkable because they exceeded by $1,509,923 the record figures of $3,664,733 for all of 1928, which was the peak year in aeronautic exports.

Mexico was the largest buyer of aircraft during the period, total sales to that country being 62, most of them military planes. Canada, to which 44 planes were exported, was the next largest buyer. Chile was next with 32, Argentina and Hongkong took eleven each, Japan eight, China five, Panama and Peru four each, Phillippines three and Italy and Cuba two each. Single planes were exported to Columbia, Brazil, Great Britain, Guatemala, French Oceania, Australia, New Zealand and Uruguay.

Exports for June set a new high mark. Fifty-three aircraft valued at $855,879, twenty-nine engines, valued at $111,827 and $207,015 in parts were exported.

May was the previous peak month, with forty-nine aircraft, valued at $794,024; twenty-four engines, valued at $94,315 and $189,958 in parts shipped abroad.

Navy Plane Sets Record; 100 Miles in 27 Minutes

Newport, R. I., Aug. 3.—[U. P.]—S. B. Smith, first class aviation pilot, established another new world record for service torpedo planes here today when he covered 100 miles in 27 minutes.

MEXICO CHURCH PEACE IS CALLED MERE "PATCHUP"

Institute of Politics Discusses Agreement.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The recent agreement between the Catholic church in Mexico and the government merely was a "patched up" truce which shifted the scene of the conflict to the less sanguinary halls of the national legislature, members of the Institute of Politics were told today at the concluding general conference on Mexico.

While the speakers indicated that both sides were "resting on their arms" so far as the religious issue was concerned, they also were of the opinion that there would be no further trouble if the church coöperated with the government and confined its interests to the spiritual sphere.

Noted Educators Heard.

The speakers were Dr. Eyler N. Simpson of Mexico City and the Institute of World Affairs, New York; Dr. Ernest Gruening, author of "Mexico and Its Heritage," and Dr. Frank Tannenbaum, writer on Mexican agrarian and educational problems, who, too, is an authority on the American penal system.

Education, agriculture, and the religious issue were the angles from which the speakers approached the subject. nI passing, Dr. Simpson commented on the financial situation by saying that Mexico had turned the corner economically, and was sincere in its expressed desire to pay its internal and foreign debts.

Argument Shifted, He Says.

Dr. Simpson compared the demands of the Mexican hierarchy with the terms of the recent peace pact and could not see where the church had gained any concessions. The argument merely was shifted to the legislative halls, he said.

Dr. Gruening discussed the religious issue in greater detail. The struggle of the last three years, he maintained, chiefly was an episode in Mexican history which had its roots in the sixteenth century.

Inquiring why the recent religious uprising did not sweep the government out of power as Mexico has been Catholic since the time of the conquestadores, Dr. Gruening said that essentially the religion of Mexico has not changed in four centuries; the people merely substituted the worship of saints for the worship of the ancient Aztec deities.

The Mexican, he said, essentially was an idol worshiper.

THE STRANGE CASE OF SOME CENTRAL STATES.

In Mr. Henning's detailed analysis of the opposition to the Chicago diversion from the lake and to the gulf waterway Newton D. Baker's summing up of the issue was given. Mr. Baker, Wilson's secretary of war, is chief of counsel for the opposition, which politically is grouped in six states and both politically and economically in the great steel and power companies of Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan have joined these other states, but if their citizens would study the case as Mr. Baker, the ablest man in their group, presents it, they would have some grave doubts. They would wonder what their state governments were doing. They might soon agree that it was true their states were chumps in the matter. They are on the wrong side.

Their states have yielded to an interest which is small and narrow of view. It is that of the lake carriers, which, as it is independent of the steel companies, is an almost trivial factor in general state welfare. This interest may have reason to oppose any development of water transportation by the inland rivers, but it is not a reason which should influence the commerce and industry of the states. It is not the diversion of water that concerns the carriers. It is the diversion of water traffic.

Mr. Baker admits that he represents an economic area. It contains two districts. One is the steel producing triangle which has its base on a line from Cleveland to Conneaut and its apex at Pittsburgh. The other is the Niagara district of electric power. He joins these districts in a geographical and economic unity and demands for them the exclusive use of the water power from the great lakes.

The facts can be agreed upon. Mr. Baker states them almost as well as Illinois and the Mississippi valley would have them stated, but we denounce what he demands. We admit that the steel and power producers are using the lakes with government aid for their private advantage. Mr. Baker concedes that lake levels are not the chief concern of his clients. He admits that the Chicago diversion is not an important factor in the periodic changes of the levels. He contends that water diverted at Chicago would make money if it were used at Niagara.

All the control of the water is directed for the benefit of steel and electric power. To increase these benefits the flow from Lake Superior is regulated at Sault Ste. Marie without regard for the levels of the lower lakes. Diversion has been made for power and navigation purposes by the Welland canal—the new one is approaching completion—and by work in the St. Mary's and St. Clair rivers.

Illinois denies that Mr. Baker's economic unit of hydroelectric power and steel has exclusive right to the waters of the great lakes. We deny that geological formations are a bar to the use of resources. Public policy could not concede that the people had no right to change the course of a river. A doctrine of submission to natural conditions would send mankind back to the caves.

The campaign against the gulf waterway is based largely on falsehood used in the neighboring states of Minnesota, Michigan, and Wisconsin against their own interests. The opposing newspapers lie for the lake carriers. Mr. Baker himself refutes 90 per cent of the lies given currency. His argument is that the steel and power companies shall not have their interests affected in any way, no matter how small, by a public improvement in the inland rivers. The central area of the United States shall not have a waterway to the gulf for its own industries because that waterway to be adequate would require water from Lake Michigan which could make money at Niagara.

Mr. Baker's statement of his case is submitted to the citizens of Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Their states have been brought into the case on the wrong side. Their various industries have been subordinated to the lake carrying trade. They have been made to oppose their own welfare. They have been made to serve the purposes of great corporate interests to the injury of a public improvement.

The central area is almost helpless politically and in government action. Its citizens realize they are discriminated against. They see the Atlantic and Pacific trade subsidized by the Panama canal. They see California promoting real estate and power enterprises and getting municipal water supply at federal government expense. They see their taxes going to favored regions and their own interests ignored or attacked. Their representatives in congress are for the most part negligible. Central state projects seldom get to first base and never make the circuit.

How could this be otherwise when three of the central states will join an opposition to an economic project which asks virtually nothing of the federal government than that it be permitted a small use of natural resources now contributing to the manufacture of enormous wealth in the east?

That the people of these states have been misinformed and misguided is apparent. Their state governments are working for the interests of the United States Steel corporation, the Bethlehem Steel company, the Republic Iron and Steel company, the New York power concerns, the Canadian power concerns, Mr. Morgan's new mammoth power company, and navigation interests affiliated with the steel producers or opposed to a diversion of traffic over a new route. Read them and weep.

NO PROPERTY RIGHTS UNDER PROHIBITION.

Burt Massee of Chicago is owner of the yacht Margo. It was chartered by Louis Mendelsshon of Detroit. According to Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition, when the yacht was in the port of Montreal a boisterous party was on board and it was reasonably subject to the suspicion that the boat had been stocked with Canadian liquor. Consequently when it came into the port of Detroit it was searched, 35 cases of liquor were found and the yacht was seized. Mr. Lowman says that it probably will be sold at auction by the United States marshal at Detroit, although Mr. Mendelsshon, who was operating it under charter, is privileged to file an answer to the proceedings or to petition the secretary of the treasury for a remission or mitigation of the forfeiture.

The yacht is an expensive piece of property owned by Mr. Massee, who is not accused by the government of any violation of law. He had rented his property to a friend, but it is his property and represents his investment. His standing in the view of a prohibition government is nothing and little of that. He hasn't any rights. He is punished for something in which he was not involved. His property is taken from him without any process of law in which he has a hearing. If a murder had been committed on board he would not have suffered. If a criminal had stolen some of the fittings the government might have helped him catch the thief, but the prohibition law was violated when the yacht was not in his hands and he is to lose his property.

In this the government has more than conformed to the theories of Senator Brookhart, who would confiscate profits over five per cent. It has confiscated the investment. Mr. Massee would have had more chance with Algerian pirates.

Some Americans of great wealth have supported the Anti-Saloon league for two reasons—one that they thought they might get more work done under prohibition; the other that they might turn the cry up another street, after private morals rather than private enterprise.

They and all citizens of property, big or little, have warning that property rights do not exist under prohibition. The state as its laws develop under prohibition denies property rights. An estate can be attainted. Without due process of law the use of property is confiscated by the padlock. The possession of a pint of liquor can cost an owner his automobile. An extension of the Massee principle would confiscate a railroad for the transportation of a carload of beer labeled sewing machines.

An American citizen has no assurance that he will not be shot by government orders on the highway, on his farm or in his home. He has no guaranty that his home will not be entered illegally. He has no reason to feel that he will be protected against excessive punishment. He is not safe against the seizure of his property by the government. He does not know that he can keep his possessions or leave them to his heirs.

ARE AMERICANS ALIKE?

[Louisville Herald Post.]

Are Americans and their towns alike? According to the Menckens and Sinclair Lewises they are. They take us to task. And they do it in this manner:

> Nine-tenths of the American towns are so alike that it is the completest boredom to wander from one to another. Always west of Pittsburgh, and often east of it, it is the same lumber yard, the same railroad station, the same Ford garage, the same creamery, the same boxlike houses and two story shops. The new more conscious houses are alike in their very attempts at diversity; the same bungalows, the same standardized, nationally advertised wares; the boy in Arkansas displays just such a flamboyant ready made suit as is found on just such a boy in Delaware; both of them iterate the same slang phrases from the same sporting pages, and if one of them is in college and the other a barber, no one may surmise which is which.—Sinclair Lewis, Main Street.

Recently, however Louisville has had a first rate opportunity to make up its mind on that subject. We have had in our midst thousands of business men representative of their own communities. Certainly he would be a brave man who would undertake to say there were no differences between the groups of men from various sections of the country. The Californian is different from the New Yorker and the Oklahoman from the Iowan; even the Ohioan is demarked from the Hoosier. All of these groups must have commented on the differences among them—chosen in the same fashion from the same strata of society and with the same ideals.

Perhaps the Sinclair Lewis trick is not so hard to do. Such a man will tell you that forests are so much alike that they bore him. You cannot see the forests from the best of reasons. There are too many trees. They all have leaves. There are the same hills, the same brooks, the same marshes and meadows to such a mind.

But are they the same?

Certainly the art of true perception lies deeper than pointing out that the redwood forests of California are not like the beech woods and oak clad hills of Kentucky, the cypress swamps of the gulf. Even the Kentucky landscape and its characteristics differ in its various sections.

Nor is it true that New Orleans resembles New York, or that Boston is like Baltimore, Chicago like San Francisco. That is no more true than that Los Angeles is like Memphis or that Little Rock is like Akron.

Where among the visitors to Louisville was there a man who thought it resembled his home town?

Cities and towns have characteristics and personalities and the standardization which Lewis professes to see is cheap gibe and in no way profound thinking. On this account it is not even good writing.

Of one thing it is certain—it does not portray the America it sneers at.

Next to the Sermon on the Mount, the discourse of Jesus of Nazareth as recorded in the 23d chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel is perhaps the most important of His utterances which could be called sermons. The Sermon on the Mount has been discovered by those who have been following this column, as well as by those to whom the sermon is familiar, as a statement of the great fundamental principles of His life's message, whereas the sermon recorded below, as taken from the American standard version of the Bible, shows the startling extent to which some of those principles may be carried. It seems that Jesus rarely spoke in generalities. Everything He said was applied either to a specific incident or to a definitely developed problem. Here He faces the perennial problem of the hypocrisy of those who hide behind the cloak of religion in order to attain selfish ends.

HYPOCRISY CONDEMNED

Then spake Jesus to the multitudes and to his disciples, saying, "The scribes and the Pharisees sit on Moses' seat; all things therefore whatsoever they bid you, these do and observe, but do not ye after their works; for they say, and do not. Yea, they bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with their finger. But all their works they do to be seen of men, for they make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments, and love the chief place at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues, and the salutations in the marketplaces, and to be called of men, 'Rabbi.'

"But be not ye called Rabbi; for one is your teacher, and all ye are brethren. And call no man your father on the earth; for one is your Father, even he who is in heaven. Neither be ye called masters; for one is your master, even the Christ. But he that is greatest among you shall be your servant. And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be humbled; and whosoever shall humble himself shall be exalted.

"But woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because ye shut the kingdom of heaven against men; for ye enter not in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering in to enter.

"Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte; and when he is become so, ye make him twofold more a son of hell than yourselves.

"Woe unto you, ye blind guides, that say, 'Whosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing, but whosoever shall swear by the gold of the temple, he is a debtor.'

"Ye fools and blind; for which is greater, the gold, or the temple that hath sanctified the gold? And, whosoever shall swear by the altar, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the gift that is upon it, he is a debtor. Ye blind; for which is greater, the gift or the altar that sanctifieth the gift?

"He therefore that sweareth by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon. And he that sweareth by the temple, sweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth therein. And he that sweareth by the heaven, sweareth by the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon.

"Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for ye tithe mint and anise and cummin, and have left undone the weightier matters of the law, justice, and mercy, and faith; but these ye ought to have done, and not to have left the other undone. Ye blind guides, that strain out the gnat and swallow the camel!

"Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for ye cleanse the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full from extortion and excess.

"Thou blind Pharisee, cleanse first the inside of the cup and of the platter, that the outside thereof may become clean also.

"Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for ye are like unto whited sepulchers, which outwardly appear beautiful, but inwardly are full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness. Even so ye also outwardly appear righteous unto men, but inwardly ye are full of hypocrisy and iniquity.

"Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for ye build the sepulchers of the prophets, and garnish the tombs of the righteous, and say, 'If we had been in the days of our fathers, we should not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets.' Wherefore ye witness to yourselves, that ye are sons of them that slew the prophets. Fill ye up then the measure of your fathers. Ye serpents, ye offspring of vipers, how shall ye escape the judgment of hell?

"Therefore, behold, I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes; some of them shall ye kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute from city to city; that upon you may come all the righteous blood shed on the earth, from the blood of Abel the righteous unto the blood of Zachariah, son of Barachiah, whom ye slew between the sanctuary and the altar. Verily I say unto you, All these things shall come upon this generation.

"O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, that killeth the prophets, and stoneth them that are sent unto her, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! Behold, your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, 'Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.'"

PATRIOTIC SONGS

AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL.

By Catherine Lee Bates.

For purple mountain majesties above the fruited plain!
America! America! God shed His grace on thee,

O beautiful for pilgrim feet, whose stern, impassioned stress
America! America! God mend thine every flaw,
Confirm thy soul in self-control, thy liberty in law!

O beautiful for heroes proved in liberating strife,
Who more than self their country loved, and mercy more than life.
America! America! May God thy gold refine,
Till all success be nobleness, and every gain divine!

O beautiful for patriot dream that sees beyond the years
Thine alabaster cities gleam, undimmed by human tears!
America! America! God shed His grace on thee,

DANGERS IN REFRIGERATION

THE National Safety council publishes a bulletin on mechanical refrigeration in which are given the sources of danger. The dangers relate to possible explosions and to poisonous effects of the gases. The gases used are carbon dioxide, ethane, ammonia, propane, butane, ethyl chloride, methyl chloride, sulphur dioxide, and gasoline.

The health commissioner of Chicago has reported a considerable number of cases of poisoning due to methyl chloride, some of which resulted in death. According to the Safety council, methyl chloride is similar to chloroform in its effects. It boils at minus eleven degrees Fahrenheit and has a lower explosion limit of 8.9 per cent and an upper limit of 15.3 per cent. "Naturally, it would produce death due to suffocation." They also say it is explosive.

Since the gas is odorless, a leaking mechanism is very dangerous. The problem is to mix with it a pungent, irritating, or at least self-revealing, gas having a boiling point about that of methyl chloride.

Sulphur dioxide is poisonous, but it is so irritating that it does not endanger life, for leaking gas drives the people away. It is not explosive. Its boiling point is twenty-five degrees higher than that of methyl chloride. Ammonia has a low boiling point. It is a severe and even dangerous irritant and this warns of its presence. It may cause fatalities. It is explosive or flammable, but the danger of that is not great.

Ethane has much the lowest boiling point of all the gases considered. It is poisonous and explosive. Carbonic acid gas changes from a solid to a gaseous form at a very low temperature. It causes headache and some other symptoms, because it excludes oxygen from the blood, but not because of its own poisonous qualities. It does not explode nor burn. It is odorless.

Ethyl chloride has a very high boiling point, meaning that it evaporates slowly. It has a pungent odor. The principal danger where this gas is used is the risk of explosion. However, the report says of it: "It is believed that continuous inhalation of the vapor in sufficient quantities would cause deleterious action on the lungs and throat. Exposure of the skin would, no doubt, produce skin lesions." The principal danger in the use of propane, butane, or gasoline is from explosion.

Dr. B. Fantus says the location of the refrigerator is an element in the case. To place a refrigerator in a closed-up cellar is to invite disaster. The better ventilated the room in which it is located, the safer it is. A refrigerator should never be set near a stove or fire for more reasons than one.

BAD ODOR OF BREATH.

E. S. writes:

1. Kindly state the cause of a bad odor of the breath.

2. I am a little constipated; do you think that is the cause?

3. I usually smoke before going to bed; could that cause it?

4. Please state the proper foods to eat.

REPLY.

1. Among the causes are: Ozena, a nose condition; certain disorders of the tonsils or teeth; and certain digestive conditions. The last is the most important.

2. Probably not.

3. No.

4. Live largely on sour milk foods and fruits, cereals, breads, sweets and fats. Eat vegetables, and especially meat and eggs, in moderation.

◆

KEEP UP MEAT JUICE.

R. S. H. writes: After an illness last fall, the doctor prescribed 2 ounces of beef juice for my baby. I give him the juice every day, but have increased the amount to 4 ounces.

1. Is he getting too much of it, or too often?

2. Is there any danger of his contracting tuberculosis from infected meat, as I just sear the meat over and put it through a meat press?

3. He is very strong and active. Since he was a month old I have rubbed his back and legs every night and morning. Does this help or hurt him?

REPLY.

1. You do not give his age or his weight. Nevertheless, on a guess I say keep up the meat juice. He is thriving and happy, which means his food is about right.

2. Very little. Tubercle bacilli are rarely found in lean meat.

3. Keep it up, and make a wrestler.

SHOULD CUT DOWN DIET.

G. S. writes:

A couple of years ago I had a severe attack of boils, but have been free from them since until last month. Within three weeks now two boils have appeared, and I fear another attack. Can anything be done for this by dieting?

REPLY.

As a rule, the intake of starchy and sweet foods should be markedly lowered. Among such foods are breads, cereals, pastries, peas, beans, corn, potatoes, desserts, and all forms of sweets.

NO REMEDY IN THIS CASE.

Chicago, July 27.—[Friend of the People.]—The largest vacant lot in the 7100 block of Stony Island avenue is used as a dumping ground by the neighbors and storekeepers. It is unsafe for children to play in and an eyesore.

Report is made that owner of vacant property has given permission to a certain contractor to store lumber and wooden horses on the lot. It is this to which writer objects. JAMES J. BUTLER,

QUESTION OF LAWFUL ADMITTANCE.

Chicago, July 26.—[Friend of the People.]—A native of Ulster, Ireland, landed at Quebec, Canada, Aug. 28, 1923. Came to Chicago Nov. 5, 1923. Took out first papers Nov. 26, 1923. I don't know if a head tax was paid. Was the quota in force at that time? Can he apply for his second papers? H. J. D.

If the person referred to in the letter was lawfully admitted by the immigration service he should have no trouble in applying for naturalization; but if he entered the United States contrary to the immigration laws after June 3, 1921, there is no provision of law under which he may be naturalized unless he departs from the United States and makes a legal entry.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 4, 1864.

NEW YORK.—The Tribune's special from Frederick, Md., says: "Gen. Kelly was attacked at Cumberland by a large rebel force under Bradley, Johnson, and McCausland. After a severe fight of several hours' duration he completely routed the enemy, who are in full retreat toward Oldtown with Kelly in pursuit."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Hooker, recently relieved of command at Atlanta, has been ordered to report in Washington without delay. The New York report that Meade will be removed and Hooker placed in command of the Army of the Potomac has not even a reasonable show of probability.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is becoming apparent to the war department that the rebels are resolved on a vigorous campaign on the Upper Potomac and are reinforcing Early strongly. It is generally understood that Early's force numbers about 35,000. He is now engaged in thrashing wheat.

CHICAGO.—In accordance with the proclamation of President Lincoln, made in compliance with a resolution of congress, today [Thursday] will be observed in Chicago and elsewhere as a day of national fasting, humiliation and prayer. There will be appropriate services in all the churches.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The news of the death of Col. John A. Bross before Petersburg, which was brought to this city by Col. Mann of the 39th, created a painful sensation here. Gov. Yates was much affected and had the flag at the executive mansion raised to half staff as a mark of respect for the deceased.

EDITORIAL.—Col. John A. Bross. This lamented hero, who fell in the assault on the rebel works at Petersburg at the head of the 29th regiment, U. S. colored volunteers, was a pure, brave, earnest patriot. He accepted his command not from motives of personal ambition but from a religious sense of his duty to his fellow men and from that sentiment of true chivalry which inspires the Christian martyr to give his life for the oppressed and to brave prejudice in behalf of the lowly. Our country has lost no truer, nobler son.

AUGUST 4, 1899.

MANILA.—The rainy season has just begun in earnest in the Philippines and offensive operations of the American forces against the insurgents are about ended. The next campaign can hardly begin before November. As a result of this year's campaign the American troops hold only a small amount of territory, and that only by hard and constant fighting. Army officers claim that the insufficient force of the last year will make a new and longer campaign necessary next fall. The available force in the Philippines at present is about 18,000 men, and Gen. Lawton has declared that 100,000 are necessary to carry on the war against the insurgents, who are continually receiving fresh supplies and arms.

LONDON.—Announcement was made today of the engagement of Lady Randolph Churchill to a young military officer, George Frederick Cornwallis-West. He is but 25 years of age, and Lady Randolph's eldest son, Lieut. Winston Leonard Churchill, is exactly six days older than Cornwallis-West. The announcement of the engagement is a direct refutation of the rumor that Lady Churchill was to marry William Waldorf Astor.

NEW YORK.—John Kelly, known as "Smiling John," close friend of Richard Croker, well known to sporting men and Democratic politicians all over the country, and himself a racing man, died at his home here.

AUGUST 4, 1919.

CHICAGO.—Frank Jacob, white, 311 Root street, was arrested by Policeman Patrick McGovern, suspected of being responsible for numerous fires in the "black belt," and it is believed he may have had some connection with the fire that wiped out forty-nine homes in the back o' the yards district Saturday morning. He had two pint flasks of benzine in his possession when arrested, and is said to have admitted he was carrying them for the purpose of starting fires.

CHICAGO.—The council judiciary committee will meet today to take stock of the race riots which began a week ago last night. The number killed through the riots has been fixed by the coroner as thirty-three—twenty colored civilians, twelve white civilians and one policeman. The health commissioner's office has totaled the number of injured treated at hospitals at 306, including 177 colored, 113 white and 16 of unreported color. It is supposed as many more were injured who did not go to hospitals for treatment. The fire loss is estimated all the way from $200,000 to $500,000.

LIVERPOOL.—Liverpool is in the grip of hooliganism. For two nights the city has been given over to riot and pillage. Large numbers of troops have been drafted to restore order. Scores of shops have been smashed and rifled. The riots are the echo of the big police strike.

A BUNCH OF CHUMPS.

South Haven, Mich., July 24.—Some time ago a Cleveland lawyer, talking against the lakes-gulf waterway, said Chicago was making mudholes of the lakes. Nature's answer was an overflow.

Another lawyer, speaking against water being taken from Lake Michigan, said any water taken out of the lake at Chicago should be put back again. Any one who would advocate that at present anywhere from Chicago to the Soo would be mobbed.

A Canadian M. P. said he would fight a diversion of water for any purpose whatever at Chicago to the last ditch. He will have a fight, or a swim rather, as the ditches, rivers and inland lakes are all up.

A Milwaukee editor said at the first rising of the water that it was caused by a freak storm, and that the high water would soon subside. It has steadily got freakier, consequently higher.

And all along western Michigan the shore line has been washed away. Everywhere you see barricades built and being built which cost for 50 foot frontages $250 for wood piling and $600 for concrete.

Every one seems to be for a waterway for economical reasons. A manufacturer at Grand Haven figured he could save $1 a ton on coal if it came by barge, and outgoing freight rates would show a similar reduction.

A little quiet talk with Michigan and Wisconsin folks would seemingly line them up with the states in favor of the gulf waterway instead of their lining up with the Niagara power people.

G. G. WILSON.

BIRDS, CATS, CATERPILLARS.

Evanston, Ill., July 24.—I am wondering what effect the spray used on trees for caterpillars will have on the caterpillar eating birds like the black billed cuckoo. It will doubtless poison them. If we had enough of these useful birds, we should never need to spray our trees to eliminate insects and worms. As it is, we have fewer and fewer due to the great numbers of homeless, hungry cats. No effort is made to dispose of these humanely. They are multiplying sixfold. BIRD LOVER.

CONSCIENCE BOTHERER.

Chicago, July 24.—I would like to express my opinion of the dishonest person that picked up the injured lady's purse in the auto accident which took place on July 17 on Narragansett road, and up to date has failed to return same in spite of the fact that there was plenty of identification to be found in said purse.

With the exception of the money in the purse [which, by the way, was a considerable sum] it would seem that the personal contents would be valueless to the thief. Having an accident and nearly losing one's life is bad enough, and I hope you will publish this letter in the hope that said person's conscience will bother them just a little. M. LOFTUS.

WILSON IN GRANITE.

Chicago, July 23.—Let me enter my protest [in which I will have the sympathy of thousand of others] against the suggestion of Will Chamberlain of Yankton that the figure of Woodrow Wilson be carved by Gutzon Borglum with those of Washington and others in the granite of the Black hills or of any other place.

A person like Woodrow Wilson—afflicted with exaggerated ego, a political meddler and busybody—would better be forgotten. FREWILRAN.

LIQUOR CURES, NOW AND THEN.

Chicago, July 22.—The Chicago morning papers today gave front page space to a statement that there are 80 alcoholic patients in the psychopathic hospital in Chicago and in the Keeley Institute at Dwight, Ill., since prohibition.

Such news conveys the idea that prohibition has brought an increase of alcoholism. Prior to prohibition there were nearly 250 inebriate [illegible] cures, in the United States. Less than 10 per cent of these remain as liquor cures. Is it surprising that there should be a few more patients in the few which remain? The Washingtonian home, Chicago's great home for alcoholic cases, is no longer a home for inebriates. Nearly all the Keeley cures have been closed.

The World Almanac for 1929 gives that the death rate from alcoholism for 1915-'17, wet, averaged 5.1 per 100,000; for 1920-'22, dry, 1.5, showing a decrease of two-thirds for the United States. The highest rate since prohibition is less than the lowest before.

BATHING AND SWIMMING.

Chicago, July 26.—I went down to the lake to try to forget the heat of the day in those cool waves, and had my evening spoiled before [illegible]

Why is it that some people have to take their baths where others are trying to enjoy themselves? Surely in this big city of ours we have running water in all of our homes, so why is it necessary for certain people to wash themselves at the lake.

Isn't it possible for the health committee to prohibit this practice? It's really a shame that we can't swim around without having [illegible] ways of finding enjoyment on these terribly warm evenings.

Won't you please abandon the practice of washing where others are swimming? JUST A CHICAGOAN.

GOLF AT LINCOLN PARK.

Chicago, July 25.—Is there no way to stop the favoritism that is prevalent at the Lincoln park golf course? Mr. Bigshot can arrive well in advance of his allotted time or else wait until his tardy friend has arrived and then tee off regardless of whether his name has been passed.

Surely this is a deplorable state of affairs to exist at any course presumably open to the public. COLLEGIATE GOLFER.

THE AQUARIUM ROOF.

Chicago, July 27.—Certainly the east wing of the fish house in Grant park is to be covered with a dome to match the west wing. However, I would like to be reassured, inasmuch as the building nears completion. I have observed no indication that the east wing is to be appropriately roofed. If the east wing is not to be covered the aquarium will be a monstrosity. My guess is that the roof is left off to permit the entrance of tanks, etc. I hope I am right. J. L. T.

RELIEF FOR LAKE STREET.

Chicago, July 22.—Replying to William F. Conlon, I wish to say that a plan that will relieve the congested situation on Lake street is still worth careful consideration. Personally, I think the open markets with their unsanitary conditions should go. Unfortunately there are no east and west streets between Lake and Chicago avenue. This makes Lake a busy street as well as a dangerous street. A. M.

RESOURCES OVER FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS

EXPERTS STILL DRAWING PLUMS FROM CITY FUND

The voucher payment drain on the city's funds has not been abated since the first of this year, when it was revealed that approximately $1,000,000 had been paid out during 1928 in this manner. The June list of voucher payments, received by the city clerk from the controller's office, named twenty-four experts who were paid $1,000 or more each for the month. The total for June was $68,460, making a total for the first six months of this year of approximately $400,000.

These experts have been a mystery to members of the city council. In some cases, the aldermen agree that work may be done to justify the salary, but in many other cases they declare that the beneficiary is favored for his "America First" activities or because of his family relations with the administration heads.

Exceed Bosses' Salary.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson is the boss of the legal experts but many of his subordinates draw more than his $15,000 salary. Similarly, the real estate experts draw more than the $6,000 paid to Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, and some exceed the mayor's salary of $18,000 a year. Frank R. Reid, a congressman and not a resident of Chicago, is one of these. He got paid for June at a rate that would amount to $24,000 a year.

The experts, who rated the highest on the June list, and the amounts paid them, are as follows:

LEGAL.
J. G. Drennan	$1,912	S. L. Golan	$1,462
Frank R. Reid	2,000	Harry Klatzo	2,175
Lewis F. Mason	1,050	J. J. Sullivan	1,300
J. A. Ricker	1,150	Frank D. Ayers	1,200
Martin Walsh	1,100
REAL ESTATE VALUATORS.
W. Brinkman	$1,725	R. C. Harris	$2,300
Daniel King	1,200	John F. Miller	1,100
A. H. Veeder	2,000	L. J. Strauss	1,050
H. Goldstine	2,600	B. F. Kleeman	650
BUILDING VALUATORS.
G. M. Posner	$2,600	D. O'Donovan	$1,300
REAL ESTATE COMMISSIONERS.
J. E. Mooney	$1,280	P. Rothenberg	$1,080
E. J. Wentzlaff	1,035
ENGINEERS.
D. A. Wallace	$1,800

Payments to experts who are working on Building Commissioner Paschen's revision of the building code were as follows: John McHugh, investment, $715; W. W. Kriebel, investment, $1,125; Helen Cuddy, stenographer, $525; W. T. Ronan, investment, $750; and H. T. Frost, architect, $2,000.

Leonard Grossman, former alderman of the Fifth ward, received $450 for legal services to the corporation counsel, the list showed. While in the council Grossman supported the present administration.

Mayors of Lancashire Try to End British Cotton Strike

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The mayors of ten of the principal boroughs of Lancashire today tried to exert pressure on both sides in the present cotton industry dispute to end the wage quarrel. Neither side, however, shows any tendency to give way. More mills were closed, and only 1 per cent of the manufactures are now operating under the old wage scales.

400 Yanks Will Attend Welsh Fete in England

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Welshmen from the world over were crowding into Liverpool today for the national eisteddfod which begins at Sefton park here Monday. It is hoped to arrange for the arch druid and several bards to meet the steamer Athenia at the Liverpool landing stage Monday to greet 400 pilgrims from the United States.

LAIBACH, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 3.—(AP)—An unsuccessful attempt was made today to shoot Princess Elizabeth Windisch-Graetz as she was returning to her castle at Littai. A shot fired at a nearby village broke the window of the princess' automobile and the splinters wounded her slightly in the face. The man who fired the shot escaped into a forest.

WILL BURY U. S. FLAG WITH ASHES OF CIGARET KING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The two flags of his two countries will be buried with Bernhard Baron, cigaret magnate, it was learned today when the contents of the multimillionaire's will disclosed that Mr. Baron had directed the union jack and the Stars and Stripes should be placed with his ashes in the obelisk erected to the memory of his wife.

The will disposes of property aggregating approximately $25,000,000, of which the government takes $10,000,000. Seventy per cent of the remainder is left in trust to Mr. Baron's son Louis and various relatives, while the balance—about $5,000,000—will be used to establish a charity fund which will be administered by trustees who are directed to assist charitable institutions in the proportion of four-fifths Christian and no denominational charities, and one-fifth Jewish, over a period of 20 years, after which the balance will be distributed among various charities.

Various members of the tobacco organization, of which Mr. Baron was the head, receive bequests of stock, while charitable donations include the establishment of a convalescent home for sick workers where employés will receive preference. Various minor bequests include $25,000 to the Marquess Reading, one of the executors.

5 Girls Lost on Mountain Saved After Night of Terror

Inlet, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Five young women, lost on Black Bear mountain since yesterday, were rescued early today by state troopers and a posse of guides. They were found huddled together in the lee of a cliff near the summit of the mountain.

The girls started up the mountain soon after noon yesterday to spend an afternoon in the open. When they sought to return at nightfall they were unable to find the pathway.

EMILE BERLINER, DISC PHONOGRAPH INVENTOR, DEAD

Studied Acoustics While Working in Store.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Emile Berliner, inventor of the disc record talking machine and the telephone transmitter, died today at home.

He suffered a stroke of apoplexy a week ago, but seemed to be improving until yesterday. Members of his family were called to his bedside when his condition became critical.

Aged 79, his death ended a notable career. He was born in Hanover Germany, and emigrated to the United States in 1866. He sold glue for a time. He then painted backgrounds on enlarged photographs, and traveled as a salesman for a Milwaukee wholesale house. Later he was a clerk in a Washington store.

Experimented in His Room.

In Washington he began the studies which led to his inventions. He became interested in electricity and acoustics and experimented in his room after working hours. Some three years before Bell and Watson invented the telephone, Berliner evolved the idea of the loose contact transmitter which was to place the telephone on an advanced commercial basis and which also was to become important in radio broadcasting.

He invented the gramaphone in 1887 and this discovery placed his name in the forefront of inventors. His talking machine used disc records. The present method of duplicating disc records was evolved by him also.

Later he turned to aeronautics. He had begun experimenting with a helicopter before the Wrights made the first successful flight on the sands of North Carolina. In 1919, when his son, Henry, designed and successfully flew a helicopter, the inventor decided that aeronautical experimenting in the family might be left to the younger man.

In his later years he began the study of social and health problems and was president of the Washington Tuberculosis association for several years.

RAMPAGE ON HOME BREW.

Robinson, Ill., Aug. 3.—Sheriff C. H. Wallace raided the home of Ira Goff, a farmer, at Duncanville today after neighbors complained that Goff had attempted to kill his wife and eight year old daughter and threatened to burn the house down. Wallace found 113 bottles of home brewed beer and fifty empties apparently drunk by Goff before his wild rampage.

CONSTRUCTION TIE-UP LOOMS AS EMPLOYERS RESCIND WAGE PACT

New York, Aug. 3.—[U. P.]—Paralysis of building through a possible strike or lockout of some 60,000 men in more than a dozen New York construction crafts loomed today as a result of rescinding of an agreement between the Building Trade Employers' association and Building Trades council for a five day week with a 10 per cent wage increase effective Aug. 24.

The board of governors of the employers' association cancelled the agreement and stated that their action was based upon failure of the trades council to carry out its agreement to arbitrate the dispute between electrical contractors and Electrical Workers Union No. 3.

A general suspension of building in New York City was averted early in the season by the five day week and wage increase agreement.

CHINESE PRINCE, SHOT BY DEPOSED WAR LORD, DIES

TOKIO, Aug. 3.—[U.P.]—Hsien Kai-Su, young member of the Manchu line, is dead from a bullet wound believed by the police to have been inflicted by Chang Tsung-Chang, deposed war lord of Shantung province.

Complete mystery surrounded the tragedy, which occurred at Beppu, a fashionable resort on the island of Kiushiu, where Chang has taken refuge from increasingly dominant Chinese nationalists.

The police, however, suspect Chang shot the young prince because of the latter's probable overfriendliness with one of Chang's many wives. The seventeenth son of Prince Su, uncle of the boy emperor of China, was found wounded outside the elaborate mansion, occupied at Beppu by the former war lord. Chang told the police the shooting was entirely accidental, but authorities are inclined to doubt it.

COOLIDGES ARE HONOR GUESTS AT HOMECOMING

Southampton, Mass., Aug. 3.—[U.P.]—Former President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge were guests of honor today at a luncheon of 200 sons and daughters of Southampton on the Sheldon academy campus. The luncheon was part of a three-day celebration of "Old Home day."

The Coolidges arrived from their Northampton home by automobile and stayed only two hours. They then left for their daily visit to Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Limira B. Goodhue, who is ill at the Cooley-Dickinson hospital, Northampton. Mrs. Coolidge was plainly dressed. She wore a white dress, short white coat, picture hat, and red beads and red earrings.

LIFER SENT UP BY LYING WITNESS MAY BE FREED

Michigan Pardons Board to Quiz Woman.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Should the testimony given by Mrs. Anna Gilson Mimnaugh at the trial, 11 years ago, of Albert Eichorn, wealthy Michigan farmer, for the murder of Beatrice Epler, 18, of Alma, Mich., be proven false, as indicated yesterday, Eichorn will be released from the Michigan branch prison at Marquette where he is serving a life sentence.

This announcement was made today by Arthur D. Wood, commissioner of pardons and paroles.

Elmer Hammond, a Lansing lumberman, through whose efforts Mrs. Mimnaugh's confession of perjury was obtained, said today he would seek a hearing before the commissioner the latter part of next week.

Miss Epler was found strangled to death near her home in Alma in September of 1917, and Eichorn was sentenced to life for the crime in 1918.

Hammond first became interested in the case when David Veaudry, a French Canadian trapper, came forward with a story of the crime after reward had been offered for identification of the murderer.

Veaudry said that on the night of the murder, Miss Epler was carried unconscious from a neighbor's home by Eichorn and John Brennan. Brennan later was acquitted.

Hammond said he started gathering data two years ago and sent an investigator to Kenosha, Wis., which resulted in the affidavit from Mrs. Mimnaugh.

POLICE PREPARE FOR FIELD MEET AUG. 24 AND 25

Hair raising stunts, the kind seen in the movie thrillers, are to be displayed at the eighth annual police field meet at Soldiers' field on Aug. 24 and 25, according to Maj. John Bauder, police drillmaster, who is in charge. In addition to standard athletic events the pick of the mounted policemen will engage in Roman racing and daring feats of horsemanship. The motorcycle police will be seen in a motorcycle polo game. A mass physical drill will be another feature. Prizes donated by business men will be awarded to the winners. The entire proceeds of the meet will go to the widows and orphans of policemen killed in the performance of their duty.

Farmer Discovers Man's Body Hidden in Grass

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Pierced by a bullet which entered the left arm and went through both lungs, the body of a man identified as R. F. Baldwin of Decatur, was found today by Ivan King, a farmer, about four miles southwest of Bloomington. The assailants had covered the body with grass to hide it from passing motorists. Robbery is believed to have been the motive.

DOG STRIVING TO SET NEW RUNNING AROUND "ENDURANCE RECORD"

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 3.—[U.P.]—A tiny flea bitten pup today entered the second day of his attempt to shatter the "refueling endurance record" for consecutive canine running.

The little mongrel "took off" on Indianapolis' famous monument circle, in the downtown district yesterday afternoon and has continued his circular course ever since. At noon today he scampered off the course for his first refueling.

The "endurance test" first was noticed by passersby who stopped to watch the opened mouth pup run around the circle without taking his eyes off the sidewalk. Hundreds of persons watched the test today.

New York, Aug. 3.—U. P.]—A trust fund of $3,000,000 has been created by Col. Henry H. Rogers, Standard Oil multimillionaire, for his wife, the former Mrs. Basil Miles, it was revealed today by attorneys who arranged the settlement.

Mrs. Miles and Rogers were married in Paris on July 16. Col. Rogers inherited the $40,000,000 estate of his father, Henry H. Rogers, one of the Standard Oil company founders.

Owen Flaherty, 65 years old, 4302 North Kildare avenue, played good Samaritan last night and it cost him his life. Flaherty was riding with his nephew, Walter Stafford, 3944 Cortlandt street, when at Thatcher avenue and the Milwaukee railway tracks in River Grove they saw Policeman Ridge attempting to right an overturned automobile. They stopped to help. A dispute arose with the policeman as to the best method of doing the work, and suddenly Flaherty fell to the ground, unconscious from a heart attack. He was taken to the Westlake hospital where he died.

All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is.

Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Sincerity

The word sincerity has various meanings, but the commonest meaning of the word is genuine, honest. Sincerity, indeed, is almost a synonym for craftsmanship, in the higher meaning of that word. For the spirit of true craftsmanship is the purpose to do perfectly—whatever may be the expenditure of time, thought, and labor; whatever may be the reward.

Sincerity of purpose has typified the services of Skeeles-Rockefeller for more than sixty years. To every detail is given thoughtful consideration . . . nothing is left undone. A funeral directed by this organization is a thing of lasting beauty, whether it be for one of wealth or one of moderate means.

It is for these reasons that you should call upon the Skeeles-Rockefeller organization during the hour of need. They are always ready to serve you.

Every item in a Skeeles-Rockefeller funeral is included in one moderate charge. Two chapels, strategically located on the north and south sides, are easily accessible from any part of the city—conveniently reached by elevated, surface lines or bus. Wherever you live our service is available.

CHRYSLER

Rumors about Chrysler's plans are flying thick and fast. The man in the street is saying, "Chrysler has something up its sleeve" = = Widespread gossip insists that Chrysler will soon make an announcement fully as sensational as its dramatic debut of five years ago. Everywhere you hear that Chrysler is going to write another thrilling page of automotive history. The public, which has long expected the unexpected from Chrysler, is waiting in anticipation = = Chrysler greatly appreciates the splendid compliment expressed in this nation-wide belief that something important impends—that whatever Chrysler does is of vital interest and tangible value to the motoring public. It is particularly gratifying right now, in the face of the announcements recently made or promised by other manufacturers, to have American motorists thus reiterate their implicit confidence in Chrysler's ability to stay ahead—and go even farther ahead = = The highest possible tribute to Chrysler prestige is this fact that, after all, everybody is watching Chrysler.

FINDS A MILLION EXILED RUSSIANS IN DIRE POVERTY

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Ten years after the world war over one million exiled Russians in various countries of Europe are in a pitiful condition of destitution, struggling against sickness and hunger, forgotten by former friends and allies. They are also struggling against the indifference of the rest of the world and obstacles deliberately set in their way.

This is the finding of Mrs. Henry P. Loomis of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., who has returned to Paris after a tour of investigation undertaken at her personal expense in behalf of the American Society of Relief of Russian Exiles, which was organized and incorporated in New York last March. Mrs. Loomis visited ten different countries, starting in Paris.

Personal Inquiry Made.

She continued by automobile through northern Italy, Croatia, Slovenia, Serbia, Bulgaria, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, Holland and Belgium. She was accompanied by a former colonel in the Russian imperial army and made personal inquiry at all places visited into the condition of Russian exiles in that particular country. She interviewed both Russians and the highest government and local authorities.

"There are upward of 2,500,000 Russian exiles," said Mrs. Loomis, "and I find that about 1,500,000 have succeeded in making themselves self-supporting. The other million are in a pitiable condition. Due to undernourishment, a large number have become tubercular, and are dying or are in urgent need of help. Others, chiefly among the intellectuals, who were trained men in higher vocations, are obliged to engage in the hardest day labor, in mines or rice fields, and are fortunate if they earn enough to eat.

"I went through schools, workshops, homes, hospitals, churches and dispensaries. I found that, though there have been many sporadic attempts to aid individuals or small groups, I was the first person in all these ten years who has made an effort to make any comprehensive study of the Russian exile problem."

World Is Indifferent.

Mrs. Loomis said she was brought to the regrettable conclusion that the plight of these exiles must be attributed to the absolute indifference of the rest of the world. She said she found them discriminated against in obtaining employment with the exception of the lowest, most dangerous types of labor.

CHICAGO LOVERS OF ART CONCLUDE TOUR IN LONDON

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Thirty art lovers from Chicago, Milwaukee and other midwestern points are concluding here an artistic tour of Europe which has lasted three months. It has included visits to twelve European capitals under the guidance of Dudley Crafts Watson of the Chicago Art institute. The group originally landed a Naples and went northwards as far as Scandinavia and then returned to Paris and London.

Scandinavia is no longer dependent on central European art and its modern development is most impressive, said Mr. Watson, who added that the National gallery in London is the best arranged of all the galleries in the world.

Complain of London Theaters.

The Americans visited the studios of Sir John Lavery, Colin Gill and Leonard Richmond while in London. They had one complaint to make regarding theaters, and that was that the dramatic fare offered in the English houses was the same as that offered in Chicago. Yet just at present the dramatic critics are triumphantly pointing out that the American contributions to the English stage have waned and that more native plays are being shown.

The Chicago members of the party include Walter J. Engle, retired banker; Miss Harriet F. Clifford, painter and organizer of a girls' relief movement; Joseph P. Birren, landscape painter, who is returning to Italy for the fall; Mrs. Harry Pratt Judson, widow of the late president of the University of Chicago; Oscar Remmer, coffee exporter, who analyzed the beverage in the countries that he visited; Charles Alling, connected with the board of trade, and accompanied by his wife; and Frederick O. Bemm, who has made a remarkable record of both still and moving pictures of the trip.

Other members of the party are Mrs. Van Wagenen of Lake Forest; Mrs. Bruce MacDonald and her children, wife of the president of the First National bank of Flint, Mich.; Miss Cora J. Engle of Los Angeles; Miss Florence Brigham, Miss Kate Keith Field, Mrs. Maude Casey, Mrs. Caroline L. Kohl and Miss Margaret Kohl, Miss Lillian M. Krammer, Mrs. E. Palmer Smith, Gustave E. Kaltenbach, and Miss Augusta Watson, all of Chicago.

From Milwaukee come Mrs. Arthur Davidson, Miss Margaret Davidson, Mrs. Joseph Stolz, Mrs. August F. Meckleburg, and Mrs. and Miss T. E. Wales.

CHICAGOANS HELP DEE WIN FREEDOM FROM SPANISH JAIL

EL ESCORIAL, Spain, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Packey J. Dee of Chicago was released today from jail where he had been confined since Wednesday after United States Consul Stafford had presented to the judge many telegrams from Chicago certifying that Dee had a good character there.

Dee returned to Madrid under bond of $1,450, subject to an appearance if required for future trial in the Spanish courts.

He was arrested for taking a valuable porcelain plaque from the wall of "the little palace of the prince" here, which he visited last Wednesday with other tourists. Dee claimed that it was a joke but the authorities took a more serious view.

FEAR MASSACRE IF MINE RIOTERS ARE PROSECUTED

Investigators at Dana Report Threats.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—"Another Herrin massacre" has been threatened if alleged members of a mob which raided a coöperative mine at Dana, Ind., are prosecuted, two deputies assigned to the case told Attorney General James M. Ogden today.

Gov. Harry Leslie will be advised, therefore, to have National Guard units ready for action, Mr. Ogden said tonight.

Local Authorities Hesitant.

The deputies asserted that they were told of the threats by several persons, including the Vermillion county prosecutor. They added that both the prosecutor and the Vermillion county sheriff have hesitated to act in the case.

A mob of about 300 armed men, some masked, is alleged to have shut off airblowers at the mine, and brutally beaten the coöperative workers as they came to the surface. Gov. Leslie already has censured county authorities and ordered a thorough investigation.

Communist Group Blamed.

Officials of the state and national United Mine Workers insist union men were not in the mob and blame a communist miner group which, they assert, is gaining strength in Indiana because of failure of Indiana operators to abide by the wage scale agreement fixing a $6 minimum as in Illinois. The coöperative pays only a $4.50 minimum but, union chiefs point out, the men pay no union fee and are guaranteed steady employment. Many Indiana mines have been shut down for months because of wage squabbles.

Union miners accused of being members of the mob have not been suspended by the union, Ogden's deputies told him today. Moreover, several of the men named are friends of the county prosecutor or sheriff, they said.

DIES GOING TO PHYSICIAN.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Herbert L. Evans, 69, Seymour farmer, dropped dead here today just after reaching the office of Dr. F. A. Labreck, to whom he had gone for consultation for a cold. Heart trouble was the cause.

4 HOLDUP MEN KILL PAYMASTER AND GET $10,000

New York, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Four robbers today shot and killed George Donaldson, paymaster for a clothing factory in Neptune City, N. J., in view of the employés at work. He carried about $10,000, the weekly pay roll, in a bag. The holdup men escaped.

The paymaster, employed by Steiner & Son, had gone to a bank for the pay roll and apparently had been followed by the robbers, aware of his mission.

He was about to enter a door to the factory when an automobile drew up to the curb and four men, armed with revolvers, leaped out and began shooting at him. Employés were unable to say how many shots were fired, but the fusillade was so loud that those inside the building rushed to the windows.

Those nearest the windows reached them in time to see Donaldson crumple to the sidewalk. One of the robbers leaned over the body, tore the bag from his hand and followed his confederates into the car.

BARGE EXPLODES; 2 DEAD, 3 MISSING.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 3.—(AP)—A 90 foot oil barge anchored on the Ohio river at Kosmosdale, 20 miles west of here, was wrecked and sunk by an explosion late today. Two men were reported killed, three men missing and one injured.

WIFE WILL TAKE STAND IN EFFORT TO SAVE SNOOK

Defense Springs Surprise at Murder Trial.

Columbus, O., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. James H. Snook, wife of the deposed Ohio State university professor, on trial for the murder of Theora Hix, will testify in her husband's behalf, Defense Counsel E. O. Ricketts announced late today.

Mrs. Snook has not appeared in the court room where her husband is on trial. She has seldom left her home except to take laundry to him in the county jail, and has granted only one interview to reporters.

She has said "the husband she knew could not have done this thing," and announced she never had wanted a divorce and "did not want one now."

At today's court session Dr. Snook listened with academic interest while the state introduced a witness to prove that he fed his co-ed sweetheart an emotional excitant and killed her in a fit of anger when she repulsed him.

City Chemist Charles F. Long testified that stains found on the clothing of Dr. Snook after he was arrested were caused by human blood, and that an examination of the girl's stomach after death revealed the concoction.

Prosecutor John J. Chester introduced his testimony to show that Dr. Snook administered the preparation to the girl in a beef sandwich as they drove out to a lonely rifle range on the night of last June 13.

The concoction found in the stomach of Miss Hix was a combination of two drugs, Dr. Long testified. One was taken from the office of Dr. Snook and the other from the drug room in the Veterinary building at Ohio State, he said.

Long said he administered a portion of the substance taken from the girl's stomach to a dog, which promptly showed extreme symptoms of excitement.

Bottle samples of the preparation were presented to Dr. Oscar W. Brumley, director of the Ohio State veterinary clinic, for identification. He revealed that the samples were at least 12 years old.

Love Affair on Wane.

The death of Miss Hix ended an illicit relationship which she had carried on with the former professor for three years. The prosecutor is attempting to prove that Miss Hix was tired of her 49 year old lover and was unwilling to accompany him that night to the apartment house where they shared a room.

The owner of the apartment house, Mrs. M. M. Smalley, a little woman, who has time to read nothing but the Bible, according to her own testimony, occupied the stand for about an hour this morning.

She looked at the big man stretched out in a colored canvass beach chair in the court room and referred to him, not as Dr. Snook but as "Mr. Howard Snook."

She testified that Dr. Snook gave up the room on Friday, June 14, the day after Miss Hix had been killed and the same day that he took a blood stained suit to a dye house to be cleaned.

FAMILY'S TWINS FROLIC AT PICNIC

30,000 Make Trip

More than 30,000 persons yesterday attended the annual employés' picnic of the Grigsby-Grunow company, radio manufacturers, at Fox River grove. Thirty special trains carried part of the employés, with their families and friends, while a convoy of 900 automobiles operated between the company's plant and the picnic grounds. Prizes totaling $10,000 were awarded winners in the athletic events.

Chicago Girl Sues Farmer for $250,000; Love Cools

Francis B. Becker, said to be a wealthy farmer residing in Oklahoma City, was made defendant in a $250,000 breach of promise suit filed yesterday in the United States District court on behalf of Miss Lucy Gilbert of Chicago. The suit was filed in the federal court because of the different residences of the principals. According to the bill of complaint filed by Attorney Charles A. Messmore, Becker promised to marry Miss Gilbert Christmas day, 1928, borrowing sums of money from her, then failing to go through with the ceremony.

Mrs. Maria Monaco, 343 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, yesterday filed a divorce suit in the Superior court against Dr. Attilio Monaco, wealthy physician. The bill charges cruelty. The Monacos were married May 17, 1902, and separated last Thursday. They have three grown children. The bill states that the doctor's income from his practice is $3,000 a month and that he has extensive real estate holdings.

U. S. FARM BOARD WARNS GROWERS TO HOLD WHEAT

Declares Congestion in Terminals Drops Price.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Wheat growers, in a statement issued today by the federal farm board, were urged to hold their products as long as possible to avoid increasing the prevailing "unfortunate congestion of terminal markets.

Crowding of the markets by unusually heavy shipments has caused a sharp depression of cash prices, according to the farm board statement, although there is every prospect of a crop shortage in the world supply which would naturally boost wheat prices here and in foreign markets.

"The federal farm board is being besieged by telephone calls, telegrams and letters, regarding over crowded terminals and transportation facilities for the handling of wheat, it was asserted in the statement.

"This excessive crowding of wheat on to the market has created a far wider spread between cash wheat prices and prices of wheat sold for future deliveries than usually exists.

"The federal farm board has made no statement or forecast whatsoever concerning a proper price for wheat for this market year nor does it propose to do so, but under conditions which exist this season when all reports agree on a substantial reduction in world supply as compared with last year, it seems unfortunate to crowd wheat on to the market faster than exchange facilities can handle it, resulting in cash prices which are much lower than contract prices for future delivery."

Save Transportation Charges.

A similar appeal to wheat growers to keep as much of their crop on the farm as possible at harvest time was voiced by the department of agriculture earlier in the season and before the federal farm board was organized.

It was pointed out by the department that caution in shipping would not only prevent gluts at the terminals and give producers an opportunity to save transportation charges on the dockage by cleaning the wheat before shipment but it also would tend to enhance the price for high protein wheat when it finally reached the markets.

Plan $7,000,000 Memorial for Late Manchurian Ruler

PEIPING, China, Aug. 3.—[U.P.]—The greatest monument in all China, to be built at a cost of $7,000,000 gold, has been planned for the late Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, for 15 years ruler of the three eastern provinces of Manchuria. Chang's son, Chang-Hseuh-Liang, has contributed $5,000,000 silver and the people will give the rest.

Superior Judge Steffen yesterday issued a writ of habeas corpus to Mrs. Louis Tiger, 2641 Ainslie street, for the custody of Rosalyn Bloom, 6 years old, who, she says, was kidnaped from the Tiger home on Friday by her uncle, George Bloom, 7717 Phillips avenue. A hearing on the writ was set for Tuesday.

The child was intrusted to Mrs. Tiger's care by Herman Bloom, the father, when her mother committed suicide in 1924. On June 2 of this year Bloom was mysteriously shot and killed within four doors of his home at 8125 Drexel avenue.

Bloom, an interior decorator, left an estate of $15,000 to his daughter. On Friday George Bloom and another man visited the Tiger home, enticed Rosalyn into an auto, and drove away, Mrs. Tiger said.

Nation-wide Tire Demonstration Tour Approaches Its Climax as Fleet Reaches City After More Than 21,000 Punishing Miles

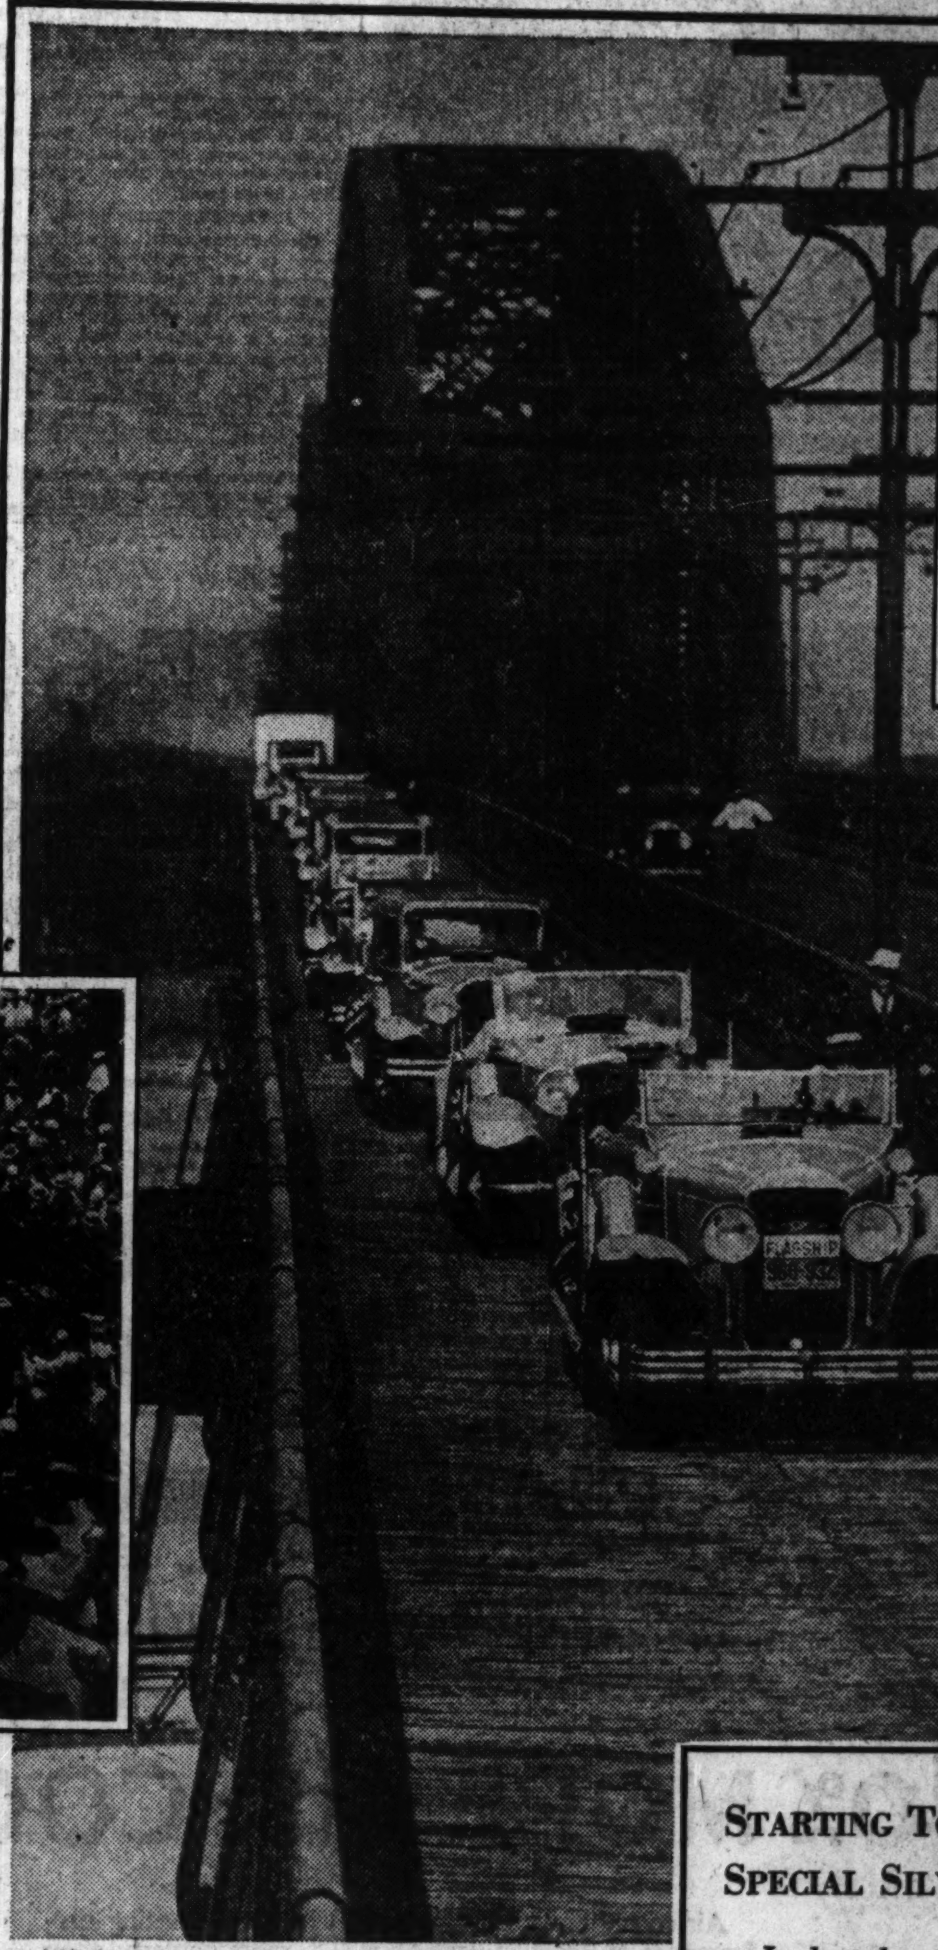
FLEET TO PRESENT LOCAL TRAFFIC SURVEY TO CHICAGO MOTOR CLUB TOMORROW



OVER 21,000 MILES! (Above) This photograph was taken just before the Fleet reached Chicago. This Silvertown Tire on one of the cars of the Silver Fleet ran for more than 21,000 miles between New York and Chicago. Over roads the country boasts about . . . over back-trails where only trouble is encountered . . . but always plodding on to show you and your fellow motorists the durability and stamina of Goodrich Tires.

HERE THEY COME! (Left) The 15 gleaming cars of the Silver Fleet headed this way. Photograph was taken on the McKinley Bridge, as the Fleet left St. Louis. City officials will greet them here to-morrow with a formal ceremony and sign the book of Good-Will Greetings from the Mayor of San Francisco to the people of the East. Be on hand to see them.

Visit to Stock Yards After City Hall Reception—Guests of Chicago Cubs Following Rotary Club Luncheon Tuesday

The cars and men of the famous Goodrich Silver Fleet. Stopping in Chicago for a 3-day visit . . . before heading down the home stretch on their great nation-wide demonstration tour.

Thousands of people will be there to welcome them . . . to see the cars . . . to talk to the pilots.

LIKE NEW RUBBER! A recent durometer reading of tread resiliency after 20,000 miles proved that amazing life still remains in the famous Silvertowns.

To inspect at first hand these five dozen tires that have gone four times the distance across the continent without a single major difficulty.

When the Silver Fleet rolls up before City Hall at 9 o'clock tomorrow, its speedometers will show more than 21,000 miles.

In its log will be written the story of a tour covering nearly three dozen states.

All Kinds of Roads

Its pilots will be able to tell you of battles with every kind of road, every type of weather, every travel condition the country knows.

You will see 60 tires that have smashed every record for sustained performance on a grueling nation-wide run.

You will see 30 tires that have made the entire trip without even so much as a puncture to mar their record.

You will see 21 tires that still contain the air they had in them when they left New York six months ago.

Every one identical to the tires you ride on when you buy Silvertowns for your car . . . identical to the Silvertowns that are being sold by Chicago Goodrich dealers right now.

For remember this tour has been undertaken to demonstrate the stamina of stock Silvertowns . . . to show motorists just like yourself the unsurpassed mileage that they offer.

And now . . . to commemorate the visit of the Silver Fleet to Chicago . . . local Goodrich dealers are inaugurating a special Silver Fleet Tire Sale which starts tomorrow.

Look at the prices shown in the box at the right. Remember these prices are for genuine Silvertown Tires . . . tires just like those on the Silver Fleet.

Study them carefully . . . look for your size . . . don't they prove to you that Goodrich Tires are not expensive?

You will want to see the Silver Fleet when it rolls through Chicago tomorrow and Tuesday. You will want to witness the ceremony when city officials sign the book of good-will greetings from Mayor Rolph of San Francisco to the people of the East.

You will want to attend an occasion making tire and automobile history in Chicago . . .

But more than any other thing . . .

As a buyer of tires you will want to see the 60 stock Silvertowns that have written, and are still writing, tire history across the face of the land . . .

You will want to watch the trimly uniformed pilots as they demonstrate the simple care they give their tires . . .

You will want to be on hand to learn the valuable lesson on the purchase of tires which the Silver Fleet has already carried to 20,000,000 people!

If you can't be there tomorrow, make a point to see the Silver Fleet before it leaves the city. It will be on display in front of City Hall from 12 to 2 Tuesday afternoon.

Or, if anything interferes, then get in touch with your nearest Goodrich dealer. He can tell you the most convenient spot and time for you to see this history-making caravan in its tour of Chicago.

CAMP ALGONQUIN FUND DEPLETED; CRISIS REACHED

Money Needed to Finance Promised Vacations.

With half the summer season at Camp Algonquin ahead, and no funds in sight to cover the expense of giving hundreds of families from Chicago tenements their promised outings, camp officials are faced with a real problem.

Before the first 180 visitors entered THE TRIBUNE's camp for their two weeks' respite from tenement life in the middle of June, champions of the camp pointed out that the maintenance this year would run high. There was no reserve fund. Furnishings in the camp had worn out. Buildings needed painting, some additions, and plumbing. So special plea was made to all good friends of Algonquin to come to the rescue.

More Contributions Needed.

The response has been gratifying, but it has not been enough to keep the camp in operation the rest of the season. While the camp total shows nearly $4,500, practically all of this amount has been transferred to the United Charities which administers the fund for the 600 or more vacations of the last six weeks. In view of the approaching crisis, the fund is compelled to go begging again.

The Daily Vacation Bible school of South Congregational church, 4249 Cottage Grove avenue collected $5.26 for the free ice fund under the leadership of their president, Marian Stewart, 12 years old. Another group put on a home talent circus and raised $2.50 for the camp fund, with the promise of doing the same for the ice fund later. They were Billy Brandt, Beverly Byrne, Kathryn Fredericks, Joan and Mary Horn, Marjorie Jacobs and Billy Weber.

EMPLOYERS JOIN WAR ON BOMBERS; OFFER REWARDS

Act to Stop Attacks in Printing Strike.

The Employers' Association of Chicago yesterday jumped into the war against bombers by offering rewards for information resulting in the arrest and conviction of any person connected with the bombing of the American Colortype company. The association offers $5,000 for the arrest of the bombers and $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of any person or persons guilty of assaulting employés of any printing concern which is a member of the association and against which a strike is now in progress.

Roundup Spurs Search.

The recent roundup of alleged bombers by the state's attorney's staff is believed to have stimulated the search for the bombers of the printing company. The prosecutor, however, has been unable to hook up any of the eight men arrested with any specific bombing.

The only charge against the men, who were arraigned in court yesterday, is the result of their capture by an under cover investigator who purchased five bombs from members of this alleged gang.

Continuances until Aug. 30 were allowed to the prosecutors in the cases against James Belcastro, alleged labor racketeer, and the others arrested. Attorneys for the men asked for a reduction of the $50,000 bond.

"On the facts the state has a bond of not more than $2,500 is justified," said Attorney Rollo Libonati. "They haven't even enough evidence to get indictments against some of these men."

Prosecutor Benjamin Feldman protested against this statement as well as a reduction of bond. Judge Edgar Jonas told the lawyers to try and agree on a bond reduction and to come back next week.

James Angelino, a youth employed at the alleged bomb headquarters and held by juvenile authorities, was released for lack of evidence last night after police had finished questioning him.

No Charges Against Women.

No progress was reported by the prosecutors in their efforts to fasten many arson charges upon two women who it is charged worked with some of the bombing suspects. One charge of arson probably will be placed against them tomorrow, Prosecutor Feldman said. The women are Mrs. Evelyn Sugar, 1501 Wicker Park avenue, and Mrs. Bertha Amster, 54 years old, 2236 Division street.

Fred Kidd, 43 years old, committed suicide yesterday in a garage in the rear of his home at 7534 Clyde avenue. He shot himself in the temple. William Stuber, Kidd's nephew, who discovered the body told police that Kidd has a wife and children who are on a vaction somewhere in Alabama.

Extend Jurisdiction to 3 Mile Limit.

For the first time in the history of Chicago's police department its jurisdiction was extended yesterday to the lake, out to the three mile limit. Two policemen were detailed to a speed boat which will patrol the lake front with orders to stop the muffler cutout nuisance and also to prevent repetitions of the speed boat crash two weeks ago off the Navy pier, which resulted in the death of two men.

The new development in law enforcement came through the efforts of Harry A. Ash, inheritance tax attorney of the attorney general's office, who has been conducting a campaign against noisy speed boats. With the assistance of O. W. Miller, local representative of Gar Wood, builder of speed boats, a committee headed by Mr. Ash secured a speed boat for the police department. Commissioner Russell detailed Policemen E. J. Hayes and J. J. McCarthy, both expert pilots, to operate the boat.

Has Power to Act.

"The city has the power to abate or abolish any nuisance that disturbs the peace and quiet of the community," said Mr. Ash. "Having been provided a speed boat, the police will patrol the lake, warning users of muffler cutouts to either equip motors with mufflers or get out beyond the three mile limit.

"Warnings, if not heeded, will be followed by arrests and prosecutions.

"Our committee sees the absurdity of the city of Chicago, the greatest city in the world situated on a lake, having no police boats. A movement is on foot to ask the council finance committee to purchase not less than three police boats, one for the river, one for Belmont harbor, and one for Jackson park harbor.

"The noisy outboard motors will soon be a thing of the past. It is fair to say that the National Outboard Motor association is coöperating fully in this movement and it is predicted that next year no outboard motors will be sold whout proper mufflers."

Revoke Pilots' Licenses.

The licenses of two speed boat pilots whose crafts collided off the Navy pier resulting in two deaths were revoked yesterday in a decision of Capts. John F. Hansen and William Nicholas, federal board of steamboat inspectors.

The inspectors found that the pilots, Elmer Dudley and William Warner, violated rules of the navigation code which have to do with the conduct of two vessels approaching each other. The findings of the inspectors will be reported to the coroner's jury investigating the two deaths when it reconvenes shortly.

Kentucky Bride, 50, Seeks Mate Missing with $10,000

Mrs. John C. Preston, 50 years old, of Augusta, Ky., yesterday appealed to Chicago police to help her find her husband, also 50, who she says disappeared ten days ago with $10,000 borrowed from her father, a wealthy banker. The couple met June 1 at the Latonia race track, she said, and were married after a courtship of two weeks. Recently he told her he needed money to establish credit in Indianapolis and she obtained it from her father. She said Preston represented himself as a wealthy manufacturer.

EXPERTS TO STUDY HABITS OF THOSE IN AUTO CRASHES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Pittsburgh is to be the laboratory for a scientific investigation of the cause of automobile accidents. The national safety council, the city department of public welfare and the University of Pittsburgh tonight announced they had organized the Accident Research association, and that a corps of specialists would come here to make a study of auto accidents.

Special attention will be given to drivers who become involved in accidents. The specialists will inquire into their mental alertness, eyesight, hearing, coördination, reaction time, and right and left handedness. Psychologists and psychiatrists will inquire into the habits and state of mind of the subjects, to determine just what they eat, what exercise they take, what is done for recreation, and if they are worried by financial matters, family affairs, employment or health.

Those coöperating in the research work aim to learn, so far as possible, the cause of each accident together with contributing factors. Among the first subjects to be examined are truck drivers whose employers have instructed them to undergo the examination in event they become involved in accidents.

Circus Bear Mauls Small Boy to Death in Germany

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—As the town of Wandsbeck, near Hamburg, was preparing for a gay country fair, busy circus hands tied the main attraction of the show, a huge bear, to a nearby wall and went off. When a six year old boy, drawn by the glamor of the circus, ran by, the bear stretched out its paw and dragged the child into its huge forepaws. Before rescuers could reach him the child was almost torn to shreds and died.

LUCREZIA BORI SINGS A DOUBLE BILL AT RAVINIA

Charms Critic in Roles That Are Far Apart.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It was Bori night at Ravinia. This extraordinary, persuasive, singing actress made the week end something to dream about by appearing in a double bill of her own, "The Secret of Suzanne," in which she was the lady of the secret, and "La Vida Breve," in which she was the Spanish gypsy, Salud.

Here are two rôles about as widely different as it is possible for any two to be, and just at this moment it is hard to tell which one is preferable. You may vote for the delicate comedy of her Suzanne, the incredible spirit of youth that she throws about it. There she registered just about the age of the music, and the music is cast in the spirit of the most wheedling age of flapperdom. Or you may prefer the molten lava of her Salud as it glows and gleams and suddenly bursts into flame.

It may be hard to make a choice, but this problem has its own solace, since it would be equally hard to go wrong. In any event, here are two operas especially intended for the talents of Lucrezia Bori. If they were not designated with her in mind, they should have been.

"The Secret of Suzanne" holds up well with passing seasons. Perhaps the comedy grows a bit mild. It is hard to believe that when it was first brought out in Chicago it had so many warning fingers shaken at it because its heroine was guilty of smoking a cigaret. But Miss Bori, Armand Tokatyan, and Giordano Paltrinieri spun it along merrily and speedily. Incidentally, Mr. Tokatyan did a first rate bit of comic impersonation, greatly aided and abetted by another first rate bit of comic pantomime by Mr. Paltrinieri. And Miss Bori was delicious, just like the music.

Suddenly transferred to Spain, "La Vida Breve" is one of the finest works in the modern répertoire. Just as a piece of music, the second scene, pictorially merely a picture of Seville with the chorus behind and the orchestra in front and nothing else, stands as high as any movement from any symphony in memory.

Mr. Tokatyan was again in this work, so was Ina Bourskaya in a striking portrayal of vigorous old age, so was Louis D'Angelo, so were several others. And Miss Bori pervaded it all with a flame of passion. As I have said, it was Bori night.

EX-KAISER'S WIFE VISITS GERMANY; REDS SUSPICIOUS

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Princess Hermine, wife of the former kaiser, is on a journey to Nüremberg of a "purely private nature." It is generally supposed that she is to take the cure at Berchtesgaden.

But the communist newspaper Berlin Am Morgen sees in the trip a definite plan to make arrangements for the return of Wilhelm to Germany and his establishment on a Bavarian estate.

The reichstag recently voted against extending a defense of the republic law which specifically barred the former monarch from German soil. It was said at the time of expiration of this law that the former kaiser had no intention or desire of returning from his exile.

5 DOCTORS AID IN SURGERY AT SEA ON MRS. BRITTEN

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Fred A. Britten was somewhat improved tonight from the effects of an emergency operation for appendicitis performed on the liner Leviathan in mid-Atlantic. Her husband, chairman of the house naval affairs committee and representative from Illinois, who is on his way to the German disarmament conference on Aug. 23, said: "I am happy to say my wife is resting more easily tonight. I am hopeful we shall be able to remove her to a local nursing home on Tuesday."

The congressman revealed how the liner was stopped for 52 minutes during the operation, at a time when other leading liners were racing toward new records. This was done to eliminate the vibrations of the engines.

"The operation," said Mr. Britten, "was performed by Dr. Frank Stewart, who by a coincidence graduated at Chicago under Dr. N. M. Percy, the famous surgeon. He was assisted at the operating table by Dr. A. McNamara of Bellevue hospital, New York. Three passengers, all medical specialists, were called into consultation before it was decided to operate. They were Dr. John S. Williams of Everett, Mass., surgeon; Dr. Emanuel M. Baruch of New York, diagnostician, and Dr. John Wyckoff of New York, a heart specialist.

Clemency Is Denied Killer of Two Coast Guardsmen

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—President Hoover has declined to grant clemency to James Horace Alderman, under sentence to be executed on Aug. 17 for killing two coast guardsmen. Alderman was found guilty of killing Victor A. Landy and Sidney C. Sanderlin, near Fort Lauderdale in 1927 while they were attempting to transfer liquor found on his boat to a coast guard cutter.

WHAT YOU GET

Is Even More Important Than What You Pay

Motor car value isn't determined by what you pay for your car . . . it's what you get in return for your money that's important.

Those who have owned lower-priced cars gain, in Oldsmobile, performance, luxury, and riding qualities which far outweigh the slight additional cost.

Those who have been accustomed to more expensive cars find that Oldsmobile gives them all the fine car advantages they demand—and at decided savings in both original cost and operating expense.

Those who have been driving cars in Oldsmobile's price field discover that the same amount of money invested in Oldsmobile buys a far more satisfactory automobile—from the standpoint of day-in-and-day-out dependability as well as in beauty, comfort, and performance. Oldsmobile is powered by a big 62-horsepower high-compression engine which delivers speed to fulfill every desire, remarkably swift acceleration, and power to carry out the heaviest assignment. In addition to fine performance, Oldsmobile provides the style and comfort advantages of Bodies by Fisher, with spacious interiors, deep-cushioned seats, and luxurious upholsteries and appointments. Further, Oldsmobile's standard equipment includes such items as four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, full-length vertical radiator shutters, and gasoline and temperature gauges on the dash.

Investigate Oldsmobile yourself—remembering that what you get is even more important than what you pay. Drive an Oldsmobile Six and compare it, point by point, with cars of all prices. Judged by dollar for-dollar value, you won't find a more profitable investment than Oldsmobile — the fine car of low price.

The VIKING

—the new 90-degree V-type Eight at medium price—is built in the Olds factories, by Oldsmobile craftsmen, and sold through Oldsmobile dealers. At $1595 for all models, f. o. b. factory, Lansing, Michigan, it is as outstanding in value in its field as the popular Oldsmobile Six, the fine car of low price.

THEY SAY . . .

Oldsmobile has all the features in its engine that the higher priced cars have. I like its style, comfort, and performance. It is a lot of automobile for the money.

—Philadelphia, Pa.

I consider Oldsmobile's Fisher Body construction better than others in its price class. I like its upholstery and appointments. And I have found that Oldsmobile's power-to-weight balance means better acceleration and better hill-climbing ability.

TELLS DUTIES OF COAST GUARD UPON BIRTHDAY

Billard Gives History of Organization.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Along the thousands of miles of American coast line, as well as in the cold waters off Alaska and in the tropic seas of the distant Philippines, the coast guard tomorrow will celebrate its 139th anniversary.

Officers and men, about 12,000 in all, have made spick and span their 300 swift little vessels, which put forth in the worst of weather both to save life and enforce law.

On the eve of this anniversary the commandant, Rear Admiral Francis C. Billard summarized the history of the service and his views on the work it performs. He pointed out that within 24 hours the coast guard, which serves humanity in peace time, can become a strong arm of the nation's defense.

Tells Position on Liquor.

Making clear the coast guard's position with regard to rum runners from the sea, Admiral Billard said the service was not charged with the enforcement of the national prohibition act, and its connection thereto was to uphold the constitution through preventing the smuggling of contraband from the sea as it had done since 1790.

"The coast guard has a sort of dual nature," Admiral Billard said, "in that, while it has fought in all our wars, its outstanding, traditional duties in time of peace are essentially humanitarian. Chief of these is its historic work in giving aid to persons and vessels in distress at sea. In this inspiring work, the record of the coast guard is not excelled by that of any other organization in the world.

"In the last five years the number of lives saved or persons rescued from peril by the coast guard was 15,279, and the value of vessels assisted, including their cargoes, was more than $148,900,000.

"At the request of the leading maritime nations, the coast guard performs the extremely important duty of carrying on the international ice patrol, to warn vessels of the presence of ice in the north Atlantic. Since the coast guard took over the work, there has not been a single life lost by contact with icebergs or ice fields on the trans-Atlantic steamer lines.

"The coast guard locates and removes floating derelicts from the paths of navigation. Its ships each year visit remote parts of the Alaskan coast, and carry law and order to those isolated regions.

Must Enforce Duty Laws.

"In addition to its many duties, the coast guard, during the last few years, has been actively engaged in preventing the smuggling of liquor into the United States from the sea. The coast guard is not charged with the enforcement of the national prohibition act. Its connection with prohibition lies solely in the fact that, among its other duties, it is charged with preventing the smuggling of contraband from the sea, a duty that it has performed since its creation in 1790.

"Before prohibition was ever heard of, the coast guard annually boarded thousands of vessels in enforcing the various maritime laws of the country. As regards the smuggling of liquor, it is thus upholding and supporting the constitution of the United States."

STATE OBJECTION TO RULING ON DOG RACES OVERRULED

Master in Chancery Max Korshak yesterday overruled the objections to his report which held dog racing with pari-mutuel betting is legal in Cook county. The objections were filed in behalf of the state by Assistant State's Attorney Lee LaRochelle Thursday morning. The report was filed in the Circuit court so that Circuit Judge Fisher may act on it Monday.

If the report is accepted by the judge the dog tracks will receive a permanent injunction, and attorneys for the tracks have announced that they would resume operations immediately. Regardless of the judge's decision the case will be carried to the Supreme court, opposing attorneys indicated. Meanwhile the tracks remained closed under the order of Circuit Judge Rush, who dissolved a temporary injunction restraining police interference.

ACTRESS HERE TO WED HILLMAN

Marian Nixon of the films and Edward Hillman Jr., a son of late State street merchant, after arrival of actress yesterday. The wedding will be this month.

Ceremony Soon

Marion Nixon, straight from Hollywood stardom, had no eyes or ears for cameramen or interviewers as she stepped off a Sante Fe train at the Dearborn street station yesterday morning. She dashed down the platform and into the arms of Edward Hillman Jr., son of the late State street merchant. After that she found time for her impatient audience and told them what they wanted to know—namely that she and Mr. Hillman have set their wedding date for Aug. 14 or thereabouts. The two met during a visit made by Mr. Hillman to the picture company.

ILLINOIS FOUND HAVEN FOR MANY MEDICAL FAKES

Officials Confer on License Evil.

Illinois has become a carnival grounds where unlicensed healers, quacks, and fake physicians of every breed have flocked to prey upon the public. This was the consensus yesterday at a conference in the headquarters of the American Medical association participated in by state officials, police, and medical authorities.

The meeting was called to consider the serious condition of affairs revealed last week when indictments against W. H. H. Miller, former director of the state department of education and registration, and eight other alleged members of medical license mills were voted by the grand jury.

Hundreds of Fake Permits.

Hundreds of fake licenses had been issued by a diploma mill, evidence given to the grand jury revealed. From this state, quacks, armed with Illinois licenses, went to other states which granted reciprocity in the matter of licenses and were allowed to practice there. The indictments were only the first of a number to be returned, according to announcements, and other state officials are to be named.

Present at yesterday's conference were Clyde I. Backus, assistant director of the state department of registration and education; Charles A. Bellows, assistant state's attorney, who has been put in charge of the fake license prosecutions; Commissioner of Police Russell; Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association; Dr. Arthur L. Cramp, director of the bureau of investigation of the A. M. A., and Dr. Nathan P. Colwell, director of the bureau of medical education and hospitals of the A. M. A.

Find Conditions Bad.

Dr. Fishbein stated that all present were agreed that during the last few years conditions in Illinois had become as bad or worse than in any state in the union with relationship to practice by unlicensed healers, physicians practicing with false credentials, or with licenses obtained through fraud.

Ways and means were discussed for obtaining a complete survey of the conditions of practice in Chicago before proceeding to investigate the licenses of all who practice healing in the city, and for revoking such licenses as have been obtained by fraudulent means. Commissioner Russell, Mr. Bellows, and Mr. Backus agreed to coöperate in this work, with the American Medical association furnishing its facilities and advice to the authorities.

Boy Pours Oil on Cattails for Torch; Burns to Death

Kerosene, which he was pouring on some cattails to make a torch, ignited on the clothing of 10 year old Ernest Schaf of Hammond yesterday, and caused his death.

POLICEMEN SAVE EX-PROSECUTOR FROM SUICIDE

John Z. Montgomery, 32 years old, former assistant prosecuting attorney of Sedalia, Mo., was sent back home yesterday after Chicago police had prevented his suicide Friday afternoon. Montgomery was about to shoot himself in his rooming house at 21 West Chicago avenue when police, who had been trailing him because of his suspicious actions, broke into his room and stopped him.

According to dispatches from Sedalia, Montgomery left home several months ago. He is the son of Lee Montgomery, prominent Missouri lawyer. Previous reports that Montgomery left a note indicating that he would commit suicide by jumping into the Mississippi river were denied.

Montgomery was seen with a revolver near the Navy pier. He was followed to the rooming house by Lieut. William Cox and Sergt. Frank McDonald. He was released later on his promise to go home. Back in Sedalia yesterday, the lawyer denied he had attempted to commit suicide and said he had been working as a first mate on a Chicago yacht.

Claim to the title of oldest living member of the American Legion was advanced yesterday for Sergt. Otis C. West, 80 years old, 7124 North Ashland avenue, a member of the Rogers Park post. George Sugarman, judge advocate of the post, made the claim after reading of the death of Henry G. Greene, 72 years old, of Savannah, Ga. The obituary stated that he was the oldest Legionnaire. Sergt. Otis is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and served at Fort Hayes during the world war.

MARMON

announces the appointment as distributor the Marmon Sales Company...an organization of men long established and important in Chicago automobile circles

Marmon, in the height of the greatest success of its long history, announces a new connection which promises greatly expanded Marmon activity in the Chicago territory. The firm name of this new Marmon organization is the Marmon Sales Company . . . This organization is headed by George P. Miller, who for twelve years has been looked upon as one of the most forward thinking and successful men in Chicago automobile circles . . . Associated with Mr. Miller is L. J. Brady, who has also been prominently identified in this territory and has had an active part in previous Miller enterprises. Mr. Brady will serve as General Manager.

The new company will operate from three buildings. One located at 2419 South Michigan is to be retail sales headquarters. Another building directly across the street at 2420 South Michigan will be used as sales display for used cars, parts and shop. Executive offices will also be located at this address. A third building at 2425-27 South Wabash will be headquarters for Marmon service.

We take the liberty of publishing below, some of Mr. Miller's observations and also the principles of service and fair dealing which are incorporated in the policy of the newly formed organization.

A Word from Mr. Miller

To use his own language, he states—"Early in May of this year I happened to meet a friend who was the proud owner of a new Roosevelt car. He was very enthusiastic concerning his purchase. I rode in the car and found it as comfortable an automobile as could be imagined. I noticed its performance, its beauty, and its construction, and was amazed, like thousands of others, that an eight-cylinder car of this standard could be sold at less than one thousand dollars f.o.b. factory. Many people advised me that it was a 'bait'—that it could not be produced permanently at this price.

"I found this conclusion erroneous. This led to a further investigation of Marmon cars manufactured by this splendid organization.

Investigated Plants and Methods

"It was my pleasure to investigate their magnificent plants, economical methods of production, their sound, safe, human, and enduring ideas concerning production and distribution. My desire for business retirement left me. I instinctively knew I could be safe and happy in an affiliation with an organization of this kind.

"It has come to pass. I feel assured of business happiness, contentment, and at least a satisfactory measure of business success. I hope and believe that our business associates, dealers, and car owners, will realize these attributes to the fullest extent. I hope that the Marmon Motor Car Company will, as the years go by, feel that they have entrusted this important task to safe hands, and that we may prove to be, as a company, and as individuals, imbued with right ideals and capable of proper performance.

"Responsibility to the new owner of the car, or to the new dealer in Marmon products, according to our code of ethics, will only have begun when their names are on the dotted line.

Miller Service Ideals

"There is an old trite saying—'He is well paid who is well satisfied.' I thoroughly subscribe to that, and in its application to this product it does not mean alone a car well designed, properly made, properly priced, and backed by a sound, capable manufacturing institution, but also that the distributor and dealer must have a full conception of the right kind of contact with the individual owner, and be imbued with the big thought that the owner is entitled to courteous treatment and the right kind of service, based upon proper compensation, and that he is in all respects one of the Marmon family.

"With no thought of indulging in conjectures based upon false or unwarranted hypotheses, I believe that there is a perfect warrant for the belief that Marmon and Roosevelt cars, viewed from the present perspective, and coupled with the almost unlimitable probabilities of their future, stand out today distinctively as one of the very finest accounts in the automotive industry."

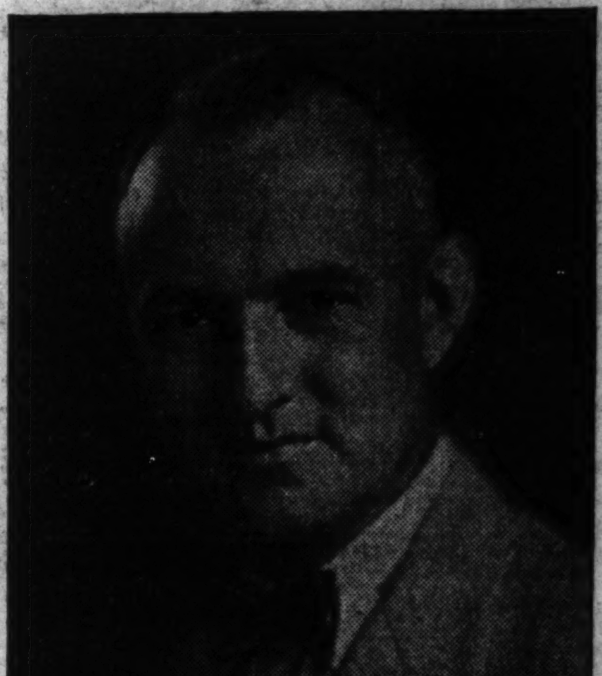
GEORGE P. MILLER, PRESIDENT

Practically from its inception and until September 1928, Mr. Miller was conspicuously identified with the distributor organization of the Nash Motors Company. In 1928 Mr. Miller's interests were liquidated and he planned a permanent retirement from the industry. Now he, like many other active men who rapidly tire of retirement, is back again and will be the primary force in this new Marmon-Roosevelt organization.



L. J. BRADY, GENERAL MANAGER

Mr. Brady is splendidly equipped for the automobile business—in addition to being a skilled and experienced merchandiser he also is a graduate Mechanical Engineer and a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers. For over thirteen years he has been identified with wholesale automobile distribution in Chicago and surrounding territory. The greater portion of this time he has served organizations headed by G. P. Miller.

MARMON AND ROOSEVELT SERVICE FACILITIES—A thoroughly modern and extremely convenient service station is located at 2425-27 South Wabash, directly back of the "2420 South Michigan" building and conveniently accessible to it at the rear. It is all on one expansive street level floor with no slow-moving elevators or ramps. Easy entrance and exit on Wabash, without street cars to contend with and away from heavy Michigan Avenue traffic. This department will be manned with especially trained men and equipped with the latest time-saving machinery. With these facilities and with an organization directed by seasoned men, Marmon and Roosevelt owners will have at their disposal a quality of service unexcelled by any motor car establishment.

MARMON
Roosevelt

WAIT DECISIONS OF M'LAUGHLIN, SHELDON CLARK

Expect New Group by Tuesday.

BY DON MAXWELL.

Gov. Emmerson has received the acceptance of Maj. Mariano B. Southwick, 210 East Pearson street, to membership on the state athletic commission in charge of boxing and wrestling. By tomorrow night the governor hopes to receive the acceptances of Sheldon Clark and Maj. Frederic McLaughlin and thus complete the new ring board.

MAJ. M. B. SOUTHWICK.

Maj. Southwick commanded the 122d machine gun battalion, 33d division, during the war and several months ago was decorated with the distinguished service medal. Until two years ago he was a resident of Springfield and an official of the Sangamon Electric company. While in Springfield he became a close personal friend of the governor. Maj. Southwick is now a vice president of a Chicago bond house. He is prominent in American Legion work and popular with ex-service men throughout the state.

Clark Loath to Accept.

"I have been interested in boxing for years," Maj. Southwick said last night. "I'll do my best to keep the sport on a high level."

Mr. Clark, wealthy oil man, yachting enthusiast and devotee of boxing, has said repeatedly that nothing could tempt him to take a place on the ring commission. But last night one of his friends explained that Mr. Clark has been urged to take the post for six months at least.

Maj. McLaughlin's attitude toward the appointment is believed to be more kindly than Mr. Clark's. The only obstacle to his acceptance is his fear that the boxing commissionership would interfere with his efforts to place major league hockey on a successful basis in Chicago.

So far Maj. McLaughlin has found the latter task extremely unprofitable. The Blackhawks, of which the major is president and chief backer, has proved a losing financial proposition. Several hundred thousand dollars have been dropped by their backers.

Prehn Mails Resignatio

When the Chicago Stadium corporation first was formed, Maj. McLaughlin was one of the organizers. Subsequently he and Paddy Harmon had a business disagreement over the lease of the building for hockey games and Maj. McLaughlin severed connections with the organization to form connections with the Coliseum.

Last night Mr. Harmon said he hoped Maj. McLaughlin would take the chairmanship of the boxing board. "We disagreed on hockey, but I admire Maj. McLaughlin's ability, enthusiasm and interest in sport. The stadium folk would feel confidence in a boxing commission headed by him."

Resignations of Messrs. Prehn, Luzzo and Mann, the incumbent commissioners, had not been received by Gov. Emmerson yesterday but the trio said they had been mailed. The governor's request for the resignations set Aug. 10 as the expiration of their term in office.

Gov. Emmerson's Views.

Friends of Gov. Emmerson say that he is deeply concerned over the boxing situation. He is trying to find the highest type of sportsman to place in control of boxing and wrestling in the state. He has told confidants that he fears boxing is doomed in Illinois unless commissioners of great merit are named.

Walter M. George, secretary under the present régime, will resign along with his chiefs. Gov. Emmerson expects the new commission, it is said, to pick its own secretary.

Should Maj. McLaughlin head the boxing commission, Joe Farrell, publicity director for the Chicago Blackhawks and publicity chief for the Arlington Park track while Maj. McLaughlin was president, may get the boxing board secretaryship.

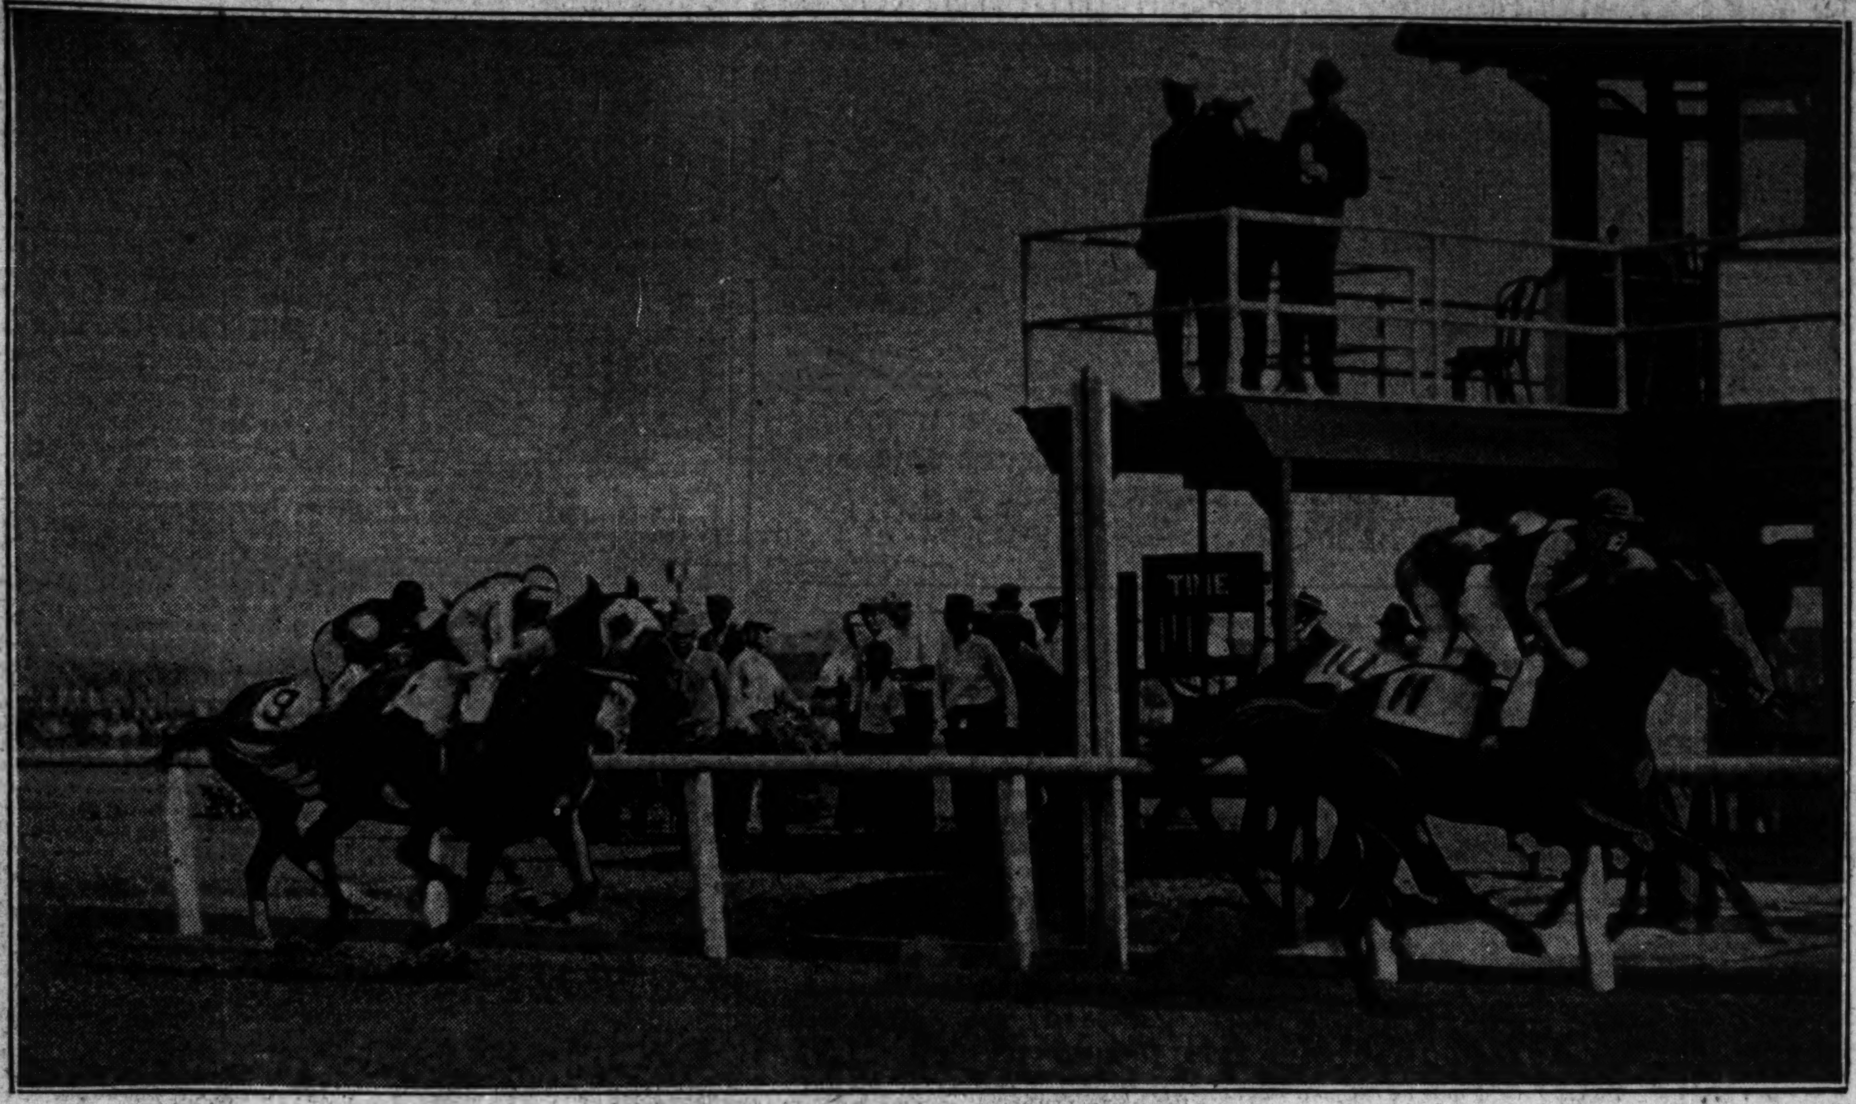
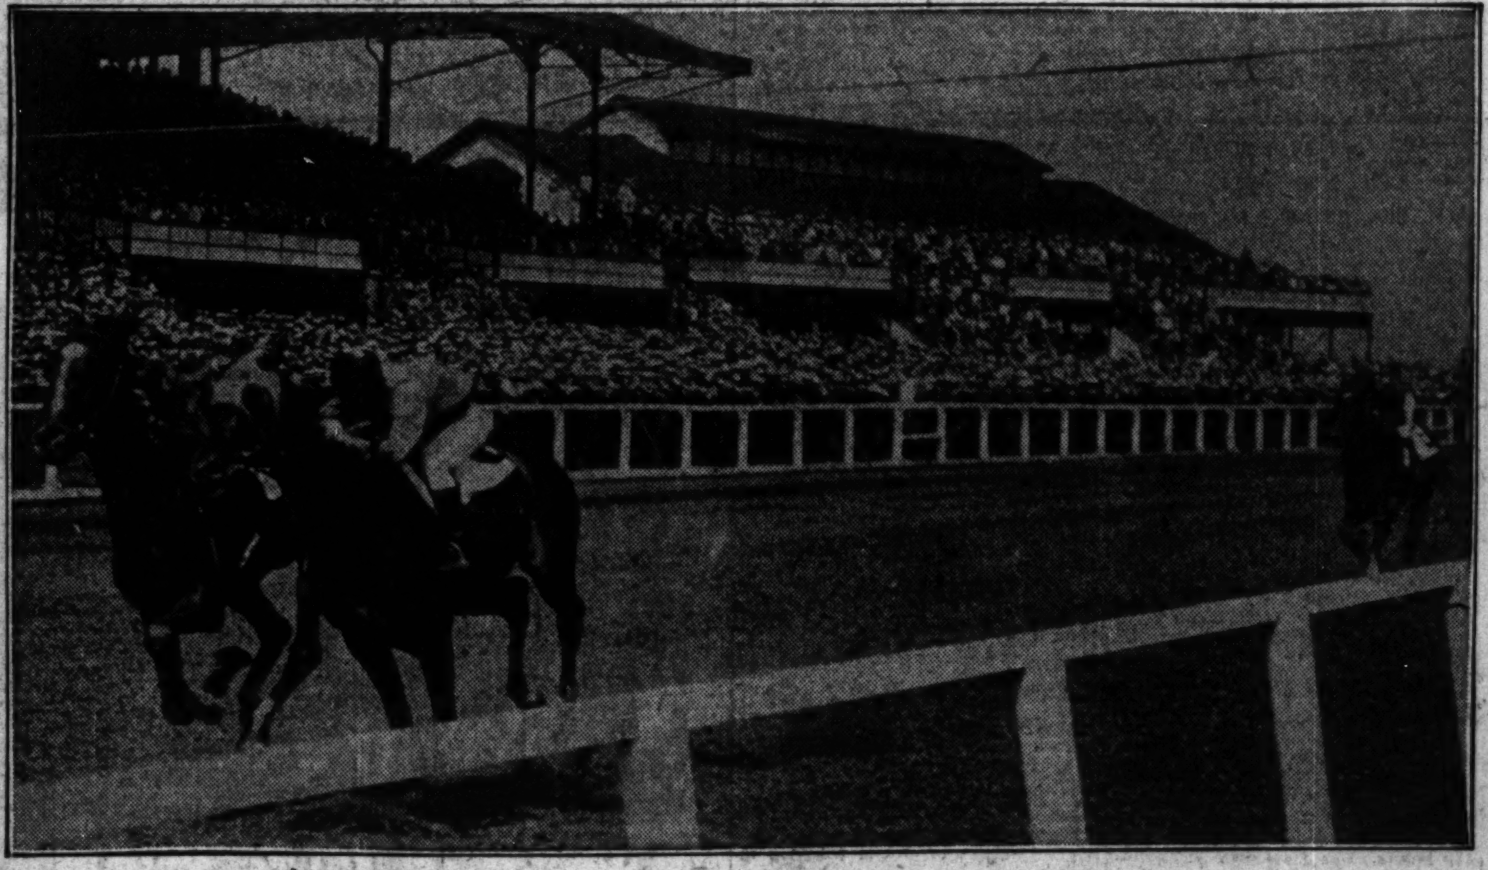
Outboard Motor Boats to Race Today Off No. Shore

The second annual outboard motor boat regatta, under the auspices of the North Shore Outboard Motor Boat club, will be held off the beach walk of the Edgewater Beach hotel this afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock. The program will consist of two 3 mile races in each of the classes B and C, and two 3 mile free-for-alls—a total of six events. Some of the fastest boats in Chicago waters will compete.

STABLE MATES SHARE CHEERS AS HAWTHORNE OPENS



My Dandy (No 11) outraces his stablemate, Brown Wisdom, to win the $5,000 Windy City handicap, which featured the opening of the summer season at Hawthorne yesterday. The pair entered by the Reichert brothers of Belleville, Ill., had the race to themselves, with Mei Foo, from the Rancocas stable, getting third place. Jockey Halbert sent My Dandy into the lead after a furlong and held the advantage by hard riding in the stretch. [TRIBUNE Photo.]



Twenty-five thousand jammed the old west side track yesterday filling the grandstand, clubhouse and lawns to capacity. The crowd came up cheering when Jockey Meyer rode Frances Milward (on the outside) to a nose victory in the Iroquois purse at a mile, the third race on the program. Grand Prince was second, with Islam third.

MyDandy Wins as Hawthorne Meeting Opens

Seven great sprint stars of the western turf clashed in the Windy City handicap worth $5,200 as the summer turf season opened at Hawthorne yesterday.

An Illinois entry—My Dandy and Brown Wisdom—hailing from Belleville and owned by the Reichert brothers, W. C and E. W. Reichert, finished first and second. Mei Foo, the lone easterner in the struggle, wound up third.

The crowd of 25,000 made the Illinois entry the favorite. My Dandy beat his stablemate, Brown Wisdom, by a neck, but from the way they were running at the windup it looked like Brown Wisdom might have won if Jockey Shropshire had desired to go ahead with the son of Brown Prince. But My Dandy already had the field conquered, so there was no need for Brown Wisdom, a marvelous stretch runner, to extend himself.

Misstep Is Scratched.

Old time Hawthorne patrons, who have been familiar with the course since Ed Corrigan built it 38 years ago, were surprised at the many improvements which have been made. It is still old Hawthorne but the place hardly looks the same.

The bad track condition caused such stars as Misstep, Flat Iron, Golden Prince, Silverdale, Wisdom, and T. S. Jordan to be scratched.

My Dandy took the lead after they had gone a furlong and with Jockey Halbert riding him hard he held it until he passed the line of finish a length in front of his stablemate, Brown Wisdom.

In the mutuels My Dandy paid $7.00 to win, $6.22 to place and $3.38 to show. Mei Foo's show price was $5.56. My Dandy ran the 6 furlongs in 1.13 4-5, three seconds off the record.

Ma Yerkes Fails.

Ma Yerkes cost the favorite players plenty when she failed to get any part of the money in the Hiawatha purse which came second on the program. She was the 1 to 3 choice but landed fourth. Honey Locust, a daughter of Light Brigade-Honey Dew, ridden by Heigle, turned up as the winner and she was a 12 to 1 shot. Jezebel, another long shot, was second, and Khara from the Rancocas stable third. Ma Yerkes after leading into the stretch folded up completely under C. Meyer's weak ride.

Meyer made amends for his bad ride on Ma Yerkes when he got the favorite Frances Milward, owned by Mrs. E. Denemark of Chicago, home a nose in front of Grand Prince in the Iroquois purse at a mile.

A long shot captured the Old Elm purse which was also at a mile when Calf Roper, from the Three D's stock farm stable, got up in the last strides and beat Herrick by a length. Calf Roper paid $24.36 in the mutuels and the son of High Time ran the mile over the difficult course in 1:46 2-5.

The Bahr starting gate which is being used by Starter Morrissey at Hawthorne came through its initial tests with a fine record. The fields in the last two events were sent out of it in perfect alignment and the huge device was moved off the track each time in less than 15 seconds.

Arlington Park Balances Books; $800,000 Profit

Twenty-nine days of racing at Arlington Park which ended last Friday showed a profit of more than $800,000. These figures were made public by officials of the American National Jockey club last night.

It is the largest earnings any race track in America ever showed for the same length of time.

The remarkable part about it is the American National Jockey club, comprising a group of rich Chicago sportsmen headed by John D. Hertz, O. W. Lehmann and Charles McCulloch, was organized to conduct racing on a nonprofit, sport for sport's sake policy.

Big Plans for 1930.

When the officials of the Jockey club yesterday became aware of the enormous profits rolled up at their first meeting they began to make plans for next season and last night announced the most ambitious program ever offered by any racing organization in America or Europe.

It calls for a distribution of $800,000 in stakes and purses. It is an addition of $200,000 to the money distributed during the season which has just closed.

Another $500,000 will be expended in improvements before the track opens next summer, it was announced.

Joe McLennan, the racing secretary, was authorized by the directorate yesterday to start preparing the rich program for 1930.

The Classic, carrying $60,000 in added money this year, and the Arlington handicap, with an endowment of $20,000, are both to be increased in value. There are reports that the Classic may be a $100,000 race when it is run next season, which will make it the outstanding 3 year old event run in the world. It will double in value the English Derby at Epsom, the Preakness in Maryland, the Belmont stakes in New York, and the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs. The Arlington handicap may be worth $50,000 when it is next run, which will make it the richest all age stake of the year decided in this country.

"It is no easy job to prepare a program that will carry $300,000 in added money to the stakes," Secretary McLennan said. "The amount is far in excess of that offered at Belmont and Saratoga or on any race course in Europe during a similar period. The stake program at Saratoga calls for $155,000. They race there throughout the month of August. The combined spring and fall meetings at Belmont, comprising 36 days of racing, offer an outlay in added money of $198,500. So it is easy to see where Chicago is going to become the hub of American racing affairs when Arlington stages its program next season."

New Stake for Fillies.

One new stake will be added to the eleven that made up this season's program. It will be a rich affair fashioned for 3 year old fillies and will be

Taylor Post Advances in Junior Legion Series

Coach Percy Moore's Taylor Post team entered the state sectional round for the American Legion national junior baseball championship yesterday by defeating Edison Park post, 13 to 2, at Boltonwood field, Evanston. Jones and Dion held the losers to three hits, the former allowing one and the latter two. Hope, with four hits, and Caslusta with three, headed the winners' attack.

IDEAL GOLF.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

George W. Thomas Jr., Flossmoor bantamweight, added another diamond studded gold medal to his collection of golf trophies yesterday by winning the 25th annual Chicago amateur championship at Jackson park. He defeated Ted Lloyd of Lincolnshire, 4 and 3, in the 36 hole final, which drew a gallery of 8,000 for the afternoon round.

Winning the last three holes of the first nine, Thomas took a lead that Lloyd was never able to overcome, though he rallied twice to cut "Shrimp's" lead to one. The climax came on the last hole, when Thomas was dormie four and Lloyd dropped a 45 foot putt in a desperate effort to keep the match alive but Thomas refused to miss his four footer.

Both Play Excellent Golf

Unlike many golf finals where the strain of nearing a championship makes for bad golf, yesterday's match was brilliant. Despite the fact the course is short 5,572 yards and some of the holes don't seem to be the full distance as given on the cards, the

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 3.—It is barely possible that worse games have been played in the major leagues than the one here this afternoon, but we are certain that no team in history ever before crowded as much clownishness into the first three innings of a regulation contest as did the Red Sox in the first stages of a 15 to 4 pummeling they took from the White Sox.

Think of it! Charley Comiskey's refugees were able to score 11 runs in three innings, nine of 'em in the third inning and all unearned. The onslaught included homers by Metzler and Reynolds and a circuit run by Cissell on a single which got past Rothrock.

Of course, the startling show of power on the part of our boys should be hailed as a hilarious event. But there is a menace involved, for such an outbreak is apt to cause one of those wild surges of optimism in the Wisconsin woods, leading Mr. Comiskey to assume he is the possessor of a major league outfit.

Five Funny Errors.

During these first three innings Charley Ruffing struck out six men, and it was quite well he did, for in the period his mates committed five errors of the most ludicrous type imaginable. In addition, Bill Barrett put on a couple of his famous loafing acts, a technique he long has practiced to avoid possibility of crashing the error column.

After Cissell had capped everything by making the trip around the bases on a single in the third Ruffing gave up. Lisenbee succeeded him. He granted a single and homer, then struck out Kamm to retire the side. Of the nine putouts up to this point seven were strikeouts. First Baseman Todt incidentally did not have a putout until he retired the 25th batsman. Metzler led the Sox attack with his homer, a double, and two singles in five times at bat. The Chicagoans made 19 hits in all.

The Great Shires made two singles during the third inning mêlée, which served to sweeten his disposition a bit after a stormy morning.

The Great Shires arose to find all the Boston papers carrying poses of himself in various moods, one even giving a half page. He was rejoicing about this when he received a letter from Commissioner Landis turning down his claim for $4,125 of his purchase price.

Blackburne Gets an Idea.

"Looks to me like the Jedge ran into his office between a couple of rounds of golf to give my appeal weighty consideration," the Great Shires moaned. "When the golf season is over I'm going to appeal again."

After the game at Braves field here tomorrow the Sox will leave on a three day exhibition trip, the first stop of which is Montreal. Although Manager Blackburne trusts his boys implicitly, he has purchased a bolt of white ribbon and has asked each of his players to wear a little bow on his lapel in token of the pledge that he will not partake of the milk of the wild cow during the Canadian invasion. Lena thought up the idea himself and spiritedly denies any tampering on the part of the W. C. T. U.

Megaphoned announcement that the White Sox and the Red Sox would play tomorrow, made right after the terrible third inning, caused an unusual demonstration among the 7,500 persons who paid money to get in. The razz was so bitter that police were detailed to protect the announcer, a poor fellow who was only carrying out orders.

No complications were encountered by the pace setting Cubs yesterday in their effort to fatten up on the Robins. The possible, also probable, champions simply laid down a barrage in the opening inning and kept it up until they had collected a rather tedious decision that sent a good portion of 22,000 spectators homeward before the final play. The score was 12 to 2 and as the second place Pirates were kept indoors by rain, McCarthy's club now leads the pennant parade by six games.

HAL CARLSON.

While the Cubs were engaged in the job of rolling up fifteen assorted taps against three members of Uncle Robby's somewhat shaky hurling staff, Hal Carlson was giving a demonstration sufficiently convincing to answer the purpose. He gave up a run on a couple of hits in the first inning but his mates promptly put him back in front and he remained there, the while encountering nothing worse than a homer by Babe Herman.

Doug Ordered from Game.

Not having any choice in the matter, Uncle Robby opened the struggle with Doug McWeeny in charge of the pitching but the Chicago boy was never anything better than a liability. They plunked him for two runs in the first round, two in the third, two more in the fourth and one in the fifth, at which point Ump McLaughlin did what Uncle Robby should have done. The portly ump told McWeeny to leave because the hurler offended his dignity by tossing the rosin bag in the air as a protest against the judgment being rendered on balls and strikes. McWeeny's successors were no better.

Although the entire Cub lineup cut in on the free for all clouting, Kiki Cuyler excelled in results. He drove in a run on a fly in the opening inning. He knocked over another with a single in the third. He drove in two more with a hit in the fourth and subsequently scored twice himself on passes off Ray Moss and Luther Roy. Taylor almost equalled Cuyler's performance by driving in three men and counting once himself.

Frederick Beats Out Bunt.

Carlson was attacked for a run in the opening inning because he wasn't prepared to have the Robins resort to tricks so early in the battle. Frederick laid down a bunt along the first base line and before Carlson recovered from his surprise the runner was at first base. Hendrick lined a two bagger into the open space between Wilson and Stephenson, putting Frederick on third. The two runners remained at their posts while Herman was grounding out to Grimm. Wilson hustled far into right center for a fly off Bissonette's bat, Frederick scoring and Hendrick going to third after the catch. Gilbert popped to Grimm for the third out.

In the Cubs' initial attack McWeeny wasn't exactly certain as to the location of the plate, and in the course of his search he gave up two passes that became runs. McMillan and English drew the tickets. Hornsby tried to sacrifice, but fanned. Wilson crashed a single past Rhiel at second, scoring McMillan and planting English on third. Cuyler slapped a sacrifice fly to right, English hustling home after the catch. Stephenson then got a single on a popup lost by Rhiel in the sun, but beyond a laugh the incident was worth nothing because Grimm grounded out.

Cuyler Steals Second.

Hornsby and Wilson broke loose in the third and this paved the path to the second pair of runs. The rajah led off with a single past third. Wilson hit the right field screen close to the flag pole, but was able to make only one base on it because Hornsby had to wait to determine whether Herman would stagger into the catch. Cuyler drove a cannon ball at Rhiel and the ball squirted off the fielder's hoof for a single, Hornsby going home and Wilson to third. Wilson hiked over the plate on Stephenson's sacrifice fly to Herman. Then Grimm drew a pass after Cuyler had registered his twenty-eighth steal of the season, but neither Taylor nor Carlson could prolong the sport.

Two more tallies in the fourth were started on their way by singles off the bats of McMillan and English. Both walloped safely through short. Hornsby nudged them along with a bunt. Wilson bounced to Gilbert and after considerable skirmishing on the line McMillan was nipped. English got to third and Wilson to second on the play. Cuyler clouted a single through Bancroft's territory, sending the two runners across. Cuyler took second on the throw-in and Stephneson left him there. This much put the Cubs out in front, 6 to 1.

Carlson had a trace of trouble in the fifth and another Robin run was the outcome. The first two batters were unseated whereupon the socking Herman hoisted the ball clear over the right field bleachers for his sixteenth homer of the season. This was followed by a pass to Bissonette and a single by Gilbert, but Carlson managed to nail the next batter. The Robins were guilty of only two singles after this. The Cubs retrieved this run in their half on doubles by Taylor and McMillan. It was just after McMillan's smash that Ump. McLaughlin relieved McWeeny of additional work and Moss was summoned.

Cubs Make Two More.

Three hits and a couple of passes assisted the Cubs to three runs in the sixth. Hornsby took the initiative by doubling to center. Wilson would have had a hit if Rhiel hadn't leaped high for a one handed stab. Then Cuyler and Stephenson walked, filling the bases. This brought Moss' exit. Roy appeared and Grimm looped a single over short, scoring Hornsby. Taylor singled to right, sending Cuyler and Stephenson over the counter.

Two runs in the eighth, which made it a dozen for the Cubs, grew from passes to Cuyler and Stephenson. On Grimm's fly to deep center Cuyler took third. He scored while Rhiel was throwing out Taylor. After Stephenson had gone to third on a wild pitch, Carlson drove him home with a single. That completed the scoring for the day.

McCarthy has Blake, Root, and Malone available for today so can take his pick from whomever looks best, but it probably will be Root.

CUBS ASSEMBLE WINNING TEAM AT SMALL COST

Hornsby Most Expensive Item for Wrigley.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Putting together the present Cub machine, an article that bids fair to become the National league's next world's series entry, was a slow process, but not an unusually expensive one.

WILLIAM WRIGLEY.

Because the William Wrigley bank roll is behind the team and because in a few instances no hesitancy has been displayed in buying when the market offered something unusual, the idea prevails that Chicago's pennant, if it gets it, will be about the most expensive bit of bunting any major league team ever has flown from its center field staff.

The men now carrying the load for McCarthy represent an expenditure of approximately $300,000, and if the actual figures could be compared with Connie Mack's spending in the last eight years, it probably would be found that the Athletics were the more costly of the two.

Hornsby Most Costly Item.

The most costly item on the Cubs' books is Rogers Hornsby, who escaped from the trials of the Boston Braves when the Chicago club turned over five players and a satchel laden with currency. The cash added to what had been spent to get the players sent to the Braves would make a matter of a bit better than $200,000. This was easily the biggest deal ever turned in big league circles and is not likely to be duplicated. Even Mr. Ruth cost Col. Ruppert only $130,000.

A sensible magnate derives more delight from a bargain than from free spending, so there are several reasons why Wrigley and his baseball lieutenants should feel satisfied with their business ability.

Guy Bush, now the ranking hurler of the National league, was picked up for a mere pittance from an obscure league down south. There was no particular reason for buying him except that a scout liked the pitching style of the lad.

Hack Wilson a "Theft."

Home Run Hack Wilson was a "theft." The Giants sent him to Toledo under option because he had slumped in his hitting. McGraw intended to recall him, but through a clerical error the option was not exercised. McCarthy had just been signed that fall to manage the Cubs the following season and when he learned of the New York blunder he advised President Veeck to put in a claim. Veeck did and when the draft slips were pulled the Cubs got him for $5,000. McGraw still groans whenever Wilson's name is mentioned and you can't blame him.

Riggs Stephenson, whom many pitchers rate the toughest batter in the league to fool in a pinch, was purchased from Indianapolis for around $12,000. Root was a $10,000 item when purchased from Los Angeles. Blake cost about the same in a deal with the Portland club.

Heathcote Obtained in Trade.

Heathcote was taken from St. Louis in a trade for Max Flack, long since retired. Flack was thrown in when the Chicago Feds were taken over by the National league. McMillan, now doing a steady piece of work at third base, was captured for the draft price from the association.

Even the price on Cuyler wasn't high. The men given to Pittsburgh in exchange for him represented only $20,000 or so. Hal Carlson was bought from the Phillies for $20,000 in cash and a couple players who represented a previous outlay of only a few thousands. The Grimm deal worked out so that his cost was around $35,000.

English and Malone weren't quite so cheap. It took $30,000 to fetch English from Toledo. It took the same amount to move Malone out of Minneapolis. Any minor league club that could duplicate them tomorrow could get $100,000 for each from a half dozen major owners and no questions asked.

YACHT'S STRING OF 11 VICTORIES COMES TO AN END

Green Lake, Wis., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The charm that carried Leonard Ellwood, Lake Geneva yachtsman, first across the finish line in his last eleven races was broken today when his sloop Siss II. was outmaneuvered at the last buoy of the six mile triangular course by the Delavan lake yacht Gale, piloted by W. G. Nye Jr.

The Lake Geneva boat, off to a flying start, led the field of twenty around the first lap and up to the five mile point, but the Gale, which had won second place in three of the previous events, held on. Both boats nearly capsized in make the last turn, but the skippers, stripped to the waist and drenched with spray, clung to the keels.

Nye was second in points won. Third place in today's events, as well as in the regatta, went to H. T. Lundahl of Pistakee Bay, pilot of the Skipaway.

GOLF AND OTHER THINGS.

FRIEND DON: Now that Arlington Park has closed, Don, what do you say we have a little golf and get started again that "Conversational Foursome" which was so much fun last year? Of course, I never expected to play again, but I sorta miss the foursome and Bob's consoling [?] "nicely in" when I reach a trap, or your "It's too bad, but that's the kind you usually miss" as I am stroking to make a 3 foot putt, and you're right. And I miss those friendly warnings of "You're slicing today, there's trees to the right," or "Better play the ball in the air" on Glen View's frequent water holes.

As a matter of fact, Don, I became so accustomed to conversation while shooting and putting that I don't seem able to play without it. That's probably what's the matter with my game this year.

There's another reason, too. The senior little Wake challenged me the other day and brought me in 1 down. She's been playing for six weeks, and I've been playing o. and o. for 24 years—o. and o. meaning off and on, off the course and on the bum. So I have challenged for a return match and asked Frank Williams at Skokie what he can do for my game.

Frank says he can take off 10 strokes. That isn't enough, but I'll let him try. I might take off 10 strokes myself if I didn't want to "peek" all the time. As I've frequently told you, I play scientific golf, using my head. I use it to look up with. Well, anyway, let's have a "Conversational Foursome" match, say tomorrow.

Don't think, Don, I've quit the horses. Not at all. But I feel I've done my patriotic duty for the immediate future. If this country ever has another war and lacks horses for cavalry remounts, it won't be because I haven't contributed liberally to the improvement of the breed of thoroughbreds for cavalry remounts. Uncle Sam can't pin any slacker charges on me, no sir. Hope to see you Monday. Regards. Harvey T. Woodruff.

P. S.—Don't tell any one, but a good friend just told me that Associated Blight and Sour, now 36, will sell at 175 before Sept. 1. I may buy some, but in this kind of a market I like those that really move and you get some action. I hate to tie up any money for nearly four weeks for only 139 points. Use your own judgment. His information generally is good.

Old Lazy Day.

Old Lazy Day awakes and yawns . . .
You know . . . old Lazy Summer Day . . .
Picks up his stick and ambles on,
Looking for shade trees on the way.

The blue and gold are on the green,
The blackbird sits with spot of fire
Upon each wing where willows lean
And catbird warbles in the briar.

The possum slumbers in the crotch,
A haze is on the hills and ranges,
And summer drowses on the watch,
Lulled by the hum of ceaseless changes.

Old Lazy Day, still yawning, goes
Over the hill, where sunset lingers,
And twilight softly comes to close
Night's curtains with her shadow fingers.

Wilson, Cardinal catcher, also was sent to the showers.

Andy High was shifted to second base when Frankie Frisch reported sick. Johnny Butler went to third for the Cards. Lester Bell dropped a home run into the right field stands in the fifth with none on. Score:

Hand of the Law Is About to Land on Mr. Pyle Again

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Deputy Labor Commissioner M. E. Richardson today instructed the city prosecutor to issue a warrant for the arrest of C. C. Pyle, promotor of the Transcontinental Bunion Derby. Pyle failed to pay $1,000 toward claims for wages made against him by entertainers and patrolmen who accompanied the runners on the long trek from New York to Los Angeles.

When the promoter appeared at the labor commission office he was greeted by a milling crowd of claimants, including many of the runners, who were to have participated in the $60,000 prizes.

Richardson spoke to Pyle alone and a moment later told newspapermen, "It is no use. Pyle said he didn't have a thin dime. I informed him, therefore, I will ask for his arrest the first thing Monday morning."

Tuesday Pyle sent from Santa Rosa, Calif., $500 to be applied on claims allowed by the commission which totaled $1,500. At the same time Jim Thorpe, noted Indian athlete, filed an additional claim for $1,000.

MYERS DEFEATS JOE WRIGHT FOR SCULLING TITLE

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The sturdy oarsmen which Philadelphia sent here to participate in the National Rowing association's 57th regatta, completed their triumph over the best blades in the United States and Canada by winning six of today's eight championship events. They captured five victories yesterday, giving them 12 of the 15 titles at stake in the two day competition.

The greatest individual honor went to Kenneth Myers of the Bachelors' Barge club, who became the national single sculls champion by defeating Joe Wright, crack of Canada, last year's winner of the famous Diamond sculls, by a length over the curved mile and a quarter course on the Connecticut river. Russell Codman of the Union Boat club of Boston, was the other starter. This classic was closed to all but winners of the National Rowing association's single sculls race. Codman trailed Wright by eight lengths. Myers' time was 8 minutes 18 4-5 seconds, an exceptional performance against a stiff head wind.

The sweeps from the banks of the Schuylkill were victorious in the other important event, the senior eight oared shells, which was won by the Penn Athletic Club Rowing association's eight against five rival crews. The Penn oarsmen had a two lengths' lead crossing the line after fighting off a marvelous spurt which the Springfield Rowing association's crew made as its belated bid for victory.

ATHLETICS TIE BROWNS IN 8TH; THEN RAIN FALLS

Haas' Triple, Simmons' Single Avert Loss.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The first game of today's double header between the St. Louis Browns and the first place Athletics was called on account of rain at the end of the eighth inning with the score 8 to 8. After a wait of 20 minutes it was decided to postpone the day's activities.

A crowd of 25,000 sat through eight rainy innings to watch the A's overtake the Browns, who in the first inning pounded Lefty Grove from the mound. The Macks finally tied the score in the eighth on Haas' triple and Al Simmons' fourth blow, a single to center.

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The brilliant turf career of Blue Larkspur, champion of the three-year-olds, received a setback today with the announcement that the great son of Black Servant-Blossom Time from the E. R. Bradley stable had pulled a tendon in a workout yesterday at Saratoga.

He was to go after his fifth win of the season today in the Miller stakes as a warmup for the more important engagement to follow Aug. 17 in the Travers midsummer derby, when he would have again met the best of his age. After pulling up lame, following a stiff workout, his trainers announced that it was doubtful if the pride of Kentucky would be in shape to race again this year.

Caruso Beats Gallant Fox.

The running of the United States hotel stakes—the first of the rich events for juveniles at the Spa—saw W. R. Coe's Caruso reverse the decision of the opening day, when he was beaten by Gallant Fox in the flash.

Picking up 12 pounds the Coe colt stood a long drive gamely to win by a length and a half from Gallant Fox. Hi-Jack, George D. Wideners, promising youngster, finished third, same as in the flash. Caruso stepped the six furlongs in 1:12 to put $14,000 into the pocketbook of his Wall street owner.

Garners Win Three.

The Garner family just about monopolized riding honors at the fashionable New York track, Uncle Mack being astride two winners and nephew Willie up on a like number. Willie sent Marine home first in the Miller stakes with Frisius second, both were added to the list of starters after Blue Larkspur was scratched.

BETTING MACHINE DEALS BLOW TO ENGLISH BOOKIES

LONDON, Aug. 3.—English bookmakers were dealt a staggering blow by a totalizator today when the machine paid the highest price yet recorded since its inception. Eighteen persons who had bet on Scotch Lament in Swale Dale plate at Catterick, received odds of 338¾ to 1, while the bookies only paid 20. Place price was 55.

Although this record price was paid the winner, a higher price was paid to place at Newmarket on July 4, when 273¾ went to the lucky backers of Gashmu.

But England is still a long way below what is claimed as the world record for note prices, which is 12,000 to 1, paid at Shanghai in June to the only better who backed Robledon. He bet $1.25 and received $15,000.

Arlington's Profit Placed at $800,000

patterned after the American Coaching club Oaks at Belmont and the historic Epsom Oaks in England. It will rival the Classic in value and eventually will be made the greatest contest in the country for 3 year old fillies, Executive Director Roy D. Carruthers declared.

According to the program on which Secretary McLennan is laboring for next July's meeting an average of $20,000 will be distributed among the horsemen each day of the meeting. When this amount is prorated for the seven races on each program it can be seen that each race will have an average value of $2,890.

While the Arlington improvements will entail a vast outlay of money, no definite plan has been announced. It is known that the mutuel department is to be enlarged 50 per cent, the restaurants will be moved to a more convenient location for patrons, and the landscape gardeners have already begun work which will beautify the entire property. Their first work will be to plant several thousand trees over the property and fill the infield with flowers and shrubbery surrounding a lake which will be located directly across the track from the stand and clubhouse.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Walter Hagen and Horton Smith combined their efforts for a better ball of 68 to defeat Brad Oxnard, former state amateur champion, and Eddie Meyers, local professional, 4 and 3 in an exhibition match at the Metacomet Golf club this afternoon. One of the largest galleries in the history of Rhode Island golf followed the foursome.

Hagen's par-equaling 37 carried the invaders over the first nine all even and then Smith took up his share of the burden with a 35 for the homeward stretch. The British open champion was approximately 73 while the young Missourian, as a result of an erratic first nine, was 77. It marked their 24th victory in 27 matches, having lost but one and tied two.

INVITATION NET TOURNEY OPENS AT EASTHAMPTON

Easthampton, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Disturbed by rain and lacking its stellar attraction, Helen Wills, the annual women's invitation tennis tournament of the Maidstone club today concluded the entire first round and most of the second round matches.

Four of the eight seeded stars went out of the first day's play, two by default and two by unexpected defeats. Mrs. Molla D. Mallory of New York, head of the seeded contingent, was forced to withdraw because of an injured knee, while Marjorie Morrill, young Dedham, Mass., star was unable to appear because of the conflict between today's match here and the final at Seabright.

COLT DEDICATE PROMISING HORSE, TURFMEN BELIEVE

$200,000 Wouldn't Buy Him, Says Owner.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Unless he has deceived many wise western horsemen, Dedicate, the 2 year old son of Dodge-On Time, owned by the Everglade stable, is going to be in the limelight for the next couple of years.

FRED A. BURTON.

"Two hundred thousand dollars wouldn't buy him," Fred A. Burton of Chicago, who with John Ward of Louisville, maintains the Everglade stables, told me when asked about the rumors that the colt had been sold to Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago.

"I think he will win $200,000 in purses within one year from today," Mr. Burton added. "And don't be surprised if the Hopeful stakes, Futurity, the Jockey Club stakes are at his mercy.

Burton Usually Conservative.

"Yes, I've heard of Mr. Whitney's great colt Boojum and have also been reading about two or three other flyers from down east, but we are not going to dodge the issue with them and have sent Dedicate to Saratoga to continue his campaign for the championship."

Mr. Burton is usually conservative when speaking of his race horses. He has owned some good ones, including Wise Counsellor. But it is evident he is enthusiastic about this fast stepping brown colt from the Blue Grass country which has won his last three starts in a sensational way on Chicago tracks. "We missed in the Derby with Wise Counsellor, but watch this fellow Dedicate make amends for whatever happened to Wise Counsellor," Mr. Burton declared.

Chicagoans are particularly jubilant over the fact that another potential champion is budding in its midst just at a time when the turf sport has reached its highest peak of popularity. If Dedicate continues to run as he did in his three starts at Arlington, he no doubt will become a great idol.

Good Breeding Lines.

There is everything in Dedicate's breeding lines to make him a good colt. His sire, Dodge, was one of the great performers of his day, winning the Latonia Derby, Maryland handicap, Prince George handicap, Saranac and Quickstep stakes. Dodge's sire was Jim Gaffney, and Dodge is a grandson of the great English horse, Bend Or. Flora Willoughby, the dam of Dodge, also carried famous English blood lines. Ten Broeck, Petrarch and famous Old Lexington are members of the family.

The Dodge side of Dedicate's house is an outbreeding line while the family of Uptime is noted for its inbreeding. On Time is a daughter of High Time, and High Time was the son of Ultimus-Noonday. Domino was the grandsire of Ultimus on both sides of his house and there is a double cross of Himyar on both sides of Domino's house.

Dedicate seems to have all the speed of the High time family. This speed line crossed with the staying qualities of Dodge should turn out just the kind of a horse Dedicate promises to be.

With only four starts under his belt, Dedicate hasn't accomplished anything near enough to be proclaimed as a champion. He didn't even hook up with the best western 2 year olds. But he showed a turn of speed that tied the Arlington record without being urged at any time.

Mitzi Sails to Victory in 9 Mile R Class Yacht Race

Chicago yachts resumed club course class racing at Belmont harbor yesterday after a two week vacation while the bigger speedsters monopolized local interest in the Chicago to Mackinac island race. Seven members of the "R" class opened the second series for the 1929 season, and Frank Merkle's Mitzi, which had been dogged by misfortune during the early season contests, came into her own and took a handy first over the field.

Mitzi's time for the 9 mile triangular course was 2:52:04, in a frisky northeast breeze. Bill Faurot's Fantome was a minute and thirty-two seconds behind in second place, while Hollis Potter's Calypso, trailed in third place by two minutes. Nancy, Jonnie, Varya, and Guerrilla followed in order.

George Davis' Orn Wins.

The Chicago Yacht club's three "Eagle" boats turned out for the weekly scrap which went to George Davis' Orn, with an elapsed time of 3:11:27. A. R. Metz's Altair was second, while Bob Haynie's Falcon, the third of the trio, withdrew before the race closed.

The two thirty foot Seawanhaka sloops fought the closest battle, when sixteen seconds separated the winner, Gus Nylund's Springtime, and Phil Orton's Invader. The times, 3:04:35 and 3:04:51 respectively, were slow as compared with the performance of the Universal design "Rs," which approximate the thirty foot Seawanhaka sloops in size.

In the "pup" class, Wakefield's Ri Ri covered a four and one-half mile triangle in 1:49:42 to lead a field of three starters home. Wagtail and Trix finished second and third.

Jackson, Columbia Idle.

The Jackson Park and Columbia Yacht clubs had no races yesterday, and the former club will not resume club course racing for another week, when most of its speedsters will have returned from their two weeks' sojourn in Saugatuck, Mich., where they have been lying since the Chicago to Saugatuck race. Columbia Yacht club will open the latter part of its racing season with its annual Navy pier regatta on Aug. 24. Summaries:

PARE AND MERCUR MEET IN MICHIGAN NET FINAL TODAY

Chicagoan Defeats Vines in Semi-Final.

Holly, Mich., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Emmet Pare of Chicago, national clay court champion, meets Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., seventh ranking star in the country, for the Michigan state singles championship tomorrow afternoon at the Holly Valley Country club. Pare got even with Ellsworth Vines, 18 year old Pasadena youth, for a defeat that the Californian handed him in the western championship recently, winning 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Rain postponed the match twice, but play went on, though the court was a bit heavy. The hard hitting Vines, who smashed practically every ball at top speed with a zipping eastern stroke on both forehand and backhand, had a lead of 5-3 in the third set but Pare rallied and took four straight games for the set.

Then again in the fourth set Vines went ahead at 4-2, but Pare broke out again and ran four games to cinch the match. Vines controlled the play with his terrific drives with Pare smacking them back steadily, relying more on Vines' errors than his own placements for points. Vines and Keith Gledhill, his California teammate, meet the winners of the Mercur, Shields-Jennings, Chaffee match in the finals of the doubles play, immediately after the singles.

Helen Jacobs Romps to Net Title in East

Seabright, N. J., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Playing on a rain drenched court, Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., won the women's singles in the annual Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket club tournament today. She outclassed Miss Edith Cross of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-2.

A gallery of slightly more than 200, including Gov. Morgan F. Larson of New Jersey, looked on as Miss Jacobs, the country's second ranking player, successfully defended her Seabright laurels won last year.

From the outset it was evident that Miss Cross, No. 3 in the national ranking, had little chance against the well placed driving and fine volleying of Miss Jacobs. Miss Cross was able to win only three scattered games, the same number collected by Miss Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., in the semi-final and by Miss Marjorie Gladman of Santa Monica, Cal., in the third round.

The rain drowned out the men's double final, which was postponed until tomorrow, with the youthful team of Berkeley Bell of Austin, Tex., and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., leading the old Davis Cup combination of Richard H. Williams, Philadelphia, and Watson Washburn, New York, 7-5, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1.

In the mixed doubles final contested later in the day when the weather had improved, Bell and Marjorie Morrill defeated Miss Clara Zinke, Cincinnati, and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., 6-4, 7-5.

GEORGE THOMAS BEATS LLOYD FOR CITY GOLF TITLE

golf of both was excellent. Six drive and chip holes, where birdies come easy, are somewhat counteracted by three par 3s of 216 to 242 yards

Thomas was 2 under par for the 33 holes played, while Big Ted Lloyd was 2 over. Incidentally Thomas, who was medalist with 71—67—138, was under 70 in all save two rounds through the week. Yesterday he did 35—33—68, even par, in the morning, and was 2 under par for the 14 holes in the afternoon. Lloyd had 35—35—70 in the morning's round and was even par in the afternoon.

Thomas was hitting tremendous drives for a chap of so little bulk on the holes where friendly adjoining fairways give the chap who drives wild a shot for the green, but he eased up to a shorter but deadly straight ball on the narrower fairways, where bushes and out of bounds are the borders. Both were putting well on fairly good greens.

For the most part yesterday the boundaries were lanes of humans, for the match started with a gallery of a couple of thousand, that gradually grew until fully 8,000 lined the fairways at the finish. That gallery is one of the features of a Jackson park final—it's the one golf gallery which has motorcycle cops to herd it. And despite some rather brusque marshals it was unusually well behaved, though occasionally a bit collegiate in cheering a good shot by a favorite.

Lloyd Wins First Hole.

Lloyd's par won the first hole when Thomas over-approached, chipped back to 3 feet, and missed the putt. Lloyd pulled to the rough on his first two shots, while Thomas was weak with his second, but chipped to six inches of the pin. Lloyd was stymied, and in an effort to putt around George's ball nearly knocked it into the cup and didn't get down, squaring the match.

Thomas nearly drove the third green, which the card calls 296 yards, and chipped up for a birdie and a win.

They halved the fourth in birdie 3s, Lloyd sinking a 12 foot putt, while Thomas had approached to a couple of feet and rapped it down. Lloyd squared the match on the fifth, as Thomas played a wide second, and after a good chip missed a short putt.

The big fellow went 1 up for the first and last time on the sixth. Both drove to the edge of the bushes and Lloyd got the better chip and dropped an 8 foot putt for his 3. But Thomas won the next three holes. He sank an 8 foot putt for a birdie on the 7th after Lloyd had played an approach through the trees, pitched to two feet of the pin on the short 8th, and got his deuce. Lloyd drove out of bounds on the ninth, so Thomas won with a par and stood 2 up.

Halve Three Holes.

They halved the next three holes in par, though Thomas had to sink sizeable putts on the tenth and eleventh. Ted ran down a ten footer for a 2 and win on the 13th, as Thomas was two inches short on a 20 footer. Thomas pushed his drive and hit a tree with his second on the long 14th, while Lloyd's second found the rough, but both got on in 3. Thomas barely missed a fifty foot putt, but Lloyd ran his approach putt 3 feet past the pin and lost the hole by missig the wee one. That left Thomas 2 up, and they halved the remaining four holes of the round in 4s.

The 18th was a circus shot hole, Thomas pulling his tee shot back of a tree and a roll of hose. The hose was removed, but Thomas had to lean around the tree to play the shot, and the finish came when Thomas' pitch laid Lloyd a dead stymie. He played it with a niblic and hopped the ball but missed the cup.

They halved the first hole in the afternoon in par and Lloyd ran down a 30 foot putt to win the 20th with a birdie and cut his deficit to 1 down. But Thomas immediately tossed two birdies back at him and won the next two holes. He drove the green on the 21st, that 296 yard hole, and was hole high to the left of the pin on the 22d, which is 308 yards according to the card. He approached to 15 feet and holed the putt.

They halved the 23d in one over par, both playing short seconds and Thomas went 4 up on the next hole when Ted missed a four foot putt. The 25th was halved in fours and Lloyd won the next two holes when Thomas slipped. George 3 putted the 26th, was short with his second and strong with his chip on the 27th.

Lloyd Saves Himself.

Starting the last nine 2 down, Lloyd saved himself a half by playing a fine short push shot between two trees after driving to the adjoining fairway and holing a 3 foot putt. Thomas had driven to eight feet of the pin, but his putt for a 2 hopped and stopped on the lip. They halved the 29th in par and Thomas again went 3 up on the 30th. Both were barely short of the green and both chipped close, but Lloyd missed his four footer and Thomas sank one a foot shorter.

The 31st was halved in par and Thomas became dormie 4 with a birdie on the only par 5 hole on the course. Lloyd sliced to a down hill in the rough and was out short and was still short of the green in 3. He chipped close after Thomas had sliced to the 15th fairway near the green and pitched to 15 feet.

"Shrimp" dropped his putt for a 4 and a win. Lloyd topped his second on the last hole while Thomas also was short. Ted was still short with his third, but on the green and Thomas ran up to 3 feet of the cup. Then Lloyd smacked his 45 footer into the back of the cup, but Thomas dropped his short one for a half and the match.

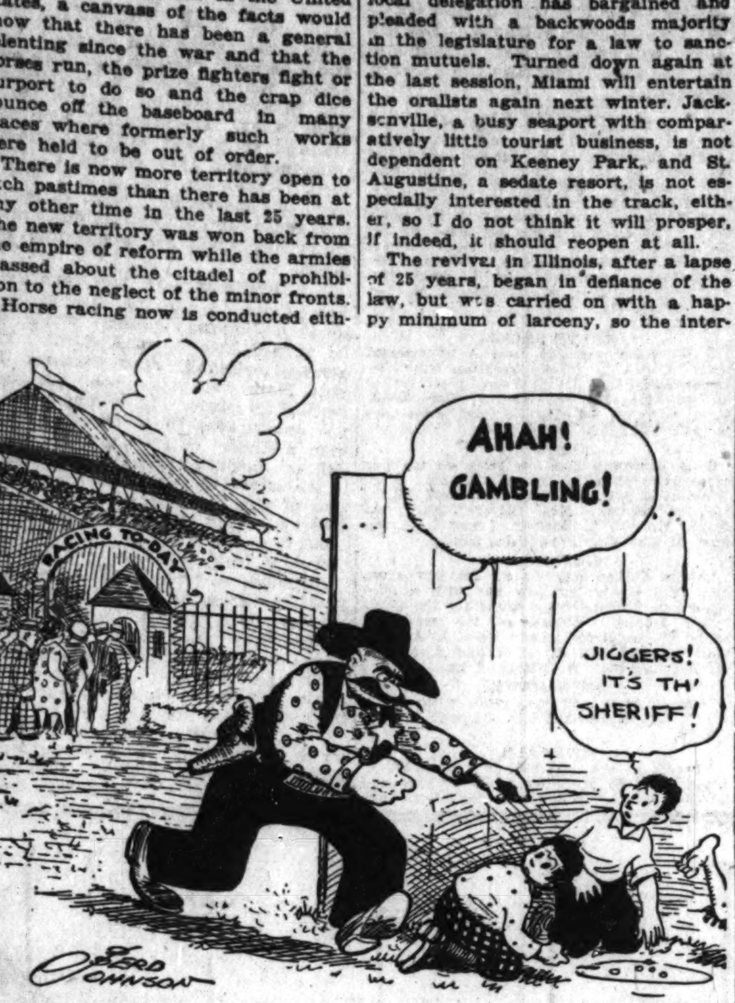
NOBODY'S BUSINESS

by Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—For all the complaining against laws that restrict the innocent pleasures and amiable vices of the sporty element in the United States, a canvass of the facts would show that there has been a general relenting since the war and that the horses run, the prize fighters fight or purport to do so and the crap dice bounce off the baseboard in many places where formerly such works were held to be out of order.

There is now more territory open to such pastimes than there has been at any other time in the last 25 years. The new territory was won back from the empire of reform while the armies massed about the citadel of prohibition to the neglect of the minor fronts.

Horse racing now is conducted either by legal sanction or local toleration, sometimes under court injunction setting aside the laws, in New York, Saratoga, Baltimore, Louisville, Lexington, Latonia, New Orleans, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Miami, Jacksonville, East St. Louis, Butte and Reno. Barring unexpected writs, there will be a horse meeting in Tulsa the first ever held in Oklahoma. W. T. Waggoner, a Texan with superflous money, has invited horsemen to ship steeds to a private track between Fort Worth and Dallas, intending to run a season of races, not without a mild form of gambling. Of course, the entailment of the jockeys would necessitate some arrangement, not to say the abandonment of his plans, but all such plans are subject to change without notice or very stout resistance, anyway.



RACING TO-DAY
AHAH! GAMBLING!
JIGGERS! IT'S TH' SHERIFF!

Horse racing is now conducted either by legal sanction or local toleration.

Strange That Texas Frowns on Horses.

It seems strange that Texas, which was the wildest American frontier within the memory of living men, should have come to regard horse running as an immoral device, but the pioneers were zealots in loose conduct, and their descendants took up morality with the same enthusiasm. Consequently, even poker, the national game of the Lone Star republic, is a statutory sin there now.

At the end of the war, there was little territory in the United States in which racing was acknowledged by law. The strong points were Maryland, Kentucky, and New York, and the game prospered in New Orleans, although its legal status with regard to gambling was not secure. In most of the development since then, the promoters have taken their chances. They noted a new sporty tendency of the town bloods in various cities and usually found the small merchants and innkeepers disposed to be helpful. Even in Columbus, O., capital of the Anti-Saloon league, a suburban stubble field was fenced in and a band of promoters ran a season of races, sleeping with their clothes on, of course, and ready to go down the fire escapes or make bail, if any one roused the law.

Cleveland has had three tracks. One was abandoned, but two have continued to operate, strictly outside the law but with the connivance of the constables who may think they have a mandate from the people. Florida has had four tracks. The law forbids betting, but at the height of the boom Hialeah at Miami and Tampa Downs on the west coast carried on under a synthetic pari-mutuel plan while the courts snoozed over the legal distinction between tweedledum and tweedle-dee. When the extravagant spending waned, the courts discovered that the law forbade synthetic mutuels, too, so both tracks closed.

Pompano Track Expensive Monument to Optimism.

In the meantime, a large track was built at Pompano, on the Miami side of the state. This one has been a complete disaster to date, having been completed about the time the boomers pulled out and the court ruled against the betting. It still stands, an expensive monument to optimism. The fourth one is Keeney Park, between Jacksonville and St. Augustine, which opened last spring. At Miami last winter oral bookmakers were on the premises to gratify the speculative enthusiasm of the customers, and the same system was used at Keeney Park, implying an obvious arrangement between the promoters and the local officers. It was not a convenient way of betting, but Miami had to have horse races, and gambling is essential to the improvement of the breed.

The city depends entirely on the pleasure traffic for its living, and the local delegation has bargained and pleaded with a backwoods majority in the legislature for a law to sanction mutuels. Turned down again at the last session, Miami will entertain the oralists again next winter. Jacksonville, a busy seaport with comparatively little tourist business, is not dependent on Keeney Park, and St. Augustine, a sedate resort, is not especially interested in the track, either, so I do not think it will prosper, if indeed, it should reopen at all.

The revival in Illinois, after a lapse of 25 years, began in defiance of the law, but was carried on with a happy minimum of larceny, so the interest of the customers was aroused while the resentment of the reformers wasted itself in futile complaints. When the customers were stimulated, some of the influential citizens decided that horse racing was not necessarily vicious, and the legislature legalized the game once more, creating the greatest racing center in America in Chicago.

At the close of the war prize fighting was illegal in New York, Illinois and several other states which now permit fighting, waltzing, and diving. Wisconsin and Minnesota had boxing commissions and Philadelphia tolerated six-rounders. New Jersey stood for illegal eight round bouts, and there were minor centers where the boys could fight quietly at various distances up to ten rounds, generally under police supervision or the surveillance of local commissions composed of poolroom politicians.

Flag Waving Helps New York Get Boxing.

There had been much boxing in the army and navy, however, and by dint of some flag waving, the promoters lobbied through a 15 round decision law in New York. New Jersey also appointed a commission and raised the limit first to 10 and then to 15 rounds, and Pennsylvania's limit was increased to ten. The no decision territory shrunk so that now there are few boxing towns in which decisions still are forbidden. In some states, the law gives the American Legion or the National Guard technical status as fight promoters. As a rule these bouts are run by professional promoters and the business in most instances reflects no credit on the Legion or the National Guard. Illinois sanctioned ten round fights under a commission, after a long and by no means reassuring spell of illegal prize fighting, intended to demonstrate that the game was now noble and sanitary.

The expansion of the horse racing territory has been seriously embarrassed at all times by the racketeers who conduct greyhound tracks with pari-mutuel gambling. This is a larcenous activity, and the high rate of profit enables the promoters to lobby aggressively in the legislatures when horse racing bills are up for consideration. The Florida legislature, for instance, lost any sympathy that it may have felt for Miami's petition when it was found impossible to discriminate between horses and dogs. A dog racing plant is inexpensive, and an enterprising gang of racketeers can clean up and move out with a profit, abandoning the plant if necessary after one season.

The New Jersey law against horse racing is the strongest in the country and was used as a model for similar statutes in several other states. Several years ago Tex Rickard went to Trenton with an attorney to study the law, hoping to find some flaw. He wanted to run a dog track. Halfway through their study Tex put on his hat, lit a cigar and said to his lawyer, "Let's get the next train back to New York. That law has more teeth than a shark."

Roulette, faro, and craps are common pleasures of the sporty summer and winter resorts north and south and of big cities in the north, New York, strangely enough, excepted, although gambling houses are accessible in the suburbs. Altogether, the armies of folly have advanced to a great depth on a long front. Prohibition, the reformers' Verdun, holds out, but the nut cracker has broken the line on both sides in a kind of enveloping movement.

Mandell Gets $42,800 for Title Fight

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Sammy Mandell, who successfully defended his lightweight title against Tony Canzoneri of New York at the Chicago Stadium last Friday night, received $42,800 as his end of the purse. He was guaranteed 40 per cent of the net receipts which amounted to $107,000, according to John Bing, assistant secretary of the boxing commission. Canzoneri, who took down 20 per cent of the net, was given $21,400. The commission share was $13,700 and the gross receipts were $137,000. The paid attendance exceeded 19,000.

It was the general opinion yesterday that Mandell won the fight handily despite the difference of the rulings between the judges and the referee. The judges, Ed Klein and Phil Collins, awarded the verdict to Mandell while Referee Dave Barry cast his vote in favor of Canzoneri. Although the challenger took the first two rounds by wide margins, Mandell was master of the situation in the closing session. The champion's left hand was always keeping the challenger at a safe distance and he landed the scoring punches from the second round until the finish.

Mandell, however, was not the champion of other years. He missed repeatedly with left and right hooks but blamed the judgment to his long lay-off. It was Sammy's first championship fight in over a year and there was not the snap to his punches that there has been in other fights.

Canzoneri was lauded by Chicago fans for his game uphill fight. It was admitted Tony had everything to win and nothing to lose and for this reason the Italian let go with both hands at all times. When the final round ended, Canzoneri was fighting just as strong as the champion and honors were even in the final session.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only reasonable charges for handling and for financing when the Time Payment Plan is used.

Faster because Pontiac offers the highest top speed and the fastest acceleration to be found in any low-priced six, as proved by the "fifth wheel"—the most accurate speed measuring device known to automotive engineers.

Easier to drive because Pontiac includes easy-acting steering wheel, clutch and gear-shift lever—driver's seat adjustable as you drive—foot-controlled headlights—automatic temperature control with no hand-controlled radiator shutters or heat indicator to watch.

More economical because Pontiac, according to the records of a big public utilities company which operated 996 automobiles of 33 different makes during 1928, costs one cent per mile less to operate than any other low-priced six.

Safer because Pontiac has two completely independent braking systems—hardwood and steel body construction—full tread axles, front and rear.

Smoother because Pontiac design employs the Harmonic Balancer which eliminates torsional crankshaft vibration . . . a sturdy short-stroke crankshaft . . . airplane type interchangeable main bearings . . . special expansion-type piston pins which assure quiet operation over a long period . . . full pressure oiling to all main and connecting rod bearings.

TRUE TEST, THESE CHOICE 18 HOLES OF CHICAGOLAND

Water, Doglegs All Included in Course.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

This choice of eighteen fine golf holes from the Chicago district, to be fitted together into a paper layout as a truly great golf course, began as an attempt to pick an All-Chicago course. It isn't, nor can any be chosen, as a reporter soon learned in talking with golf architects, professionals and expert amateurs.

In the Chicago district are 189 golf courses or approximately 3,600 golf holes. No man knows all of them—it would take a whole season merely to play them—and to pick eighteen, or one hole from each 200, would be a hopeless [and thankless] task. There are too many good golf holes and no two men could agree on any selection. So this "perfect course" can only be offered as a selection of eighteen fine golf holes, which, if they would be gathered together to form the course outlined, would be a great test of championship golf.

Doubtless there will be many golfers in reading this list, who will protest immediately, "Our seventh [or ninth, or fifteenth] is a far better golf hole than such and such a one," or he'll object that some hole selected is a "terrible golf hole." A really first class golf hole is almost invariably loved or hated. Some cynic suggested it depended on whether or not the hole suited the individual's game.

Hardly any one would criticize the choice of Flossmoor's seventeenth, with its tee overlooking a small valley and its green perched on the other side. As a championship test it is practically perfect as the great golfer always has his chance for a four, while the slightly less skillful must work for his five. The second, the ninth at Bob O'Link, a dog leg to the left with trees guarding the tee shot and preventing the long hitter from taking any liberties in a short cut, gives the long iron player a chance to score.

Glen View's seventeenth, as the third hole, is a drive into a valley with an exacting pitch as a second shot. The fourth hole chosen is the second on A. D. Lasker's private course. The hole demands a fine tee shot over a huge cop bunker, nearly 200 yards from the tee, which opens up the green for the second shot, or if the player elects to play it safe to the left of the trap, his second must be a perfect quick-stopping shot over a trap at the left of the green. Probably this is the finest "pyschology hole" of them all, for from the tee the golfer sees eight wide bunkers which seem to "fill the fairway" and brink a tendency to tighten up and "steer" one's drive.

The twelfth at Shore Acres is a beautiful little pitch from a plateau tee down to a green in a nest of trees. The third on the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields is famous and possibly even a better golf hole than the famed fourteenth. The tee shot is over a hill into a valley and the second an exacting iron to a small green in a clump of trees.

Hole Defies a Two.

The eighteenth at Beverly goes through woods for half its length. It has almost the shape of an "S" and it almost defies any golfer to "get home in two," a fault of many par five holes in that birdies are too easy. The third at the Chicago Golf club, a long one shotter, is made even longer by a swale in front of the green, while the traps at each side warn against hitting a shot off line. The seventh at Briergate, a fine par four, completes the first nine with a stiff par four. It is a dog leg to the left with a line of trees at the right, yet it requires a long tee shot to the right of the fairway to open up the green for a long second.

Lake on Corner Troublesome.

The thirteenth at Butterfield starts with woods on the left and ends in the open, a dog leg to the left, but a lake on the "corner" makes it dangerous to cut the inside too fine. And if it isn't cut fine, the second shot becomes that much longer. The sixteenth at Exmoor, a long par four, has woods on the right and traps on the left with a well guarded green, yet fair for a long second.

BEVERLY.

G. B. Buthill won the day's laurels with a low net of 80—8—72. Walter Butler, 83—8—75, tied J. A. Middleton Jr., 84—9—75, for second and J. A. Mudd Jr., 79—3—76, and [illegible] Stevenson, 80—4—76, ended in a tie for third.

HOW CHICAGO GOLFERS FARED AGAINST PAR

J. A. GRIFFIS of Lake Forest shot 80—83—163 to win low gross at Bonnie Brook's third annual invitational golf tournament known as "Bonnie's Buddie Day." Griffis was trailed by Yatz White of Glen Flora with 87—82—169, and Dick Skaer of Evanston, 85—84—169. White won on the draw for the second low gross award. Low net for the 36 holes went to V. R. McDonald of Bonnie Brook with 201—60—141. Frank Mueller of Medinah was next with 208—60—148.

Ever Popular Quail to Get Illinois' Help

BY BOB BECKER.

No native game bird in the central states is more popular than the quail or Bob White. This is true in Illinois and in most sections of the Mississippi valley. Therefore, Illinois farmers and sportsmen will welcome the announcement that Ralph F. Bradford, director of the Illinois department of conservation, gave us regarding the progress of his department in raising quail for restocking purposes.

Mr. Bradford said his department was about to acquire 300 acres of land in Jefferson county which will be turned into a quail farm. This acreage originally was southern Illinois farm land but has not been worked recently. It is the plan of the department to follow the "Coleman method" of raising quail which will be released throughout the state in an effort to replenish the population of this popular game bird. According to Mr. Bradford's statement, 1936 will see a quail crop on this new bird farm.

Although eastern states have made great progress in restocking empty coverts with the output of quail farms, they have found that unless agriculturists leave some cover on their lands it does no good to release quail. The birds cannot live on bare land and good wishes.

They must have patches of weeds, fence corners with wild grape vines, wild sunflowers, sumac, hazel nut brush, and other similar vegetation.

The Great Shires has another selling point now—a .326 batting average that makes him the leading hitter of the struggling White Sox. Only two other Hose players have made enough hits to get higher than .300, Carl Reynolds and Johnny Watwood.

Jimmy Foxx continues to be the American league's leading hitter, batting at a .388 clip. Emil Yde, Detroit pitcher, actually is first, with .429, but he has been at bat only 28 times.

Mount Sterling, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The harness racing season will open here Tuesday and will continue four days under the auspices of the Brown County Racing association.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question H. Kent, 177 Fifth street, Dundee, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

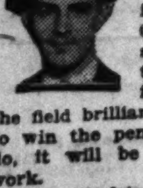
What player do you think has contributed most to the Cubs' success this season?

The Answers.

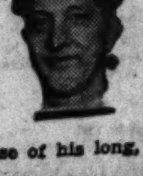
George R. Fitzmaurice, 127 North Dearborn street, attorney—Hack Wilson. He has won many games for the Cubs by making home runs when they were needed. Many of these homers have come with men on the bases. Hack always is trying and his presence seems to drive his teammates to greater deeds. Without Wilson the Cubs would not be leading the league.

Joseph Danda, 1358 Komensky avenue, weatherstrips—I'd say Cuyler. Of course, he was out of the game for a while on account of an injury, but he has contributed a lot of help, especially with his base stealing and throwing ability. Cuyler has been hitting well and has driven in his share of runs.

Louis Moser, 4522 North Central Park avenue, accountant—Hack Wilson, because of his progressive spirit and all around playing. He has not had any batting slumps and he has been in virtually every game. He is a first class fielder as well as batter. He has helped to build up a championship team.



Irving Rubin, 3114 Waveland avenue, paper boxes—So far as I know, Hack Wilson is entitled to the honor of contributing the most to the Cubs' success this season. His timely hitting has been a big factor and his work in the field brilliant. I expect the Cubs to win the pennant, and when they do, it will be because of Wilson's work.



A. F. Carlston, 1929 Argyle street, inspector—Hack Wilson has done the most, but his battling coworkers can't be overlooked, either. Bush, Malone, English, Hornsby, and Stephenson all have been a tremendous help. Wilson is my choice because of his long, timely hits.

Novotny and Starks Reach Golf Final

Grand Haven, Mich., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Gus Novotny, Chicago, today disposed of C. Farley of Grand Rapids and F. Justin, Chicago, by decisive matches in the second day of play in the twelfth annual resorters' tournament at Spring Lake, Mich. He will meet F. F. Starks, Louisville champion, in the final 36 hole tomorrow. He will play off with H. Goodspeed, Grand Rapids, for the low medal also.

Curtis Wolfolk present cup holder was nosed into the consolations and then was defeated in the second round by B. Bissinette, Grand Rapids. Novotny, finalist here several years, is the favorite to win the cup. Justin made the outside nine in 33, three under par today. Illinois juniors were defeated.

HOW THE CUBS ARE FIELDING

IN ADDITION to leading the National league pennant parade, the Cubs are the best fielding aggregation in their circuit. Principal contributors to the high team fielding average of .975 are Capt. Charley Grimm, who is topping the regulars with a .993 percentage, and Cliff Heathcote, who hasn't erred in 97 chances in the outfield.

Pitchers Hold Key to Winning Ways, It Seems

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 3.—Major league pitchers should be able to laugh and laugh in case any employers sniff at their importance, come contract-signing time.

We're talking about what the Philadelphia clubs are proving anent the importance of pitching. When the Philadelphia Nationals tumbled into the cellar several days ago, their batting average was the same to the point as the Philadelphia Americans, who on that day were leading their league by 10½ games over their closest contender, the Yanks.

Here was a club in eighth place with a batting mark of .309. Furthermore, the same club was (and is) leading the league in home runs, principally because of the terrific conduct of Chuck Klein, Lefty O'Doul, and Don Hurst.

The Athletics have a trio that will rank with the Phillies' three stars, but Foxx has not been able to get his batting mark much higher than O'Doul's, while Cochrane and Simmons haven't done so well with homers as have Klein and Hurst.

So what's the answer? Pitchers, and little else. The Phillies have one pitcher with better than a .500 mark—Claude Willoughby. The others, save Benge on exceptional occasions, are most pitiable. On the other hand, Connie Mack has three men who probably will have the coveted 20 victories within the next few weeks. Grove and Walberg have a chance to hang up won and lost records that will go in books as the most impressive in the history of baseball. Earnshaw has been a big winner, but also has lost a few more games than Mack's two co-stars.

Of course, there are other examples of good clubs which are being wrecked by poor pitching though the instances aren't quite so striking as the Philadelphia contrast.

WHEN the new Viking was introduced, experienced motor car critics—editors of leading automotive publications—were uniformly enthusiastic about its appearance, its engineering, and the extraordinary value it offers at medium price.

To quote from Motor: "After more than three years of development, the Olds Motor Works announces the Viking, a V-eight which represents excellent value at $1595. The word 'excellent' is used advisedly. At first glance it might be taken for a $2500 car; a little more careful consideration of all the factors involved might suggest a price of $2000; while the actual list of $1595 is a tribute to modern engineering and production methods."

According to Automobile Topics: "The name 'Viking' is freighted with valorous tradition, and few cars have come forth under as auspicious circumstances, or revealed more sturdy and bold character. Its refreshing originality, especially in respect to the power plant, should command wide attention."

And Motor West adds: "With these characteristics of expensive automobiles, the price of the Viking is as sensational as are its advanced engineering design and distinctive appearance."

Now, the public has had an opportunity to appraise the Viking—and public opinion is in thorough accord with the critical judgment of these automotive experts.

Every day, the Viking is winning new admirers—by the tailored beauty and luxury of its Bodies by Fisher—by the superb performance of its 90-degree V-type eight-cylinder engine—by its restful riding comfort and uncanny roadability—and, most of all, by its extraordinary value.

The Viking is a trimly-tailored car with fleet, low lines, graceful body contours, and sparkling color combinations—combining up-to-the-minute smartness and distinguished beauty.

The interiors of the new Viking are roomy, comfortable, and luxuriously furnished. The rich upholsteries are fitted with glove-like smoothness. Hardware and appointments are in excellent taste. Supplementing the restful comfort of the wide, deep-cushioned seats are special alloy-steel springs, controlled by four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers.

No less luxurious is the outstanding performance of the new Viking 81-horsepower 90-degree V-eight engine. The Viking engine is exceptionally simple, rigid, accessible, and compact—and embodies such advancements as horizontal valves operated from a single camshaft, and a new downdraft manifolding method of fuel distribution. The new Viking provides far greater speed than the average motorist requires. Its response to the throttle is remarkable, both in getaway from a standing start and in acceleration at the higher speeds. And throughout the entire speed range, its mighty power is delivered smoothly and quietly in a constant, effortless flow.

Come and see the new Viking. Inspect, in detail, its many outstanding features. Drive it yourself and experience the luxury of its brilliant V-eight performance. Know to your own complete satisfaction the qualities which have brought such sincere and enthusiastic praise from automotive critics and the public alike.

MOTORS — TRAFFIC — HIGHWAYS

GOVERNOR'S ROAD STILL USELESS AS THOROUGHFARE

But Autoists Can Get Some Use of It.

BY HAL FOUST.

Governor's highway, the $2,000,000 four lane pavement linking Kankakee with a corn field on the southern border of Cook county, will soon be given a minor degree of utility. It has stood since completion last year as a monument to the traffic engineering of the former state administration, serving little more than local residents of the sparsely settled district it traverses.

State and county have been busy this summer, trying to convert the highway to usefulness. The result has left a queer picture. In the area north of the road's present terminus, the densely populated fringe of the metropolis, we will soon find twenty foot off shoots from the forty foot trunk from the farm land. For the scheme to be sound it would be necessary to believe that there is less traffic in the city than in the country.

Farmers Circle Barrier.

Nevertheless, these off shoots are going to be of some benefit and this story is written so the motoring public, which has few additional reasons for using the superhighway, can find where its $2,000,000 was spent.

Driving north last week on the Governor's highway, route 49, the occasional car was stopped on the edge of the small village of Richton by a barricade bearing a state highway sign, "road closed, violators subject to arrest." Most of the cars, owned by farmers along the road who were familiar with the situation, ignored the warning and circled the barrier, using the unpaved half of the right of way to the north a half mile or so to the narrow and none to smooth Sauk Trail.

The infrequent non-resident of the district turned his machine about and eased southward looking for a detour. A half mile back on the pavement he had covered, he found what he had overlooked while driving fast, a small sign near the ground on the west side of the road.

The Old Sauk Trail.

The detour sign pointed to a dirt road, muddy in wet weather. Without any further directing signs, the stranger follows the better used of the unimproved trails and, if he hasn't made a mistake, arrives at the narrow old pavement of Sauk Trail. There he must rely upon intuition to tell him to turn eastward until he reaches the Dixie highway. Going westward, the Sauk road is dirt east of the tiny village but it finally hits the new twenty foot concrete of Cicero avenue, a passageway to the north.

The well informed motorist turns off the Governor's highway to the narrow Cicero avenue before reaching the present end of the pavement. But there is no sign there to mark this route to the north.

The Governor's highway was built without providing for an entrance to the city. Those who promoted the project still describe it as the main route to Springfield and St. Louis, but a count of cars and a glance at the map show that the route through Joliet and Bloomington is the more logical, since it has less mileage and serves a heavier population. But the state has left the short route with narrow pavement while the 40 feet of concrete was being poured between Kankakee and a Cook county corn field.

Avoid Dirt Detour.

When Richton was visited last week by the writer, twenty feet of pavement had been laid between the present barrier and the Sauk Trail so, with this open, cars will be able to avoid the dirt detour, but they won't be anywhere nor will they be able to get anywhere conveniently when they're in the village of Richton.

The country also has laid some new concrete out of the village that is soon to be opened. It is a twenty foot pavement, just east of the proposed route for Governor's highway, leading north to the Lincoln highway.

GAS TAX TO MAKE ILLINOIS' ROADS NATION'S FINEST

Fifty-five million dollars' worth of what he terms "gasoline tax road refinement" will place Illinois at the head of the national motor transportation list, according to C. H. Bliss, Nash official, who views the new state motor levy in the light of a final improvement purchase on the part of Illinois car drivers.

Following the action of the Cook county board in voting a part of its tax returns to the proposed west side elevated highway in Chicago, he predicted that motorists of the state may expect one of the most progressive highway modernizing campaigns on record as a result of the new revenue source.

"Illinois has a splendid road system—one of the best so far developed in the country," he said. "What it now needs most is pavement widening in highway terminals, highway elevation at danger spots, and improved routes through cities to eliminate costly traffic congestion. It is toward this end that the gasoline tax money should be spent, and a study of the situation should convince the automobile industry and the public generally that the revenue must be spent for these purposes if full justice is to be done the automobile owners, who are contributing all of the revenue."

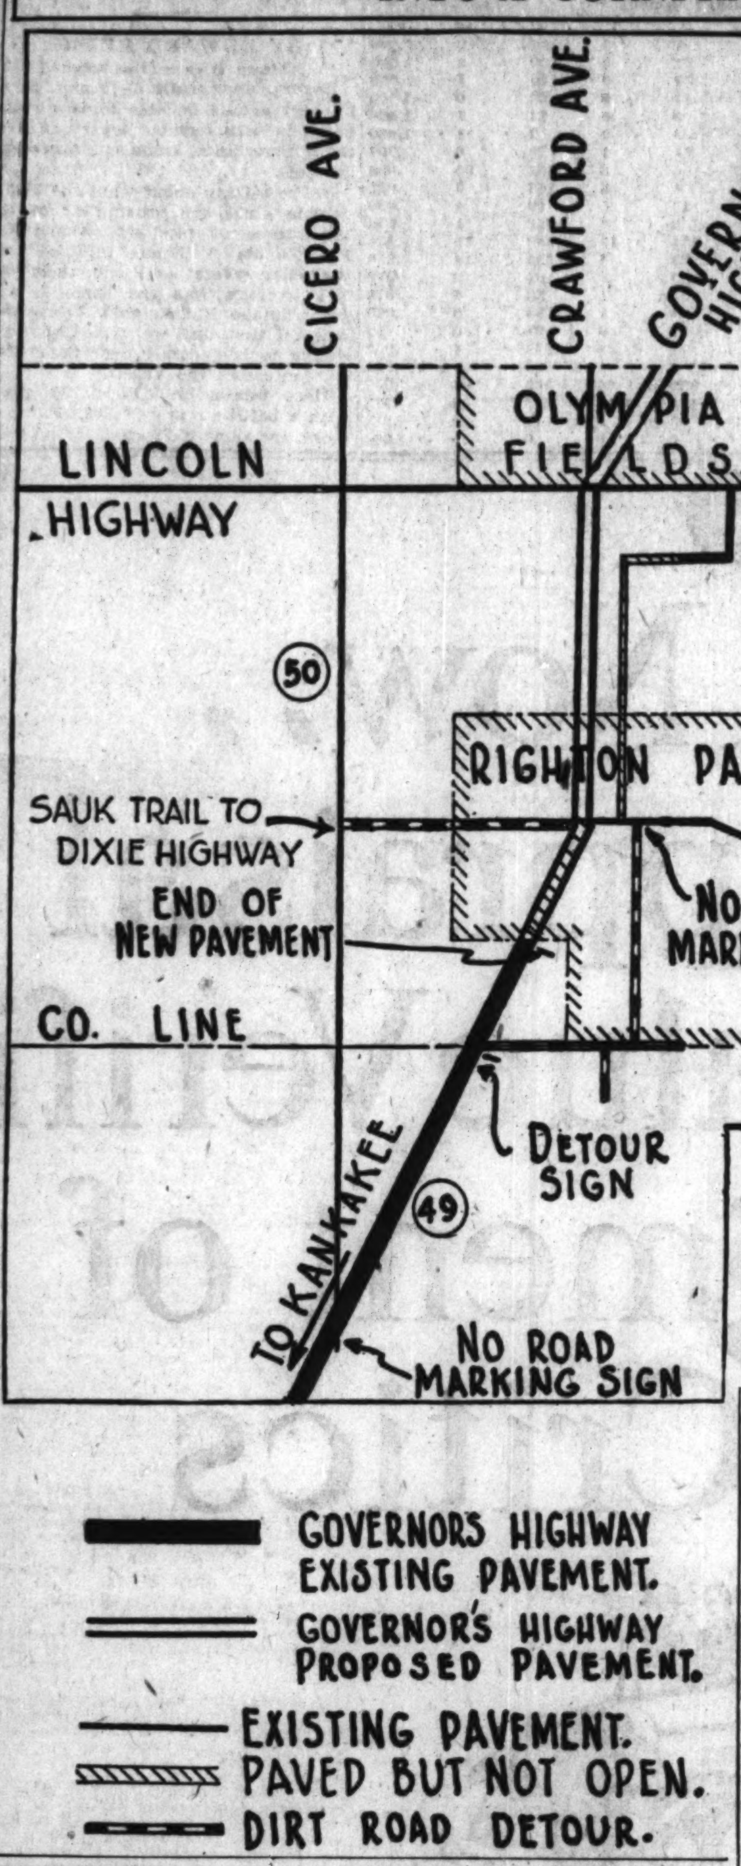
Last year tire manufacturers in the United States made nearly 60,000,000 casings, valued, wholesale, at more than $670,000,000, or retail at more than $1,000,000,000. Since tests show variations in tire mileage as high as 40 per cent, the needless waste can be conservatively estimated in the hundreds of millions. Observance by all drivers of a few simple rules of tire care would reduce the waste to a minimum.

INTO A CORNFIELD



This map shows the $2,000,000 forty foot pavement which runs from Kankakee to a cornfield near Chicago. At present motorists adventurous enough to attempt to find it can make connections by way of Cicero avenue, but plans are under way to make it more accessible to Chicago drivers.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

MEETS OAK PARK SPEED COP.

Chicago, July 24.—Recently, while driving down Harlem avenue, Oak Park, at 27 miles an hour, Sergt. Nestor gave me a ticket for speeding, charging me with 35 miles an hour. I saw him following me for three blocks through the rear mirror. I looked at my speedometer and thought he must be following some one else.

In court, with a hundred other speeders, I was fined $10. I also want you to know that I was courteous to the sergeant so that was no "reason."

RALPH J. WARDEN.

MORE KICKS ABOUT MILLER, IND.

Chicago, July 22.—About four or five years ago, you people were good enough to publish a letter I sent you, complaining about traffic conditions on River road—in which I offered the suggestion that traffic be allowed to go for about three to five minutes steadily in one direction—as a relief to the congestion that was making driving hard work instead of a pleasure.

Recently, in spite of warnings, I drove in from Michigan on Dunes Highway Sunday and was held up for over 90 minutes just before Miller, Ind. When I reached Miller I found the usual small town officials allowing a few cars to go one way and then stopping traffic to allow a few cars to run the other way. The wast of time was prodigious.

A. A. STEINBERG.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

Chicago, July 24.—Another life has been taken and another dozen badly injured at Montrose and Sacramento avenue this year. It won't be the last one, for a stop sign is still badly needed.

MAXIM S. SCHNEIDERMAN, D. D. S.

[Editor's note: Seven months ago the Voice of Traffic published a letter from Dr. Schneiderman reading, "Stop! Let's start the new year right. Two people were killed and over a dozen badly injured at Montrose and Sacramento avenues this year. A stop sign is badly wanted at this corner."]

SIGNS FOR TWO LANE HOGS.

Wilmette, July 20.—While the subject of reducing motor accidents is uppermost in the minds of the authorities, will you kindly suggest that noticeable signs be placed along such broad highways as McCormick boulevard and Waukegan road to the effect that cars use one lane.

I have occasion to use McCormick boulevard very often and, without exception, half a dozen or more drivers straddle the marking line. They are absolutely deaf to the horn and look amused or idiotic if you succeed in taking a chance and pass them.

EMILY C. WYLE.

COLLEGIATE FLIVVER STOLEN.

Chicago, July 21.—I am writing in the hope that you may be able to help me locate my car which was stolen on July 20 from 63d street at University avenue. The car is a Ford coupe, 1927 model, license No. 1,134,668; the color is maroon with black fenders. There is a University of Chicago sticker on the wind shield, although of course this was probably removed immediately the car was stolen.

Being an old model, and in none too good condition, the car would have very little resale value. But it is of such great value to me that I am most anxious to recover it. In order to regain my health it is necessary for me to get all the fresh air possible and as it is impossible for me to do much walking, this car was my only means of being in the open.

The police were, of course, notified immediately and are no doubt doing what they can to recover the car. But I thought perhaps you might be able to help me, too. If it isn't asking too much of you will you please do what you can?

CHARLOTTE WATKINS.

WHERE ARE THE INSPECTORS?

Chicago, July 26.—I, as a humble citizen and mere motorist, paying my $10 annual political contribution in the form of a city vehicle tax, and other sundry taxes, and seeing it "sunk without trace," beg to inquire whether there is such a thing as bureau of streets, signs, etc.?

As a suggestion for a subject of his spection if it does not involve too long a trip from the city hall, may I nominate Oakley boulevard to the division of streets, signs, etc., if there is such a division.

Going north in Oakley boulevard at the North avenue intersection was formerly a sign that said, "Boulevard ends here." It was originally gold on black. It is now unreadable. Furthermore it has been broken in half. Not seeing this sign one day and thinking I had the right of way crossing North avenue, I nearly had a collision. I received plenty of "looks" from the motorist whose carefulness avoided a wreck.

Multiply this condition by the total number of streets in Chicago and to be fair, divide by two, and you will get some idea of the efficiency of our money spending army of inspectors.

G. H. P.

BERWYN AVENUE "PAVEMENT."

Chicago, July 26.—In last Sunday's TRIBUNE appeared an article, said to be a statement by Ald. Curtis F. Mellin, that Berwyn avenue, between Clark street and Ashland avenue, had been widened and paved last week. I wish Mr. Mellin would combine a joy ride and an inspection trip through said street before making any such statements.

No work has been started, although funds have been provided through special assessments, and buildings have been torn down to make the widening possible. This was done about two years ago.

Not only is paving of Berwyn avenue between Clark and Ashland very much needed but also the remaining stretch of said street all the way through to the railroad tracks is in such condition that motorists will soon have to drive on the sidewalks as driving on the so-called pavement is too dangerous to both the cars and their occupants.

GUNNAR.

STOP SIGN MAY BE ANSWER.

Chicago, July 23.—After a nearly disastrous collision at Racine and Newport avenues I was told by residents of the vicinity that Racine is used like a boulevard, with traffic moving 35 or 40 miles an hour. Won't the city give us a chance for our lives? Either control the speed of traffic on such streets or make them through streets with stop lights to warn us.

CARL FLODIN.

WISCONSIN IN DEADLOCK OVER GAS TAX BILL

Governor and Assembly Both Stand Pat.

Gov. Kohler has declared that he will not sign any measure providing for an increase from the present 2 cent tax unless the bill calls for the expenditure of the additional revenue upon through state, hard surfaced highways. The assembly recently gave preliminary approval to a 3 cent gas bill proposing to use the added revenue on local roads rather than through routes.

Unless either the governor or the assembly recedes from the position it is unlikely that any change in the fuel levy will be made at this session of the legislature. But the controversy remains active.

Commission Needs Funds.

Gov. Kohler has indicated he would approve the Blanchard-Duncan bill, which calls for a 3 cent gasoline tax and repeals the personal property tax on automobiles. If this bill is passed and the governor is also given the kind of 3 cent highway construction bill that he approves, the state gasoline tax will be increased from 2 to 4 cents.

The governor looks upon the Duncan-Blanchard bill not as a highway construction act and not as a tax increasing measure, but simply as legislation substituting an extra 1 cent fuel levy for the personal property tax on automobiles.

The newly created highway commission has inadequate funds to carry out the comprehensive program for statewide highways contemplated by the governor, he says.

Numerous Gaps in Pavement.

"The southeastern part of the state is reasonably well supplied with hard surfaced main roads, although there still are numerous gaps," Gov. Kohler was quoted by the Associated Press report of a recent address in Milwaukee. "There is considerable paving on a few roads in the central and east central portions, but with long stretches still to be surfaced before continuous through routes are completed.

"Great areas of the north, the west, and the southwest, including whole counties, have not a single mile of hard surfaced main highway. Estimates of mileage required to complete only three through roads to the extreme north and three to the western boundary of the state, with their logical connections, would call for the construction of over 1,300 miles of highway.

"If the permanent type of surfacing is used the cost would be about 40 million dollars. Under the present law the free fund, even if unpledged, and with local county aid, could not construct this 1,300 miles of road with the highest type of surface in much less than ten to fifteen years."

NEWS AND VIEWS

The new company has opened a retail showroom at 2419 South Michigan ave. with a salon showing of twenty-five cars of all body styles. A used car salesroom, service department and general offices also have been opened just across the street. Both Mr. Miller and Mr. Brady are well known in Chicago automobile circles, having been identified with the distribution of the Nash from 1917 to 1928.

The Goodrich demonstration fleet of fifteen cars arrived in Chicago yesterday, having covered 9,327 miles in its zigzag course about the country since the beginning of the cruise last January. The caravan will receive an official welcome at the city hall tomorrow. The personnel will be guests of the Rotary club on Tuesday noon and in the afternoon will attend the Cubs ball game. The fleet came here from Rockford, Ill., and will leave for South Bend on Wednesday morning.

The rubber used in mounting the motor in Chryslers is aged the equivalent of ten years by a process that takes ten days, according to the automobile company's executive engineer, Carl Beer.

Franklin officials say that the air cooled engine in their current series develops a power forty per cent greater than the motor used in previous models.

Stutz has again won a signal victory by taking first, second and third in the annual La Rafaela road race, an outstanding event in Argentina. All three cars were privately owned and entered.

Rounding out its line of six cylinder valve in head cars, Chevrolet announces two new models, a sedan and a coupe. Both models are designed with a view toward style and the prices are held within Chevrolet's low range.

The added safety provided by the "no back device which is incorporated in the new Peerless has been tested to the satisfaction of company engineers. The "no back" automatically prevents the car from rolling backwards on a hill unless the gear shift lever is in reverse.

Hudson last week made public its balance sheet, showing earnings during the first six months of 1929 of $6.65 per share as compared with $5.77 for the first six months of last year.

The new Willys-Knight is announced. The model completes the line of Willys-Knight cars, which now includes four types, the five passenger sedan, five passenger coupe and standard coupe, and the four passenger roadster.

Production of Diesel engines on a large scale by Packard will probably begin early this month. This was indicated by Alvan Macauley, president.

Packard announces price reductions on all standard eights prior to a fall announcement of new cars, which, although the same in size and appearance, will have enough changes to classify them as new models. The new cars, it is stated, will be priced higher than the present cars were before the reduction.

AUTOISTS GET FIRST GLIMPSES OF 1930 MODELS

Year Is Sure to Set New Production Marks.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—This is the "new model" season. The public has been privileged to give a few of the 1930 styles in automobiles a close up inspection, but the end is not in sight, and something new is sure to occur before the fall season is far advanced.

If the future is to be judged by the past, the various new lines of automobiles which are yet to make their bows will be offered under some of the most propitious circumstances the industry has yet known.

The present year is sure to set a new high production and sale record, and the demand is such as to indicate a continuance of the excellent sale enjoyed during the first half of the year. The demand for cars is far from being satisfied nothwithstanding the tremendous buying that continued throughout the first six months of the year. The introduction of every new model means increased sales.

Dealers, too, are in a fairly prosperous condition as a result of the steady buying which has maintained throughout the year and competition is healthy. The capacity or near capacity output of the various plants has been absorbed with a remarkable absence of clashing which on past occasions has so seriously upset the industry.

There now exists an excellent market for automobiles in all price classes. Just what size this market is cannot be ascertained with any degree of accuracy, but manufacturers who already have shown their 1930 models report satisfactory demands with unusually large schedules.

Plymouth has Over-Size Tires

CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT

YOU will find on Plymouth the largest tires of any car in the low-priced field. Real over-size balloons—4.75—more than ample for this full-size car.

That is why the improved Plymouth—with all its full-size roominess and great comfort, with all its Chrysler-designed style and beauty, with all its Chrysler-like swiftness and smoothness, with all its ruggedness of construction, and the safety of its Chrysler weatherproof internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes—with so much else to talk about, devotes an entire advertisement to over-size tires.

Larger tires mean riding on more air, which in turn means greater buoyance and comfort. Then, too, larger tires wear longer, add much to appearance, and, most important of all, give the car greater traction, a firmer grip on the road—and that means sure-footed safety.

From tires to roof, from radiator to gasoline tank, Chrysler engineers have endowed the improved Plymouth with qualities and abilities never before available in a car of low price. Make your own comparisons—the facts can't be missed.

Building an airport is a task that takes specialized skill and a great deal of foresight. It is a new type of work and the opportunities for airport engineers may be seen in the fact that, although there now are 390 municipal airports and 387 commercial fields in use about 1,000 others are proposed for early development.

It has been estimated that more than $390,000,000 will be spent this year for airport construction and that an equal or greater amount will be expended annually for this purpose for several years.

This amount of capital will not be invested blindly. Cities that are promoting airports are careful to provide not only satisfactory facilities for present traffic, but to make room for the expansion that is certain to be necessary.

Site Is Major Factor.

The first step, once the decision to build has been made, is to select a site. A careful survey of sites was conducted by New York City two years ago and fifty sites were recommended. Some of them are being developed now.

The situation in New York is somewhat different from that in most cities, since the metropolis will be served by a number of fields, each for a section of the city. This will be true of other large cities, but in most places airport engineers find one site that is better adapted to an airport than any other could be.

In selecting a site for the field it is necessary to consider not only the character of the terrain from the standpoint of drainage and grading, but also surrounding obstacles, automobile roads and weather conditions. It should be as close as possible to the town and situated so that the prevailing wind is not along the line between the field and the town. The latter provision is to keep planes from flying over the town before landing and after taking off.

Plenty of Clearance Space.

Airports used by planes flying in interstate commerce are regulated by the department of commerce and are rated according to their capacity. Engineers plan them, therefore, to conform to the requirements necessary to get the rating they desire.

For the highest possible rating the runways, or the room for taking off and landing planes, must be at least 2,500 feet long and planes must always be able to land into the wind or at a slight angle away from it. There must be sufficient room beyond the runway at either end, for the clearance of any obstructions, in the ratio of seven to one. This means that if an obstruction is ten feet high, there must be a space of seventy feet for the plane to clear it after leaving the end of the runway.

Placing of the buildings often requires much study. They must be convenient, first of all, to the road to town and to rail facilities. But they must be placed so that planes will not land or take off over them, and if the ships take off into the prevailing wind with the hangars at their backs, this is considered most satisfactory.

Concrete Runways Best.

Runways of turf are satisfactory if drainage is good, the tendency, however, is toward prepared runways, of concrete or macadam. These are expensive in construction, but they are always good surfaces, in wet weather or dry.

For the large airports with heavy traffic double runways are recommended, one for planes landing and the other for those taking off. This is a safety precaution that cannot be taken in smaller fields, but everywhere it is possible to guard against accidents by requiring pilots to observe a one way traffic rule. Planes going onto the field can follow one lane, and those coming off can use another. Also planes circling preparatory to landing can be required to circle in the same direction.

In the placing of the buildings the engineers are guided by the use to which they are to be put. A passenger terminal, for example, should be at the edge of the landing area, and if there is a clubhouse, it, too, should be here. Behind these may be placed the hangars and administration buildings. The repair shops may well be placed at the extreme rear, out of the way of regular traffic.

Buildings Often Scattered.

Airports built without preconceived plan often have their buildings scattered along two sides of the field. This wastes the time of the men who have to work in them, and the most compact arrangement that can be devised is the best one.

No matter what its size, or how much business the airport expects to carry on, it should be built with regard for safety and freedom from congestion. If it is not planned as a field that will have an A1 rating at first, the plan should be made flexible enough so that the size may be increased when increasing traffic warrants it.

At present there are more municipal than privately owned airports. Cities often have had to take the initiative in order to get projects started. It has been found that airports may be revenue producers, and in many cities the fields are promoted as semi-public enterprises, by offering stock to all those who are interested in it, and operating it as a business proposition.

562 Passengers Carried by Texas Line in June

FORT WORTH, Tex.—The four lines operated by the T. A. T. flying service carried twice as many passengers in June as it did in May, according to a comparison of the operations report for the two months. During June 562 passengers were carried, an increase of 337 over the previous month. More than 81,000 miles were flown over the four Texas passenger lines during June, three of which, it is reported, maintained an efficiency of 100 per cent.

QUESTIONS

Questions relating to aviation are answered in this section by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, famous world war flyer, who formerly held the world's altitude record. Inquiries should be addressed to the Aviation Department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Q.—When, where and by whom was the first flying school started? 2. Describe course given. 3. What was the cost of the course?—J. J. S., Wheaton.

The first flying school was started at Hammondsport, N. Y., in 1910 by Glenn H. Curtiss. 2. It consisted of three or four hours of flying instructions. 3. The price of this course was $1,800.

Q.—I have been thinking on an idea for a gasoline turbine. What is the ratio of the force of the explosion to the compression in the ordinary internal combustion engine? 2. Will ordinary gasoline explode in a closed cylinder at atmospheric pressure?—G. T. S., Chicago.

In usual engines, the mean effective pressure of the burned gas would be almost double the compression pressure. 2. Yes, if mixed with the proper volume of air, but it will give a far lower gas pressure in the common airplane engine.

Q.—Where can I get information on the building of model airplanes to occupy my time in the sanitarium?—R. W. M., Bayfield, Wis.

Secure a copy of Aero Digest or some other aviation magazine. Plans and model kits are well advertised.

Q.—Please tell me the best way to become a member of the U. S. marine corps; also where to write for information regarding the army and navy air service.—H. H. South Bend, Ind.

You may either call and see the local recruiting offices of the different branches of the service, or write to them, or else write to marine corps headquarters, Navy building, Washington, D. C.

Q.—After completing a course for airplane mechanics, including welding and obtaining a federal license, what salary could one be capable of earning? What is the demand for such men?—H. P., Evansville.

Competent men with this training are always in demand and should earn about $40 a week to start with.

Q.—Where can I obtain plans for German gliders?—F. D. H., Downers Grove.

Either from Reed Landis, 25 East Huron street, Chicago, or Carl Roesler of 3008 South Parnell avenue, also of Chicago.

Q.—Would you please inform me where I can obtain plans of the control system of the Curtiss Hawk for making a two foot model?—R. B., Maywood.

Write to the Curtiss Aeroplane and Engine Manufacturing company at Buffalo, N. Y.

AIR SERVICE PAY ROLL.

MIAMI, Fla.—The monthly pay roll of the Pan-American airways in the Miami territory amounts to about $40,000 going to the 175 men employed by the company in that city, according to a recent statement.

1,000 PLANES WILL RACE AT CLEVELAND MEET

Many Exhibitors Want Space for Show.

CLEVELAND, O.—With the 1929 National Air Races and Aeronautical exposition still some weeks away, more than 100 airplane builders and accessory manufacturers out of a maximum possible accommodation of 250 have already contracted for exhibition space in the $10,000,000 public auditorium here, according to Clifford Henderson, managing director of the annual national events.

Space for the approximately 250 exhibitors, indicated by advance inquiries and requests for exhibition room, constitute a record for aircraft exposition, Henderson said.

The exhibition portion of the National Races and Aeronautical exposition will be housed so that all of the 200,000 square feet will be utilized, show officials stated. This space, including both the auditorium proper and its annex, exceeds by 40,000 square feet that of any other aircraft exposition ever held.

The industry will be welcomed to Cleveland on the opening day of the events, Saturday, Aug. 24, by a great floral parade over the city's principal streets, concluding with a formal opening of the exposition. City, state and national officials will participate in the celebration, according to the schedule now being followed. During the opening parade a mass formation of planes will circle overhead.

Including squadrons from army, navy, and marine corps units, approximately 1,000 planes are expected to take part in the air races, in commercial exhibitions and in the series of spectacular demonstrations planned. Every popular variety of competitive event, each with a "horse-race start," as well as a number of new races, will be included in the program.

Five cross-country events are scheduled among the many race features of the ten day meet. These include a race for women from California, a nonstop Derby from Portland, Ore., an international race from a Canadian city to be announced later, and two others, one from Florida and one from Texas.

As a tribute to the memory of the late Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, the French government has been invited to send a formation of its crack military flyers to Cleveland to participate in the races. Cleveland was the home city of the late ambassador.

'ONE-MAN' FLYING SCHOOLS DOOMED BY REGULATIONS

The "one man flying school" is doomed.

Under new department of commerce regulations requiring that flying instructors be licensed, only transport pilots actually employed by approved flying schools will be granted licenses. A transport pilot may instruct as many persons as he wishes individually without being licensed, but he cannot set up a "one man flying school."

Flying schools over the country now are being inspected by department of commerce field workers, who make recommendations for approval. Approved flying schools will be rated as private pilots' schools, limited commercial pilots' flying schools and transport pilots' flying schools, depending upon the amount of instruction given.

Air Field Wrecked by Tornado to Be Rebuilt

INDIANA, Pa.—The Indiana airport will be completely rebuilt according to R. Drenning Hamilton, president of the Indiana Airways, Inc. The hangar and planes were destroyed recently by a tornado and the administration building burned down. An 80 by 100 steel hangar is being erected and a new American Eagle plane is in use at the field.

CANADA'S SURVEY SHOWS RISE IN AERO ACTIVITIES

OTTAWA, Can.—Progress in aviation throughout Canada is shown in figures being compiled by the civil aviation branch of the department of national defense here for the quarter ended on June 30.

During this period 113 aircraft were registered, bringing the total number of commercial and private machines in the country up to 337.

During the quarter 40 private pilots received licenses in addition to 63 commercial pilots and 36 air engineers or mechanics. Seventeen airports were granted licenses. To date there are 221 private pilots in Canada, 278 commercial pilots, 253 air engineers, and 53 licensed airports.

15 Planes Assured for Indiana Good Will Tour

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Fifteen planes have been guaranteed for the first Indiana good will air tour to be held Sept. 16 to 23 by the Indiana Aircraft Trade association. It is expected the number of planes will be increased to twenty-five or thirty. Plans are being arranged by a committee headed by Harold C. Brooks, Hoosier airport, to visit approximately forty towns and cities of over 5,000 population. Purpose of the tour is to stimulate interest in aviation and adequate airports.

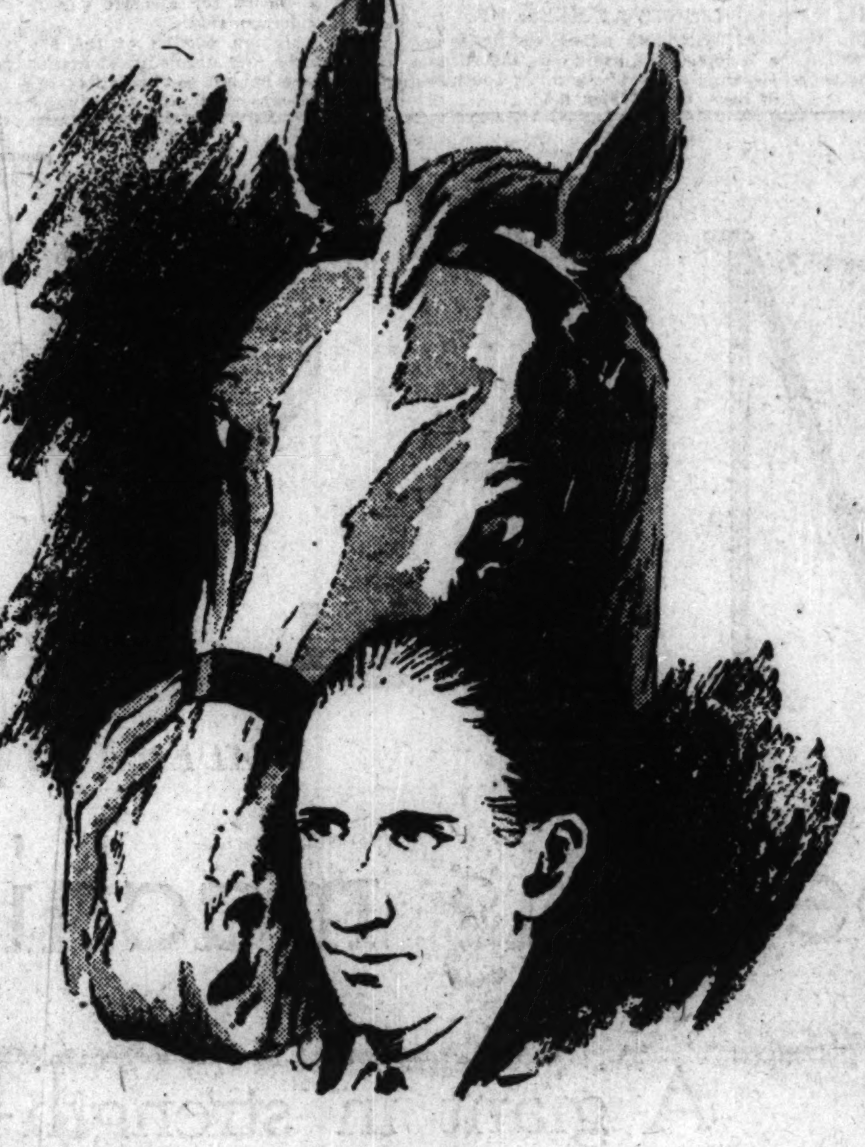
"Gentlemen, make mine a horse"

says:

H. C. Witwer

famous American Humorist



This is the time of the year for the writer to launch his nation-wide "Own Your Own Horse" movement, my masters, because it's almost New Model Time when auto proprietors gets fit to be tied.

Gangs of skilled workmen is busy oiling up adjectives that will make a gooseneck tire-carrier sound more important than the burning of Rome.

Skilled engineers is hunting through dictionaries for bigger and better phrases. A huge force of polishers is dusting off that big word NEW and getting it ready for this year's campaign.

Then after teasing you to watch, look and listen, up goes the curtain on a new model which tells you the designers has had a few more thoughts and got out something which makes your one-year-old car look like the first auto ever concocted.

Next in importance after completely changing the body lines away from last year's, no matter what they was, comes a flock of dazzling improvements which they was able, by some strange magic, to jam onto a car which they had already spent days telling you was twice as perfect as perfect itself. But the mystery kind of fades when you find out that these revolutionary advantages is generally such hair-raisers as door-handles which turns left instead of right; famous Taj Mahal design tail-light, gilt four-leaf clover (and you'll need it) on the instrument board; scientifically balanced rug-rail, etc., etc., and even etc.

By the time you get through reading about the new model you feel like going out to your car which seemed almost new yesterday and see can you find any arrow heads or other relics under the seat. If it'll run at all, which seems out of the question after seeing the list of all the improvements it hasn't got, you'd hardly dare roll around in it in the day times because people would always be asking you did you still wear peg-top pants.

Then the worst comes to the worst and you find the wife has been showed about the new model by that woman next door, which is also the one who's kid give Junior measles. So the next time you drive the car up to the door of your igloo she looks at it like it was something puss dragged in on a rainy night and makes some remark such as don't you think the new model has got this looking like something Washington might have slept in and hadn't you better turn it in for one of those new models even if it does hit us some four or five hundred dollars depreciation.

It's right then that the salesman of the Witwer "Own Your Own Horse" movement will get your name on what I'll call the dotted line, if I'm allowed to coin a expression. The advantages, unlike Paris, may be saw at a single glance. You see, patrons, when you own your own equine you don't have to toss about nights worrying that somebody will bring out a new model on you.

It don't make no difference whether you get a tall horse or a short horse or even a Shetland pony, if the latter is your price class. Whichever make of steed you select, you can bet all the tea in China that no smart horse manufacturer's coming out with a new horse which has streamline legs and square ears and makes a bum out of your last year's horse.

You can stake yourself to a July 1929 horse without being afraid to read the papers for fear of seeing that the new and improved late 1929 palfreys will be displayed next week. For some reason, the horse makers don't go over their horses each year and suddenly find out they was a couple hundred things they forgot to put on 'em and if you had one, why, that's your hard luck.

So my earnest plea to each and every inhabitant of the globe (and that means you too, you little Esquimauxs you) is to think these facts over and join the great Witwer movement in saying, "Gentlemen, make mine a horse!"

H. C. Witwer

"Mr. Witwer," say we, "Make yours a Reo"

Reo is not, and never has been a "yearly model" car.

This does not mean that Reo stands still. Reo, throughout its long career, has always marched at the head of the parade in the automobile industry—left-hand drive, center control, balloon tires, the new world-famous internal-hydraulic brakes.

But Reo has never "saved up" these revolutionary advances for incorporation in "new models." They were embodied in Reo as soon as Reo's usual period of testing had proved them to be worthy of a place in this car.

That's why the Reo of today represents, not just another "model" in a long succession of "new models"—but the proud result of a never-stopping, never-ending evolution in motor car manufacture.

That's why, when the "new model" ballyhoo starts in a few weeks, Reo will be conspicuously absent.

So, if you were looking for an automobile that would be outmoded in a short twelve months from now, we would beg you to excuse us—we haven't that kind of cars

But if you are looking for an automobile which, like the very highest priced cars, has that graceful simplicity of design that never goes out of style—a car whose smart lines stay smart . . .

If you are looking for an automobile whose advanced construction has won and held for it the title of the "Engineers' Ideal Car"—whose motor will be the standard of comparison in 1930 as it has been in 1928 and 1929—whose brakes are known throughout the world as the best and safest made . . .

If this is the kind of a car you want—a car you can own and drive and be proud of, not for one year, but for four, five or even ten . . .

Then there is just one motor car for you to buy—the Reo Flying Cloud!

Lake Forest Academy Plans Large Building Program

NUMBER OF TINY FLATS IN DROP, SURVEY SHOWS

Large Apartments and Homes Gain.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

An indication that Chicagoans are beginning to show a preference — slight though it may be — for the larger apartments and for houses over the one and two room kitchenette affairs that came into popularity just before the world war may be found in figures compiled by the health department showing the number of flat and single family dwelling plans approved during the first seven months in 1929.

These figures, which were made public yesterday by Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, commissioner of health, are compared with those for a like period in 1928. The number of flats and dwellings approved during the first seven months of this year has dropped forty-two per cent behind the volume for the same time in 1928. Perhaps the general drop in building may explain the trend rather than any active demand for smaller flats.

Going over the figures we find that plans for 1,269 one room apartments were approved in 1929—or 11.4 per cent of the grand total of the various classes of dwellings. In 1928 there were 2,623 plans for one room apartments approved—13.3 per cent of the total. Here is a small loss which might indicate a slight drop in public favor for the tiniest of the flats.

Two Room Flats Drop.

In the two room flats, 1,467 plans were approved in 1929, or 13.2 per cent. During 1928, 3,065 plans were approved, or 15.6 per cent of the total. Again we have a slight loss.

Coming to the three room flats the first seven months of 1929 saw 2,527 plans approved, or 22.7 per cent. And in 1928—of course for the same period—there were 4,168 plans approved, or 21.2 per cent of the total. Here we come to an indication of a slight gain in the public favor for the three room flat.

As to four room apartments, 2,928 plans were approved during 1929, or 26.2 of the otal. In 1928 there were 5,136 plans approved, or 26.1 per cent. Here is a mite of comfort for those who hold that a four room flat is the smallest possible for successful family life.

Five Room Flats Gain.

For five room apartments we have a slightly higher rate of advance than for four rooms. In this class plans were approved for 1,875 flats, or 16.8 per cent of the total, during 1929. In 1928 there were 3,220 plans approved—16.4 per cent of the total. And in the six rooms and larger there is a considerable gain. In 1929 there were 1,081 apartments in this class approved—9.7 per cent of the total. In 1928 there were 1,542 flats approved—7.4 per cent of the total.

A total of 11,156 flats were approved for the first seven months of 1929, against 19,664 for 1928.

Up to Aug. 1 of this year plans for 1,940 single family dwellings were approved, 14.8 per cent of the total. And for the first seven months of 1928 plans for 2,911 homes were approved—12.9 per cent of the total. In all the first seven months of this year saw accommodations for 13,096 families approved, while for a like period of last year the number was 22,575.

Philip Stein, statistician for the department of health, who compiled the above figures, states that for four or five years prior to 1929 the trend was toward the smaller flats.

Can See No Change.

Arthur Wallen of William L. Wallen & Sons, builders and operators of many flats in the city, says that so far his firm has not felt any results of this later trend. He says that his firm finds the tiny kitchenette apartments as much in demand as ever in the congested areas—near elevated railway stations, for instance. In the more open localities the larger flats are in request.

Robert M. Harkness of McKey & Poague, south side operators, too, found little comfort for the proponents of larger flats for families, saying it had been the experience of his firm that the demand for small units was as great as ever. He explained the situation as being due to general building conditions.

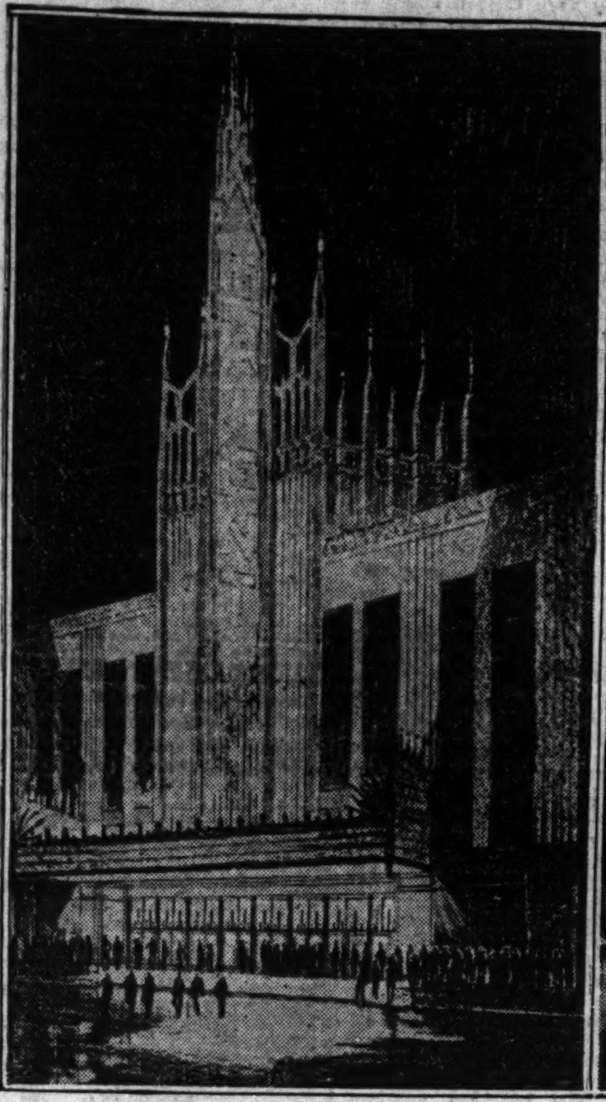
CLAIMS RECORD BUILDING JOB AT OLSON RUG PLANT

A construction record in the making is pointed out at the Olson Rug company works at Diversey and Crawford, where Walter F. Olson, president of the company, states that work on a $1,000,000 six story structure is speeding two months ahead of schedule. The first concrete was poured on May 1 and today the six story addition is ready for the glass roofing. Originally planned for completion Jan. 1, 1930, the structure, which will house the Axminster activities of the firm, will probably be ready for use by the end of summer. F. E. Davidson designed the structure. Eventually there will be eight plants in the group. R. C. Wieboldt & Co. are general contractors.

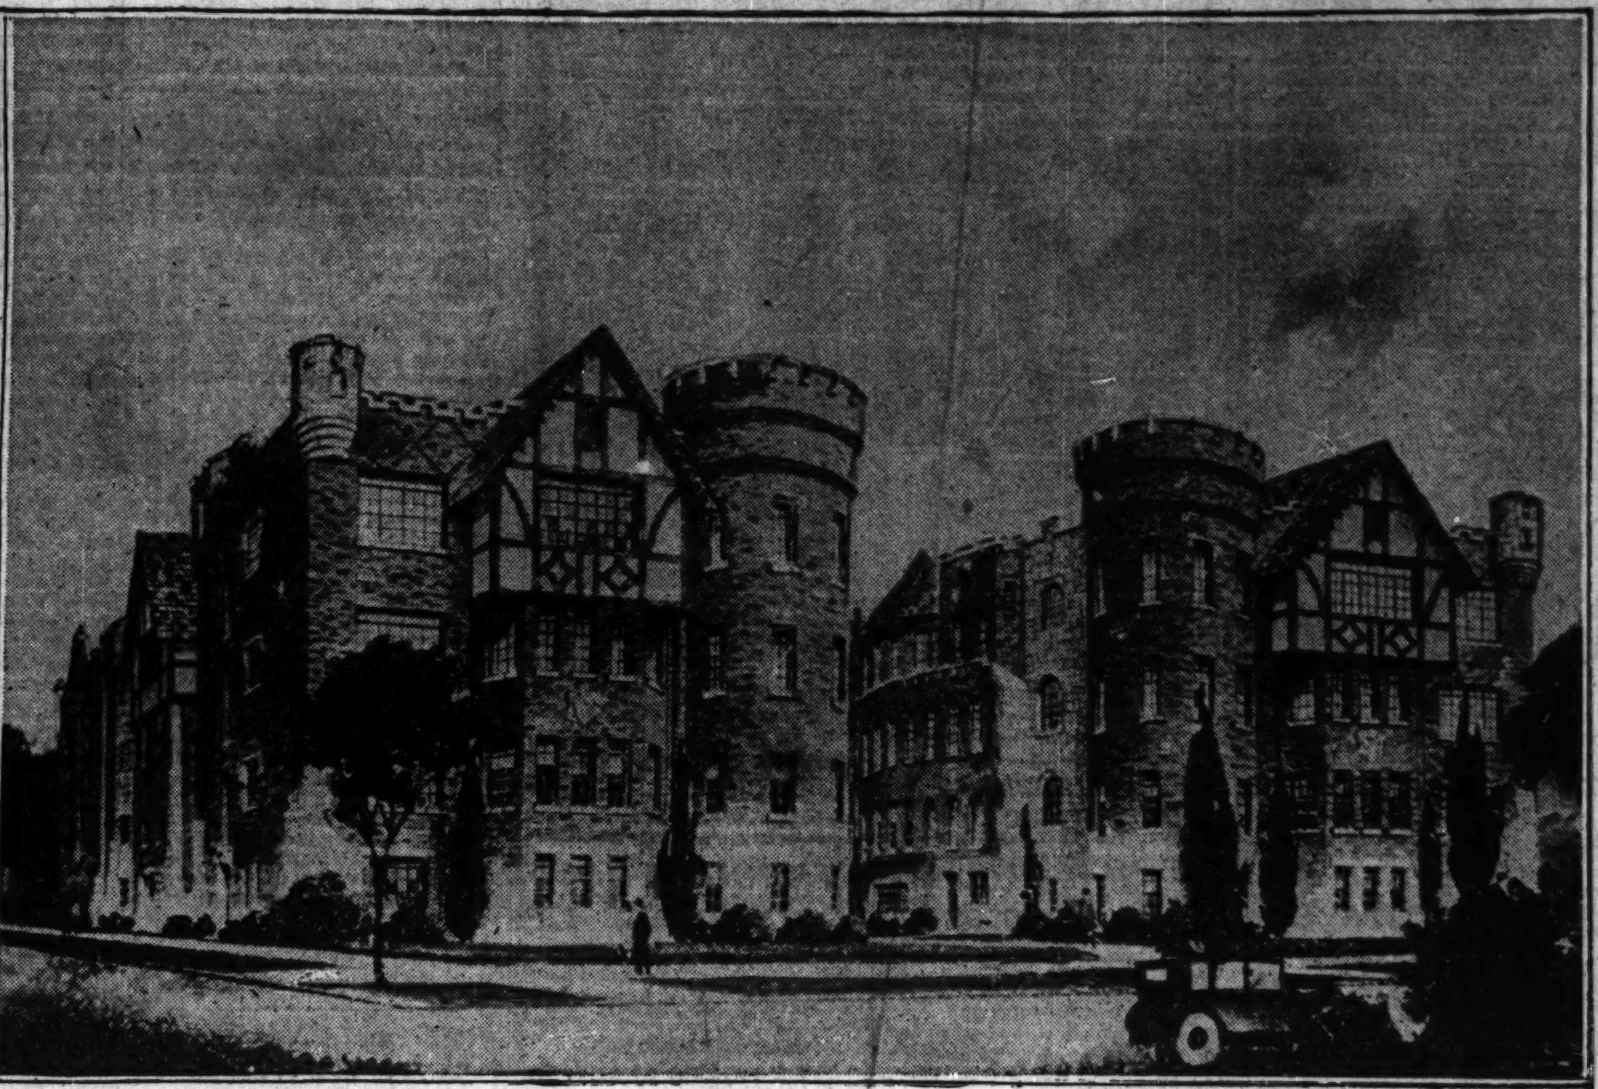
Clearing Gets Eleventh Industry So Far This Year

The Lydon Manufacturing company has leased 60,000 square feet of industrial property at 5721 West 66th street, in the Clearing Industrial district, for the manufacture of a cleaning fluid. J. H. Van Vlissingen & Co. were brokers. This is the eleventh industry to locate at Clearing this year.

CLOSE IN CINEMA AND WEST ROGERS PARK APARTMENT



To the left is a picture of the Orient theater—a 2,500 seat movie proposed for a site at Ogden boulevard and Menomonee street. Designed by Dyer & Nadherny, the structure is to be modernistic in feeling. Besides the theater the building will contain stores and flats. The cost is estimated at $1,000,000. The United Theaters Corporation of Illinois is owner.



On the right is an apartment building of unique design which is under construction at the northeast corner of Fitch avenue and Rockwell street—adjacent to Indian Boundary Park—West Rogers Park. The architecture suggests an English castle. Financing is by H. F. Philipsborn & Co. Edgar L. Bloomster's facile paint brush is responsible for this rendering.

DeMet Plans Big Cafe for Bulls, Bears

De Mets, Inc., a restaurant chain, has leased space in the forty-four story Board of Trade building, now under construction in Jackson boulevard at La Salle street, where it will open one of the largest eating establishments in the city upon completion of the structure, about May 1, 1930.

The restaurant, the largest in the De Met chain, will have a capacity of 1,000 patrons. The restaurateurs leased a store fronting on La Salle street just north of the La Salle street entrance and the entire east half of the basement, totaling 17,500 square feet.

There will be a candy shop and soda fountain in the ground floor store. Holabird & Root are drawing plans for the downstairs establishment, which through appointments and atmosphere is to carry the impression of a men's club. Beside the restaurant the basement area will have a lunchroom.

The lease is for fifteen years at an undisclosed consideration. Albert H. Wetten & Co., agents for the building, were brokers.

Yesterday's lease follows closely other recent developments in De Met's expansion program. The firm recently leased the entire building at 312-14 West Madison street, in which it is installing a store, with a commissary and factory occupying the rest of the structure. The company has also acquired additional space adjoining its store at the northeast corner of State and Adams streets, where it is more than doubling its facilities. Enlarging of the company's store at 103 West Adams street to include the store at 214 South Clark street has just been completed.

Mrs. Helen Brandenburg Leigh, wife of Carl G. Leigh, president of the Leigh Banana Case company, has bought the duplex apartment building at 46 Cedar street from Aldis J. Browne of Ross & Browne, realty firm. The lot is 20x125. Mr. and Mrs. Leigh will occupy the duplex suite on Oct. 1. Stella K. Polk represented the buyer and Alfred E. Donegan of Ross & Browne the seller.

AIR VIEW OF LAKE FOREST ACADEMY CAMPUS

Urge Using Old P.L.Z.&W. Right of Way for Highway

A group of Palatine business men, headed by Arthur Newbould, is behind a move to urge the state department of highways to utilize the old eleven mile right of way of the defunct Palatine, Lake Zurich & Wauconda railroad, for a stretch of the construction of Route 53, which will run from Lemont to Lake Zurich.

"To run the new highway over the old right of way, with its comparatively easy grades and flat curves already constructed, will cost far less than to condemn farm property and engage in new grading operations from Palatine to Lake Zurich," said Mr. Newbould.

Andy's Chocolate Shops, Inc., has made three leases. One is for a store in the Norshore Theater building, 1763 Howard street, for ten years at a reported term rental of $43,300. Plans are now being drawn for a twelve story building to be erected at the northeast corner of La Salle and Goethe streets by the First St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church on a 100x140 site. A small connecting edifice, probably of one story, is planned for chapel uses. It will seat 600.

The main building will be L shaped and will be of Bedford stone. There'll be a cafeteria in the basement, with Sunday school rooms and church parlors on the first floor. A combination gymnasium and auditorium are planned for the second and third floors. The church offices also will be on these floors.

The international offices of the Walther league will be established on the fourth floor. On the fifth floor will be the ladies' aid society parlors, kitchen, recreation rooms, etc. The next seven floors will be given over to a hospice for 175 girls, where there'll be library, recreational and laundry facilities.

A two story parsonage is announced for the roof and the balance of the roof area will be given over to a garden. Miller & Wallace are the architects.

EMERMAN BUYS M'CORD PLANT ON FAR SOUTH SIDE

Louis E. Emerman & Co., machinery jobbers, have purchased the plant of the McCord Manufacturing company on both sides of the Illinois Central tracks between 120th and 121st streets for an undisclosed consideration. The firm will concentrate its activities at its newly acquired plant, moving its branch at Dayton, O., there. Samuel C. Horwitz of Kamfner, Horwitz, Halligan & Daniels was attorney for the buyer. Fyffe & Clarke represented the seller.

William E. Parsons, 80 East Jackson boulevard, Chicago, has been appointed architectural adviser to the George Rogers Clark sesquicentennial commission. He is receiving applications. The competition is open to American citizens. Applications must be made in a letter stating the applicant's name, address, associates if in a partnership or corporation, education, training and experience, a list of his most important architectural works, his affiliation with professional societies and business references.

No application will be received after Sept. 15, 1929. Programs of the competition will be sent to architects who have passed the qualifications committee about Oct. 15, 1929. Several architects have been invited to participate.

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL GETS REALTY GIFTS

Modern school buildings to cost in the neighborhood of three quarters of a million dollars are contemplated for Lake Forest academy, according to an announcement made public last night by Robert J. Thorne, former president of Montgomery Ward & Co., recently elected to the presidency of the board of trustees of the north shore school. At the same time it was stated that two valuable pieces of real estate have been given to the academy by Louis F. Swift, Cyrus H. McCormick and Clayton Mark.

One of these gifts is a considerable tract of land, valued in the neighborhood of $25,000, which lies almost directly north of Reid hall, at the northwest corner of Rosemary and Sheridan roads, Lake Forest, presented by Mr. Swift and Mr. McCormick. The other is a piece of land lying south of the old Negro church, given by Mr. Swift and Mr. Mark. This latter parcel is to be used for expanding the academy campus, at present containing thirty acres, to the south.

The plans just announced for an imposing new group of school buildings are to carry out President Thorne's recent statement that Lake Forest academy is to be made one of the finest preparatory schools in the country.

Four Structures Planned.

Four new structures are contemplated, all designed by Andrew N. Rebori, architect, of Rebori, Wentworth, Dewey & McCormick. They include a large dining hall to cost approximately $170,000, but which will involve a total investment of about $190,000 when the equipment is figured in; a $100,000 chapel; a dormitory costing $170,000 and a laboratory and study hall and tower costing $160,000.

The laboratory and tower are to be connected with and made part of the present old structure known as Reid hall, the administration building.

All of these buildings will be built of face brick with trim of Indiana limestone for the exterior walls. The interior construction will be fireproof.

The tower is to be built entirely of limestone and will have a large clock, with four faces, visible from all parts of Lake Forest. Chimes may be added later.

Work to Start Next January.

According to John Wayne Richards, head master of the Lake Forest academy, work is expected to start the first of next year if the development program now being considered by the Lake Forest plan commission is o. k.'d by that body. Construction of the dormitory and dining hall will be first, with the expectation of having them ready for students by the fall of 1930.

It is announced that at present the amount needed to carry out the proposed building program is $620,000, but that more than $300,000 is now available for the new structures. This sum includes pledges and indicated contributions, but does not take into consideration large individual gifts or sums known to be actually obtainable.

Hints of several large gifts of money, land and the financing of an entire building are made in a comment by Head Master Richards.

"It would be improper at this time," he said, "to disclose information in connection with certain gifts that would largely augment the total; likewise, it would be untimely to mention certain vital changes in campus acreage, which, when consummated as expected, will affect the location of the new buildings. Nor is it fitting more than merely to mention an entire building as having been indicated as a gift by one friend of the school."

Alumni Give $35,000.

Of the $300,000 now available for carrying out the proposed building program, $35,000 has been received from alumni of the school. It is hoped to enlarge this alumni fund to $125,000 and this will then be used for the completion of the first of the proposed buildings.

The board of trustees of the academy now comprises the following: Mr. Thorne, president; Charles F. Glore, vice president; Logan T. McMenemy, secretary; Frank W. Read, treasurer; F. L. Bateman, George W. Blossom Jr., George Corson Ellis, A. B. Dick Jr., De Forest Hulburd, Clayton Mark, Cyrus McCormick Jr., Kersey Coates Reed, John W. Richards, Fred W. Sargent, Louis F. Swift, C. M. Trowbridge and E. L. Wyman.

Lake Forest academy was founded in 1857 by a group of Chicagoans who wanted their sons to go to a good prep school near their homes without having to make what was then a long, arduous journey to the old established institutions on the Atlantic seaboard.

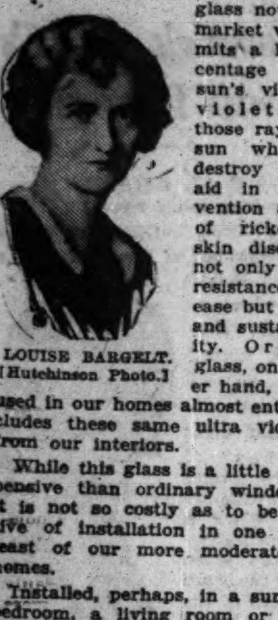
HOME BUILDING AND REMODELING

GET SUN TAN IN YOUR HOUSE VIA "GLASS OF LIFE"

Panes Admitting Violet Rays Health Aid.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.
[Home Builders Editor.]



LOUISE BARGELT.
[Hutchinson Photo.]

One of the comparatively new developments in window glass is that glass now on the market which admits a high percentage of the sun's vital ultra violet rays—those rays of the sun which tan, destroy bacteria, aid in the prevention and cure of rickets and skin disease and not only increase resistance to disease but build up and sustain vitality. Ordinary glass, on the other hand, which is used in our homes almost entirely, excludes these same ultra violet rays from our interiors.

While this glass is a little more expensive than ordinary window glass it is not so costly as to be prohibitive of installation in one room at least of our more moderate priced homes.

Installed, perhaps, in a sunroom or bedroom, a living room or nursery, family members can take sun baths summer and winter without danger of taking cold.

"But what is the good of such a glass when the sun does not shine?" some one is probably asking at this point. In answer to this can be mentioned the fact that cloud shine and sky shine contains these ultra violet rays as well as sunshine so that at all times of daylight, all times of the year, excepting, of course, stormy weather when the sky is entirely overcast with dark clouds, one receives through this health glass the beneficent ultra violet rays.

Standards Are Changing.

Many houses built twenty or thirty years ago and now ready for some degree of remodeling let in less light and air than is demanded by present standards. We are seeing old style porches which cast their darkening shadows across an entire side of a house torn off and a gracious sunroom substituted. Or we see small rooms with windows on only one side given interesting bays which are attractive architecturally, add space to the room and also allow more light and air to enter.

So universal indeed is this desire for light and air—more light and air—that small windows are being enlarged, blank walls are giving way to window installations and full length glazed doors permitting an abundance of light and air to enter hallways and corridors previously "twilight dim" a large part of the time.

Now to this new desire on the part of home owners for larger sun drenched spaces comes the possibility of a room with window glass which will admit a larger part of the time the vital ultra violet rays.

Used in Hospitals.

The sun is perhaps the supreme disinfectant. Its ultra violet rays increase the blood's red cells and enable us to absorb and keep within us iron and phosphorous lime.

Scientific experiments with this glass have been carried on for a number of years both in this country and Europe. School rooms and hospitals have installed it in many places. Through this glass are being obtained aids in the treatment of those diseases of young and old which come from poor nutrition and lack of sunshine.

One company manufactures four distinct types of this glass. There is a clear glass, a plate glass, an obscure glass for bathrooms and hospital solaria and a quarter inch wire glass for skylight purposes.

In our own northern climate, especially where delicate persons or young children cannot be exposed to direct sunlight many months in the year because of the temperature, these same individuals can receive Old Sol's benefits in their bedrooms, or sunrooms, living rooms or nurseries at any room temperature desired.

An Obscure Glass.

If one wishes to indulge in real sun baths and wrest the full value from its rays with scant clothing on, one can install the "obscure" glass which admits the violet rays of light but through which an outsider cannot see. This glass is installed much the same as other glass.

The sun, we know now, gives most abundantly of Vitamin D—that vitamin needed for strong bones and teeth. Few of us are so strong and healthy we could not be made still stronger and healthier and in almost every family there is some very young child or some frail adult who could derive benefit from such a glass flooding the small area of some cozy corner with these health giving sun's rays.

It is an interesting possibility, worthy of study and consideration, for homeowners of new or remodeled homes—this glass which has been called the "glass of life."

PORTABLE FENCE AVAILABLE FOR SUMMER USES

Portable fences are now manufactured which are of wire and easily set up. By pushing the legs into the ground and wiring the sections together one has an enclosed space in the yard where children may play or small animals be housed without the need of constant watching to keep them from running away.

For a half a dozen months in the year, or perhaps more, one keeps such a fence up. Then when the winter months arrive the fence can be taken down and stored away for another season's use.

HEALTH FROM RAYS OF SUN

The "glass of life" it has been called—this new glass on the market which admits a high percentage of the sun's vital ultra violet rays. Take such a sunny corner as this room shows, a charming spot with its gleaming oak floor and summery furnishings, install the new health glass in its long French windows, and one has a spot in the home where, summer or winter, one can receive the beneficent ultra-violet sun's rays.

Answers to Questions on Home Owning

Making Ceiling Seem High.

Dear Mrs. Bargelt: How can a ceiling be made to seem higher than it really is without extending it upwards two stories in height? My house is small but I want to make the living room seem to have as high a ceiling as possible and the room in general distinctive and homelike. The house is on the old English type.

Mrs. D. A.

Answer: You can make the ceiling higher by not covering the floor beams with plaster. Separate the beams further apart than is usually done, increase their thickness and let the flooring on top of them serve as the ceiling. You can also give distinction and charm to your living room by covering the walls with wood paneling. It is possible to select types of paneling that are really lovely and yet which can be put on at a reasonable cost.

House Valuations.

Dear Mrs. Bargelt: I have read frequently that a house should not exceed three times the lot cost. On figuring things out I find that if I remodel my home as I wish the value of the house will easily be four or five times that of the lot. How about it? I would like a nice modern home. I can't sell the old place for anything much at all, but for a few thousand I can do wonders with the house.

B. C.

Answer: There are always exceptions to every rule. There may be reasons for expecting an increase in your land value from improving the house which would warrant your raising the house to more than three times the property value. You will have to consider neighborhood conditions and adjacent property investments. Better talk this over with your local bank.

M.

Get a Contractor.

Dear Mrs. Bargelt: Is it a good plan to engage a general contractor? Just what is he responsible for anyway? What is the best way of selecting a general contractor? Mrs. W.

Answer: Yes, the general contractor builds the larger part of your home, turns over electric wiring, plumbing and heating to sub-contractors and is responsible for delivering to you a finished house as agreed upon. Take bids from a number of contractors. This does not mean it is necessarily advisable to choose the man who makes the cheapest bid. But you can get an idea of what your money will buy for you.

SPECIFICATIONS SAVE MONEY FOR HOUSE BUILDER

One runs a risk of wasting money when one builds a home without a complete set of specifications. Merely a set of plans is not enough if one wants to avoid misunderstandings, controversies and those many changes and extras which bring added expense and worry in their wake.

Specifications describe what kind of materials are to be used in the home, quality, grades and types of equipment. Plans state sizes and dimensions.

Specifications are a protection to the home owner and at the same time are an advantage to the contractor—the same advantage that any definite and binding understanding works for the good of all concerned in any business transaction.

Porch Shades Made to Protect from Elements

This is the season when one can expect drenching showers followed by long periods of sun glare. These weather "changes" aren't so good for many kinds of porch decorations more or less exposed to the elements. Porch shades which afford instant protection when needed are manufactured in different shades ranging from sylvan green to woodland brown. Oil stained colors suffer no damage from rain or sun's rays and afford ample ventilation though "sight proof."

STEEL CLOTHES POST THAT MAY BE REMOVED WHEN IT'S NOT IN USE

Steel clothes posts which are removable are manufactured now. These posts are ornamental, and when they are not in use they may be easily put away by merely lifting them out of the socket.

The posts are painted with good grade lawn enamel, the sockets are black and the tops which are to hold the clothes line are finished with black enamel made rustproof by a special process.

The only necessary work attending the installing of these posts is the digging of an eight inch square hole. The socket is then driven into the hole level with the ground and stones can be pushed down around it. Filling the hole with concrete makes it stand up even more firmly.

Incidentally it may be mentioned that when the clothes posts are removed there is no obstruction on the ground to interfere with lawn mower or automobile.

TROUBLED WITH LEAKING ROOF? A WAY TO STOP IT

Trouble with your roof?

Liquid asbestos roof cement is now available—a heavy liquid compound which can be spread on a roof which is in need of repair with an ordinary roofing brush.

This compound, which is impervious, it is claimed, to water, steam, corrosion, acid, summer heat or winter cold, covers cracks and crevices of all kinds with a heavy coating.

No matter what the season, this material may be applied and can be used over tile, slate, asphalt, asbestos shingle, wood shingle or metal shingle roofs.

For rusty and leaking eave troughs, drain pipes, gutters and chimney flashings, window sashings and so on, the same company manufactures a plastic compound of paste consistency to be troweled on.

GROUND FLOOR BEDROOM HAS ITS ADVANTAGES

A first floor bedroom in the story and a half or two story home has many advantages.

It may serve as a maid's room or as a room for some older family member who does not enjoy climbing up and downstairs. It can serve also as a library or offer space for some professional member of the family. When it is used for this purpose it often has a separate entrance of its own and adjoining lavatory or bath.

Or again there are numerous young couples who help to pay for their home by renting such a room as this and applying the rent money on their monthly payments. Then when the family grows larger, when more space is needed and when money flows more plentifully into the family exchequer, this room can serve any one of a half a dozen different needs.

BATHROOMS NOW MADE SMALLER; MORE INSTALLED

In modernizing one's bathroom at the present time, it is well to keep in mind the likelihood of adding another bath later on. The modern trend is distinctly towards "more bathrooms and smaller bathrooms."

Many bathrooms today found in the new five, six, seven or even eight room homes are no larger than 6x7 feet. This means that it is not hard to convert an old fashioned clothes closet into a bathroom or by cutting away the wall that separates the corners of two rooms, utilize the two corners for a bath.

A bathroom can be installed at a minimum expense if it is placed next to existing plumbing or in line with it upstairs or down, for in this way the old pipes can be used.

Two Coats of Cement Paint Will Make Basement Dry

Two coats of good cement paint are usually enough to transform the dingiest of basements into a cheery, pleasant place. If your basement has the "damp" habit, see that it snaps out of it.

CIRCULATING AIR THROUGH HOUSE COOLS IT OFF

Heating System May Be Employed.

BY HOMER GRANT.

One very modern method of increasing summer coolness in the home is by the installation in the warm air heating system of an electrified propeller unit.

This unit keeps the air circulating through the rooms at a comparatively high velocity.

The air which is thus circulated through the house naturally is of the same temperature as that in the basement. Add to this fact the principle recognized today that air motion is one of the simplest and easiest ways of producing added coolness—that is in any but the severest conditions such as exist in some industries but seldom in any homes—and we have a possibility in our own homes of converting an ordinary warm air circulating heating plant into an all year round conditioning plant—a plant which creates not only warmth in winter but added coolness in summer.

Generation of Heat.

Heat naturally is generated in the body by food assimilation but only a part of this heat is consumed by muscular energy. The rest of the heat must be passed off from the body or the internal body temperature will rise and cause severe discomfort.

In winter the body has no trouble getting rid of its excess heat. Some of it has to warm up the air breathed in and some to warm the food and drink taken in.

Furthermore, the body acts as a conductor, directly transmitting heat to the cooler object it touches. Convection is another method of heat loss; that is, the cool air surrounding the body carries some of its heat away. Another cause of coolness is moisture evaporating from both skin and lungs.

In hot weather these so called safety valves cannot work as effectually as in cold weather. When the air is hotter than the body it conveys heat to it instead of away from it. When the relative humidity of the air is high, evaporation of moisture from the skin is slow.

Air Motion a Factor.

Air motion, however, is one factor in the air's condition which enables these safety valves to get rid of the body's excess heat—that is, in any but extreme conditions.

When air plays over the body convection is increased; that is, the moving air will convey more heat from the body than still air can do. Evaporation will be also increased, for as soon as one moisture particle is taken from the body's surface along comes some more air to pick up and carry away another particle.

Sounds a bit technical, does it? The above, however, contains some of the basic reasons why added comfort in warm weather can be achieved in a home by the installation of one of these very modern electrified propeller units in a warm air heating plant.

MAPLE FLOORING NOW AVAILABLE IN MANY COLORS

For some time maple floorings have been possible in a number of handsome shades. Vividly hued stains or soft tinted stains have been made to penetrate successfully the extreme hardness of maple and the standard shades have run a gamut from silver gray to royal blue, and from delicate orchid to seal black. The shades include among their number natural, early American, autumn brown, dove gray, pastel green, and Spanish brown.

Now it is announced that on special jobs, where large surfaces must be harmonized with a preconceived color scheme, new shades will be created which are consistent with perfect color harmony.

Artistic Birdhouse Adds Beauty to Home Grounds

Has your yard a home for summer song birds, a tiny affair perhaps, for the dainty wren or a many roomed apartment for the martin? A simple and artistic birdhouse adds beauty to your grounds and draws song birds to your place year after year.

FLAT BUILDING WILL RESEMBLE ENGLISH CASTLE

An apartment building suggestive of an English castle with turrets and other medieval paraphernalia is now under construction at the northeast corner of Fitch avenue and Rockwell street—adjacent to Indian Boundary Park.

This building, which will be known as the Hurlburt Towers, will contain twenty-four apartments of which twelve will be of five rooms and a similar number of four rooms. Four of the flats will have studio living rooms—a story and a half high—with beam ceilings, etc.

All the apartments will have the latest conveniences, including mechanical refrigeration. Kitchens will be equipped with stoves finished in colors favored by the feminine world and linoleum will be laid on kitchen floors. Bathrooms will be tiled.

Holzer, Inc., announces what is claimed will be the first building stock issue of its kind to be offered in Chicago. It will be the 7 per cent preferred stock of the 40 East Oak Street Building corporation.

"While it appears to bear a resemblance to the Fred F. French & Co. plan in New York City, it differs at least in one important respect," said Frederick L. Holzer, president of Holzer, Inc. "The French plan is worked out on buildings under construction, while the 40 East Oak street apartment hotel is a completed building in successful operation, showing a 100 per cent occupancy, with a 15 per cent waiting list and a net surplus of over three times the combined dividend requirements of both the preferred and common stock.

"Each share of the preferred stock, which has a par value of $100, will be accompanied by a bonus of one share of common stock, no par value, calling for $2 dividends, thus making the net dividend yield per unit 9 per cent. A portion of the preferred stock is to be retired, pro rata, from time to time, with a view to redemption of the entire preferred issue of 6,000 shares in about ten years.

"This plan of financing has been under consideration for several months by the officers of our company. We feel confident that this issue of preferred stock of a successful building will prove the soundness of this method of equity financing and will so commend itself to the investing public that other real estate bond houses will apply their experience to a similar plan."

PLAN 2,500 SEAT MOVIE ON OGDEN NEAR MENOMONEE

Theater to Be Finished in Modern Manner.

A 2,500 seat motion picture theater is announced for the new Ogden boulevard district just west of Lincoln park. The theater, which will be known as the Orient, will occupy a site fronting 180 feet on Ogden, 170 feet on Menomonee and measuring 123 feet at the rear. It will be located at a northwesterly point of the intersection of the two thoroughfares.

Designed by Dyer & Nadherny, this latest addition to the movie and talkie life of the city will be modernistic in treatment. The architects are now working on an interior decorative scheme in which mirrors would be used. The employment of mirrors would give the effect of a theater twice the size of what it would be actually.

The ceiling is to be treated in an atmospheric manner, the idea being to produce an effect which would give the impression, when the lights are out, of one being out of doors. The interior will be finished in marble and plaster. The balcony will have 800 seats.

The theater building will be the equivalent of a structure five stories in height. Besides the auditorium the building will contain four stores and twenty kitchenette apartments of two and a half rooms in size. It is estimated the project will represent an investment of approximately $1,000,000.

The owner is the United Theaters Corporation of Illinois, which operates several theaters in the Chicago district. Clement McMahon is president of the corporation, Irwin F. Dersch is vice president, Gerald L. McMullen is secretary, and Leo A. Bertels is treasurer.

It is stated that work will start within sixty days.

FARM AND GARDEN

JOSEPH'S COAT MOTIF INVADES MODERN GARDEN

Landscapers Flirt with Angular Puzzles.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Dazzling landscape designs are expected to follow in the wake of the modernistic homes that are beginning to dot city plots in this part of the country. Modernistic lines that are showing up in furniture, fixtures, homes, and other buildings logically will be carried to the outside lines of the lot.

Flower beds, borders, water pools, paths, fences, walls, trellises, walks, paths, and lawn furniture are to be whirled around to harmonize with lines of modernism. Modernistic art, when taken out on to the landscape, causes the conservatist to wonder, "What's the gardening world coming to, anyway?"

Gardeners may at first turn a cold shoulder to this new tendency in the landscape designer's suggestions offered in the advanced style book, but with a few brave growers to try it out others will soon follow. The challenging color puzzle patterns of the modernistic garden design are likely to carry it into the planting scheme around many homes that are "just a little different from most of the homes in this neighborhood."

In Free-for-All Stage.

The modernistic garden is too new for any one, even the experts, to have standard ideas worked out. It is still in the free-for-all stage—something rather plastic, that may take on many shapes before any definite patterns are worked out to guide gardeners in the planting work.

A few points are given here merely to stimulate interest among gardeners in the search for something new in gardening. Unlike many sports, such as golf and baseball, where there are so many bats and clubs, balls and bases and holes to play with, there is opportunity for the constant introduction of something new—plants, colors, beds, borders, pools, etc.

Carl F. Mack's ideas of a modernistic garden are contained in a design which he brought to this department a few days ago. The center feature of his ideal garden is made up of a collection of squares and rectangles of slate, concrete, water and triangular beds of flowers. The whole piece is as colorful as Joseph's coat spread out on the green turf of a lawn. The colors are reflected by the pool, resembling the iridescent luster of a pearl

The whole design made by Mr. Mack, a Chicago landscape architect, is not so unusual in itself, but its placing of an angle to the lot lines takes the modernistic garden out of the ordinary formal landscape design class. A vari-colored walk around the pool is made of slate held together with green cement.

Beds Are Triangular.

On each of the four sides triangular beds are filled with an assortment of flowers. A mixed selection of tulips is suggested for early spring blossoms and perennials for the summer and autumn blooms. Mr. Mack says that a varied flowering season and color effect can be produced in the triangular beds by planting a collection of pincushion flowers in shades of lavender, light blue, and harebells, pink spiderwort, blue and yellow tufted pansies, Iceland poppies in shades of pink, orange, or yellow. Sweet Williams, painted daisies, hardy phlox, forget-me-not, and plumy bleeding heart are added to this list.

He points out that by placing the pool and flower beds of the central feature on an angle with the lot lines an effective change is created. This gets away from the old plan of placing the beds and pool on a parallel line with the outside edges of the lot, while the essential straight and simple outlines are maintained. Colored gravel may be used instead of the slate to hold down the cost.

The triangular beds in the central feature are counterparts of the two flower beds that radiate from the center of the lawn toward the back corners of the lot, joining a long border that runs along the back of the lot. The triangular bed gives the appearance of having been cut from the feathered end of an Indian's arrow and slipped back a few feet, leaving a pointed sod area between.

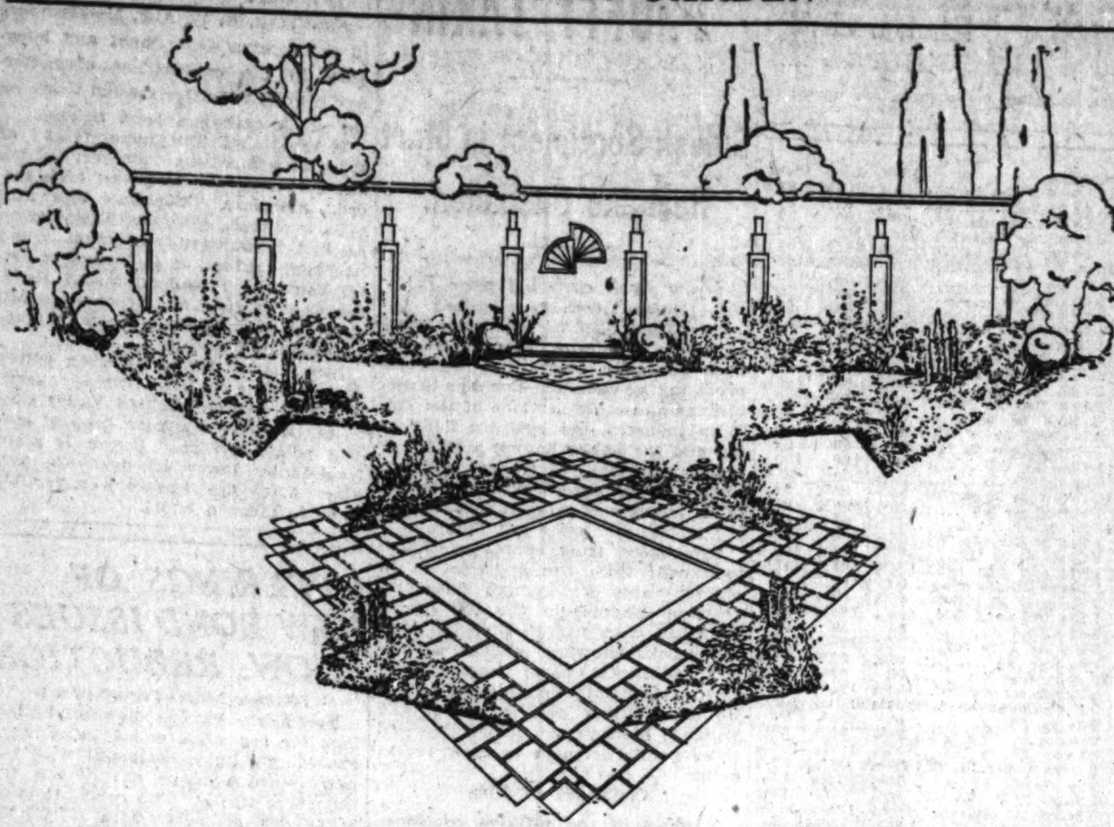
Alley May be Screened.

Where privacy is desired or the alley is to be screened the designer suggests the building of a wall with a modernistic touch at the rear of the lot. Either stucco or wood may be used for the wall. Mr. Mack suggests painting the wall with warm colors. Then plant some tall growing perennials along the wall, using an assortment of delphiniums, hollyhocks, lilies, irises, oriental poppies and day lilies. The following may also be used for the wall planting: Mullein pink with silver foliage and rich crimson flowers, dwarf Monkshood with dark blue flowers, a variety of columbines, plantain lilies, peonies, hardy phlox, oswego tea, gaillardia, and erect growing stonecrop.

Against the center of the wall is an odd wooden bench set on a triangular slate platform. A final touch is given by cutting two fanshaped windows in the wall immediately above the seat. Iron gratings, radiating like the rays of the sun, are used over the windows.

The modernistic garden may be successfully made on the average lot with a fifty foot frontage. It is easy to maintain. There are no terraces to build; no fountain is used, and all points in the garden are easy to reach in mowing the lawn. The flowers used are commonly found in gardens of other designs, according to Mr. Mack.

MODERNISTIC GARDEN



[Drawn by Carl F. Mack.]

LANDSCAPE DESIGNER'S DARING FLING AT A NEW WAY OF PLANTING FLOWERS AND BUILDING WATER POOLS—The sketch above is Carl F. Mack's conception of a modernistic garden which may be made on the average city or suburban lot.

This shows how straight and simple lines of a formal garden may be maintained with the central feature built on an angle instead of being parallel with the lines of the lot. Another feature is the four triangular flower beds harmonizing with the long beds that radiate from the center to the corners of the garden.

WOMEN'S CLUBS GIVE SUPPORT TO FLOWER SHOW

Illinois Group Ready to Help.

Next winter's Chicago Garden and Flower show, which is to be held at the Hotel Sherman, will have the full support of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, according to Leonard Vaughan, chairman of the flower show committee. The executive board's decision authorizing the coöperation of the federation was announced yesterday by Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, state president, and Mrs. Charles E. Caldwell, state chairman of garden departments.

MRS. J. MARC FOWLER. [Montfort Photo.]

Mr. Vaughan said that the show officials regarded the support of the federation of great importance to the garden movement of the middle west. The largest organized group of women in the state and one of the largest in the world is now enlisted in the campaign to beautify landscapes.

Work Began a Year Ago.

A year ago the state federation, under the leadership of Mrs. Caldwell, who is assisted by a chairman in each of the 25 districts of the federation, began to promote the formation of garden departments and garden circles in the clubs of the state. The federation has not taken part in the Chicago Garden and Flower show in previous years, but an invitation to participate this year was accepted by the executive board, because of the opportunity it gave for systematic study of garden problems and practical education in the technique of gardening and floral decoration.

MRS. CHARLES E. CALDWELL. [Rayhuff-Richte.]

"Gardening has become a major interest with the modern home maker," said Mrs. J. Marc Fowler. "The women's clubs are the natural leaders in all activities relating to the home, and I feel it is our duty to take an active part in promoting interest in home and community beautification. The flower show offers us an ideal opportunity, to study garden art seriously and to exhibit to our members, and to the public generally, the results of our study. I am sure it will be a great stimulus to our garden work, and that we shall make exhibits of which we shall be proud."

Competitions Planned.

A committee with ample representation from the participating clubs will plan the competitions, which women's clubs and all other organizations interested in the garden movement are invited to enter.

"We believe any organization which shares our aims, should be welcomed to the garden show," said Mrs. Caldwell. "We shall plan competitions which provide an opportunity for club members to study many phases of the garden arts, so that their work on exhibits will teach them valuable lessons, and the exhibits themselves will serve as object lessons to show visitors.

"For example, we have in mind miniature garden models, showing in detail how to solve planting problems in typical home grounds of varying sizes. After building one of these models, club members will have a good idea of the principles of landscaping, and they will know how to apply these principles to their own gardens. The use of flowers in home decorations will also be covered by competitions, such as table decorations, window boxes, mantel decorations and arrangements of flowers in baskets and bowls. We expect to have more varied contests than in past shows."

Illinois Clubs Invited.

Every women's club in Illinois will be eligible to take part, Mrs. Fowler said. "The fact that it is the Chicago Garden and Flower show does not mean that only Chicago clubs are to take part," she said. "We are participating as a state wide organization and every club in the state is included."

Mr. Vaughan said the coöperation of the Illinois State Federation of Women's Clubs in the Chicago show was welcomed by the show management as an important aid in giving the exhibition a national character.

"Since the Chicago Garden and Flower show was inaugurated in 1927 it has become recognized as one of the great flower shows of the country," said Kenneth Bangs, landscape architect, who will be in charge of the flower and garden exhibits. "It can be made the greatest, and we are ambitious to attract to it exhibits not only from all parts of Illinois, but from all parts of the United States."

TRIBUNE'S GARDEN BOOKS ON SALE AT 4 SERVICE OFFICES

Gardeners may go to any one of The Tribune's public service offices for information of flowers. Thousands of questions on the growing of annuals, perennials, bulbous plants, shrubs and trees are answered in "Flower Gardening," The Tribune's guide to amateur and experienced growers.

Copies of "Flower Gardening," written by Frank Ridgway, are on sale for 15 cents, 18 cents by mail, at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street; the Tribune Tower lobby, and at The Tribune's two new public service offices at 1101 East 63rd street and 4152 West Madison street.

Ten thousand copies were printed and distributed when the booklet was first printed, earlier in the season, and only a few of the second edition are left.

Copies of "Suburban Gardening," a vegetable grower's guide, are also on sale at the same offices, for 10 cents, 13 cents by mail.

Publisher to Occupy Whole Floor of "333"

A new and significant addition to the constantly enlarging publishing and advertising center developing along upper Michigan avenue is to be the Curtis Publishing company, now over in the southwest tip of the loop.

This concern has leased the entire twenty-fourth floor of the 333 North Michigan avenue building, according to William O. Trainer, renting agent of that structure, for a period of ten years beginning Sept. 1, 1929. The lessee, however, probably will move to its new quarters the latter part of this month.

The Curtis concern, publishers of the Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies Home Journal and the Country Gentleman, will have about the same space now occupied on the eighteenth floor of the Continental Illinois Bank building. This will be 10,250 square feet. William R. Boyd, manager of the western offices, negotiated the lease for the Philadelphia company.

According to Mr. Trainer the 333 building is now 80 per cent rented. Lieut. Col. W. C. Weeks, in charge of river and harbors for the federal government, recently leased space in the building.

ERECT ARMORED CABLE FACTORY AT HAWTHORNE

Ground has been broken at the Hawthorne works of the Western Electric company for a building to house the manufacture of a new kind of telephone cable. The structure will be 204 feet long, 95 feet wide and 40 feet high, and will cost $175,000. Machinery to be installed will cost $300,000. In this plant armored cable will be made which may be laid directly in the ground without having to be pulled through conduits.

Armored cable will be used underground in many places where aerial cable is now used. This type of cable is made by taking ordinary cable coated with lead, winding a layer of paper around it, then one or two layers of jute, then a layer of steel tape and two outside layers of jute. An asphalt impregnating compound makes the layers waterproof.

The plant is being constructed so that additions may be added when required.

The George W. Stewart Company, Inc., acted for the Chicago owner and A. J. Peterhans represented Mr. Brush. Nathan S. Schoenbrod was attorney.

URGES TRIBUNAL TO ARBITRATE BUILDING ROWS

T. J. Dolan Wants Realty Men as Advisers.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Thomas J. Dolan, president of the Chicago Foundation company, engineers and contractors, advocates the establishment of a general arbitration board in Chicago for the purpose of hearing grievances between building contractors and building trades.

THOMAS J. DOLAN. [Gibson Studios.]

Since the abolition of the national board of awards by the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor a few years ago, there has been no tribunal set up in the building industry to adjust jurisdictional disputes between building trades and builders. Practically all Chicago trades have been abiding by the decisions rendered from time to time by the old awards board, which was composed of contractors, engineers, architects and labor representatives.

Mr. Dolan explains in a letter to THE TRIBUNE what he believes would be an effective way to eliminate the possibility of jurisdictional strife which disturbs labor conditions in the building industry. His letter, in part, follows:

"The arbitration board I purpose would consist of representatives of labor, the various associations of contractors, and also some of the large business interests.

Realty Boards Help.

"These business interests I speak of would be represented by the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Chicago and Cook county real estate boards. In the event of disputes, and when the unions and contractors could not get together, it would be the duty of the arbitration or conciliation board to meet and hold public sessions where the parties involved in controversy could present their side of the argument.

"This board would have no power to settle any labor dispute or give any decision unless it was mutually agreed by both contestants that the board should render some award. It would be expressly understood that no strike or lockout could be ordered by either party to the hearing until at least fifteen days after the hearing was held and publication of the hearings given to the press.

"My object in having the hearings before the board would be to get the facts of all disputes before the public. Public sentiment is a great factor in such matters, and with a public fully informed it would have a tendency to mold an opinion. In this manner the party entitled to the support of the public would receive it after procuring all facts through the public press.

Interest of Public.

"I do not believe that any strike can be fought out unless the public is aware of the facts in the case."

For years Mr. Dolan has been associated in an official capacity with organized labor. He was president of the International Steam Shovelmen's union and aided in its organization.

The bulletin issued by the National Association of Building Trades Employers for July states:

"The International Hoisting Eingineers are threatening to refuse to give national contractors, who may be doing work in Chicago, any engineers unless they discharge the engineers affiliated with Chicago Local No. 569, whose charter was recently revoked and its members directed to affiliate with a new local."

Head of Engineers.

Artie Huddell is international head of the engineers. He recently tried to abolish all elective positions in the various locals associated with the engineers' international union. He held he had power to appoint men to these jobs and once he filled them with his cohorts it was said the locals in this manner became a unit in the Huddell machine.

Some Chicago engineers termed their international a one man organization. When they refused to digest Huddell's orders they were expelled by the international.

The present six story structure on the site, known as the Turner building, will be razed immediately and a twenty-two story edifice erected in its place. The entire project will represent an investment of $2,500,000. Oliver & Co. represented the purchaser and W. D. Kerfoot & Co. acted for the seller.

To Aug. 4, 1899; 30 Years Ago Today

The biggest real estate deal of the year so far fell to the lot of Dunlap Smith & Co. in the contract sale of the Bass estate property on North Park avenue, between Webster and Belden avenues and directly opposite Lincoln park to Mrs. Eammons Blaine. Part of the ground is to be used for a site for the Blaine school of pedagogy, which she is founding. The western boundaries of the lot are Sedgwick and North Clark streets. The sale price is withheld, but according to the full assessed cash valuation on the assesor's books the land is valued at $420,000.

Two handsome houses in the modern French style of architecture have been designed for S. Guthman and M. E. Greenebaum to be located at the southwest corner of Drexel boulevard and 45th street. H. L. Estimated receipts Monday, Chicago: Cattle, 18,000; hogs, 45,000; sheep, 17,000.

Hogs met the usual week-end "catch as catch can" trade, the top dropping to $11.85, lowest since July 5, with the general average off 20c at $10.70, showing 40@45c loss since a week ago. Prices on nine of the last ten Saturday markets have been lower than on Friday of the same week, due to the absence of shipping demand on Saturdays recently. Larger houses were the principal buyers yesterday and the clearance was good at the decline, only 2,000 pen holders remaining at the close.

Receipts Decline.

All classes of live stock experienced a drubbing during last week, although cattle and lambs finished on firmer ground, with the latter showing a tendency to recover some of the recent sharp losses. Hogs averaged lowest since June 29 on the second smallest receipts since May.

Arrivals at 124,700 compared with 136,176 the preceding week, but with outsiders taking only 17 per cent of the total, against 18 per cent a week ago and 32 per cent a year ago, local buyers held the upper hand. Hogs are averaging heaviest since September, 1926, the week's estimate at 257 lbs comparing with 241 lbs a year ago and 253 lbs two years ago.

An influx of common and medium quality cattle widened the price range and helped to pull the week's general average down to $14.25 last week, lowest since week ending June 29 and 75c under the previous week. Prices a year ago averaged $14.95, but the average two years ago was only $11.65 and the five year average $12.05.

Decreases in receipts were offset by a lower level of prices on wholesale markets for beef, which were reported burdened with supplies in midweek. Coming Jewish holidays, which start this week, added to the depression in the cattle market.

The lamb market reacted early last week after establishing new low levels for the year on Monday and Tuesday, with closing sales 25@35c above the low spot. The week's general average, however, at $13.10, was lowest since November, 1928, and $1.75 under a year ago.

An increase of about 10,000 in the supply of western range lambs offset the decrease in natives and the total supply was only a little short of a week earlier. Top natives reached $13.85 late, against $13.50 Monday and $14.65 at the high time the preceding week.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 18,000 cattle, 45,000 hogs, and 17,000 sheep, against 18,197 cattle, 53,296 hogs, and 14,746 sheep a week ago, and 10,049 cattle, 29,665 hogs, and 14,972 sheep the corresponding day a year ago.

Those Who Cannot Afford to Lose Should Avoid Speculative Ventures.

Risk is inherent in every business enterprise. The farmer who plows the soil and plants his grain faces the uncertainties of crops and fluctuations of market prices. The merchant who stocks his store with goods, the manufacturer who buys raw materials and makes them into finished products, the individuals who finance the drilling of an oil well—all of these take a business risk which may be great or small according to their knowledge and control of the economic forces in their respective businesses.

There are close to a half million business corporations in the United States. None of these, no matter how able and efficient its management, has complete assurance that it will earn a profit next year. The chances are that those which have a consistent record of earnings in the past and whose financial structure is conservative and sound will continue to show progress. But that is projecting the curve. It is not a certainty.

We know today that the risks and dangers of the early stages of financing of the automobile business were very great. Of the hundreds of manufacturing companies that have gone into the automobile business in the last twenty-five or thirty years fewer than a hundred are in business at present.

Some One Must Take the Risks.

But there is another side to this matter. If no one had been willing to assume the risks of that industry in its infancy the automobile would not be the common convenience that it is today. Some one must take the risks of business. In the present scheme of economic affairs the wheels of industry and commerce would stop if no one accepted the risks that are inseparable from every human activity.

Speculation, in the sense of taking a business risk in the hope of making a commensurate profit, is simply a financial aspect of all progress. In the furtherance of trade and business it is necessary that some one take a chance with his money.

Such speculation, however, is hardly a proper field for those whose capital is limited and who cannot afford to lose. The risks of business should be undertaken only by those who are qualified financially and by experience to do so. Successful speculating requires a certain amount of experience and knowledge, sufficient funds, and continual vigilance.

Obviously, the man who has not sound knowledge of and wide experience in a certain business, a man who has not time to watch that business carefully and sufficient resources to stand a loss, cannot afford to take the greater risks involved in a highly speculative enterprise.

The chances of making a profit in a new or speculative venture are only on the side of those who know how to guard against the risks. Their knowledge and experience give their dollars a reasonable chance. For the man of little financial knowledge and resources the probability of loss is proportionately greater.

Stock of a new company or one that has not a consistent past record of earnings is speculative. Such a company may succeed. It may eventually return to its stockholders many times the cost of the stock. But there is no assurance that it will.

For that reason the investor who cannot afford to risk a loss is wise to choose a safer place for his savings.

U. S. STEEL NOW IS LIVELY TOPIC ON WALL STREET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—With current operations exceeding its full rated capacity, the United States Steel corporation, now the brightest spot in the whole industrial picture of the country, seems certain to run up in 1929 the greatest volume of earnings in any peace time year. Present indications are that President James A. Farrell's estimate of $1,500,000,000 as the total gross business for the year will be passed, possibly by as much as $200,000,000.

To what extent stockholders will share in the corporation's prosperity just now is the subject of lively conjecture in Wall street and this discussion is expected to continue, with powerful influence on the stock market, until the directors see fit to reveal whatever plan they may have in mind with respect to extra or increased dividends.

The net income for dividends in 1929, according to the best estimates possible at this time, should run close to $190,000,000. This is based on the expectation that the corporation in the current quarter will show between nearly $51,000,000 for dividends and that the fourth quarter business will yield somewhere between $42,000,000 and $45,000,000. The net for dividends in the second quarter, the most prosperous quartely period since the war, was $53,825,843, while in the first three months of the year the net was $42,185,447. That the corporation was able to expand its net by $11,640,396 between quarters is considered remarkable and illustrates graphically the extent of the improvement that has taken place in the steel business recently.

NATIONAL CITY BULLETIN CITES BUSINESS GAINS

New York, Aug. 3.—A striking illustration of the gains made by American business during the first half of the year is contained in a compilation made from corporation semi-annual reports and published in the current issue of the National City Bulletin. It shows that a group of 625 leading corporations, representing a wide range of activity reported aggregate net profits for the first six months of 1929 of $2,061,651,000, compared with $1,665,742,000 in the same period of 1928, a gain of 23.8 per cent.

Combined net profits of 229 companies engaged in different lines of manufacturing and trade were thirty per cent higher than in the corresponding period of last year. The railroads, as a group, gained twenty per cent and set a new high record, while public utility systems gained 18 per cent.

Commenting on the tabulation the National City Bulletin says: "A collection of such a large number of companies embracing most of the major industries gives a broad and fairly representative picture of American business. Of the 28 classifications of manufacturing and trading companies, every group but one shows an increase in profits in the first half of 1929 over the corresponding period of 1928. A most impressive showing was made by the 23 iron and steel companies, whose combined earnings increased from $85,084,000 to $172,800,000. United States Steel corporation reported net profits of $96,011,000, contrasted with $47,205,000 last year.

CURB ADVANCES DESPITE DIPS IN PROFIT TAKING

New York, Aug. 3.—The main trend of stocks continued upward on the curb exchange today, but week-end profit taking caused minor dips in the utilities and other sections of the list. With industry and business flourishing and the public buying stocks, the bullish sentiment of traders was unshaken by the stock exchange's report of an increase of more than $400,000,000 in brokers' loans last month.

Investment trust shares continued to benefit from the appreciation in market value of the high priced investment shares on the big board. With gilt edge utility, rail, and electric stocks showing millions of dollars in market value appreciation, such investment companies as Utility Equities, Utility and Industrial and Reliance Management added two and three points or more to their recent gains.

Continues to Ebb.

Trading in the utilities continued to ebb, chiefly as a result of a big drop in turnover of Commonwealth and Southern, and Niagara Hudson power, the two leaders in point of volume of the recent utility markets. However, Electric Bond and Share, Central States Electric and other members of the utility group recorded gains in sympathy with the strength of the group on the big board.

Realizing again sent Middle West Utilities lower. Insull Utilities, after soaring in the early trading to a new high, lost its gain on profit taking. Realizing sales also halted the rise of Newmont mining and other mining stocks, but the undertone of the group was firm as coppers continued to occupy the speculative limelight on the stock exchange.

Spurts 49 Points.

Miscellaneous industrials throughout the list piled up gains as evidence of industrial prosperity and good corporate earnings.

Aluminum company of America crossed 524 on a spurt of more than 49 points as orders came into a market where the floating supply was very limited. At 524 the stock was more than 374 points above its low for the year.

CONVERTIBLES STRONG; FOREIGN ISSUES FIRM IN N. Y. BOND MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Firmness in the foreign department and buoyancy in the convertibles characterized a quiet Saturday session today on the stock exchange bond market.

International Telephone 4½s of 1939 were a strong feature, rising about four points, to a new high record. American Telephone 4½s also hit a new top. Allegheny Corporation 5s had a forward movement and Atchison convertible 4½s were in better demand. Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron 6s, Kreuger & Toll convertible 5s and Lautaro Nitrate 5½s eased off slightly.

New Haven bonds were an active spot in the rails list. The convertibles were higher. Lehigh Valley Coal 5s of 1954 had a sudden drop of several points. Warner Sugar 7s were fractionally lower on moderate volume. Wickwire Spencer convertible 7s were given a whirl.

OFFERINGS OF NEW BOND ISSUES SHOW REDUCTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—New bond offerings for the week ended today were exceedingly light, compared with the new issues brought out during the last three weeks. The aggregate was $31,457,000, compared with $62,433,000 last week and $50,221,000 the week before. For the corresponding week a year ago, however, the total was only $3,360,000.

A railroad issue, that of $9,450,000 Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates, was the large single offering of the week, followed by an issue of $7,500,000 Ulen & Co. 6s and an issue of $5,000,000 Standard Investing corporation 5½s.

As was the case last week, no foreign issues were marketed, and for the first time in several weeks no public utility bonds were floated. Investment bankers have not been inclined to force the issue by piling on more bonds than the market can readily digest, despite the fact that the listed bond market has shown some improvement this week. It is understood, however, that several fairly large issues are being gotten ready for early offering.

J. H. KULP & CO. ENTERS GENERAL SECURITIES FIELD

Jacob H. Kulp & Co., investment banking firm which in the past has been engaged largely in the financing of postoffice terminals buildings, is extending its activity into the general securities field, it was announced yesterday.

A corporation securities department has been organized under the management of Raymond A. Eddy, which will engage in public utility financing. Leo H. Kulp, vice president of the company, will also be identified with the new department.

STOCK VALUES KEEP ON UPGRADE DURING JULY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—The last month was a continuation of the upswing in stock prices, started in June, with values of 240 issues divided into twenty groups showing a gain for the month. All did not move up together, however, but the combined groups appreciated $1,895,611,932 for the month, compared with $4,234,215,700 in June and a drop in values of $3,045,486,416 in May. Whereas in June only two groups showed losses, the number in July was nine.

Overshadowing all other classes of stocks were the public utility shares, appreciating $1,100,948,961 since the beginning of the month after an advance of $1,604,824,021 in June.

Individual issues in this group scoring sharp advances were Detroit Edison, up 40 points, on top of 42 points in June; Peoples Gas, Light and Coke, 78¾ points, after a gain of 35¾ points in June; American Telephone and Telegraph, 33¼ points; and Philadelphia company, 40½ points.

Another group showing better prices in July was the rails, gaining $561,606,957 since the end of June after advancing in June $376,179,864. Leading rails were Santa Fe, up 15½ points; Union Pacific, 30¼; New York Central, 26¾; and Chesapeake and Ohio, 23¼ points. Steels and chemicals as groups advanced in prices with the majority of issues showing large increases, United States Steel led with 18⅞ points, and Commercial Solvents, 45¼ points.

U. S. BUYING IS BOON TO BERLIN, LONDON STOCKS

Wall St. Interests Hoist Prices.

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—America provided the brightest spot in the London stock exchange this week. Wall street interests in the British share market had noticeably decreased in the last couple of months, but this week saw a resumption of aggressive buying of several trans-Atlantic favorites, such as hydro-electrics, international holdings, and margarine unions.

Professional speculative interest was hoisted high in hydros and internationals, the move apparently being partly in preparation for the introduction of a big block of electric shareholdings and shares on the London market, electrics being one of hydros' principal assets. Hydros in their turn will also be shortly introduced on the New York market.

American interest in the German markets also has been growing. The drift of American money to Germany in the last few weeks has been very strong. Much American capital is being provided for German developments in the talking films, in which the Western Electric company is prominently concerned. In addition to films America recently has acquired powerful interests in steel, motor cars, and electrical developments in Germany.

Dullness Elsewhere.

Outside of the flareup in trans-Atlantic favorites on New York's initiative, the London markets again featured a depressing dullness, chiefly under the influence of politics, the cotton strike, and the monetary uncertainty caused by the continued gold exodus. The unprecedented French gold gain, which has had such a disturbing effect on the London money market and a greatly weakening position on the Bank of England. All kinds of theories have been produced, but it is now generally regarded that the movement is the result of a change of policy of the Bank of France, which formerly was a ready purchaser of foreign bills payable in foreign countries. The French demand is due to a decision to convert a large portion of its immense holdings of dollar and sterling credits into gold for the purpose of enlarging its basis of credit in Paris, with a view to returning the market to the position it occupied before the war as a financial center instead of merely remaining as an investor in foreign currencies. It is also apparent that the real value of money at Paris was considerably higher than indicated by the level of official bank rate and the general shortage of francs, which has also been lately experienced.

The view now prevailing here is that the London bank rate will not be increased and that some of the recent gold withdrawals may return in the fall at a time when most needed. But some important conservative interests, however, regard the gold efflux as a menace to London's prestige as a financial center.

Contributory Factor.

A contributory factor to the lack of influential support for the markets, despite prices having fallen to exceptionally attractive levels, is the large sums now being employed by finance corporations for the purpose of making call loans as high rates of interest in Wall street. Vast amounts of French money are also being considerably employed.

The French gold drain began in the middle of June, since when 22,500,000 sterling has been taken from the Bank of England. This week's loss of gold reserve reached the record amount of more than 8,000,000 sterling, which lowered the bank's total gold reserve to the lowest point since the restoration of the gold standard. It appears obvious now that authorities here are much less concerned over the efflux of gold to France and Germany than they would be over a similar movement to New York.

Although no real fears appear to exist concerning an immediate advance in the official discount rate, the utmost caution is being exercised in transacting business. The dispute in the Lancashire cotton industry accentuated the depression, while the holiday influence naturally restricted business.

PARIS BOURSE DRAB

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 3.—The opening session of the Paris bourse remained in the same drab condition this week, although the French cabinet crisis has not exercised any effect on the markets, which remained weak and inactive Tuesday, with the prospect of the month end settlement weighing and a certain amount of profit taking.

Better conditions prevailed Wednesday, a brighter outlook in the political situation and the prospect of relief from taxation combining to induce operators to purchase, and a satisfactory rise in prices was noted in several groups. Money for the month end settlement was plentiful.

The amelioration continued Thursday in the market, with a favorable situation created by the success of the French government and rapid voting for the decrease in taxation becoming operative, also the prospect of a three month political peace during the parliamentary vacation. Under these influences an improvement resulted in practically all classes of stocks.

Grab Profits from Boulder Dam Realty

BY SCRUTATOR.

The Boulder dam project, which is to cost something like 165 million dollars, is already returning porfits to the class that opponents of the construction said would get the lion's share—the real estate promoters.

A bulletin of the National Better Business bureau warns investors that unscrupulous dealers in desert land are trading on the popular misconception of facts about the dam and are disposing of thousands of acres that can in no way benefit from the work, and at exorbitant prices.

Congress approved the Boulder dam last December and President Hoover signed the bill. The legislation calls for the building of a dam on the Colorado river to a height twice that of any existing barrier to a stream. It will have a reservoir with a capacity of twenty-six million acre feet of water and machinery to be set up will develop an estimated million horsepower in electric energy.

No Funds Appropriated.

Something more than a month ago, the states involved having given the necessary approval, the President by proclamation declared the act effective. But no funds for construction have been appropriated. The secretary of the interior must give an opinion to the effect that contracts have been secured that will yield operation and maintenance costs, interest at 4 per cent and a sinking fund to amortize the original cost within fifty years, before the work can begin.

Even with this uncertainty existing, the appeal to those who wish to go back to the land and farm under the torrid southwestern sun has resulted in the sale of much land that in the opinion of the California real estate department and the land office of the department of the interior can never be cultivated.

The government land office at Los Angeles said in a letter to the Better Business bureau: "There are no lands immediately around or for many miles distant from Boulder dam that have an agricultural value." It was added that all lands in Nevada were too high to be irrigated by the Colorado waters, and that in California and Arizona the water could not carry by gravity to a height of more than 650 feet above sea level. Also it was stated that there are seven million acres of government land in southern California and that over 90 per cent of it "will never be irrigated from any stream or river."

Try to Sell Here.

The California real estate commissioner has reported on certain lands which a promoter is said to be trying to sell in the vicinity of Chicago. He has found that the elevation is so great that the Boulder dam waters would have to be boosted by pumps from 1,600 to 1,800 feet, making the cost prohibitive. This virtually worthless land, which commands a price of from $5 an acre up in the hands of promoters, is said by the commissioner to be just like that which the Southern Pacific railroad has been offering for 50 cents to $1.50 an acre in the last two years.

Industrial sites, too, are being offered among the cactus. Power, undoubtedly, can be made and sold cheaply at the site of the dam. But it can't be seriously held that this factor alone can overcome the necessary transportation of raw materials and markets. The course of economic history now shows power being moved to materials.

Such land as can be irrigated is not needed by the country. We are suffering, or rather the farmer is suffering, most from a surplus of productive acreage. To put in many millions of additional acres would be to add to the prospects of agricultural distress in the future. That there is not so much around Boulder dam as interested promoters would have investors believe is a benefit to farmers. But that is not of much aid to those who buy the land without investigating its value.

MORGAN FIRM BUYS INTEREST IN SOAP CONCERN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—J. P. Morgan & Co. has acquired an interest in the Procter & Gamble company, soap manufacturers, through the acquisition of 150,000 shares of common stock and an option to buy an additional 100,000 shares, it was reported here today. The banking house is said to have paid $10,000,000 for the 150,000 shares and will pay $8,000,000 for the rest, if taken.

The deal gave rise to reports in the financial district that Morgan & Co. plan to include Procter & Gamble in the $500,000,000 food merger, recently announced, which includes the Fleischmann company, the Royal Baking Powder company and E. W. Gillett.

Stockholders of Procter & Gamble Co., meeting in Cincinnati, approved splitting up the common stock on a five for one basis.

Application had been made to place the new issue on the New York stock exchange.

UTILITIES LOOK AHEAD; PLAN FOR ELECTRIFICATION

Insull, Others Jockey for Position.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3—The American Waterworks and Electric company, Inc., whose subsidiary, the West Penn company, occupies a strategic position on the eastern utility checkerboard in western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland, has so far retained its independence despite moves on the part of several of the great utility systems looking toward acquisition of the property.

Wall street hears that the Insull group, the Morgan group, the Associated Gas system and the Standard Gas and American Gas companies have all sent out feelers for the West Penn electric property. Its possession would immediately guarantee the holder a dominating position between the eastern and central states power pools, already connected south of Lake Erie via Cleveland, but which undoubtedly will soon be provided with far more extensive interconnections.

Its an Open Secret.

It is no secret to state that the great utility groupings which have been built up over a period of years are looking ahead to the time when all the great trunk line systems will be electrified, so that the vast power pools created in the eastern and central states will be of necessity linked at numerous points, generally along the lines of greatest railroad development.

The business which will accrue from railroad electrification is undoubtedly anywhere from five to fifty years off, depending on the importance of the traffic and the peculiar conditions affecting each carrier, but utility executives already are planning twenty years and more in the future, thereby explaining the strategy lying behind such recent moves as the creation of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation and the effecting of vast power interchange agreements.

Although no negotiations for the merger of American Waterworks and Electric or its West Penn subsidiary are now in process, according to well informed sources, there is little doubt but that further moves by the great systems to acquire this property will take place in coming months. While the conservative house of Sanderson & Porter, which has built up the property, has shown no disposition to either buy or sell holdings, it would be impossible to assert that such an action would not take place.

Extent of Control.

The West Penn Electric controls electric light, power and railway companies serving 22,700 square miles, extending from within twenty-five miles of Baltimore across Maryland and northern West Virginia to the Ohio river and northward through the important industrial sections of western Pennsylvania, with the exception of Pittsburgh and its immediate environs to north central Pennsylvania.

This subsidiary, which, in turn, controls a number of operating companies, reporting gross earnings of $38,175,000 in 1928 and a net income of $6,259,000. It has thirty-two electric generating stations with about 600,000 horse power capacity and its transmission lines are interconnected at numerous points with other electric companies operating in adjacent territories.

Goldman Sachs Corp. to Expand on Pacific Coast

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—Negotiations are being conducted by the Goldman Sachs Trading corporation leading to a considerable expansion of its interest in financial and other corporations on the Pacific coast. The Goldman Sachs company has offered to exchange nine shares of stock for every seven shares of the American company of San Francisco until Aug. 15. The offer is conditioned on Goldman Sachs Trading obtaining control. American company holds stock of American Trust company and American National company of San Francisco and Oakland, Cal. In addition to seeking control of the American company, said to be the largest coast holding company, with assets of more than $72,000,000, the Goldman Sachs company will obtain a substantial interest in the Pacific Finance corporation through underwriting a $3,000,000 convertible note issue being offered. The notes are convertible into common stock on the basis of $120 a share.

New York Central to Spend $10,200,000 for Equipment

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The New York Central railroad today applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to issue $10,200,000 equipment trust certificates to purchase new equipment.

CENTRAL TRUST CO. SHARES ACTIVE IN BANK STOCK MART

Central Trust company of Illinois last week jumped 150 points to high sales at 775, and reacted sharply to last sales between 715 and 720 in the Chicago bank stock market. National Bank of the Republic moved up from early sales at 224 to high sales at 265, relinquishing a portion of this gain at 247 to 250. First National Bank of Chicago continued to be in supply at 901 with bids of 897. Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company sales ranged between 847 and 851.

Northern Trust company was off some 20 points at 1085 to 1095. There were few transactions recorded in Harris Trust and Savings bank between 1105 and 1115. State Bank of Chicago stock continued steady, sales ranging between 1193 and 1197. Foreman National bank was in good demand at 1247 bid; while Union Bank of Chicago was unchanged, sales ranging between 430 and 434. Peoples Trust was slightly improved at 528 to 532.

Cord Manufacturing enjoyed the largest portion of trading in the miscellaneous group, closing 3⅛ points higher at 27 bid, offered at 27¼. H. M. Byllesby "A" stock was up 40 points at 135 to 140. Bendix Service after selling at 24½ was offered down to 23¾ with best bids at 23.

UNITED AIRCRAFT EARNINGS RISE; PLANS MERGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—In conjunction with the making of a report of record earnings for the three months ended June 30, United Aircraft and Transport corporation announced today that it is negotiating for the merger of several more companies. It expects that two of these companies, Douglas Aircraft, Inc., and Sterman Aircraft company would be acquired in the near future. The Douglas company is a manufacturer of government observation planes and the Sterman company manufacturers commercial biplanes.

The announced negotiations for these companies renewed reports that United Aircraft would form its own commercial sales company, in competition with Curtiss Flying Service, Inc. The recent purchase of the Sikorsky company, which had a contract with the Curtiss Flying Service for the sale of its product, started the reports of a United Aircraft Sales company, but intimations have been made that the Sikorsky company will make its own sales arrangement.

The net income of United Aircraft and Transport company was reported for the three months ended June 30, 1929, at $2,650,000, after all charges including federal taxes, equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.57 a share. The net income for the first six months of 1929 totals $4,453,000, equivalent after the preferred dividends requirements to $2.61 a share which compares with $4,641,435 equivalent to $2.49 a share on the common shares then outstanding, in the entire year of 1928.

South Shore Electric Ry. Votes Quarterly Dividend

The board of directors of the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend electric railroad has declared a quarterly dividend of one and five-eighths per cent on the outstanding 6½ per cent class A preferred stock. Gary Railways company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.80 per share on the outstanding class A preferred stock.

I. C. C. Deals Kindly with Rail Group

New York, Aug. 3.—The action of the interstate commerce commission in approving the vesting in a trustee of stock in the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, owned by the Van Sweringen interests, apparently is the first action of its kind under the Clayton anti-trust act, it was declared by railroad counsel today.

The step taken by the commission is considered favorable to the Van Sweringens, apparently indicating a compromise between them and the commission. The advantage to the Van Sweringens in the arrangement is that they they will not be compelled to dispose of the stock at a probable loss, nor incur the risk of having it acquired by rival interests.

Name Fancher Trustee.

The commission approved a plan by which E. R. Fancher, governor of the Cleveland Federal Reserve bank, as trustee, shall hold 53 per cent of Wheeling stock now owned by the Van Sweringen interests. Two-thirds of this block of stock was owned by the Allegheny corporation and the other third by the Nickel Plate railroad. The Allegheny corporation acquired its share of the stock from the New York Central and the Baltimore and Ohio just before the two railroads were ordered under the Clayton act to divest themselves of these holdings. The department of justice has also approved the trusteeing of the Wheeling stock.

The Van Sweringens apparently made it a concession on their side in making this agreement with the commission. The Allegheny corporation is not a carrier and under present court decisions is not subject to jurisdiction of the commission. For that reason two-thirds of the Wheeling stock could presumably be held by the Allegheny corporation without hindrance by the commission. It is true that when the commission ordered the New York Central and the B. & O. to dispose of their holdings of Wheeling they directed that this disposal be made in a manner in which it would approve. It never has approved the sale to the Allegheny corporation but, on the other hand, the law is not clear as to what action they could have taken in the deal, because their order to divest was made after the New York Central and the B. & O. had already divested.

In Different Position.

The Nickel Plate, however, was in a different position from the Allegheny corporation. Its purchase of Wheeling stock was entirely within the jurisdiction of the commission. Had it attempted to sell its Wheeling stock to the Allegheny corporation, a step which counsel for the Van Sweringens contemplated strongly at one time, the commission might have acted to make the transaction void.

If the Van Sweringens had been compelled to dispose of the stock in the open market they would naturally have incurred great losses, since under a forced sale they would not have realized for their stock a fair proportion of what they had paid for it. If the stock had been put on the market in that way it might conceivably have been acquired at bargain rates by interests hostile to the Van Sweringens, notably the Pennroad corporation, investment affiliate for the Pennsylvania railroad.

The Pennroad corporation has already outmarched the B. & O. through two strategical railroad purchases and it was considered likely that it would be willing to attempt further similar moves. With the Wheeling stock placed in the hands of the trustee it will be safely out of reach of opponents of the Van Sweringens.

BANK CLEARINGS FOR WEEK SHOW 24 PCT. INCREASE

New York, Aug. 3.—No change from the heavy volume of bank clearings is noted, leading cities of the United States reporting an aggregate of $12,760,962,000 to Dun's Review this week. The amount is 24 per cent in excess of that of a year ago, there being a gain of 32.8 per cent at New York City and one of 6.4 per cent at outside centers.

Of the twenty-two outside included in the statement, only three show smaller bank clearings than in this week of 1928, these being St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco.

CHICAGO STOCK MART NAILS UP RECORD SALES

Saturday Session Is History Making.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

The Chicago stock exchange nailed up another record plaque on its front door yesterday as total sales for the week-end two hour session established a total of 340,000 shares, the biggest Saturday business in its history. This compares with the preceding Saturday high mark of 227,000 shares established on Jan. 26 of this year.

The new weekly record which was established by Friday afternoon was enhanced further by yesterday's sales to a high of 2,997,000 against the previous high of 2,116,000 shares. More shares were traded in last week than in all of the first four months of 1927 and came close to the total for the first two months of 1928. So far this year total sales registered 38,474,300 shares compared with a total of 38,941,589 during all of 1928.

Center of Interest.

Chicago corporation again became the center of interest with sales of 111,250 shares for the short session. Trading for the day was initiated in this issue as a block of 25,000 shares was thrown into the market. The price advanced to a new high of 73 in spite of this, only to succumb to the terrific profit taking at the close when the final quotation was 68¼, a net loss of 1¾ on the day.

The Insull section of the utility list continued weak as holders resumed the cashing in process. Insull Utility Investments marked up sales of around 25,000 shares as it dropped eight points to 139. Public Service no par receded twenty points on a few odd lot sales. Commonwealth Edison was down six points while Middle West Utilities common eased five points and the prior lien 2½. National Electric Power A was off four points.

Central Public Service "A" advanced 1½ on announcement that holders of the "A" and common stocks will be offered rights to purchase additional stock in a few weeks.

Standard Dredging was the principal feature of the general list, jumping 2½ points on buying by an eastern investment trust coupled with announcement by the company that earnings for the current year will be close to $6.00 a share. In 1928 net was $1,947,368, or $4.12 a share.

Gardner-Denver was up 1¼ in response to a statement of July earnings showing net to be $134,000, against $96,000 a year ago.

Grigsby-Grunow Income.

North American Car was down a point. Stockholders will vote Aug. 22 on a proposal to increase the authorized no par common stock from 125,000 to 500,000 shares.

Grigsby-Grunow was off 1¼. William C. Grunow, vice president, issued a statement yesterday in which he said that earnings are running in excess of $1,000,000 net a month. June net after all charges, he said, amounted to approximately $1,000,000 against $200,000 net in June, 1928. He added that 11,000 daily workers are now employed in the company's plants.

The stock exchange announced that a membership on the exchange was sold during the day for $80,000, equaling the record high price and $5,000 above the last previous sale.

INV. TRUSTS CATCH FANCY OF U. S. PUBLIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 3.—Investment trust financing, which started with a modest amount early in 1926, has caught the fancy of the American public until it now has reached a point where it is described as the phenomenon of the investment market.

The investment trust idea has taken hold of the financial community to such an extent that virtually one-half of the banking houses in Wall street now are interested directly or indirectly in the investment trusts or in the marketing of their securities. Some idea of the momentum with which investment trusts are proceeding may be gathered from the fact that since the first of the year stocks and bonds of new and old trusts have been marketed in the amount of more than $1,000,000,000.

This figure refers solely to institutions organized to buy, sell, hold and trade in securities and to participate in underwritings, as differentiated from out and out holding companies which seek to control or hold substantial amounts of stock on companies for reasons other than purely investment. Many of these companies of course, limit their scope to certain types of securities, while others of the general type seek investments in securities of all kinds, both foreign and domestic.

New York, Aug. 3.—With hopes of easier money rates next week, the bull traders of Wall street went right along about their business today. They gave the stock market another upward push to add to the sweeping advances of the last few days.

Instead of selling off at the opening, as many bear traders had expected and hoped, the market advanced vigorously and a number of issues reached new peak prices in the first hour. While the volume of week-end profit taking increased in the second hour, it was well absorbed and reactions were relatively small. At the same time aggressive buying demonstrations were staged in several groups and some sharp advances were recorded.

Final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging up to nearly 15 points and a smaller list of net losses running up to 5 points. The volume of trading was fairly large for a two hour Saturday session, with total transactions of about 1,840,000 shares, or at the rate of 4,600,000 shares for a full five hour session.

Westinghouse Advances.

The Westinghouse Electric issues performed spectacularly, with the common and first preferred stocks soaring 14⅞ and 10¾ points respectively. There were reports that the company might find its way into the American-German combination being fostered by the General Electric company. However, General Electric shares made no response to these plans and ended with a fractional loss.

The public utilities again were in the forefront of the advance. Brooklyn Union Gas jumped 9 points and gains running up to more than five points were established by Columbia Gas and Electric, Consolidated Gas, Engineers Public Service, International Telephone, Pacific Gas, Pacific Lighting, Pacific Telephone, Peoples Gas and Southern California Edison. But Abitibi Power, American and Foreign Power and American Power and Light lost a point or more.

The standard industrials were inclined to irregularity. United States Steel moved narrowly and ended with a gain of nearly a point. American Can, American Smelting, Du Pont and General Motors gained a point or two. But American Telephone, Allied Chemical and Radio lost a point or more.

The copper group was strong on the improving demand for the red metal from abroad. International Silver soared 9 points and gains of a point or two were made by American Metals, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, Greene Cananea and Kennecott. St. Joseph Lead was moderately lower.

Auburn Leads Autos.

In the motor group Auburn led with a four point gain and smaller advances were made by Chrysler, Electric Auto-

WHEAT PRICES ERRATIC; CLOSE SHOWS DECLINE

Exporters' Interest in Cash Grain Is Increased.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Scattered liquidation was on in the wheat market yesterday, and while there was a rally of around 3c from the early low, the finish was on a recession with net losses of 1⅝@2⅝c. Corn broke with wheat and on more favorable weather and closed 2@2⅝c lower. Oats were off 1⅛@1⅝c, while rye finished 1@1⅛c lower. Winnipeg wheat was weak and 2⅛@2⅝c lower.

Grain markets fluctuated with extreme rapidity the last week, and while there was considerable strength shown early the lowest figures of the week were made Saturday with wheat showing net losses of 5@6½c at the last as compared with the previous week, with corn 2⅝@5⅝c lower. Oats were ⅝c lower to ¼c higher and rye ⅜c higher. Lard lost 12½@20c; ribs, 12½c, and bellies, 5@22½c for the week.

A good part of the selling of wheat was induced by the pressure of cash grain, although no change was shown in the local sample market for the day.

Export Demand Better.

More general interest is being shown in cash wheat by exporters with reports of around 1,000,000 bu hard winter having been sold c. i. f. Buffalo, while St. Louis sold wheat for export via the gulf for the first time on the crop, and red winter from Michigan was sold to Baltimore with more business working. Efforts to find storage room for the record movement in the southwest were reflected in offers of around 1,000,000 bu hard winter to Duluth at 13c under Chicago December. There was a moderate demand indicated at the seaboard, but figures on sales were not given.

No rain of consequence was shown in the American or Canadian northwest and reports on spring wheat from that area remain bullish, but temporarily seem to have lost their effect in view of the weak cash position incident tto the movement of winter grain. Liverpool closed ⅝@1d lower with pressure of American offers having some effect. That market and Winnipeg will be closed Monday. The trade look for a big increase to be shown in the domestic visible supply on Monday. Little change was shown in the local spot market.

Rain Helps Corn Crop.

Good rains were shown over the greater part of Iowa, Illinois, and Indiana and the outlook for the new corn crop has improved, while in both Kansas and Nebraska deterioration is claimed as the result of continued hot and dry weather. There was good support on the sharp breaks in corn futures, with holders of bids taking hold freely. Local spot basis showed little change. Break in wheat had some effect on local sentiment, but the latter is decidedly mixed.

Oats prices averaged lower with other grains and on scattered local and commission house selling, with a fair rally from the inside figures on short covering. Offerings of new grain to arrive were only fair. Murray estimates farm reserves on Aug. 1 at 91,000,000 bu against 42,000,000 bu last year. On the basis of the average private estimate on the crop, plus the carryover total, available supplies for the season are 1,303,000,000 bu, or 189,000,000 bu less than last year and 121,000,000 bu under the five year average. There was a fair class of buying in rye, but nothing was heard regarding export business and prices averaged lower with wheat.

COTTON MOSTLY HIGHER

Cotton markets generally opened lower yesterday, but advanced, and later became irregular, with the close on futures at Chicago 5 points higher to 5 points lower. New York and New Orleans had considerable strength toward the last, the former gaining 13@15 points, and the latter 7@14 points. Spots in New York were 15 points higher at 19c; New Orleans did not report. Galveston was 18.90c and Houston 18.65c. Liverpool was closed for a holiday.

Private crop estimates made the production 14,800,000 to 15,800,000 bales. The government report will be out Thursday, August 8. In the meantime news from the cotton belt regarding weather and weevil activities is expected to be the leading feature.

PROVISION TRADE SMALL

Interest in provisions was limited yesterday, with lard 2½c lower and meats unchanged. There is no disposition to operate on either side of the market, with buyers not inclined to pay prices asked by holders, especially with hogs 15@25c lower, and prospects for a good run the coming week. Shipments of lard for the week were smaller than the previous week and last year and meats materially larger. Liverpool was closed and will be until Tuesday. Exports of lard from the seaboard were 42,000 lbs. and bacon 40,000 lbs. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Local longs were said to be well out of their wheat at the close yesterday. They bought it early when commission houses were selling, and sold it out later when the commission houses again became free sellers. The market is nervous and is expected to be so until the cash situation is greatly improved. There is doubt expressed as to the disposition on the part of foreigners to sustain recent bulges abroad, and crop news seems to have gone a little stale as a most important factor. This makes the market more susceptible to pit operations.

Grand Rapids, Mich., reported that millers took around 100,000 bu of wheat out of Lansing on Friday.

A report of frost at a few points in western Canada was an important factor in giving the wheat market a little strength at the last, and it was said that some operators in Winnipeg were credited with selling wheat.

Local longs in corn are said to have reduced their holdings in the last few days owing to rains. Crop reports were mixed. There were claims of damage from the southwest and also from parts of Iowa, while at the same time Harvey Williams of Thomson & McKinnon wired from Mason City, Ia., that it rained all day Friday from Chicago to that point, the rain being badly needed, as corn was showing effects of heat. The crop generally is late, not over 50 per cent showing tassels, he said. "Iowa corn is much better, averaging fairly up to normal, and some very early well eared. The crop looks better coming north from Waterloo. Heavy rain and windstorm Thursday night relieved the drought but blew down lots of corn all the way from Clinton to Waterloo."

Fireworks in AMERICAN TELEPHONE?

WHETHER you compare American Telephone with public utilities, of which it is the greatest, whether you compare it with electrical companies, of which it owns the greatest (Western Electric), whether you compare it with the so-called laboratory stocks, including chemicals (American Telephone owns the greatest of all laboratory staffs), American Telephone is cheaper than any of the great stocks in any of these groups.

Will there be fireworks in American Telephone when these facts are fully appreciated by investors?

An important analysis of American Telephone is contained in the latest issue of our bulletin and will be sent free upon request to any interested investor.

EXHIBITION OF CHURCH DESIGN TO OPEN AUG. 12

Prize Winners, 18 Others to Be Shown at Field's.

Pictures of twenty of the churches entered in the first annual nation-wide architectural competition of the Christian Herald will be on exhibition in the interior decorating galleries of Marshall Field & Co., beginning Aug. 12 and closing Aug. 17. This exhibition, composed of photographs of structures that have been completed, will be on view on all parts of the country.

Churches in the competition were limited to buildings seating not more than 500 persons, thus limiting the exhibition generally to edifices erected in suburbs and small cities. The first prize of $1,000 went to the Methodist Episcopal church at Trainer, Pa., a small Gothic structure costing $75,000. And the second prize was awarded the First Baptist church of Plainfield, N. J., a colonial church of beautiful lines that cost $210,000.

45 Entries Received.

The competition was inaugurated by the Christian Herald to help improve church architecture in America. Forty-five entries were received this year for presentation to the jury of award, which was headed by Ralph Adams Cram, Boston architect.

The churches that won the competition were built to meet the requirements of the present day religious plant—that is, the three major ministries, worship, fellowship, recreation, and religious education.

"There never was a time in history when the church faced a greater test than in our own day," Samuel D. Fuson, service editor of the Christian Herald, who is in Chicago to assist Marshall Field in presenting the exhibit. "To survive, the church building must meet the complex requirements of worship, fellowship, and religious education.

"A Criminal Waste."

"Worship remains, of course, the chief function of the church, but it is absolutely criminal to invest millions of dollars in a church that is used only a few hours on Sunday and perhaps an hour for mid-week service. Nor will such a church survive today when so many worldly amusements and interests are competing for the time and attention of our young people.

"The Christian Herald's motive in conducting this competition and sending a traveling exhibit of the prize-winning church design across the country is to foster better church architecture and to present in a concrete, dramatic way what actually is being done in church building today.

"The church merits and must have the best architectural skill possible, and it must be built and furnished of durable honest materials and equipment. There must be no sham in the house of God."

FRED H. MEYER ERECTS BUILDING ON ASHLAND AVE.

Work is under way on an important addition to the Lincoln, Belmont, and Ashland district, where construction is in progress on the Medic building at the southwest corner of Ashland and Melrose. For the present the structure will be two stories high, but foundations have been installed for six stories. Occupying a site 50x117 feet, it will be directly opposite the northeast corner of Lincoln and Ashland, when the widening of Ashland is completed. There will be two stores and twenty doctors' offices. The Meyer Drug company, located in the district for twenty-four years, will occupy one of the stores. Frederick H. Meyer recently acquired the site from F. P. Oswald for a reported $150,000. The building will cost $125,000. The Lincoln Trust & Savings bank has underwritten a $130,000 bond issue. M. F. Strauch is architect. Paul Mueller & Sons have the general contract. Ralph H. Jackson & Co. were brokers.

SYNDICATE BUYS SIMPSON CORNER IN NILES CENTER

A syndicate of three men purchased the northwest corner of Ridge road and Simpson street in Hillcrest Manor subdivision, Niles Center, for a reported $60,000, of which $30,000 was cash. The Old Dearborn State bank took title for the new owners. The property fronts 117 feet on Ridge road and seventy-nine feet on Simpson street, which is part of the new Evanston-Elgin highway No. 58. Will Ash and William O. Layson of the Frank R. Mason company were brokers.

4 STORY HOTEL IS RISING AT 942 EDGECOMB PLACE

Work is under way on a four story hotel building at 948-50 Edgecomb place, between Broadway and Sheridan road, which is to cost a reported $125,000, exclusive of the land. The structure, designed by Architect Mandel H. Harris, will contain fifty-two rooms. The lot is 50x129 feet. Mrs. Mary F. Schmidt is the owner. D. M. Reid is the mason contractor.

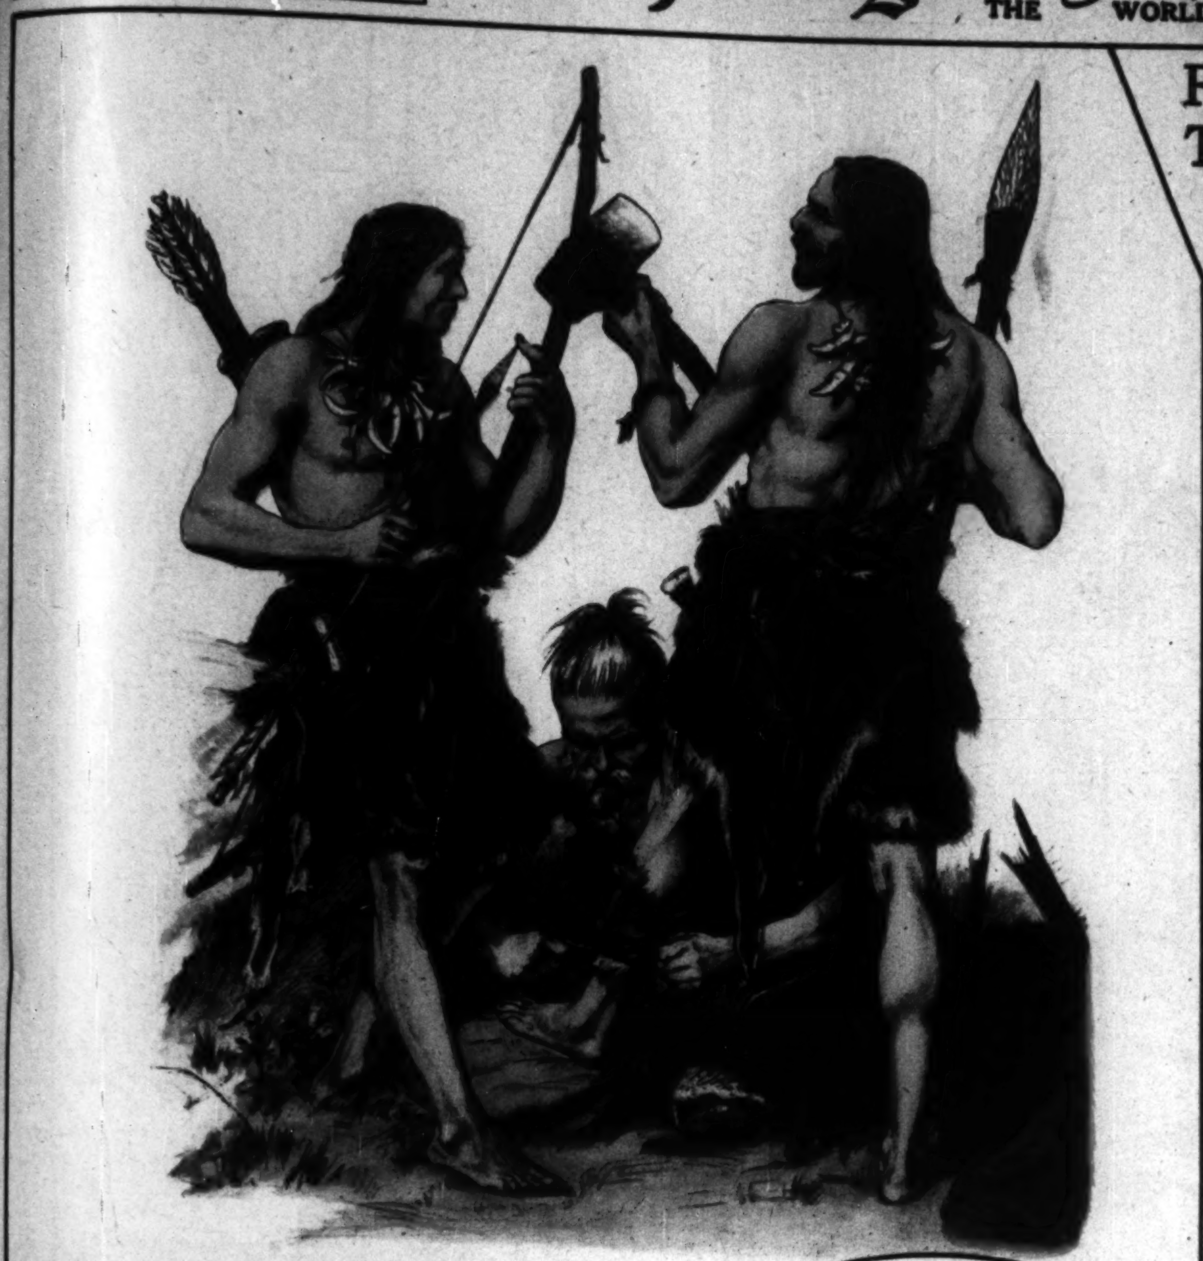
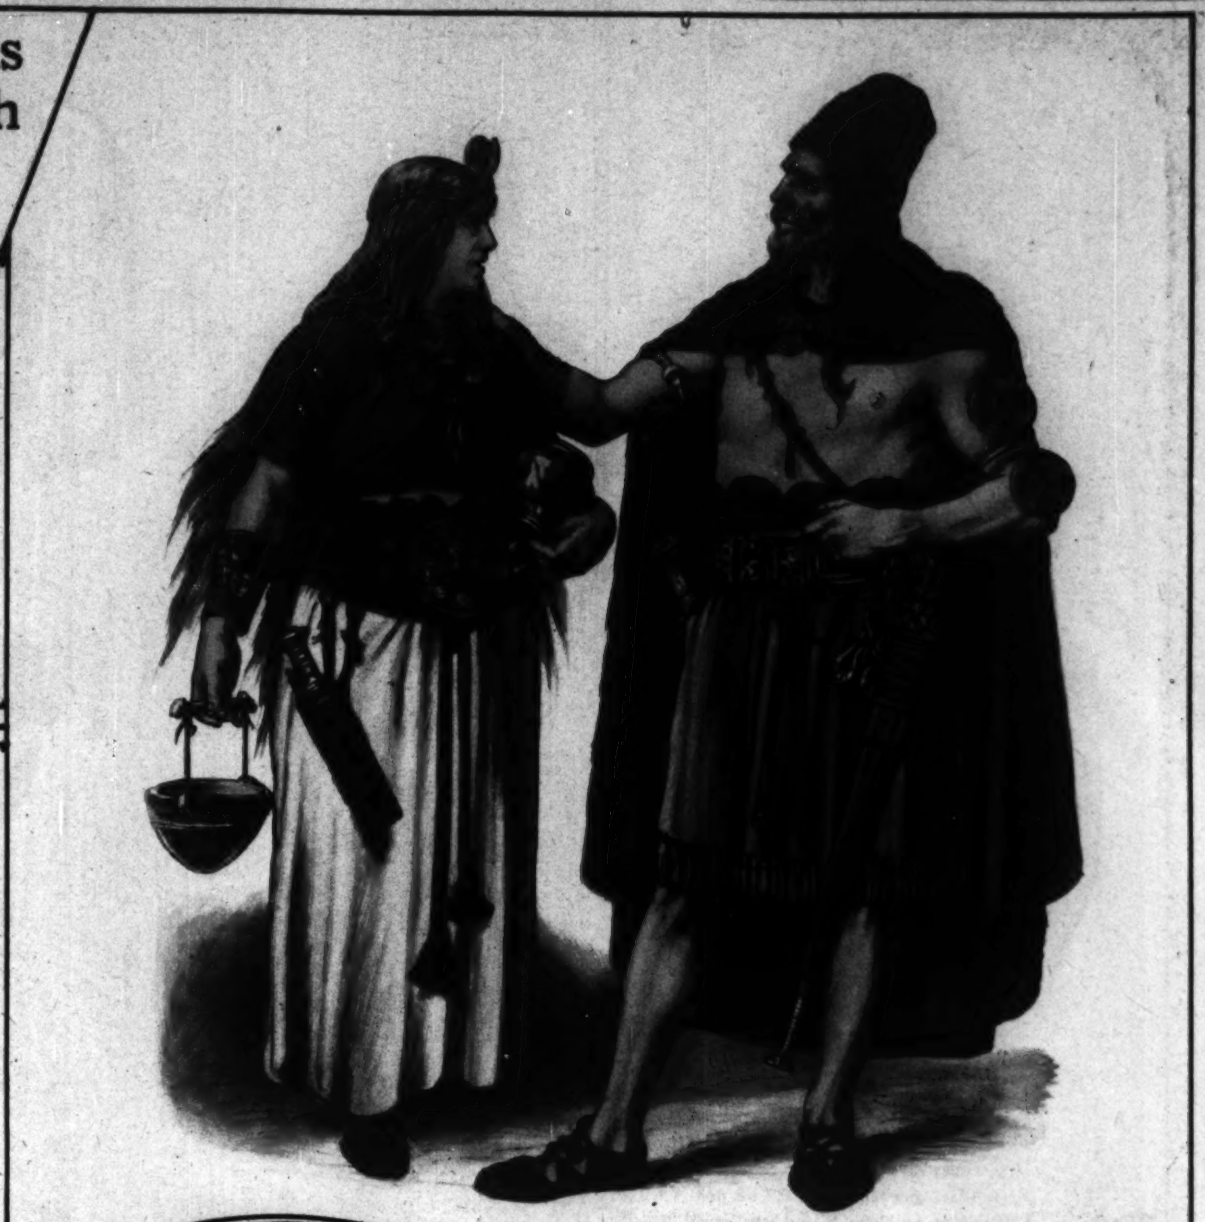
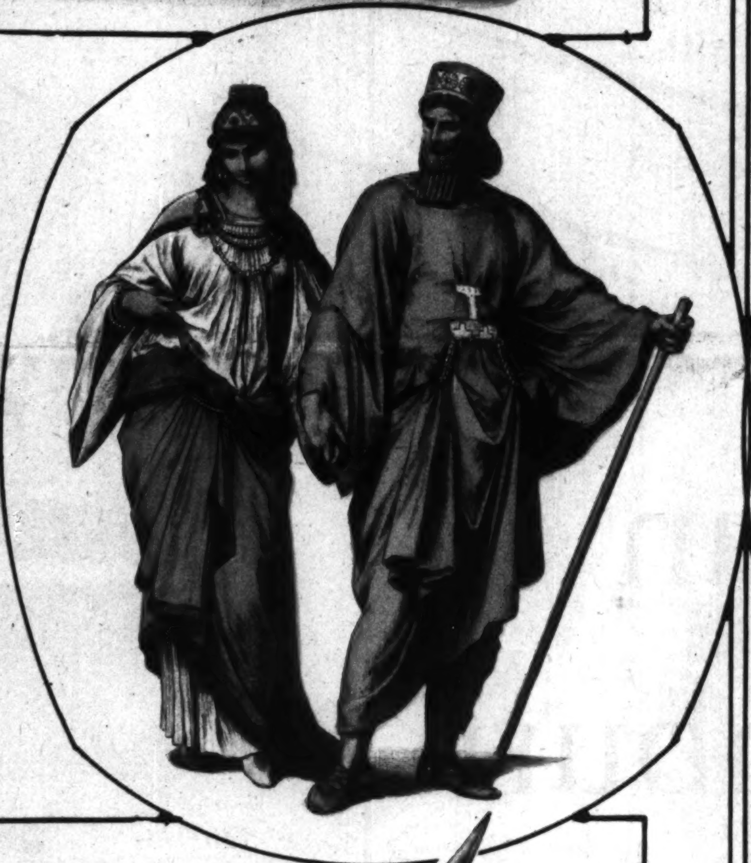
Fashions Through the Ages



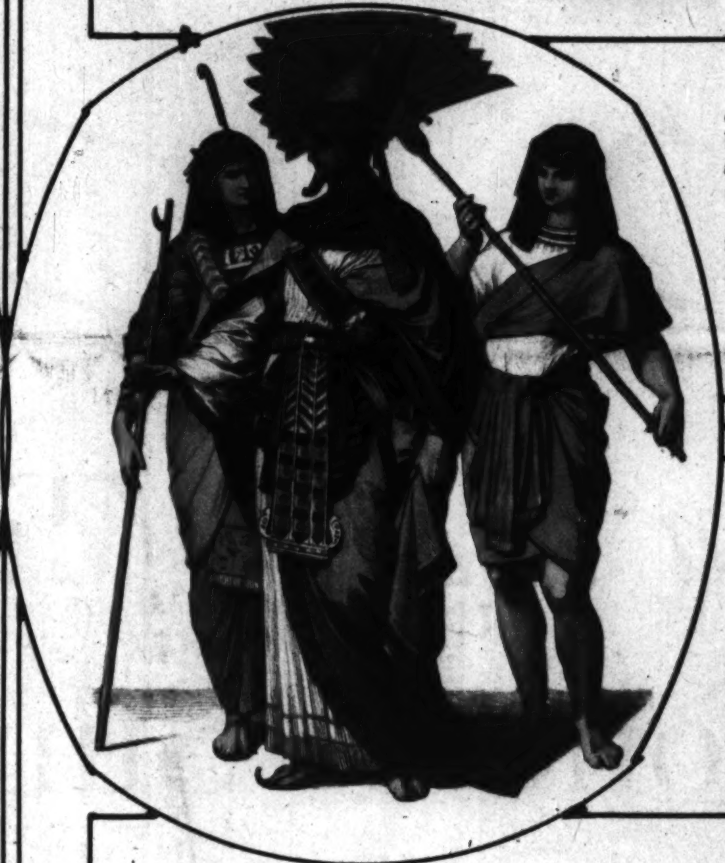
FROM THE FIG LEAVES, the loin cloths, and the animal skins of the dawn of mankind, through the splendors of the Louis XIV. and Elizabethan periods, and down to the year 1929, the chronicle of costumery offers a fascinating study. Chapter I. in this pictorial history presents the devastating habiliments and armaments of two warlike gentlemen of the Stone age.



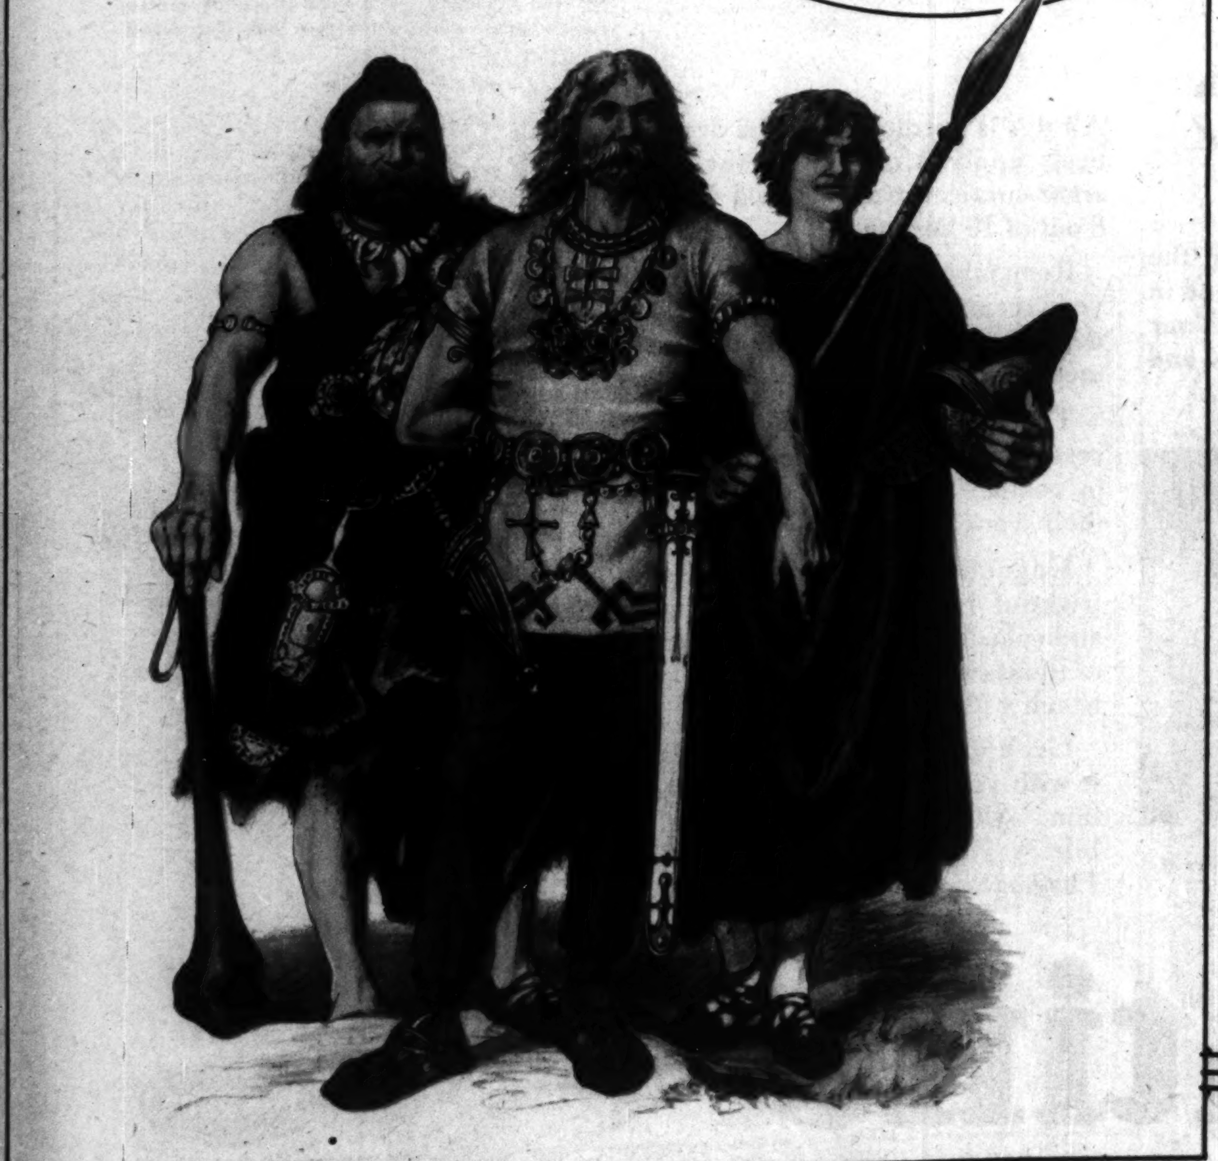
IN THE BRONZE AGE, when the alloy of copper and tin played a leading role in both implements and dress ornaments, Mr. and Mrs. Antique are believed to have looked something like this. The belief is derived from research into a vast accumulation of material gathered from ancient sculptures, paintings, inscriptions, and writings.



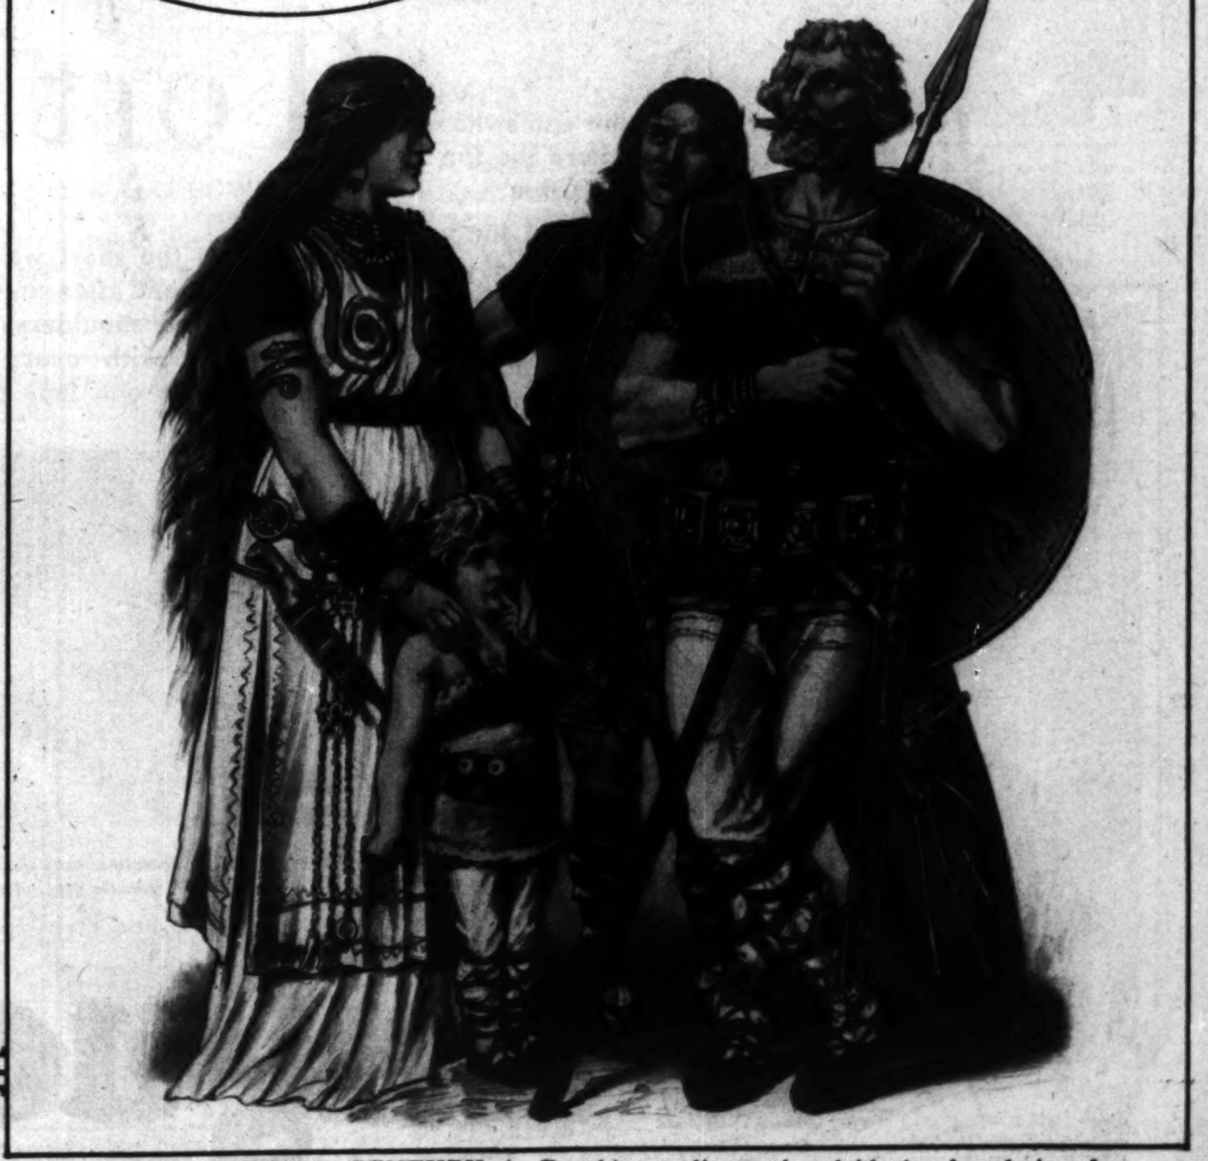
BEFORE CHRIST—The hair, mustache, and beard were treated thus, and the bodies garbed thus, by the upper classes in the ancient Medo-Persian empire. The Medes knew their modes.



HE RULED THE LAND OF THE NILE during some dynasty or other, and with him in this exclusive view are a court official and fan-carrier. Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.



WHEN THE CHRISTIAN ERA BEGAN the barbarian hordes that later were to sweep down from the north and bury the superannuated civilizations along the Mediterranean had reached this state of hirsute and metallic adornment. Another color-page of "Fashions Through the Ages" in next Sunday's Tribune.



IN THE THIRD CENTURY A. D., the sturdiness that laid the foundation for Germany's present-day stamina was encased in clothing cut from these patterns. The drawing, like all the others on this page, is taken from "Zur Geschichte der Kostueme," published by Braun & Schneider, Munich.

Rub on a thin coating of Unguentine before you step out into the glare of the sun. Unguentine permits the beneficial ultra-violet rays to tone up your system while surely preventing them from penetrating too quickly. With Unguentine applied beforehand, you'll get that deep, even tan that's so popular this summer —without painful burning.

Always, out-of-doors, whether playing tennis or golf, fishing, hunting, yachting or picnicking, protect yourself against sunburn's menace with Unguentine.

Get a healthy Tan with none of Sunburn's Torture

JUMP into your bathing suit and swim out to the raft . . . there's where the fun is. Feel the sunshine on your bare skin.

It's the best thing in the world for you. City weariness drops away . . . you feel young and well and strong. And well you may, for science declares that sunlight is the finest of preventive medicines.

Your own physician, all doctors, will tell you how vitally important sunlight is for your health.

But, all the time, watch out. The friendly sun can wound you cruelly.

Sunburn, like all burns, kills the living cells on the surface of the skin. Poisons are given off from this affected skin area and pass into your system.

Severe sunburn will produce all the symptoms which accompany deep burns—a high fever, general weakness and nervousness. Just a short while in the hot sun may lead to long, wretched days in bed. Why take this risk? Even the short while you sit on the beach before and after your swim may end in sore, blistered shoulders and arms. Your clothes hurt with every movement, and nights become one long torture.

All this is needless. At the first sign of redness, apply Unguentine, the famous antiseptic surgical dressing used for all burns in 8 out of 10 hospitals.

Remember one thing. Severe sunburn is very serious. You owe it to yourself not to depend on ineffective lotions—or other cosmetics with no healing power.

The antiseptic, soothing oils in Unguentine reach down in the burned tissues and remain in contact with them, until they have done their work.

Unguentine almost instantly stops the frightful burning, soothes tortured nerves and speeds easy, normal healing. Hundreds of thousands of bathers now never go to the beach without it.

Get a tube of Unguentine today, and take it with you to the beach and on your vacation. Always keep a tube in your automobile. At your druggist's, 50¢. The Norwich Pharmacal Company, Norwich, N. Y.

UNGUENTINE SOAP, bland and pure, is the perfect soap for tender, sunburned skin. And because of its Unguentine content it rapidly clears up blemishes.

HIS ONLY PUBLIC APPEARANCE IN HIS HOME TOWN, and what may prove to be the last time he ever will be seen on a race track, was made a week ago Saturday by Reigh Count, champion of the American turf. OUT IN THE GREAT OPEN SPACES to the west of Chicago goes today's Tribune tour for motorists. St. Charles, Geneva, Batavia, Mooseheart, and Aurora are some of the places along the main trail, and there are side trips to Wheaton, Elgin, and many other points. Those who can't get away today would do well to file away this map for some future drive.

Scrupulous Purity

THERE'S a thrill to the marvelous flavor of this fine old ginger ale . . . refreshing as a cool breeze from the sea . . . sparkling as the grass when sun shines through the dew . . . mellow as a tree-shaded lawn . . . and as delightful a beverage as any you ever drank.

It is served in smart New York hotels and clubs and has won the approving nod of connoisseurs the wide world over.

One simple fact—matchless excellence—has won for "Canada Dry" this universal appeal. Absolutely pure ingredients, Jamaica ginger of the highest quality, contribute the inimitable result—"Canada Dry." An exact process of blending and balancing is directed to one end—its marvelous flavor. A secret process of carbonation produces delicacy in taste—neither too sharp nor too flat. Daily tests assure its purity.

Have you tried it? Do you know the thrill of drinking this better, purer, finer beverage? Its sparkle adds zest to a meal. Its cooling vigor brings welcome refreshment the whole year through. And its gracious charm enhances the hospitality of any occasion. Serve "Canada Dry" with dinner tonight. Offer it to your friends when they come in to see you. Order it when you dine out. Learn the thrill of drinking "the champagne of ginger ales."

THE CHIEF CAMELEER of Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews' expeditions into the Gobi desert has been pensioned for life. "DON'T BUY TWICE THE COAL WE NEED—THIS SAVES HALF!"

THIS is no theoretical offer to save you money. If you've been buying a car of $7.50 coal a month and suddenly begin to get along on a car of $5 screenings every six weeks you'd know something had happened!

Smoke is completely eliminated! Firing labor is reduced to the simple job of loading the coal hopper. Anyone can do that.

For the first time, completely automatic heat is cheaper than hand-fired coal. Cheaper than oil or gas by far.

Boiler efficiency is so greatly improved that one concern shut down half their boilers and still got all the heat they needed. Peter Schuttler Co. evaporate 30% more water per pound of coal with Combustioneer. Geo. Wittbold Co., Florists, say they get 30,000 sq. ft. capacity with 24,000 rating.

And by no means least important is the fact that SMOKE IS COMPLETELY ELIMINATED. Boiler pressure is maintained with a variation of 1 pound or less. Ask St. Anthony hospital.

There's a Combustioneer installation in your neighborhood. Let us arrange to drive you there for a personal inspection. Phone Crawford 4220 or mail coupon.

"$8.00 A DAY EXTRA IN THE CASH BOX! Thanks to Combustioneer. We burn screenings—have no smoke—require 50% less firing labor. All that with the hardest steam load there is—dairy sterilizing."—Logan Square Dairy, Chicago.

"A BIG SLICE OF OUR PAYROLL IS SAVED EVERY WEEK" says this leading Chicago manufacturer; "just because Combustioneer makes a car of cheaper coal go further than $7.50 coal used to—by days! Combustioneer automatic coal burning is the best single investment we have made."

Watch for "THE HAWK"
BY ROY VICKERS

IT'S the Tribune's new daily serial, and it starts Monday, August 26th. AND . . . it has enough excitement for six mystery stories! Not merely one criminal . . . but a crowd of them! Dope smugglers! And a young British peer they blackmailed . . . likewise his lovely young fiancee they kidnaped a time or two. Not to mention a villainous female who sent the British peer to prison . . . with perjured testimony . . . because he didn't return her affection! And that's only about half the excitement. You mustn't miss it.

A Totally NEW-TYPE Food-Drink from Switzerland

–the Most Delicious Food-Drink Known

What Ovaltine Is

Ovaltine is a food-drink UTTERLY DIFFERENT in formula, taste and effect from any other known. A scientific food-concentrate not remotely to be confused with powdered chocolate, malt and cocoa "mixtures" sometimes offered as substitutes.

Developed 37 years ago by a famous Swiss scientist, Ovaltine contains, in highly concentrated form, practically every single vital food element necessary to life.

Due to an exclusive process, employed by no other food-drink known, it supplies those vital elements in scientific ratio and in such easily digested form that a child's system will absorb them even when digestion is impaired. That is why results are often so astonishing. Why results are so often apparent in the course of even a few days.

How It Acts

Elements such as iron, lime, phosphorus, and important vitamins are supplied to meet the body's needs. Some build bone and muscle. And thus create new strength. Others build firm flesh. And thus constantly increase weight—as weight increases nervousness perceptibly decreases.

Some foster richer blood and thus combat conditions of anemia. Others produce the quick energy and new vitality for which Ovaltine is world-famous.*

Digests Starches

Then, too, Ovaltine has high diastatic power. Which means the power of digesting the undigested starches from other foods eaten.

Thus, this scientific creation not only furnishes tremendous food energy in itself, but greatly increases the effectiveness of all starch food your child eats. Such as oatmeals, bread, potatoes, etc., which comprise over half a normal child's daily diet. Consider what this means.

Get Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store. Or send coupon for 3-day supply and free shaker. Note the difference in your child's weight; in nerve poise, in greater strength and energy. Find out, for your child's sake, what this creation means to you and yours. Give at breakfast, always. Give at meals and between meals to increase the effectiveness of ordinary diet. Delicious as a cold "shake-up" drink. Results will surprise you.

Note: Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued. They take it hot at night, too, to insure restful sleep. During the Great War, it was a standard ration prescribed by the Red Cross as a restorative food for invalid soldiers of all nations.*

"Now a Rosy Cheeked, Healthy Lad"

My little boy, three years old, had rickets. I tried to build him up with vegetables, fruit juices and medicine, but he got no better. A year ago I began to give him Ovaltine. From the first he started to pick up and is now a rosy cheeked, healthy lad. He takes Ovaltine twice a day and shall continue to do so.

This glowing health is typical of young students in Dr. Rollier's famous winter "Sun School" at Davos, Switzerland—where Ovaltine is served regularly, with meals and between meals.

"She Gained 3 Pounds in 2 Weeks"

Following an attack of the "flu", our 9-year-old girl became pale and listless—too tired to even play with her dolls. She slept poorly, her appetite failed, and each day she got thinner. Tonics upset her stomach, and she soon tired of the "chocolate-malted" drinks.

When her weight dropped to only 63 lbs., I decided to try Ovaltine. The "so-different-taste" appealed to her, and she needed no coaxing to drink a large glass at bedtime, one in the morning, and another at noon.

I weighed her after she had taken Ovaltine for 2 weeks—and could hardly believe my eyes, for she had gained 3 lbs.! After taking Ovaltine a little over 2 months, she weighs 78 lbs.—a gain of 15 lbs. of rosy, firm flesh.

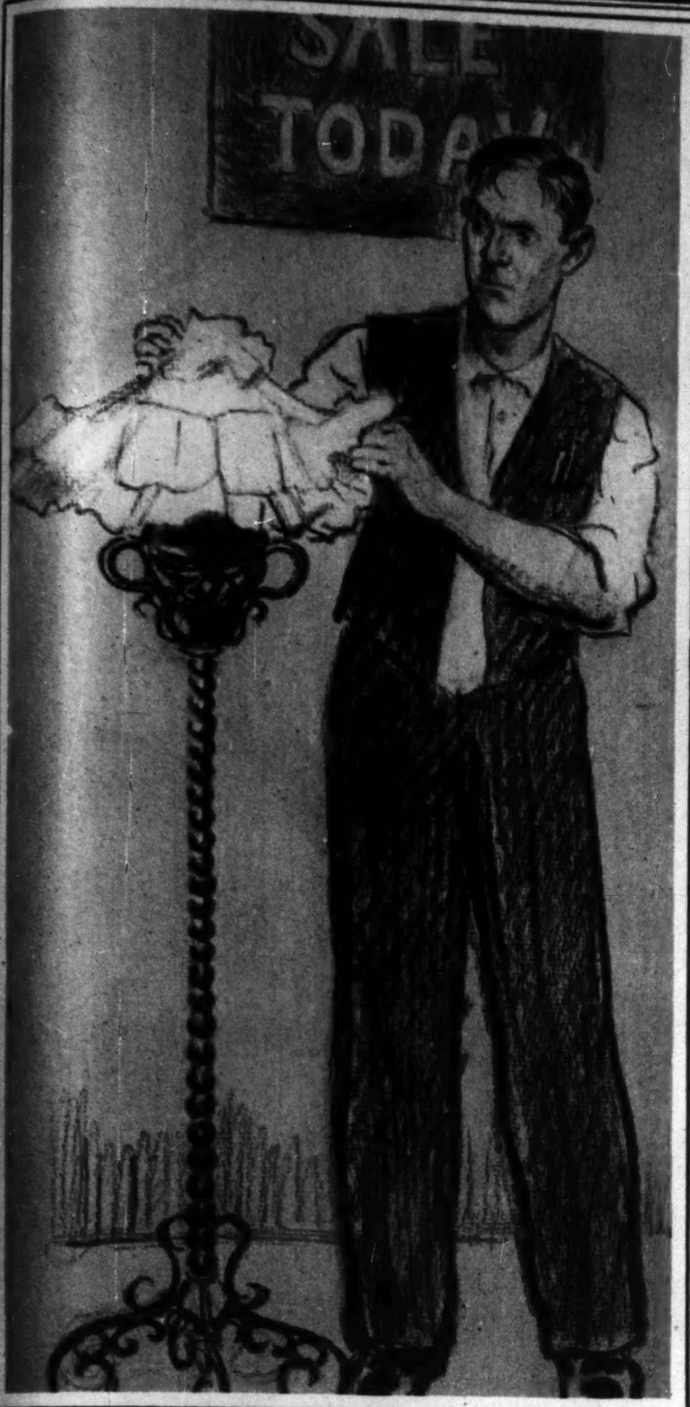
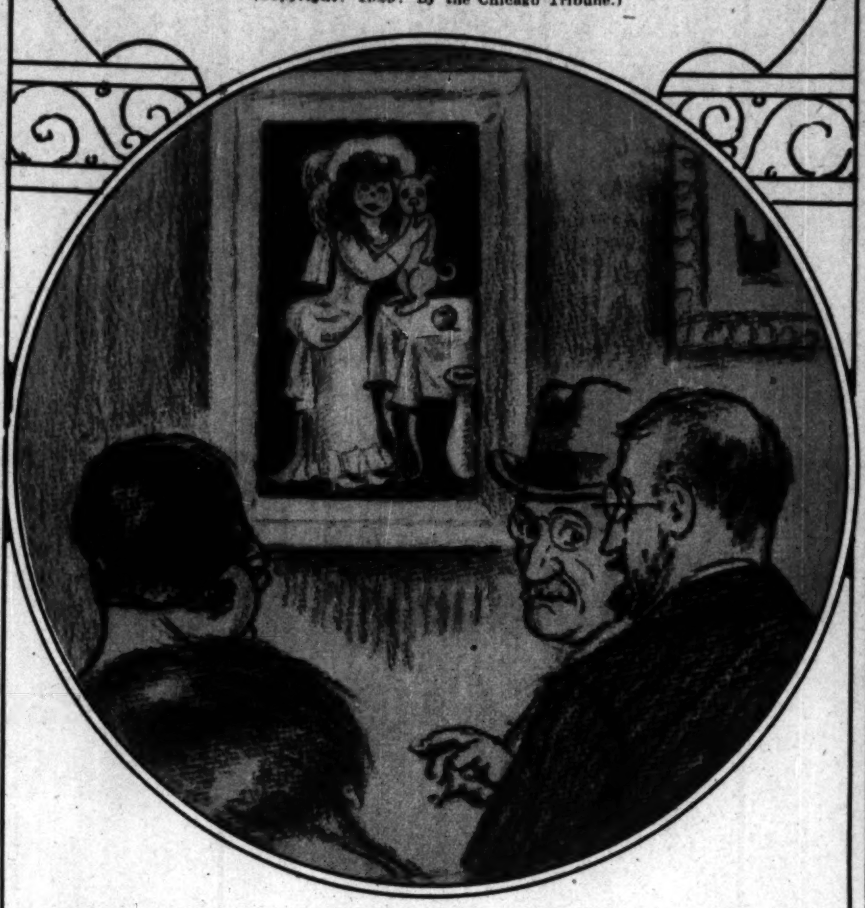
The Auction Rooms

By W. E. Hill

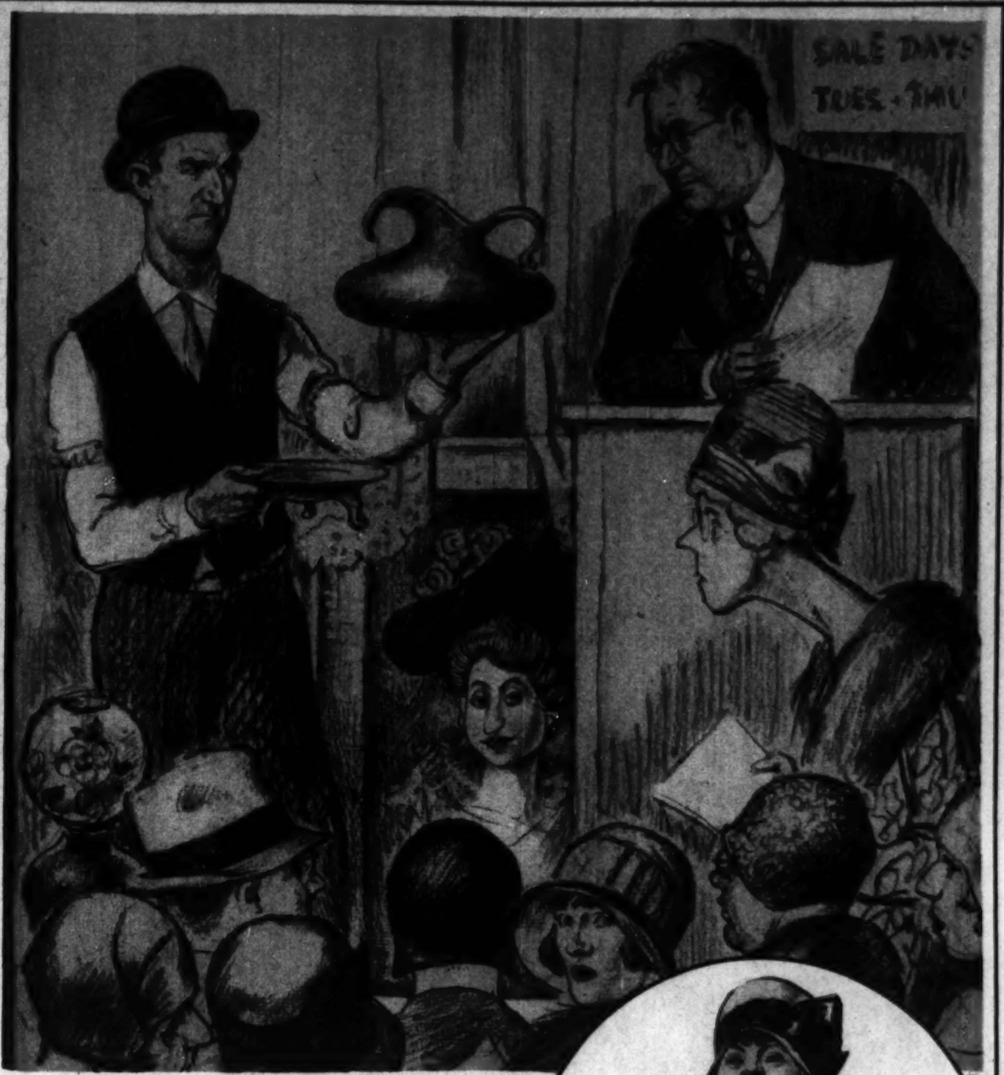
(Copyright: 1929: By the Chicago Tribune.)



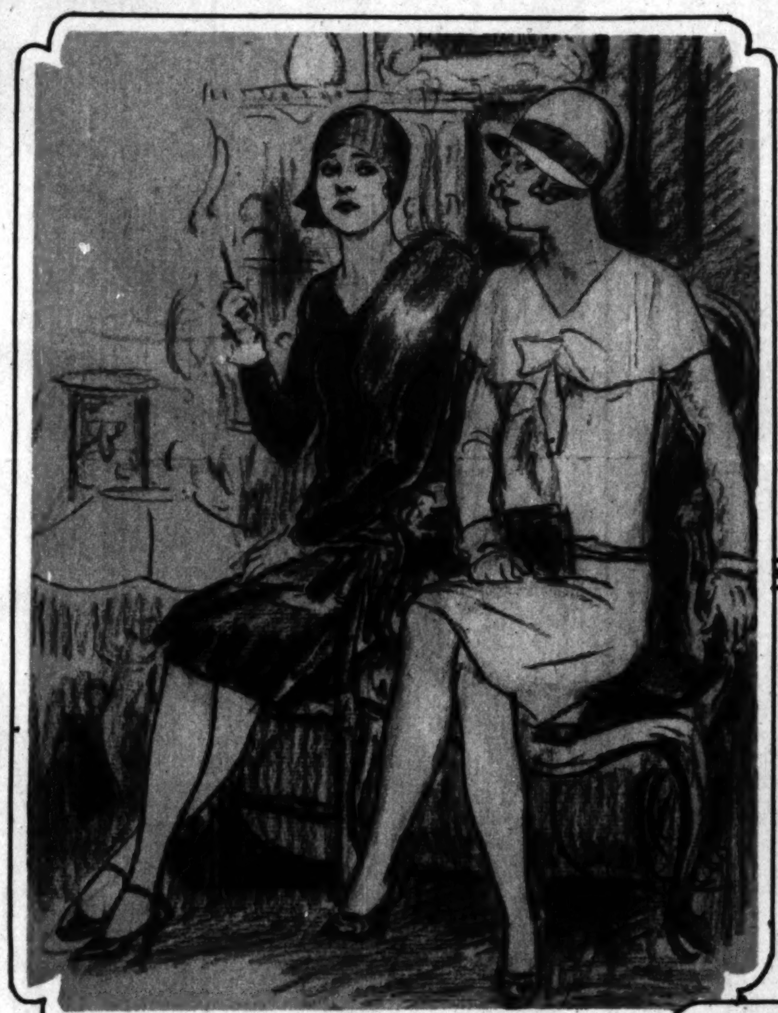
Leo, the general utility boy, prettying up lot number 666.



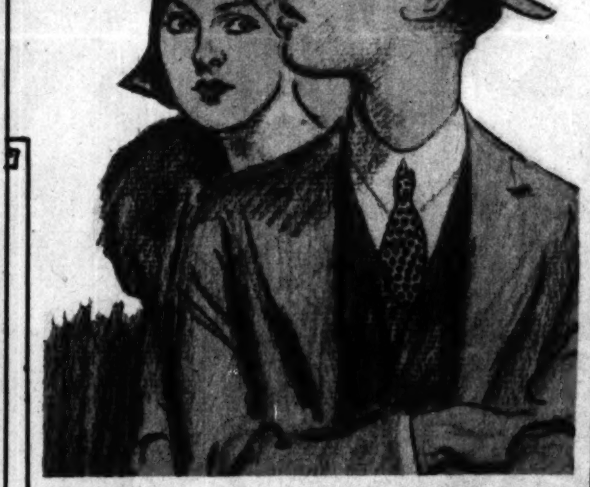
The find. Mr. Goldie is doubtful, but thinks it may be a Goya, while Mr. Higgins is pretty certain it's an Inness. The auctioneer will finally sell it as a Velasquez. Later the proud possessor will find the signature of Althea P. Maginnis in one corner.



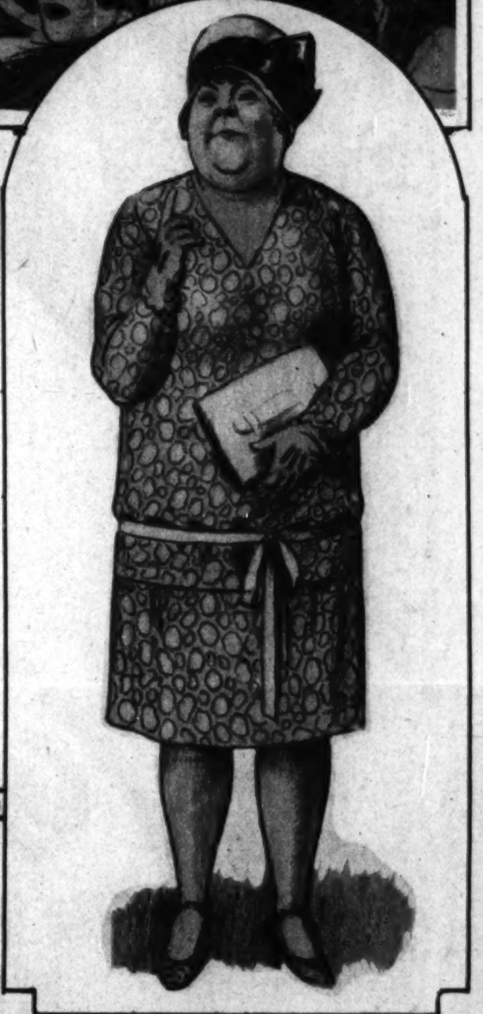
The auctioneer's little joke. Late afternoon of a sales day, showing Auctioneer Adolf Gruber and Helper Pete Doolin about to offer a Queen Anne pewter gravy boat to the highest bidder. "Folks," comments Mr. Gruber, "for all we know this is the identical boat Queen Annie drunk her gravy from." (Right below Mr. Gruber is Miss Cutbill, who hasn't missed a Tuesday sales day in years, looking for a hallmark. Miss Cutbill is a great hallmark enthusiast.)



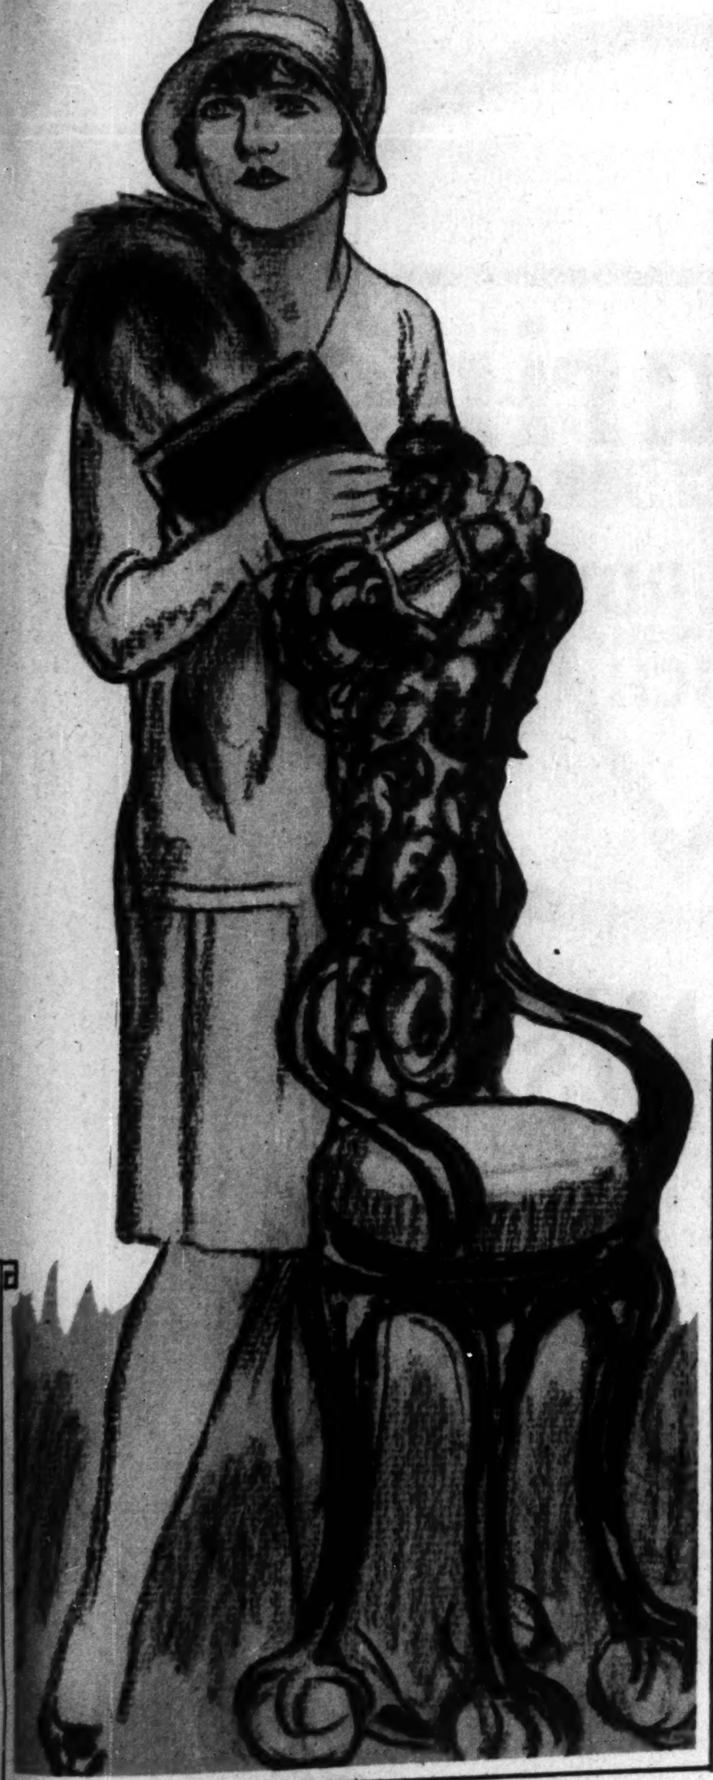
The decorators. Miss Lydia Kneehigh and Miss Alys Dole, being in the interior decorating line, are frequently seen at the auction rooms. Today Miss Kneehigh is out gunning for a pair of George the Third mouse eradicators (with the original brasses, of course) at the urgent request of a client in Lima, Ohio. Miss Dole is about to bid on a plush umbrella stand for a client who has suddenly gone late Victorian. Both the girls are saying terrible things about stores which give no discount to decorators.



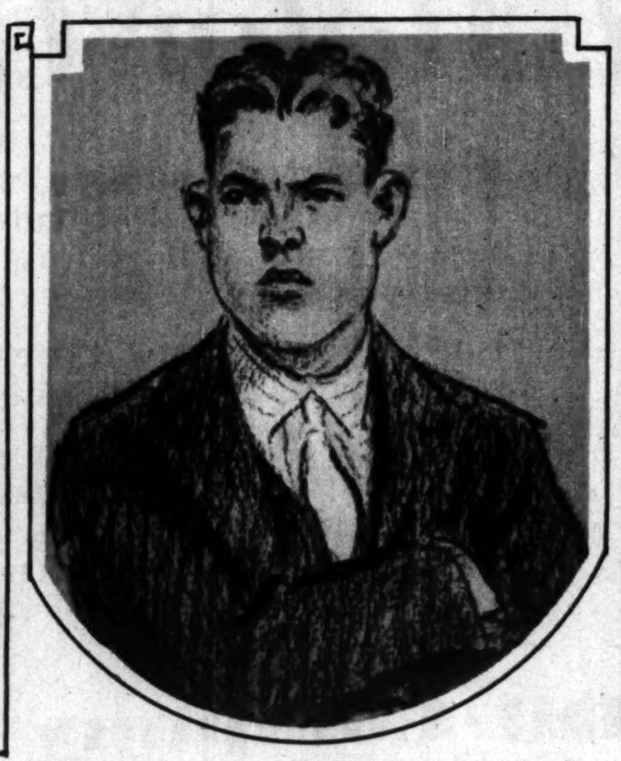
"Don't let the auctioneer see you looking at it, Howard, or he'll run the price right up!"



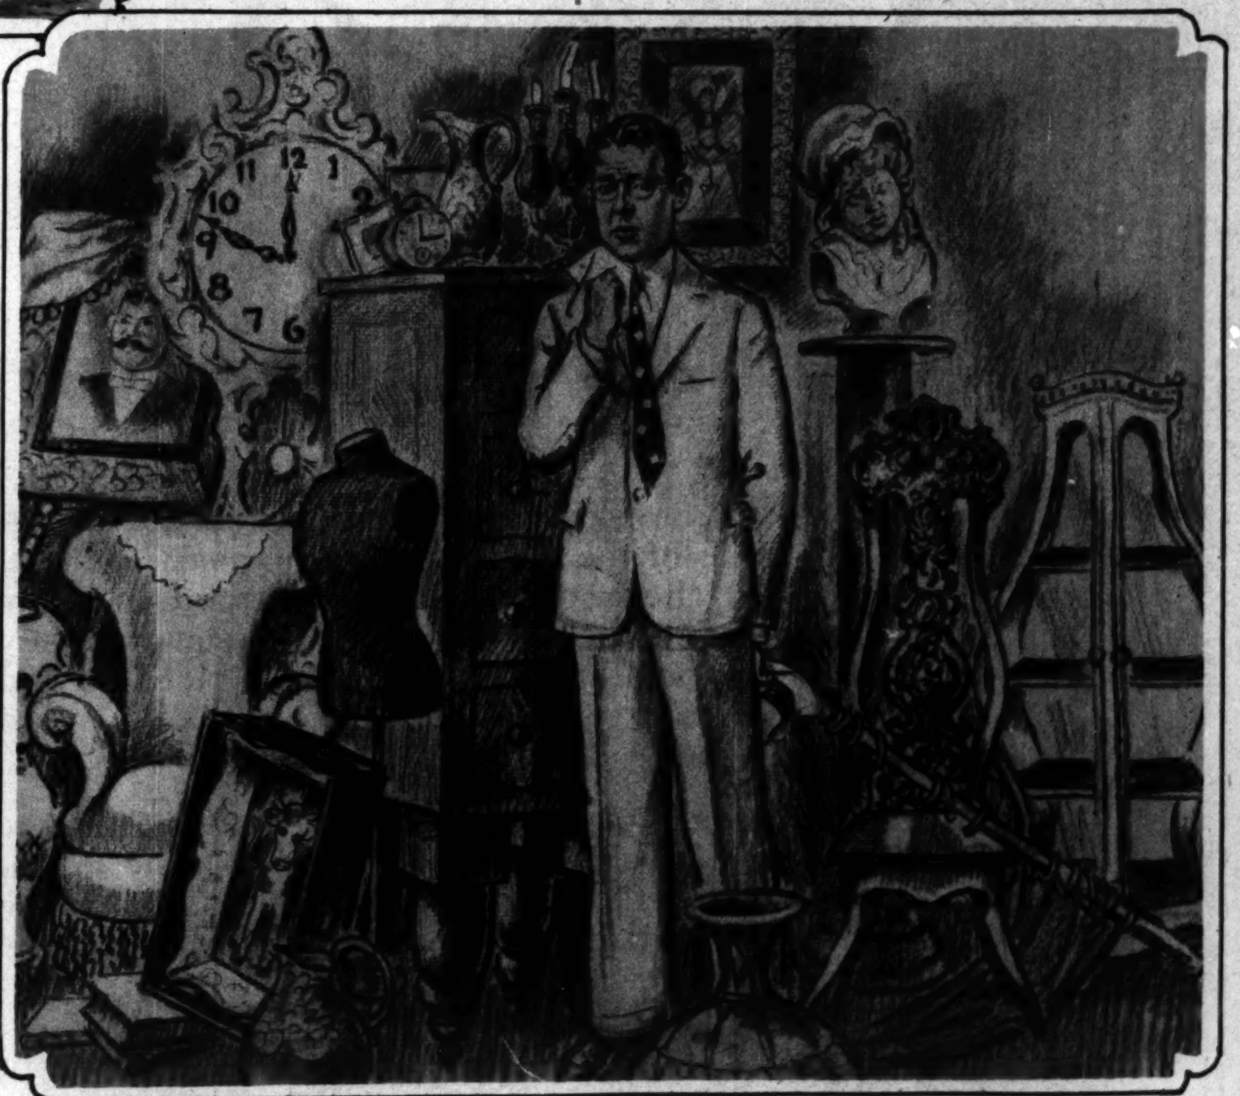
Meet Mrs. Lillian Porterhouse, about to bid thirty-five cents on a Satsuma tea set. A very careful bidder is Mrs. Porterhouse, and she seldom bids against herself, except at times of great emotional stress, when a Romney portrait or a ruby glass Buddha is up.



Mabel is getting up courage to ask the auctioneer to take back the occasional chair she bought last sales day. Mabel thought it was pure Chippendale, but an interior decorator friend said it wasn't even pure Swiss Renaissance, because the ball and claw foot weren't authentic.



The dealer. Harvey is going to buy a pair of silver Paul Revere pepper boxes for five dollars. Tomorrow he will sell them to a client for two hundred and fifty.



Charley had never been to an auction room before. Gracie asked him to stop by at the Elite Auction Rooms and pick up a little chair for the maid's room in the apartment—if things were really going cheap. Well, Charley lost his head and bid wildly—nay, even recklessly—on things that were being offered in lots, and had a swell time. . . . Now, the reaction having set in, Charley is wondering how to break the news to Gracie.

Ruffles and Flares Are Back in the Picture Again

Butterflies of Chiffon, Plaited Jabots and Tiers Are Being Sponsored by the Smartest Paris Designers.

By Bettina Bedwell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—(Special Correspondence.)—To be or not to be ruffled, is a question of greatest importance to the summer dress in Paris. Some of the greatest couturiers here, and the most distinguished women, are doing all they can to bring about a general return to the calm, unruffled silhouette. Their all is potent enough to make some new way of ruffling the mode absolutely necessary. Riots of ruffles running round and round short skirts appear fussy and unbeautiful by comparison with the long, unbroken lines of the dresses introduced by the ruffle-busters in Paris.

The usual ruffled dress has practically disappeared from the haunts of the chic, relegated to back streets and bargain counters. There is, however, a new Paris way of ruffling the summer frock and even the coat,, which suffers not at all by comparison to any sort of unruffled chic.

First of all, when ruffles are used by Paris this summer, they are restricted and not allowed to run rampant all over the map of the dress and coat. And, in addition to this, there are ruffles which are not, in the strict sense of the word, ruffles at all. Butterflies of chiffon—whole swarms of them around the lower half of the skirts of evening gowns, look as delicately alluring as the most aristocratic ruffle. Long, snaky leaves of chiffon arranged in tiers to give the newest of Paris frocks a new sort of ruffled allure.

Cascading lines of plaited or shirred bands, lengthening the lines of the long, slender silhouette grant a reprieve to ruffles, so that they have a limited liberty to function in Paris fashions. Summer coats with circular tiers around the bottom, recall but vaguely those ruffles of yesteryear.

All of this in regard to ruffles has, as every woman knows, everything to do with the kind of outline you describe when you appear in your Paris clothes. A dress or coat straight up and down from collar to hem gives a silhouette that is tending strongly to the sere and yellow so far as style is concerned. All of the really smart clothes from Paris offer flares of one sort or another, and this is why the how of ruffles becomes such a vital subject to the well dressed.

At the present moment fickle ladies around Paris are completely bored with the subadolescent thing in silhouettes. They look coldly upon those little, bouffant tulle dresses, flared from a high waistline, which were all the rage a short season ago. They are quite as much fed up with the little girl ruffles which any small seamstress can turn out at an astonishingly prolific rate.

The new, the approved, silhouette fashion is one that uses flares, whether they be ruffles, circular strips, godets, gores, or plaits, only when they fall so low as to begin at least halfway down the skirt, en route for the hemline.

Our drawing today shows four Paris models, all and each of which demonstrate eloquently just where fashionable flares begin on coat or dress. What happens above the flare in the skirt depends on the couturier who makes the clothes and the woman who wears 'em. It is extremely smart to wear a softly moulded dress, divinely curved à la Aphrodite, and flared below the hipline, if you can get away with this line with honors. If not, Paris tempers the upper silhouette, so that it is bloused to a somewhat high waistline, given the universally becoming fitted hipline, and flared below.

These are the lines that carry the most important summer message of style, and they are far more sophisticated and grownup than anything in fashions seen for some time previous. Nothing old about them. Just fashions for those who are out of high school, have been around a bit, and don't mind looking the part.

The first model sketched shows a Molyneux evening frock which illustrates the Paris replacement for ruffles, and the new lower levels at which fashionable flares begin to function on the dress. This is a famous frock, and two of the most distinguished women who are wearing it in Paris this summer are the Hon. Mrs. Reginald Fellowes and Lady Idena Eroll. Molyneux makes this model of black chiffon, and the skirt is flared by the placing of legions of chiffon and tulle butterflies around it, from a point below the hipline to the bottom of the skirt, which is very long in back.

The blouse of this dress is given a soft, slightly ample line by a bolero of chiffon that is longer at the sides and in back. There is a large bow of black chiffon on the left shoulder, and the narrow belt is made of chiffon and buckled by a square of diamonds.

At the opposite side of our sketch an afternoon dress from Martial et Armand is shown. This frock has the moulded upper silhouette and the low flared skirt which are so much in vogue. Black moire is the material of which this frock is made, and the small scarf collar tied at the back of the neck is ermine. The long, tight sleeves are buttoned to the elbows with moire covered buttons, and a row of these buttons decorates the center back.

At the moment, if one may judge by the smartest women in Paris, coats that flare not far from the hemline are successful contenders for that enviable place occupied by "the smartest coat of the season." Two coats flared in the new manner are illustrated on the two central figures of our sketch.

The coat at the left is a successful summer wrap from Lucille Paray, made of pearl gray woolen crêpe of no more than chiffon weight. This coat illustrates one of the most popular arrangements of ruffles that Paris accepts for summer. The side-front closing is finished by a plaited ruffle of self material which extends like a long jabot from the scarf collar to the bottom of the coat. The ends of the scarf collar are treated to plaited ruffles and the sleeves have plaited ruffle cuffs. The coat itself is straight in line to the knees in back and a plaited ruffle curved to a higher point in front gives it the fashionable fallen flare.

The third figure of our sketch shows a summer coat from Bernard et Cie. with a strictly tailored arrangement of flared and straight line silhouette. This coat is made of natural shantung, with sleeves which are cut in one piece with the upper coat. A band collar of the material has one long scarf end thrown over the left shoulder. There is a band down the center front closing which widens into a circular ruffle that dips down in a curve from sides to center back. Below this is another circular ruffle, and these two ruffles give to this coat its smart, almost-at-the-knees flare. This particular type of ruffle coat is unusually fashionable.

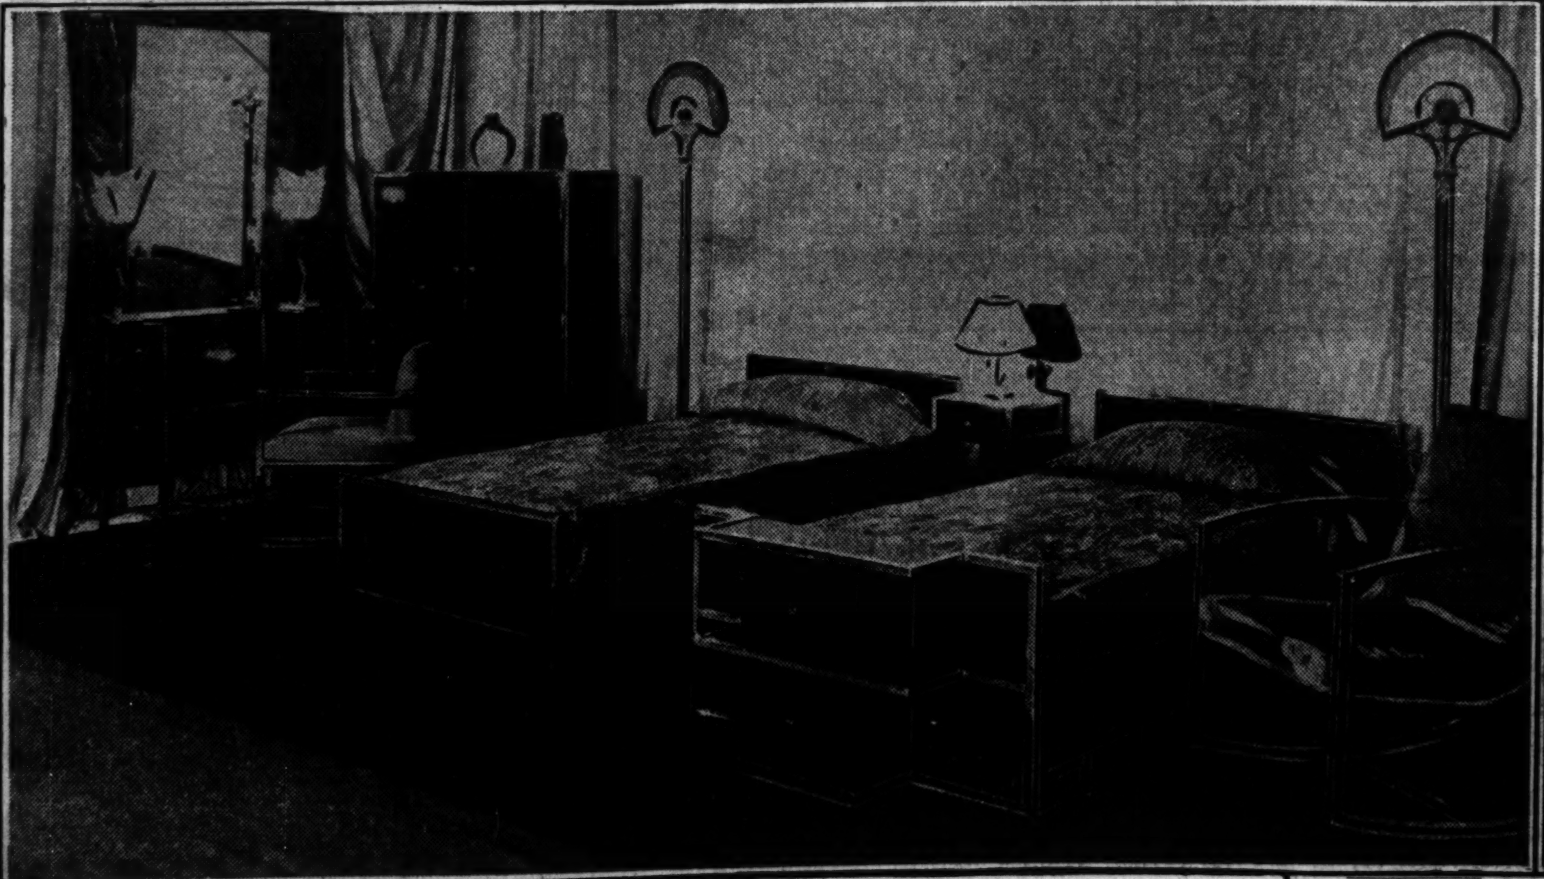
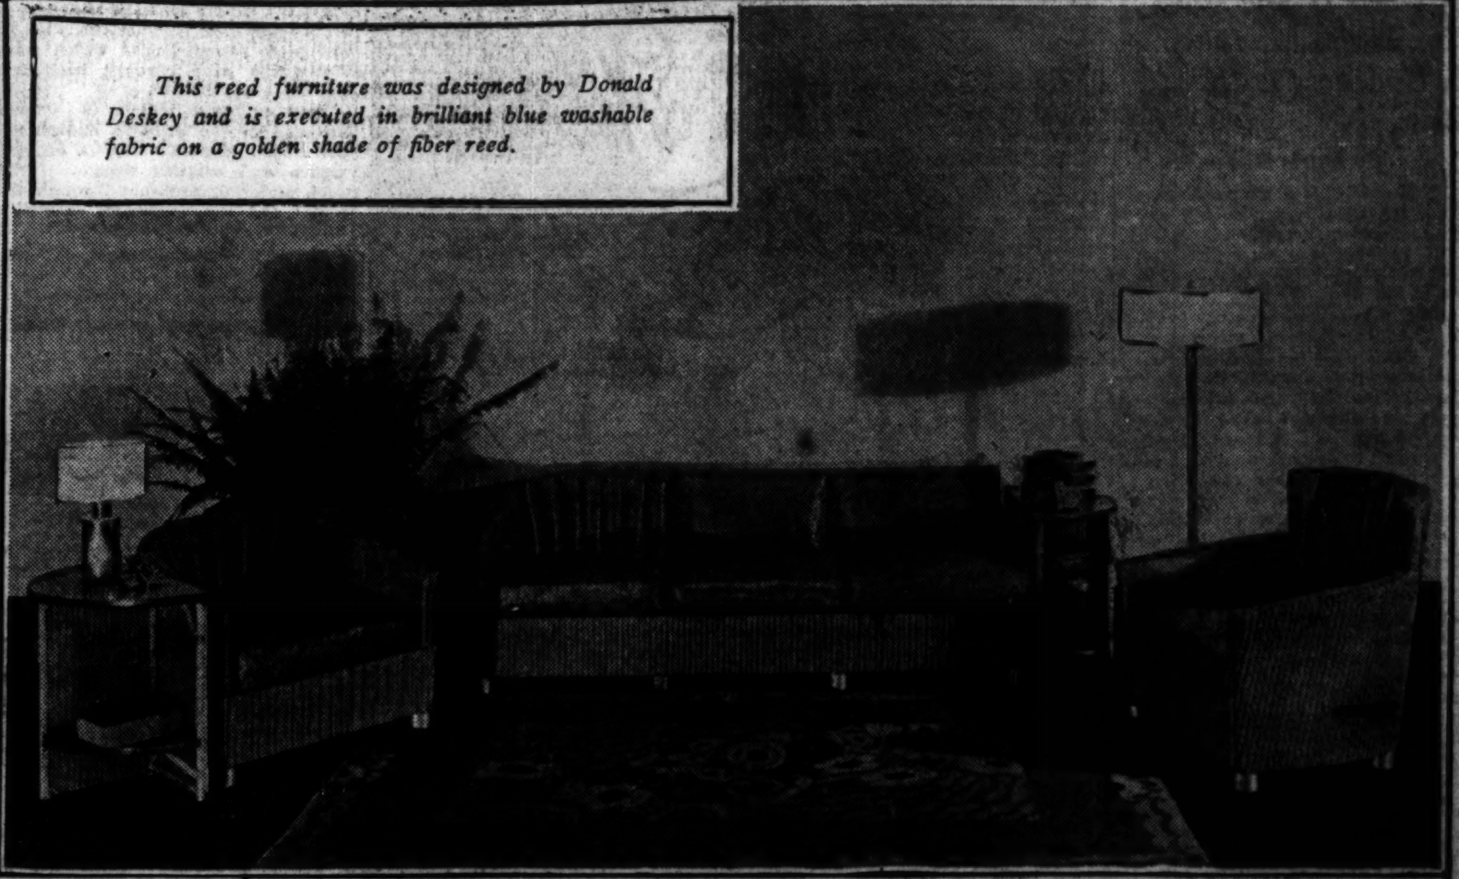
Second, Lucille Paray makes a jabot of a vertical ruffle of self-material on this gray crepe coat, which is flared near the hemline.

The two circular ruffles around the bottom of this Bernard et Cie. shantung coat, sketched third, give it the fashionable fallen flares.

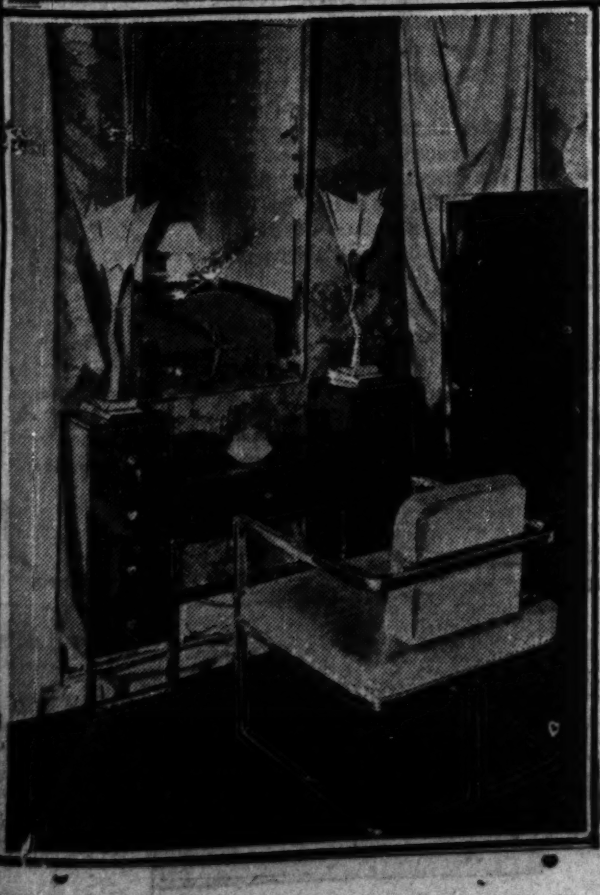
This princesse afternoon dress of black moire from Martial et Armand is flared in a stiff ruffle below the hips. Shown last.

New Fashions in Metal and Reed Furniture





This reed furniture was designed by Donald Deskey and is executed in brilliant blue washable fabric on a golden shade of fiber reed.



By Edith Weigle.

THE recent summer show at the American Furniture Mart convinced me (and I knew it already) that the most beautiful pieces of furniture are usually the simplest and least elaborate. People who are throwing up their hands in holy horror at "those awful modern things" ought to see some really fine examples before they pass judgment.

I would gladly have gone a hundred miles to see the stunning bedroom suite of black and silver metal designed by Norman Bel-Geddes, for it was, to me, the best example of modern art on the whole seventeen floors of the Mart.

However, you can see the beautiful proportions of the beds, which are only about fifteen inches from the floor. The drawer arrangement on the footboard of one is an extra attachment and may be dispensed with, if desired. The beds are placed against a background of a delicate cream colored Rodier fabric over silver metal cloth and the two frosted glass torcheres are in front of this hanging.

To be appreciated they must be seen in color, for besides the shiny black metal and chromium steel of the beds, the designer uses a gorgeous shade of orange velvet for the two interesting chairs of steel, both of which are marvelously comfortable due to cleverly contrived springs.

Extremely decorative are the vanity and chair shown at the left, parts of the Norman Bel-Geddes bedroom suite. The chair seat and pillow are in orange velvet.

The two small lights of frosted glass on the dressing table are extremly modern and in keeping with the ensemble.

The picture of the single chair illustrates the simplicity of the newest furniture. The continuation of the arm into the leg is considered especially good.

The beds at the lower right are of metal in pastel shades of yellow and again emphasize the beauty achieved by perfect proportion and lack of ornamentation. Low footboards are smart. Many beds, however, dispense with them altogether.

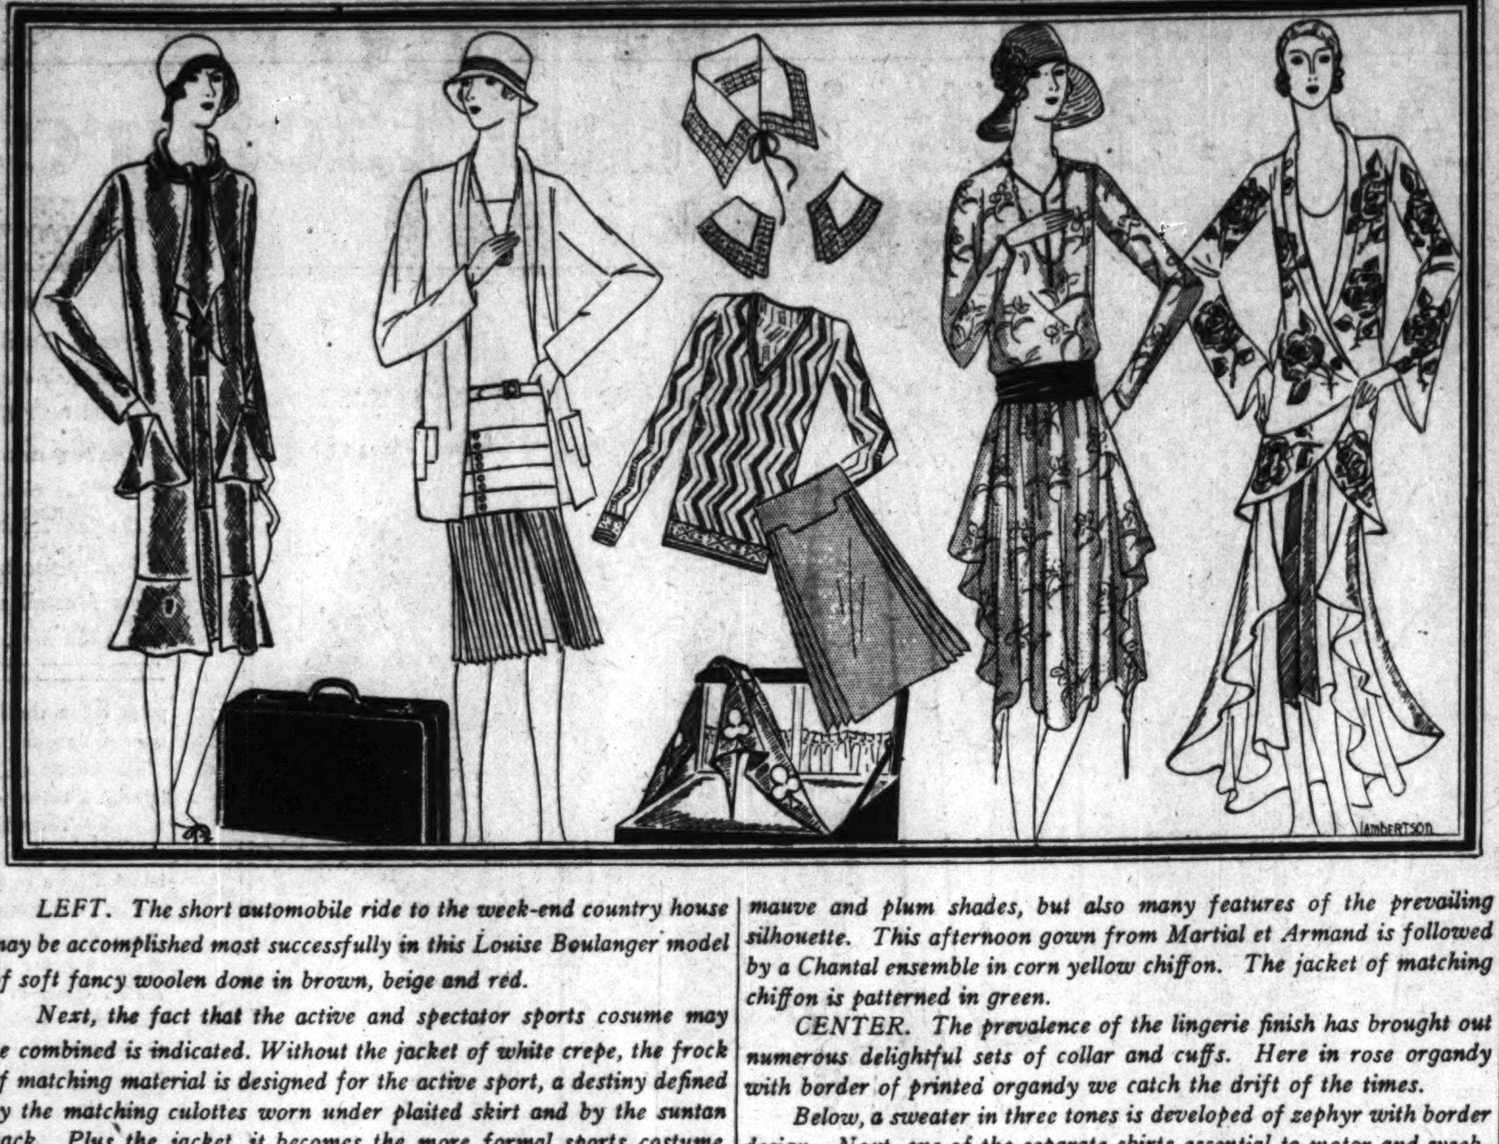
Costumes for the Week End Vacation

Just a Few Clothes Will Turn the Trick, Providing Those Few Are Selected with Skill

By Lolita.



LEFT. The short automobile ride to the week-end country house may be accomplished most successfully in this Louise Boulanger model of soft fancy woolen done in brown, beige and red.

Next, the fact that the active and spectator sports cosume may be combined is indicated. Without the jacket of white crepe, the frock of matching material is designed for the active sport, a destiny defined by the matching culottes worn under plaited skirt and by the suntan back. Plus the jacket, it becomes the more formal sports costume.

RIGHT. In a soft beige georgette patterned in violet and green and girdled in deeper violet we find, not only a fashionable stress upon mauve and plum shades, but also many features of the prevailing silhouette. This afternoon gown from Martial et Armand is followed by a Chantal ensemble in corn yellow chiffon. The jacket of matching chiffon is patterned in green.

CENTER. The prevalence of the lingerie finish has brought out numerous delightful sets of collar and cuffs. Here in rose organdy with border of printed organdy we catch the drift of the times.

Below, a sweater in three tones is developed of zephyr with border design. Next, one of the separate skirts essential to motor and week-end activities is executed in rosy beige crepe de chine.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Perhaps a snail has the only ideal equipment for a week-end trip. By bringing his wardrobe and his household along with him he avoids all the vicissitudes of the average week-end visitor. He can't be put into a strange room where the neighbor's dog or the neighbor's geese wake him up at 5 o'clock. And he doesn't look into his week-end bag with a sudden sinking of the heart, with that terrible feeling of "I haven't brought a single warm thing to wear and the thermometer's gone down 30 degrees overnight."

In this capricious climate of ours it is difficult ever to bring an adequate assemblage of clothes to the country house. And certainly it is even more difficult to reconcile clothes compression with self-expression—in a sartorial way. It was, indeed, with the latter problem in view that Patou designed last year a special week-end wardrobe. This, as we all remember, pivoted on the skirt as a basis of change. By combining afternoon and evening blouses with the same satin skirt and by allying sweaters and sport blouses with the same crêpe skirt, Patou got us up a dazzling variety of change that could be accommodated by a single suitcase.

For either the motor trip or the week-end visit garments which will serve in double or even triple capacity are the object of every woman's search. And fortunately, too, the season is full of such sweet tempered garments—coats and jackets that can get along in any society. Take, for example, the jacket so much affected for sports wear. This may be reconciled with all sorts of crêpe and cotton sports frock, if it be chosen with care. Similarly, here is the casino frock—the chiffon or crêpe evening gown that becomes by the addition of a jacket a delightful afternoon gown. As for the cloth coat of many an ensemble, this may transfer its allegiance to a different lower stratum without the least hurt to a sensitive nature.

For the long motor trip there is one indispensable combination. This takes the tweed—or other heavy cloth—ensemble as a first principle. When the weather is cool the entire ensemble is worn. When the mercury chins itself the cloth skirt is discarded in favor of a silk crêpe skirt. In both cases the tuck-in blouse is the inevitable accompaniment.

For a short motor trip, with a friend's country house as the objective, a costume such as we have sketched at the extreme left is one of the most sagacious of all possible selections. For the whole ensemble provides us with exactly the right thing in which to motor—if the day be not too warm—and in addition to this it represents an insurance against the cool and cloudy days into which Saturday and Sunday so often develop.

This ensemble is a creation of Louise Boulanger and it makes both sleeveless frock and coat in a soft fancy woolen mixture of red, beige and brown. The frock is one of the numerous tunic manifestations which we see this year and it is belted in red leather. A narrow ribbon also in red finishes the white lingerie collar. The coat of this ensemble is one of the indefinably smart and distinctive wraps which so often come from the Parisian ateliers. If one tries to analyze the charm one makes the same headway as with Mona Lisa or the Grand Canyon.

The cravat scarf attached to the coat and the flaring flounce are effective. So, too, is the chevron seaming of the sleeve, but undoubtedly the point of greatest individuality is found in pockets that are mere triangles of material to which is attached a circular ruffle. It goes without saying that a coat such as this may commit numerous infidelities. Not only does it look well with the frock of self material, but with any number of one piece frocks in crêpe.

Equally adaptable is the jacket of the next costume—one representing the morning attire which is almost the first necessity of any week-end jaunt. This jacket may be of the white silk crêpe of which the frock is made or it may be of some other material—flannel, jersey, one of the fancy knitted materials, et cetera. In any case, the fact that it is white admits it into partnership with almost any of the pastel tones. With rose or green or yellow it will go just as well as with the original snowy tint below.

Unlike many of the jackets of today, this one admits a collar. It is well that the jacket is partial to addition for the frock dedicates itself zealously to subtraction. Regard the slash down the front of the plaited skirt. This latter reveals the presence of matching culottes and this fact brings us to another advantageous combination of the summer. It is the possibility of converting the frock designed for active sports wear—as this is—into the more formal spectator type. All that you need for the magic is a jacket.

Either motorist or week-end visitor will find inevitable comfort in such a charming georgette model as is sketched next. Georgette, as we all recognize, makes an ideal traveling companion because it does not wrinkle to such an extent as do many of its rivals and this frock for the summer afternoon combines much charm with its practical nature.

Made of a soft beige chiffon on which are scattered floral motifs in violet and green, it uses for contrast one of the fashionable crushed girdles of the hour. This one is carried out in dark violet and it indicates once more that the waist is no longer a myth, but a reality. The lengthened front and the dipping side draperies are also in the spirit of the hour. Definitely longer is the effect of this delightful frock which Martial et Armand created for us.

Those who wish to combine evening and afternoon costumes will see their wish gratified in the Chantal model at at extreme right.

This lovely creation destined for the evening may be transposed into an afternoon possibility by wearing the harmonized wrap—one which will also function, of course, as the wrap of our evening costume. This jacket is of matching chiffon embroidered in green floral motifs.

Among the autumn clothes which are being sifted through the mid-season showrooms there is one which is likely to be perpetuated in many different versions. This is the sports frock of lacy jersey. These models are often simply made in one piece effects identifying themselves with the one piece jersey frocks which smart Americans have brought back from the atelier of Chanel.

Another idea which is strongly stressed in the autumn showings is the Rodier knitted material, of fancy weave and original design. Often such materials are shot through with metal and the ensembles created of them are apt to include a blouse repeating the same metal note.

As the summer advances and wanes we see more and more of the printed materials with pin point design. Jacket suits of silk in pin point pattern embody a theory of fashion widely promulgated at the French races and such sacred haunts of fashion as Newport, Bar Harbor and Southampton reflect the mode. Autumn sustains the creed of the pin point, and various frocks of velvet are motivated with this unobtrusive but effective design.

Coats are among the most interesting of the autumnal dress experiments. Whereas the seven-eighths coat of the ensemble is dedicated to straight line, the separate wrap takes on many novel enthusiasms. One of these is encountered in the dolman idea. Time and again we find both daytime and evening wraps with some suggestion of our grandmother's dolman. For example, one late coat of formal styling which is executed in black broadcloth, gives the dolman illusion by cape sleeves of supple black fur. These leave, of course, a straight panel down the back.

Sleeves of many of these new coats are inclined to exuberance and the mousquetaire cuff is one of the numerous expressions of this new mood. Flares to sleeves are, of course, but a consistent development of the wrap itself. For tunics, flounces, peplums and capes—to say nothing of godets and circular cuts—all publish the fact that we are just bound to be feminine, once more.

Even the fur coats join in this movement. Numbers of these in formal fashioning incorporate the princess line and others indulge in many minor notes of trimming that indicate a major sympathy with the flare.

Beauty Is Not All That Charms

Every Girl May Be Popular If She Does Not Make Mistakes in Contacts with Men.

By Doris Blake.

UNLESS it is of outstanding quality, beauty may be left out of consideration in an attempt to consider why some girls attract men easily and why some attract them not at all.

Great beauty does attract. It's foolish to belittle its lure. Men like to be seen about with beautiful women. It stimulates their pride or their vanity. Beauty, too, has the advantage of being an allurement that brings attention most rapidly. A beautiful girl, in fact, must have something thoroughly disagreeable about her personality not to know the meaning of popularity.

However, for the peace of mind of the general run of women, great beauty is not so prevalent as your average good looking girl. The supply of the former is not adequate to meet the demands of the entire sex. So that their lonesome troubles, if they have any, may be dismissed for consideration of the larger group, among whose number are far too many who do not have the beaux and fun their hearts desire.

Irritant a Definable Thing.

It is far easier to lay your finger on the things about a girl that do not attract men than to name the lures that beckon and hold them. You query: "What is it about Jane that makes men fall for her so easily?" Of Helen, you say: It's no wonder she doesn't get on with men. She's too shy; she's too colorless; she's too stand-offish; she's too intense, and so on. Her irritant is a definable thing.

Jane may have one of those elusive personalities which cannot be analyzed. More likely, however, Jane has a technique that Helen might well study. Jane may be blissfully unaware of a technique. She may never have studied one. She may be one of those persons with a native born instinct for easy social relationships, plus an agreeable manner and a goodly share of feminine charm. But what can be said with finality about Jane, in explanation of her popularity, is that she does not make the mistakes in her contacts with members of the opposite sex that the Helens do consciously or unknowingly.

Doesn't Dictate Conduct.

For one thing, Jane doesn't start out with a lot of impossible theories about life and men. She doesn't attempt to dictate the conduct of others to conform with her inexperienced ideas.

The early twenties are often lost to girls by what might be called a strong case of self-absorption in impractical theorizing. Often a woman at thirty will be far more attractive than she was at twenty-three because she has learned to accept life and men for what it and they are—not for what it and they might be.

There are other girls who in their earlier years pass obscurely and unhappily because they put so little value on themselves. They score themselves at such a low rating that no man's pride could expand in such unimportant company. Five or ten years later, they may learn to compare themselves favorably with other women, to raise the estimate, with consequent added attractions to themselves. Instead of thinking other girls more attractive, brighter, more appealing, more entertaining, they recognize that each individual has talents of her own, charms, too, and the difference between the former lowly-estimated and the envied one's superior gifts lay entirely in the value the individual places on them.

Victorian Slant to Emotions.

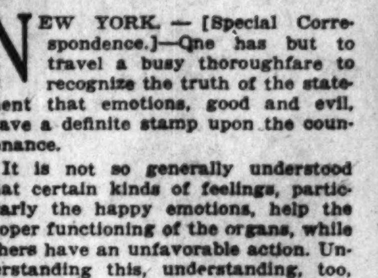
Then there are girls who are not up-to-date enough for their up-to-date world. There is a Victorian slant to their mental and emotional workings. Perhaps the fault lay with a too literal absorption of the advice of older generations whereas they should be thinking right along with their own generation. Older people's advice is fine on the fundamentals of life, for truth, sincerity, honesty and the virtues never change. But in social contacts the young should in manner, approach, lures and wiles be a live part of their own immediate contemporaries. We're advocating no change of morals, understand, simply a change in the type of mind; an adjustment to contemporary interests. The popular sports of the moment should be learned and played well. Dancing should be perfected. A bright and gay line of chatter cultivated. Apeing the dignities of an older generation implants a seriousness that is hard to transpose into the light but wholesome foolishnesses of youth. And you know this is not a saleable commodity among the modern generation. Nor should it be, either, in playtime contacts.

Another type may go to an opposite extreme and instead of accepting the new freedom as it is practised in good taste, is actually too advanced. We refer to the girls who do not hesitate to tell a man, just met, that they are crazy about him, following up with phone calls, gifts and other persuasions of a hectic urge. Word gets about that Miss X is one of the go-getters. She frightens men away before they have time to discover the virtues that might eventually have held them.

If a girl hasn't been popular with men, she may become obsessed with foolish prejudices against the sex. In self-defense she mouths these prejudices. This is a habit that has to be nipped in the bud. Let a girl imply by word or look an unkindly attitude toward the opposite sex and she is sunk. Let her nurse her grudge and she will automatically grow into a bitter little soul, the most fatal expression a woman can wear.

Good Digestion Is a Beauty Aid

Emotions Play Havoc Inwardly as Well as Outwardly, and the Calm, Well Poised Person Finds It Pays to Be Self-Controlled.



by Antoinette Donnelly

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—One has but to travel a busy thoroughfare to recognize the truth of the statement that emotions, good and evil, leave a definite stamp upon the countenance.

It is not so generally understood that certain kinds of feelings, particularly the happy emotions, help the proper functioning of the organs, while others have an unfavorable action. Understanding this, understanding, too, that the energy or power we use for our activities comes from the food we eat, the dinner table becomes one of our greatest little beauty aids.

Woman's interpretation of the dinner table as a beauty parlor probably would confine itself merely to the question of eating fat making foods or foregoing them, because reducing and gaining weight are popularly associated with looks and the well known family meeting place, the dining room.

Beauty has now gone away beyond the point of just good figure proportions. Energy, vitality, enthusiasm, and similar qualifications take no second place in the modern beauty estimate, for the very simple reason that they, more than symmetrical proportions, represent youth. And the greatest of all youth secrets is to be found right there where your food is served three times a day.

So, all of us should be more conversant with our diet needs and much more particular about what we do consume. Our taste is governed far more largely by the palate than by the head. The palate is often misleading and, as proven in the cases of the overweight, one of beauty's worst enemies.

If we live on diets containing milk, meat, eggs, cereals, vegetables, fruits, and greens we get sufficient protein for tissue building material, sufficient starches and sugar for energy, sufficient fats, mineral matter, vitamins and water to enable the body to work well and to keep up its power to offset injurious agencies.

Limited Diet Is Bad.

If the diet is limited, proper building material is lacking. There is a lack of proper mineral balance and vitamins. These dangers are especially marked when the diet is made up mainly of highly milled cereals such as soda biscuits, white bread made without milk and yeast, white rice, and similar articles, but these articles of diet are efficiently utilized by our bodies if mingled with meat, milk, greens, and fruits which supply their deficiencies.

The action of emotions on food is seen in the result of the sight, smell, taste, and feel of food in the mouth. A message is sent to the stomach immediately and a flow of digestive juice is started so that the digestive processes are enabled to go on without delay.

In a government health bureau pamphlet the action of food is further described as a message bearer. Just as soon as partially digested food begins to empty into the intestines a chemical messenger, it is explained, is sent to all the glands taking part in intestinal digestion and a steady flow of intestinal digestive juice is ready for the oncoming food.

Emotions Upset Digestion.

Studies have shown that the conditions favorable to proper digestion are upset when we experience vexation, worry and anxiety or when emotions such as anger and fear are allowed to prevail. By strong excitement of the unpleasant kind the secretions of the glands of the mouth, stomach and the intestines and the flow of bile may be checked for some time. In such conditions the food lying heavy in the stomach is an irritant rather than a benefit.

The moral is, according to our authority, if we have experienced an outburst of passion or strong excitement it is well not to take nourishment until we are calmed down and are willing to look at things good-naturedly or with a courageous smile. If this rule were applied, there'd be fewer nervous disorders.

The action of emotions seems to be largely through certain glands known as ductless glands or better, glands of internal secretion. The story of the so-called ductless glands and their relation to our activities, personalities, etc., is pretty generally known. The thyroid and adrenal are glands most influential in the preservation of youth and beauty characteristics, so that the emotions affecting them have a very direct influence for good and ill.

Creating Inner Harmony.

The lesson to draw from these facts is that in digesting, assimilating and rearranging the ingredients of our diet, the body works with a precise and admirable harmony in which all the organs and cells interplay; and that good nature, especially at meal times and just preceding it, or better than good nature—a cheerful, courageous poise—gives digestion and assimilation a boost and allows this inner harmony to go on pleasantly and efficiently.

If the day or meal is started with cross, fretful, angry feelings, the tendency is to check digestion. Strong emotions of fear, anger or peevishness at meal time will retard digestion and increase the tendency to sluggish elimination and the production of poisonous substances.

Since emotions write their stories, then, on stomachs as well as faces, it would seem like the better part of wisdom to keep the face cheered up all the time, since it is expression that makes the face, rather than the features or coloring.

A Charming Two Room Apartment

Designed for the Business Woman of Taste, This Little Home Is Both Practical and Lovely

WillElla de Campi will be glad to assist the homemaker in any problems pertaining to home furnishings. Address your letter to WillElla de Campi, The Tribune, Chicago. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply.

By WillElla de Campi

HAPPILY suited to the requirements of a single woman in business is the Directoire style of furnishings and decorations which have been used in the two room apartment described and illustrated today. Since the furniture is of graceful lines and classic simplicity, it lends an air of dignity and gracious charm to the rooms. In addition, being of agreeably small scale, it successfully imparts an atmosphere of spaciousness, even though the rooms themselves are by no means large, as they measure only 10 by 13 feet. All of the furniture, besides being correct in scale, is exceptionally well placed, as shown in the accompanying floor plan, figure 1.

Color schemes are delightfully carried out in a manner expressive of femininity. In the living room the walls are paneled and painted a soft sage green, with a fine line of gold in one depression of the panel mouldings. Woodwork, doors and shelves built into two corners of the room, are done to match. At the group of windows there are glass curtains of salmon pink silk gauze. Two toned green striped silk, with a fine line of salmon pink, makes draperies which hang straight to the floor. These are topped by a wooden cornice painted like the woodwork and decorated with a distinctive wall paper border.

Flanking the window arrangement are two lovely Directoire arm chairs, painted gray with touches of gold on the legs and arm supports. One chair is upholstered in sage green brocade, the other in green and salmon pink striped moiré.

Against the longest wall is a characteristic Directoire sofa, painted gray and gold and upholstered in two toned mauve and green striped silk. Between two classic Directoire sidelights in the space above the sofa is a mellow old portrait in a dull gold frame. An oval table placed at one end of the sofa has a gilded base and marble top and holds a vase of flowers and a decorative smoking set. A round table of tulip wood, at the other end, is shared by the sofa and the striped moiré arm chair. It holds a green marbleized lamp with a shade of salmon pink silk stretched tight and bound with black velvet.

A doorway leading out into the hall and double doors opening back to disclose a tiny kitchenette, fill the fourth wall space. The little kitchenette is equipped with built in cupboards for china, utensils and supplies, a small sink, electric stove and electric refrigerator, so that all of the necessaries for preparing an occasional meal are near at hand. Giving a finishing touch to the room is a rug of plain black chenille.

Because it is deemed necessary that every woman's bedroom should have a good supply of mirrors, the two doors which lead into the bathroom and closet are fitted with long mirror panels. These long mirrors are a decided asset and comfort to the woman who likes always to assure herself that her appearance is neat and well groomed.

At the windows here the glass curtains are of ivory silk gauze and long draperies are of toile de Jouy with the design in raspberry tones on an ivory ground. In one corner beside the windows is a small Directoire commode and in the other a comfortable chaise longue, upholstered in French blue moiré, piped with raspberry. A graceful lamp to light this gratifying lounging place has an ivory silk shade finished with a double binding of raspberry and blue.

Replies to Queries.

J. S.: Yes, chintz is appropriate for use in a formal room, provided the quality, colors and designs are in keeping with the rest of the furnishings.

B. E. F.: In the little girl's room, with green painted furniture use draperies of soft green rep, trimmed with an edging of plaited glazed chintz in two tones of rose pink. This trimming may be bought ready-made by the yard and is surprisingly inexpensive. Use pink organdy for the glass curtains.

M. L. H.: Rooms and halls which are connected by wide open doorways look well in the same wall finish, as the effect of continuity is pleasing and makes the individual rooms appear large. Variation may be secured by using different but harmonizing tones in rugs, draperies and other furnishings.

Handkerchief Cases Are Fun to Make and Are Convenient to Have for Bridge Prizes

What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang evenly or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework, write to Clotilde. The Tribune, Chicago, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope if a personal reply is desired.

HANDKERCHIEF cases make lovely bridge gifts for women, and those shown today are simple to make and wonderfully pretty when finished.

Nos. 1 and 2 measure about 10½ inches before being folded together for the case, and when folded the case measures about 7 or 7½ inches. Of course, there is no reason why a case can't be made larger or smaller, if you wish, but these are average measures. Taffeta, satin, or crêpe de chine are suitable materials, and for the case with tiny flowers in the center, choose any desired color, and in between the two pieces of material put a piece of sheet wadding, first splitting it and sprinkling liberally with some good sachet powder. The sheet wadding can then be put in between two pieces of something like an old handkerchief, and padded in inch squares. This will keep the powder from falling out. Also, baste together around the edges.

The outside material should be evenly turned in on all edges and basted together over the batting. Or else the case can be stitched together on three sides in a wrong side seam, then slipped stitched together on the fourth side after the batting is in place. Finish the edges with a small silk cord, sewing it directly over the seam, then bring the case together like No. 1, catching the three points together, and leaving the other free to slip handkerchiefs in and out.

The second case is the same size as the other, and on the outside is made of two contrasting colors, while on the inside of the case, simply one piece of silk can be used. If the inside is pale blue, for instance, make the outside of pale blue and pink, joining the two colors in a wrong side seam straight down the center of the square. The case is then put together exactly as the first one was.

Or, if you like, you can make the case when finished 15x7½ inches, folding it together straight instead of cornerwise. A third lovely case was made to fold over straight, the outside made of ribbon one inch wide—and using two contrasting colors—lacing them together.

The CONTINENTAL ANGLE

By William Dudley Pelley

The Story of a Dutch Woman Who Came to a Little Vermont Town and Pitted Her Old World Kindliness Against Its Bigotry and "Patriotism."

I FIRST heard of the Krule woman through Uncle Joe Fodder. The time, I recall, was back in 1912.

Once a week the venerable Grand Army man came over from his livery stable and spent a couple of hours pawing among the upstate exchanges. All too often he made himself a nuisance, settling before the big pine table where my partner and I did most of our work. Yet he rarely appeared without bringing us items.

"See we're goin' t' have a new bakeshop in town," he remarked this morning in the year above specified. "Woman named Krule. Rented that store in th' Jones block where Bud had his market. Stranger, I think. I hope she makes out. Elite's baked goods are an insult t' your stommick."

"How'd you hear about her?" asked Sam Hod, my partner.

"Bud Jones was tellin' me—who rented her th' place. Gonna do all her own cookin', as I understand it. Tried t' buy th' Elite, but Hoadley wouldn't sell."

"Cruel, you say her name is?"

"What nationality's that?"

"Dutch, I think."

"Has she got any folks?"

"Bud didn't mention, but I took it she's widowed. Comes fr'm Bosting, I think—or somewheres close by it. Bud did say she wanted t' rent th' three rooms upstairs, t' live there herself. An' she's ordered a stove as big as a house."

"How old a woman?"

"Well now, Bud didn't mention that, either. But he spoke of her size. It tickled him pink."

"Her what?"

"Fattest female he ever set eyes on. Said he'd like t' see her in a bathin' suit; her legs must be wonders. She's gone back t' Bosting t' fetch up her stuff an' th' place'll be open in two t' three weeks."

When I saw her, I smiled, she being the most elephantine individual that ever walked up Main street. A woman in her fifties, scarcely five feet in height, she had a bosom like a table top and the equator for a waist. Her hair was iron gray with a square Dutch head set directly on her shoulders. Her torso was barrel-like and her arms like tree boughs. A caricature, you think? I leave it to any one who knows her here in Paris. A huge roll of flesh, thick as an ordinary man's wrist, made the back of her neck. And she didn't walk—she trundled.

And yet I liked her eyes.

They were robin's egg blue, wide apart and honest. Her pan-o'-dough face was saved by those eyes. They held a docile gullibility that was altogether lovely. One could no more conceive of Mrs. Krule cheating any one, or descending to chicanery, than one could conceive of one's own mother going to jail for firing orphanages or kicking the crutches out from under cripples.

An incident attending my first call is of note.

I had visited the new bakery—she named it The Dutch Oven, by the way—to compliment her on the powdery white aspect of the place and establish relations that might lead to advertising. Two women patrons were present ahead of me. As the proprietress trundled to one of her windows, to fill a paper bag with designated pastries, I beheld a boy named Sibley with his nose against the glass.

A wild little nondescript was urchin Benny Sibley, hatless and barefoot, his features and clothing showing parental indifference. A mangy, hybrid airedale was likewise attracted by those window delicacies. It stood on hind legs beside the tattered youngster, paws against the pane where it left dirty spots. Not at all a nice advertisement to have near those edibles, for the Sibley boy's ensemble was unspeakably besmirched.

Yet stout Mrs. Krule did not shoo him away. She waited till her two women patrons had departed. Then she went to the window to readjust her trays. Keeping her bulk toward me so I wouldn't see, she contrived to snitch up one luscious eclair. To the door she went next, as if to scatter the flies. Under the secrecy of her apron, without a spoken word, she slipped the pastry to the startled boy's hands.

Whereupon he turned and bolted, the dog loping after.

Mrs. Krule effected to be finicky about those flies on her door screen. Then she turned and came toward me, avoiding my eyes. She offered no comment on what she had done. She might have looked as ashamed had she struck the boy brutally.

I wanted to warn her that she was making an error, doing that sort of thing. The neighborhood urchins would make her life miserable. Yet I said nothing.

Her husband was dead, she told me. Three daughters in Holland were married; had children. Not wishing to be dependent on them, she had joined a brother in a Boston delicatessen. But the man had sold out and gone back to the Netherlands. Because the Vanderburg family up on Beach street were relatives of hers, she had come up to visit them. Which had acquainted her with Paris, Vt., and the dissatisfaction being given by the Elite.

I made note of these details. From time to time other customers entered. They compelled her to rise from the plain, wooden chair planted by the cash register, each time with an effort. In those moments of being seated, the only evidence I had that our motherly Dutch bakeress possessed knees was her mannerism of keeping her stolid hands planted firmly upon them.

"You mean you're going to do your own cooking, nights," I exclaimed, perceiving she was due to lose some of her rotundity.

"Some von to help me, I get," she responded, "ven der business pays me."

That time came quickly. The Dutch Oven on Cross street had swung three-quarters of the bakery trade away from the Elite within a month of the day her stand opened.

I was making my regular nightly call at her place some three weeks later when she spoke to me about an assistant.

"Ten dollars by der veek I pay," she informed me, "for some von to vait on der people. Maybe trade gets goot and I pay more."

I scratched my chin in reflection.

"You remember that youngster to whom you presented that free eclair?" I said finally. "Well, his name was Sibley, and he lives with his mother—and two sisters—over on River street. Josie Sibley's husband was horribly scalded in a dye vat at the process works. Some declare the man jumped into it deliberately—committed suicide—but no one has proof. What I'm getting at is, the mother has had a tough break since and tending your counter might solve two problems: hers and your own."

At once Mrs. Krule wanted to know all about Josie Sibley, her man's accident, the ages of the children, why the father might have taken his life. She listened attentively to what I imparted, making a little compassionate croon after each of my statements.

"In some ways Josie's peculiar," I said. "She talks altogether too much and some folks say she's inclined to be bossy—that she bossed Herb till he jumped in a dye vat to end it. But perhaps she can't help it. Her mother did the same to her father, and after marrying Herb she discovered herself in her mother's predicament: wedded to a man who'd stand for it. And so Herb got it. That doesn't alter the fact that she's got to work and raise those three children——"

"It ain't goot to boss men!"

"Well, Josie's up against it. The boy is 13—just the age to get into costly mischief—and from present indications she's going to have plenty of trouble raising him. The two girls are twins——"

"Maybe," said Mrs. Krule, "for dot kind I pay fifteen dollars."

And she did. But before the end of summer I found myself wishing I had been more discerning.

JOSEPHINE was a small, wiry, nervous female with snapping black eyes and sharply chiseled chin. She hadn't been working at the Oven a week before portly Mrs. Krule discovered her streak of spleenish domineering. If Josie was going to "wear out her feet" waiting on trade, the shop must be arranged according to her whim. And when it came to bakers—for one soon had to be acquired—no man stayed very long if Josie didn't like him. And usually she didn't.

"You don't like men, yah?" Mrs. Krule commented after a particularly apt baker had taken his departure—after explaining his opinion of Josie with blasphemy.

"They give me an ache," was Josie's rejoinder.

Old Mrs. Krule was painfully perplexed. She sat in her wooden chair, hands on her knees, head bent slightly forward, studying Josie as she slammed the trays about.

"Ache?" she repeated.

"I've got a supreme contempt for them. All they're good for is to make a woman trouble. I never saw one who could care for himself. One capable woman's worth half a dozen men bunched together."

Old Mrs. Krule shook her square head.

"Your husband then, you don't love him?"

"O—love!"

"But in my country, men they are different ——"

"Only because you European women let them get the upper hand. It fairly burns me up. That dago woman's another; she lives across the street. The way she kotows to that man she's married—think's he's a little tin god——"

"Men got more brains than women!"

"O, bosh and nonsense!"

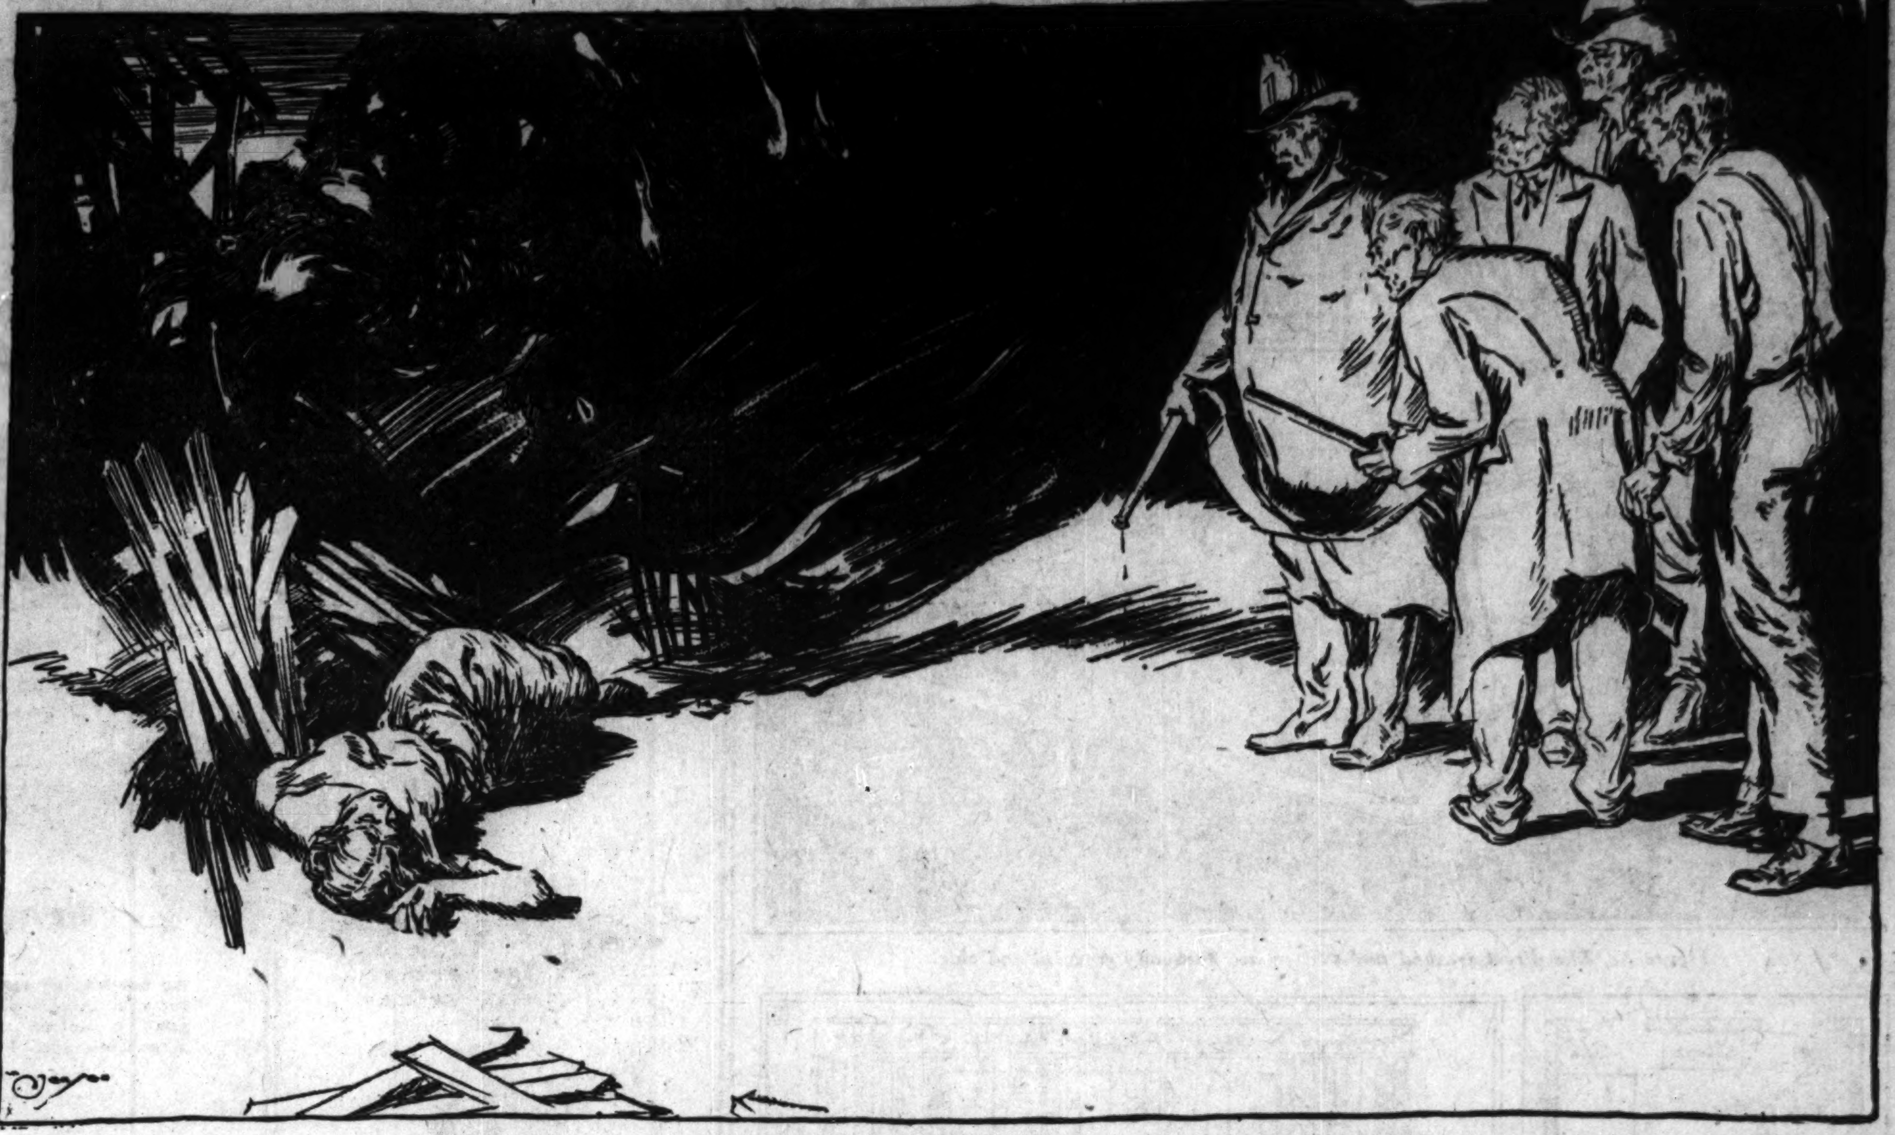
"Ain't they?"

Josie laughed shrilly—her only response. And Mrs. Krule, bakeress, was increasingly troubled.

"You got son——" she began.

"God knows why," Josie interrupted.

"You call dogs bad names and they don't know nodding else but," argued the Dutch woman. "Some day maybe your own son show you."



The stream was pushed aside. Crumpled against the fence was a limp human body. The judge reached it first. "Josie Sibley!" he exclaimed. "Josie with her neck broke!"

"He's the least of my worries," the mother contended.

And two years went by with this sort of squabbling.

JOSIE ensconced herself as a fixture at the Oven. Many new customers thought her the proprietress. Perhaps from the way she was allowed to run things, the portly owner being peaceable by temperament, she finally believed it, herself. Anyhow, she allowed her youngsters to come in after school and help themselves to the bakestuffs at random. And she actually told Mrs. Krule to go back to her ovens and "run her end of it" when the Dutch woman feebly protested against Benny lugging out fourteen crullers in one night to treat the members of a scrub-lot ball team.

Furthermore, that Josephine wasn't wholly consistent in her moralities was widely complained of by Paris womenfolk. She would look them straight in the eye and tell them that goods baked three days ago had been fresh the previous evening. And a fine hullabaloo was created on a Saturday afternoon when she short changed the small Pratt boy on a five dollar note and refused to rectify her error till the Pratt woman appeared with Chief Hogan in tow.

My personal experience with Josie's dishonesty came of an evening in 1914. I gave her a five dollar note for some bakestuffs. The bill, as rung up, was a dollar eighteen. Reaching the door with my purchases, I counted my money and had three thirty-five.

"You've made a mistake," I said, turning back.

"I never make mistakes," flared Josie.

"Well, anyhow, I'm short just forty-seven cents."

Biting her lip, she rechecked my items.

"You see," she said scathingly, "the goods that you've bought make a dollar sixty-five."

"But that isn't what you rang up on the register."

"I don't know that it's any of your business what I've rung on the register."

I looked at her queerly. She started to mumble about punching wrong keys.

"I'm not forgetting," I reminded her, "that I was responsible for Mrs. Krule employing you."

"My conscience doesn't hurt me," Josie retorted. "What right has a foreigner to come over her and settle in an American town like Paris? Take trade away from native born Vermonters?"

"She seems to have provided you with a pretty fair living the last twenty months."

"O, I don't know. It's a question how much business she'd have if I wasn't up front here to wait on people."

I walked home with misgivings.

Before I saw Josie or Frau Krule again, however, the latter called me one night on the phone. Being a mid-week evening, the bakery was closed.

"You come over and see me, yah?" she begged. She seemed distressed. I went over to the Oven.

I found Mother Krule seated in her wooden bottomed chair behind her main counter, foggy spectacles on her eyes, pain on her face—and brown paper before her covered over with figures.

"You and me friends are, yah?" she greeted me. And her placid mouth quivered. "No more money I make," she said raggedly. "Last month eighty-von dollars she steals from me alretty."

We went over the figures scrawled on the paper.

"Perhaps we'd better hunt up Judge Wright," I finally said when theft was irrefutable. "You can swear out a warrant for Josie's arrest."

"Ach, no!" cried Mrs. Krule. "Der mother of children she iss. I give her der money dot from me she steals. But . . . you tell her no more she comes here to vork."

I saw that Josie's spleen had so bullied the Dutch woman that Mother Krule feared discharge might be impossible—that Josie mightn't accept it. I had wished Josie on her. I must take her off.

Which I did. With relish.

"Well, I can tell you one thing," Josie flamed in my office before slamming my door, "she's made a first class enemy of me and she'll live to rue it!"

Benny Sibley avenged his mother in a manner more drastic. Getting his "gang" together they congregated across the street from the bakeshop. Waiting till walks were empty of pedestrians, they sent a volley of bricks at Mrs. Krule's shop front. Both windows crashed with a roar like sharp thunder. Speeding through an alley, the gang disappeared.

The hapless Dutch Oven had to close for a week. The shop's merchandise, fraught with slivered glass, was a passing loss. One of the "gang" squealed on Benny, who was taken into custody. The case was squared by the widow paying the cost of new windows and the boy turned loose with stern judicial reprimand.

But Josie Sibley was a smouldering fury. "Her turn would come," she gave out publicly, though why she felt herself entitled to a "turn" was something that Paris could not quite decipher. The result of the episode was to swing community sentiment over to the Oven thrice stronger than ever.

And Abe Hoadley was so hard hit that he sold the Elite to three Greeks from Springfield.

Josephine Sibley went to work for those Greeks.

For two years and a half after coming to Paris, Mother Krule ran the Dutch Oven in Cross street, working hard, giving honest values, accumulating enough to buy a little cottage house up on Putney Street Extension. One of her own nieces, Hulda Vanderburg, had grown big enough to succeed Josie Sibley, and a Dutchman named Van Noot came up from North Adams to shoulder the kitchenwork.

And the Greeks in the Elite, doubtless goaded by Josie, at length saw a chance to annihilate competition. Try as they would, their purchase was a loss. They would set up a monopoly on Vermont town bakestuffs.

The week following America's official entry into the war, a swarthy young stranger appeared in the Oven. While Hulda went back to fetch in fresh rolls, he produced a small can with a perforated top.

Over two luscious displays of cream puffs he criminally sifted a pint of powdered arsenic.

We know because the can was later found, the case against him proven, and the man at this moment is confined in Windsor prison.

Paris went insane. Sixteen people were hovering 'twixt life and death next day. Then serpentine rumor lifted its head. The Oven's proprietress was not Dutch but Prussian.

The war had reached Vermont.

By six o'clock that night a small mob was collecting in the Paris business section and stoutish Mother Krule was in danger of her life.

"Something's got to be done, Sam!" I cried to my partner. "Even if the woman is Prussian, poisoning Paris—wrecking her business—would be the height of nonsense."

"All the same," answered Sam, "we'd better be discreet. War sentiment's high."

"Discreet, hell! That mild eyed old woman wouldn't bash a mosquito. There's talk that Fred Wallace has been hanging 'round Josephine."

Fred's brother Asher was lying close to death. He'd eaten three of the poisoned puffs and Fred's mouth was largest in affecting retribution.

"Well, what if he has?"

"Put two and two together. A thoroughly vile woman is behind all this, getting town 'patriots' to pull her chestnuts from the fire. I'm going to get some sensible men together to stand by Mother Krule. She's no more German that you or Mike Hogan."

I got Uncle Joe Fodder, Judge Amos Farmer and Sheriff Amos Crumpett. Sam later followed. "To protect me," he said.

At a quarter to eight we got out to Putney street. We found Mother Krule sitting on a crate in a little shed at the foot of her garden. She had nowhere else to "hide." We saw her face tear-smeared when we finally gained entrance.

"We'll see you ain't hurt, ma'am," said grim-lipped Sheriff Crumpett.

That filled the bakeress with new terror palsy. But Uncle Joe voiced the general sentiment.

"I ain't shot a gun since th' mess t' Mennarsus. But I'll do it t'night t' save Paris fr'm disgrace."

He had brought an antiquated horse-pistol with him, we discovered. He brandished it suggestively as the fraught moments passed.

The mob came up Elm street and turned the far corner. Up Putney street they spilled, red fire torches blazing. They had found the red fire in the depot supply room.

"Mien Gott! Mien Gott!" cried the fear crazed bakeress.

The crowd reached the street directly before the house. By sheer press of numbers it broke flat the fence. In a mischief-bent juggernaut of devastation, the flower beds were ruined. At the first crash of glass, Sheriff Crumpett stepped out.

"Stop where you are!—you silly bunch of hoodlums."

Every person in the mob heard the old man's angry challenge.

Fred Wallace was ring leader; there was no doubt about it. He spread out both arms with his fellows at his back. They later pushed him forward by milling weight of numbers.

"We're after that Hun!" the Wallace person cried.

"That so? Just why?"

"Because she's a poisoner—a general public menace!"

"She ain't half the public menace you be, Fred Wallace. Fine way, this is, t' show your cheap patriotism."

"Wallace," ordered Farmer, wiry hair bristling, "s'pose you go home—or git int' a uniform."

"You can't order us home!" lifted half a dozen voices. The red fire blazed brighter. It lighted the district with barbaric nimbus.

Uncle Joe Fodder got out beside Farmer. His voice cackled queerly: "Th' first man who makes a move t' hurt Mrs. Krule gets a shot through th' stommick!"

"I see more war from '61 to '65 than most of you'll see if you lived t' be a hundred. An' we didn't fight women!"

"Women in your day didn't know how to fight!" I heard a voice cry shrilly—a voice that I recognized—and not a man's voice either.

An ugly pushing started anew. Wallace slid before it. Uncle Joe steadied his pistol on a forearm. I saw it belch fire and Wallace went tumbling. He doubled like a jack-knife. Then real passions were loosed.

Judge Farmer and the Sheriff were swept against the fence. Something bashed me on the head. Silver stars showered me. I went down under boots. Groggy from the brickbat, I had the sensation of an army sprawling over me. Some members of it tripped. Weight piled upon me. I lost a front tooth. One cheek was scraped open.

"Come on, you cowards!" I heard that female voice again. "Do what you started. Vermont's got no place for foreigners, anyhow!"

A barrage of the brickbats rained down upon the tool shed. Only Uncle Joe kept his feet and his freedom. Turning his pistol about as a blackjack, he hammered at heads and felled hoodlums in groups. I fought to get up and once more was knocked prostrate. The shed was ripped open.

"It's empty!" cried voices in angry surprise.

Mrs. Krule had escaped. While the sheriff had argued with Wallace in front, Sam Hod had kicked boards from the structure in the rear. He had helped the woman out and over a wall. I found her later at my partner's home when I came to report the firing of the cottage.

For that cottage was fired. Benny Sibley tearfully confessed next day that he'd used a club to break a window and touched a match to an inside lace curtain.

"I thought it was all right," he blubbered. "We're at war with Germans, ain't we?"

THE Putney street corner was aflare with yellow red. The small wooden structure blazed and burned like kindling. That stopped the conflict somewhat. And some one had sense to turn in an alarm.

Up Elm street came the wagons, sirens heightening the tumult. The chemical car first, with men dropping off to link hose with hydrants. The fire engine next, sparks furling bizarrely. Then Harry Prescott, fire chief, in his high geared red flivver. Judge Farmer got to Harry.

"T' hell with th 'house. Save th' property adjoinin'!"

Mrs. Krule's little home was already doomed.

"Turn your hose on 'em, then," the wrathy judge responded. "If they won't stop this nonsense, wash 'em with water."

A new burst of brickbats had greeted the firemen. All the hoodlums from down below the freight yards had come there to enjoy an evening of pillage. The house as a bonfire epitomized their riot. A billet of wood struck Harry in the head. It knocked off his helmet and somebody kicked it.

It might have been comic, under less tragic circumstances. Three lines of hose had finally been hooked up. They swelled now like pythons. Nozzles coughed—spat—erupted. A battery of water ploughed the ground up like shells. The hosemen fought the pressure. They got the nozzles lifted and began to fan the yard.

Toughs were mowed down like puppets. A fellow named Hager was turned end for end; the stream stayed upon him and rolled him like a can. Whole groups lost their footing and brought up against the fence. In less than half a minute a gasping, clawing, bespattered mêlée was shoved like offal into far darkened corners.

"Good God—wait!" cried Farmer suddenly. He seized Pumpton's arm. "That's a woman you're wettin'. She can't gain her feet."

The stream was pushed aside. Crumpled against the fence was a limp human body. The judge reached it first.

"Things have a queer way of adjustin' theirselves, don't they?" said the sheriff. The mob had disintegrated quickly enough. The last of the embers were falling in the cellar hole.

"Now what'll become of her kids?" mused Fodder. The old man, mud splashed, sank down on a crate.

"Why does a woman like her have 'em—kids—anyhow?" growled Crumpett. "What's gettin' int' th' womenfolks now'days—that they've got t' lead riots an' such things as that?"

"Search me," said the hostler. "But one thing's certain—if Josie'd been home mindin' her young uns, all this wouldn't happened."

"It ain't th' American idea, stayin' home an' mindin' young uns. I heard Josie say so herself. . . . t' ol' Mrs. Krule one night in th' bakeshop."

The fire was put out and Josie Sibley's body was borne across the street. Later Blake Whipple's undertaking wagon came up to Jim Harper's and got it. I headed for Sam Hod's.

"Such troubles I make!" sobbed the portly Dutch bakeress—whom I found in Sam's sitting room.

"Fiddlesticks!" cried Alice Hod.

"They caught young Benny," I declared. "He fought like a wild cat. But they got it out of him that he fired the house."

Mrs. Krule became quiet and stolidly thoughtful. With fat arms propped up, handkerchief at her lips, she was suddenly oblivious to our discussion of the riot.

"Benny is goot boy," she finally pronounced. "When I tell his mama she can't work in my store, he go get stones and break all the windows."

"Call that good?" exclaimed Sam.

"He do it for his mama. That ain't so bad. But his mama don't remember that Benny iss a man. Me, I understand boys. I can take little Benny and make him fine lad."

"I don't doubt but what the selectmen would be tickled pink to let you." I said it half in jest, not considering its effect.

"Yah? You think maybe they let me?"

"You don't mean you would!"

"Such troubles I make! I take little Benny and make him fine lad."

Thus it came about, seven days later in Judge Farmer's office, that five men sat stupefied.

"Ach, money!" cried the bakeress. "So easy I make it when maybe I show Paris I don't put poison in cream puffs. I go back to my rooms in my bakeshop upstairs. Benny and Sybil and Gertrude I take there. And Benny I teach to say prayers and be goot. You let me haff dom—yah?"

Mrs. Krule had arisen from her chair and came in front of Judge Farmer's table. She leaned upon it, her face ten inches from the rueful selectman's.

"I don't get it," said Farmer. "The mother of these kids treated you 'bout as narsty —"

"But such troubles I make, here in America. And without his mama, Benny make more. Benny iss goot boy. He yost need some one to love him. You let me have him, yah?"

"Well, I'm certainly willing if the rest are. I don't quite get the head and tail of it, but if you want to get hold of that little Indian and whale him as he deserves, I envy you the privilege. Go ahead and take 'em."

Mother Krule did.

However, she didn't whale them.

Gertrude admitted once in my hearing that beyond taking them by the ear occasionally at the commencement of her guardianship, the foster-mother laid neither palm nor stick on her charges. Josephine Sibley might have domineered over the fleshy bakeress but the latter had wholesome Dutch ideas about the propriety of small children doing it.

The twins appeared at school that fall, neat and well-mannered. Benny's gang dissolved. He broke no more windows and stole no more fruit. I recall his visit at our office just before I left for war. He'd come to apply for a job as carrier.

"Will you be strictly honest about bringing in collections?" my partner demanded.

"Yes, sir," Benny promised. "I've kinda laid off hurtin' Missus Krule's feelin's. She's awful soft inside, Missus Krule is, when you get to know her. 'Taint a bit o' fun raisin' Cain with any one who's soft inside. A feller feels he wants to sort o' chip in and help her. Besides, I never knew what a lot o' fun work was till she let me pitch in and do interestin' things, 'stead o' slappin' and jawin' all the time."

"Interesting things?"

"She let me paint the inside o' the shop. Then she put it up to me to sort o' boss the gang that cleaned up the mess Fred Wallace made to her house on Putney avenue. Ma'd never lemme do anything. I was just a kid to her, I guess. Missus Krule says that when things are straightened out I can help the carpenters build a new house for us up on the old Putney cellar hole. She sort o' treats me like I was a man and so I just gotta be one."

"Report Monday night," Sam told him in parting.

"Yes, sir—thanks!" said Benny, putting on his cap.

"Why, the boy's a little gentleman!" cried my partner when Benny had departed.

IF you come up to Paris today you can easily find the Dutch Oven on Cross street, just around the corner from Main. She owns it still, though Van Noot runs it. Her heart began to misbehave after Sybil's marriage to an architect named Wilkes. Gertie finished high school and entered a normal school in Connecticut.

Benny was last to leave her. He had just turned 17 the month of the adoption. He was made to go to high school and then—because of his bent for mechanics—he want out to Detroit and entered a factory. Six months after his departure he sent Mrs. Krule a clipping. She showed it to me one night in the bakery. Benny, it seemed, had specialized on engines. He had left the motor factory to take up work on planes and the clipping attested he had made his solo flight.

Nearly a dozen years ago that mob of hoodlums burned the Dutch woman's house. And Benny has come along in that time . . . yes, Benny has come along! . . .

Every evening in the year that weather permits, spring, summer, autumn, winter, a gray haired old Dutch woman comes out on her back porch between 8 and 9 o'clock. Out into the yard she goes and seems to be idling around her property, yet waiting for something.

Then, if the weather be clear, sooner or later off in the low southeast her mild blue eyes are sure to see a light—a moving light! Over the horizon it comes, inexorably mounting up cobalt heavens. Onward and onward—closer and closer—yet up toward the stars. Soon the doughty purr of a plane becomes audible. And always it passes directly above her house.

Up there alone between mountain tops and stars strong, young hands steady at controls, mind attuned to that savage motor, calm eyes fixed on flashing mountain beacons, another dauntless young eagle of the air is pushing through space on wings of silk and steel. The United States mail is going through. Benny is carrying it.

Somehow, it is the essence of glory—that conception of a great mail plane hurtling through the heavens night after night, regardless of storm, riot, holocaust, or flood. And the boy that twelve years ago was headed for the bad, who broke windows, stole fruit, fired houses, led a gang, has beautifully made good that Dutch woman's plea: "To me you give him. I make him goot man."

I often wonder what her thoughts are as she stands in the garden while the mail plane goes through. Strange indeed, to think of the tousle headed little roughneck who smashed glass and fired lace curtains, as the guiding brain of that long, gray, snarling thing of inexpressible power that must mount up so far some nights that the rotund little old lady in the garden can't see the signal of his flashlight. For Benny usually waves one. He knows she's down there wishing him Godspeed.

Sometimes the wild Shirkshires howl up the mountains—when we hear the faint throb of the night mail going through. Whole weeks have passed by when we have not caught sight of it . . . only that strong, virile pulse somewhere up there in nocturnal elements.

Yet I never lie comfortably in bed with rain beating down on the shingles and a book on my chest over which I've been nodding, and discern that faint throbbing growing constantly louder—till the whirr becomes a roar that dies in northern distance—that I don't breathe a little prayer for Sibley, up there in the cold and the dark, doing a man's job, making danger his calling in the advancement of our culture.

Joe Sibley took the attitude that nothing male was entitled to much respect. Mother Krule took the attitude that Benny was Man and respected him as such. And he had to perform in order to keep faith.

O, well, I suppose it's the continental angle!

GOOD-BY, NEW YORK!

[It is rumored that Ziegfeld is so impressed with the speakies he will make no more musical comedies, except for the movies.]

If all the show girls, bad and good,
Are beckoned off to Hollywood,
While drys still cut the night clubs down,
They might as well close up the town.
Our vanishing phenomena!

But I'll go west, my girl! Boohoo—
Dear, little ole New York is through.

Picks Spot for Well.

While homesteading in the Dakotas some years ago it was necessary to drill a well on our place. Our predecessors had tried repeatedly to get good water on the land, and after a great expenditure of time and money gave it up as a "bad job." The first night there I dreamed that I dug a well—in fact it seemed that I dug that well all night long. It was so imprinted on my memory that the next morning I staked out the exact spot—only a few feet from our shack—and insisted that the drillers sink a shaft in that particular place. Happily for all concerned, they struck a spring and we had the best water for miles around. J. C.

Finds Indian Relics.

My pet economy was to pick up various shiny objects as I walked through the fields. One day while walking along, I noticed an arrow pointed stone which I picked up and put in my pocket. I showed it to the librarian and he asked me where I found it.

We both went out to the farm and found more stones just like the first one. These proved of considerable value as we later found other objects of art relating to the American Indian.

Just Dumfounded.

Four years ago a national home lighting contest was conducted for school children and I wrote and submitted an essay. A month or so later during the morning chapel period the district winners were announced. All the grade school winners were announced first, leaving the high school winners until the last, with the district winner at the end. I hadn't expected anything, so after the prizes had been given for the local winners, the man who was giving the prizes gave a speech about the district winner, without mentioning the name. He went on to say what an honor it was and finally called my name.

I was so dumfounded my friends sitting on either side of me had to push me up to go to the stage to accept the prize. Before giving me the prize, which was a chest of silver, he talked some more and it left me rather weak when I finally got off the stage. Since then I've had more thrills, but never one so great.

The Thrill of Sight.

For weeks I had been in the hospital, my eyes bandaged after an operation performed with no definite hope of restoring sight. Then at last came the day when the bandages were to be removed and my eyes tested. Fearfully, I opened my eyes, and I saw dimly the loved face of my best friend, the doctor. Even the joy of stronger sight that came to me in time never equalled the thrill of this first moment. V. W.

The LONG NIGHT

by FRANK R. ADAMS

In Retrospect:

THE steamship Rangefinder, bearing Prof. Eric Dahlstrom on an arctic voyage of exploration, has been wrecked and is drifting in the ice with Prof. Dahlstrom, Judge Cavendish, and Capt. Anderson as sole survivors. Stephen Hard, war correspondent, is dispatched with a relief plane by Mike Levens, managing editor of the New York Chronicle. Hard drops from the plane by parachute. He finds two men in the cabin, both unconscious or dead. He is struck down unconscious by an unseen assailant. By dirigible arrives a second relief party, led by Eve Dahlstrom, the explorer's daughter, and including Leroy Collier, whom Eve has promised to marry in return for financing the expedition; Herbert Beverleigh; John Gael; Christopher Brinker, Scandinavian newspaper man; Dr. Waters, and Karl Mautssler, a German mechanic. The dirigible is compelled by rising wind to cruise away, leaving these members of the party aboard the ship. Dahlstrom is found dead, Cavendish and Hard unconscious—the latter with a crutch in his hand. The captain is missing; the ship's log reveals that the crew has deserted, under the leadership of the mate. Dahlstrom's death is attributed to Hard. Collier convinces the others that the motive might have been a phial of radium. Hard is placed in chains.

INSTALLMENT IV.

Rescue by Air.

WHEN the others had retired Steve surveyed his prison critically. Considering the size of the ship, this main cabin was really quite large. Apparently what would ordinarily have been both the dining salon and the main cabin had been thrown into one room for the purpose of economy and convenience in heating. Around the butt of the mainmast to which he was chained there was plenty of room for exercise. He could move in a circle within a radius of seven feet. He would have to do his walking, though, when the others were awake, because the jangling of his chains, even at the slightest movement, was a prodigious racket.

He was within easy reach of the stove so that he could keep warm enough, warmer, probably, than any one else on the ship, but he could not touch the lamp, which had been turned down to a mere glow in order to conserve oil.

He had to laugh at the swift change in his fortunes that had been effected in the last few hours. The predicament in which he found himself was a curious commentary on the uncertainty of human life. He had come, at considerable risk to his neck, to save Eric Dahlstrom, and now here he was accused of having killed him.

He confronted fairly the facts as he knew them, the events that had actually happened from the time he had walked down the frozen, creaking stairs of that aft companionway until the blank of unconsciousness had overtaken him and he had to confess that they seemed too fantastic to be believed. He reviewed again his actions and reactions from the time he had made his parachute landing. First, there was the fact that the aft companion hatch and the doors below were open. That had seemed criminal carelessness on the part of some one—that or a deliberate act of destruction. If those doors had remained open for long every living thing in the cabin would have been frozen to death.

Steve toyed for a moment with the idea that Dahlstrom had done it himself; that when he knew that his old friend and comrade, Judge Cavendish, was asleep he had let in the arctic to put a painless end to what was apparently an intolerable situation. But that did not quite account for the fact that Steve had been struck down when he was trying to help Prof. Dahlstrom. Could it have been the judge who had done that? Steve's back had been turned to Cavendish at the time. It did not seem likely—unless the judge's present weakness was all a pretense and he was shamming an illness and fatigue from exposure that he did not really feel. It might be possible that an arctic madness had possessed the two men, an obsession of the long night; that they had quarreled over nothing and that he, Steve, had suffered the usual fate of the innocent bystander.

The character of Judge Cavendish, as he knew it from report and from observation since he had met him here in this remote corner of the world, rather ruled out the conclusion that there had been madness or a row. The judicial temperament and training, ideally exemplified in this distinguished veteran of the Supreme bench, did not make for personal quarrels. A man who has presided over a thousand arguments does not ordinarily enter into one on his own account unless the issue at stake is a momentous one.

Then there was that matter of the disappearance of the supplies. That some of the packages from the airplane might have dropped into inaccessible spots was quite comprehensible, but that all should be gone was stretching the probabilities. Steve wondered if Mausler, the German mechanic, on his own initiative or under orders from Collier, had collected and hidden them with the idea of making him appear to be a liar. It was a possible explanation, but not a probable one. He doubted whether Roy Collier could think that fast. He had never given any evidence of it during his military career. Collier made quick decisions, but they never had much mental effort behind them. So far he had been lucky. His mistakes had usually been paid for by somebody else.

STEVE smiled as he thought back over the causes of Collier's animosity toward him. There was no doubt that the millionaire had plenty of reason to hate the devil-may-care, outspoken war correspondent and adventurer. By an accident of censorship, Steve had happened to be on the actual firing line at the time Collier had made his most costly mistake and later, when the press muzzle was taken off, he, Steve, had mentioned it—plenty. Collier had tried to buy him off, but neither Steve nor the newspapers he represented had any use for money.

The scandal died down eventually, because there were so many others coming along that were more stupendous, but Collier had not forgiven the man who had penetrated his "front" and had shown him up for a fleeting moment in the white glare of truth. Even Steve could not see any reason why Collier should not welcome any chance to get even with him. The mere fact that a newspaperman, if he is a real one, has to write what he sees and knows regardless of who gets hurt could not be expected to enter into Collier's feeling in the matter or to soften the emotion with which he regarded the one man in the world who had never inclined his neck even slightly as a tribute to his money.

And then this last meeting between Collier and himself, where he unintentionally witnessed Collier's manhandling of Eve at Mrs. Beverleigh's and had subsequently knocked him down, had not in the least tended to establish any entente cordiale. Steve rejoiced in the fact that Collier was his enemy, and looked forward with pleasure to the next chance of coming to blows with him. For the moment Collier seemed to have the upper hand, and it was going to be unpleasant until they got back to New York and took a more conventional and sane slant on the situation. Just now the viewpoint of every one was warped out of all proportion by the enforced isolation and the entirely unfamiliar conditions that surrounded them.

As soon as Lindbloom got back with help. . . . Steve jerked himself up at that thought. It ran into a blank wall. One of the things he was supposed to do, according to prearranged plan, was to clear a landing space for the airplane which was mounted on skis. Unless he did so, Lindbloom could not possibly descend without crashing.

Well, in that case he would probably have to return, a prisoner, on the German dirigible which Collier had chartered for his expedition. That would be humiliating and ignominious but it would not last long. He felt sure that back in the states he could get out from under this rather ridiculous accusation. What he could not accomplish himself Mike Levens and the New York Chronicle could do for him. Steve had unbounded confidence in his superior officer and in the power of the press.

Mike had got him into this scrape—now let him get him out. Having thus philosophically shifted the burden of his rescue to other shoulders, Steve settled down to try to find a moderately comfortable position in which he could sleep. While he was shifting around and regretfully arriving at the conclusion that sleeping in chains was not going to be possible until he was much more exhausted, some one came out of one of the staterooms.

For a moment he thought it was Dr. Waters who was the smallest man of the outfit, but a certain poise about the movements of the shadowy figure convinced him it was Eve. She was dressed the same as the men but she walked differently. She had headed toward the door that led to the forehold.

"I wouldn't," he said kindly. He kept his voice low.

"But my father is there." Eve's voice shook a little. "I can't sleep."

"Of course not. I shouldn't try, if I were you. Sit down and smoke a cigaret with me."

"But you are the man I hate—detest with all my heart and soul."

"Yes?" Steve accepted that coolly. "And you, Miss Dahlstrom, are not by any means my idea of what a young woman should be. In fact, you are farthest removed from it of any one I have ever met. But now that we have declared our estimates of one another, there is no necessity for discussing them any more. We can't hurt each other any more for today so let's accept the personal enmity as a thing established and taken for granted. You might as well accept my companionship as I am apparently the only other person who is awake. You're in a darn tight place mentally—a tighter predicament than my physical one—and you must accept aid from any source that offers either that, or go mad in the turmoil of your own thoughts. God knows I don't like you but under some circumstances I'll talk to anybody. My cigarets are there on the table, just out of reach. Mr. Gael forgot to put them back in my pocket after searching me."

Docilely enough, quite to her own surprise, Eve found his cigarets, gave him one, and hesitatingly took another herself.

"The matches——" he started to say."

"I have some."

Eve lit one and held it between them. It was his best chance to look at her, and Steve did not avert his eyes even while he held the end of his cigaret in the flame.

Her eyes were just as steady as her hand. Steve tried to find the word that described her best and finally was compelled, grudgingly, to admit that it was "brave." Her expression was troubled, more than that, tortured, but her chin was up and the pain that quivered in her lips could not gain control. Steve had an idea that she would die like that and never ask for mercy. Lacking almost all of the feminine characteristics which he had always considered commendable, she nevertheless had that one supreme attribute of mankind and of our race, of humanity—courage.

"What can we talk about?" asked Eve piteously. "I can't even think of anything except that if I had got here a few moments sooner nothing would have happened."

"I don't say that you must forget that," Steve replied, and he carefully held his voice to a monotone. He had learned the trick once when talking to wounded and dying men among the débris of battlefields. It was an anaesthetic that worked sometimes when no other was available—the sing-song human voice—and a cigaret. "What you have to do now is to overlay all the hurts and hates with a few gentle friendly thoughts that will protect the cut and stinging edges and gradually take away a little of the pain. I remember when I was rather a small boy that when my father had punished me he would always come to my bed before I went to sleep and talk to me about things that had nothing whatever to do with the misdeed, and after a while forget how much I hated him and before he got through I'd always crawl up in his lap and that's where I'd go to sleep. I think it did us both good."

Eve laughed a little sarcastically. "You can picture me going to sleep in your lap?"

"Not literally. What I was illustrating to you was the value of supplanting torturing thoughts with others that are at least endurable. I don't say that everything that happens is for the best. All I say is that no matter what happens there is a way to face it, that you can find something inside of you that will help you not to run away. And by facing it I don't mean in vendetta fashion. Revenge is rather a paltry distraction. Usually it only paves the way to more grief."

Eve inhaled from her cigaret. It was the first time she had taken a really deep breath. "You're trying to talk yourself out of a tight corner."

"Your error. I don't give a damn what you think of me. I'd rather you hated than liked me, and my feeling toward Mr. Collier at having won your hand in marriage is one of sincere pity mixed with regret that it will not be necessary for me to kill him myself."

Eve laughed a little. "I like you much better when you bite than when you purr."

"I have never been known to purr," retorted Steve. "When I am pleased I bark and wag my tail."

"But that does not often happen?"

"Very seldom. Almost never in the company of women."

"An obvious challenge, my dear Mr. Hard."

"Heaven forbid."

"Not in the least necessary. I have but one course to follow so far as you are concerned and that is laid out before me as straight as a string."

"With one end of it tied to the gallows," Steve finished for her. "Have you another match?" He took a fresh cigaret from the package.

"Yes, but light it from mine. We might run short of matches."

Her hand was still steady as she held it up with the smouldering tip of her cigaret extended but her eyes, as he noted when the glow increased as he puffed, were a little tired, more relaxed than when she had first come out of her stateroom.

THEY were sitting on the floor by this time, with their backs against the slanting mast.

"I wonder," he said, "what is the lure of the Arctic? No man who starts exploring the wilderness of ice ever quits. There isn't really half so much universal interest in the interior of Africa or Australia and they are almost as little known. The cold country puts its stamp on men, I guess. Or do you suppose it is only a certain type of man who gets interested in this sort of thing? One thing is sure—with very few exceptions Arctic explorers are pretty much alike. Nansen, Stefannsonn, Amundsen, and Peary, too, I suppose, although I never met him."

"O, but I did. I was a very little girl but I went to see him once with my father. We knew the others, too. Stefannsonn autographed his books for me and Nansen gave a party in my honor in Stockholm."

"Tell me about that and about Commodore Peary."

She did. And then he told her about his last talk with the great adventurer, Roald Amundsen, just before he embarked on his final flight to find his bitter enemy. He talked on and on. She swayed a little sometimes from sedative fatigue, from the low drone of his pleasant voice, and he watched carefully, keeping up an unceasing flow of conversation all the while.

Finally her head drooped until it touched Steve's shoulder. She did not raise it. She was beginning to breathe slowly and naturally for the first time. Steve grinned as he stopped talking. They made as incongruous a group picture as a bulldog and a puma taking a nap in the same basket. Just the same, he did not move for fear that the clanking of the chains would wake her up.

His cigaret went out.

The New York Chronicle still carried the Dahlstrom arctic expedition as a front page feature, although hope of locating the lost ship was waning. Mike Levens had received daily messages from the temporary headquarters of the Chronicle relief expedition at Dalrymple Rock and had sent out wireless instructions to Stephen Hard. Steve had sent in some good stories about the fruitless search across the terrific wastes of ice and snow, about flying through the aurora borealis, and about the methods they were using to attempt to locate the Rangefinder.

Levens felt that the fast flying plane carrying Hard and Lindbloom had a better chance of sighting the ice-locked ship than the Collier dirigible would have. Besides Hard and Lindbloom had already been in the field three days before the Collier airship was ready for its first flight.

"Frankly," he said to Jennings Frobisher, owner and publisher of the Chronicle, "the story is about over. It was a wild idea of mine, I guess, and it looks as if I'd wasted quite a lot of your money."

"That's part of the game," Frobisher assured him. "You don't hear me kicking, do you?" The old man got up from the chair across from Mike's desk. "I've never insisted on your being God. However, if you think this stunt is a bloomer, call off the boys and we'll stop the overhead in that particular branch office."

Mike already had his orders in code to relay to the Canadian wireless stations when the laconic message from Lindbloom arrived:

"What a great descriptive writer that lank Swede sky-rider turned out to be!" marveled Mike Levens as he held the wireless form in his hand. "Imagine snapping your fingers under the nose of death and telling it all in fourteen words." He groaned. "And I'd give my shirt to have seen Steve step off into the dark. That might have been only a phosphorescent fish and yet the gorgeous damfool jumped for it."

Levens tried to think to whom of his staff he could entrust the delicate task of enlarging that fourteen word radiogram into four columns of descriptive matter that would make commuters shiver with appreciative sympathy while standing beside steaming radiators. Finally he decided to write the story himself.

THE first member of the party to arouse from the deep sleep into which they had all fallen was John Gael. Perhaps being in a ship's bunk had revived his earlier seagoing instincts. He started to turn up the main cabin light.

Gael looked in his direction in amazement. Perhaps he had for the moment forgotten the prisoner. Certainly his surprise suffered no abatement when he saw who was with him.

"What the ——?" he started.

"Easy. Don't make any sudden noise. Pick her up and put her in her bunk. I believe you can do it without rousing her."

Gael did as suggested. Eve stirred as he lifted her from the floor, but did not open her eyes. The ex-sea captain came back after putting her to bed.

"Is everything all right?" he asked. "She isn't doped or anything?"

Steve laughed shortly. "No. She has been perfectly safe with me all night." He stretched his aching muscles with as little rattling of chains as possible. "She doesn't know she was sleeping on my shoulder, though, and there isn't any reason for telling her—or Collier either, for that matter."

"But I don't understand how she came to be here with you."

"She was headed for the forehold to have an hysterical breakdown over her father's body. I stopped her, and talked her to sleep."

Dr. Waters emerged from his cabin, yawning.

"About time I looked at my patients. How do you feel, Mr. Hard?" He glanced quizzically at Steve.

Gael was already feeding fuel to the fire. "I guess we can have something hot pretty soon."

"Most of us are pretty well nourished," the doctor decided. "We can get along without much real food for a day or so. Judge Cavendish needs all we can give him."

Dr. Waters stepped into the cabin occupied by Judge Cavendish, but he was still within range of sound and Steve cautioned Gael to say nothing further by placing a finger on his lips.

"It would be a grand idea," suggested Steve, "if nobody made any more noise than is positively necessary, for the sake of the judge as well as others who may not have had enough sleep."

Judge Cavendish insisted upon coming out into the main cabin for breakfast. There was coffee and hard bread for everybody. By the doctor's orders the judge and Steve were each served a ration of canned food, a preparation prepared especially for the expedition and containing a little of everything necessary to human nourishment, a sort of idealized dog food.

Collier came out of his stateroom while they were eating. After he had received his hard tack and not very appetizing coffee, he demanded, "Where's the rest of it?"

"The rest of what?" asked Gael, munching on a cracker.

"The rest of the meal. That stuff smells pretty good, considering how far it is from Sherry's." He sniffed at Judge Cavendish's plate.

"O, we've only got a little of that. The doctor is saving it for the invalids."

"Do you mean to say," demanded Collier, rising, "that I'm to eat this damned dried wall board while a red-handed murderer stuffs himself with real food? Not so you could notice it."

"As it happens, I had not intended to eat this," he said, placing it on the table.

Collier started to reach for it.

"I had rather imagined," Steve continued, "that all of the gentlemen in the party would be inclined to concur with me in the idea of reserving this for Miss Dahlstrom."

Collier drew back his hand as if some one had hit it with a club. But he did not seem particularly embarrassed by the rebuke.

"Of course," he said with magnificent generosity. "I am heartily in favor of that. Is there any more of the tincture of coffee, then, that I can use as a vacuum filler until the dirigible gets back?"

"How soon do you think Capt. Sachs will be back?" Mr. Beverleigh asked, dishing himself a pannikin of boiled rice.

"We were less than ten hours finding the ship in the first place," calculated Roy.

"But we were flying low and slowly," contributed Brinker. "Capt. Sachs must have gone a [illegible] lot faster on the way back to the base."

"It just happens that he had the wind with him," said John Gael, whose early training made him notice such things. "That would help him, unless the storm made him lose his way."

"Which way is the wind now?" asked Collier.

Mausler, who went up on deck to see, reported shortly to the effect that there was little surface wind and that the snow had stopped. The northern lights were quite strong.

"Sachs should be able to make the round trip, counting time out at Spitzbergen, to refuel in less than twenty-four hours," Collier calculated. "So all we've got to do is kill half a day more here, and then we'll head back for civilization."

"I suppose we ought to get the searchlight on deck going so that they can find us," suggested Dr. Waters.

"No," Collier contradicted, "there isn't much power left in the storage batteries and Mausler tells me there is no fuel to run the generator, so we'll have to save what we've got until the last minute. If Sachs got here too soon he'd cruise around in the approximate position waiting for us to flash him a signal."

"My plane and pilot will be back sooner than the airship," pointed out Steve.

"Yeah," Collier acknowledged without interest. "But what good will that do us?"

"For one thing, he'll have supplies and fuel for us in case your airship doesn't get back as soon as you expect. They might have had an accident in the storm last night."

"Don't try to frighten the women and children," sneered Collier. "That dirigible is a damn sight safer than your plane, and you know it. Besides, the dirigible can take us off and the plane can't."

"It could if you would all turn out and level enough space for a landing. Counting myself, there are seven able bodied men. We could do a lot in a few hours."

"Sounds like an interestin' and practical idea, old pickerel," applauded Brinker. "What say, mates and companions, shall we turn out with brooms and dust off the ice?"

"Don't be absurd," countered Collier. "Why should we make it easy for this malefactor to get help. The least that could happen, if his friends came looking for him, would be that we'd have a fight on our hands. No. This is just a scheme to get away and square himself with the authorities before we can tell our story. If we turn on the searchlight to guide his plane, there will not be enough current left with which to signal the dirigible."

"You could," persisted Steve, "flash the light on for a second or so every five minutes. That would not take much current."

"That sounds reasonable enough," Mr. Beverleigh put in. "Why not try it?"

"No," decided Collier. "The dirigible will be here soon enough."

My Best Party

Tell us about the nicest party you ever attended and we'll pay $1 for each letter printed. Address Parties, Chicago Tribune.

An April Fool Party.

Quite a clever idea was carried out at a party given by a young girl, who lived next door to us. She invited about twelve or so of her girl friends to a party on the first of April. The evening was spent with games and music and at the supper table the favors announced the engagement and approaching marriage of the young hostess. This was a complete surprise to all her friends, because they were not aware that she had been keeping company with any one. She smilingly accepted the best wishes of all her friends and shortly after that the guests put on their wraps. After accompanying them to the door and bidding them good-night, she called after them, "April Fool!" Not until then did it dawn on the guests that they had been the victims of an April Fool joke.

Spider Party.

The best party I know of was called a spider party. The invitations were written on correspondence cards and a spider web and a spider were drawn across one corner. When the guests arrived the living room had a false ceiling made of grocery string in the form of a huge spider web. All of the strings [there was one for each guest] ended at one place—hanging over a corner of a picture on the wall—and each string had a tag attached on which was written the name of a guest. When all had arrived each guest found his tag and proceeded to wind his string around the tag. Of course, it was tangled with other strings, which caused much merriment. At the other end of each string was a favor particularly suited to the receiver. These were hidden under chairs, behind pictures, or in any out-of-sight place.

After the mad scramble with the string each guest was asked to demonstrate his favor. I recall that one rather stout lady received a tiny doll's rocking chair with a tag attached which read: "For that tired feeling." She found a rocker and rocked violently and leisurely for our approval.

A certain gentleman who talks a great deal about duck hunting received several small celluloid ducks from the dime store. He set them out in the middle of the rug for decoys and demonstrated how he enticed flocks of ducks out of the air. And so on.

After that we played the game every one knows as "Cootie," but used a spider instead.

The refreshments consisted of chicken salad with buttered rolls. The salad was garnished with spiders made of olives or bodies and strips of pimento for legs. Plain brick ice cream was decorated with a date and citron spider and the cakes with chocolate spiders on white icing.

Hawaiian Lawn Party.

The best party I ever attended was a Hawaiian lawn party given in my honor. The hostess was a young southern girl at whose home I was visiting in Tennessee. The large and beautiful lawn was enclosed by a fence which served as a trellis for dozens of rosebushes in full bloom. Near the center of the lawn, a number of comfortable chairs and benches were grouped around a stately magnolia tree also in full bloom. The porch was illuminated by fancy lanterns but on the lawn there was nothing to mar the splendor of the golden moonlight. The fellows were hatless and coatless wearing light shirts and white duck trousers while the girls were clad in the daintiest dresses I have ever seen. The hostess met her guests at the garden gate and presented each one with a garland of flowers to be worn around the neck in true Hawaiian style. This of course added much to the atmosphere of the party as did the Hawaiian guitar and six or seven ukeleles. We all sat beneath the magnolia tree and sang all the Hawaiian songs we could think of.

As we were enjoying a most delicious "Tropical Punch" our hostess slipped away but soon appeared on the porch dressed in a Hawaiian costume, grass skirt, flowers and all. A talented and accomplished dancer she entertained us with a number of solo dances, the music being furnished by a small orchestra hidden behind a screen of semi-tropical plants. The orchestra played during the rest of the evening while we all danced on the spacious veranda.

Hands Artists Rave About

Whenever New York artists or photographers want an exquisite pair of hands for "close up" reproduction they call in Annette Grandin. She has hands of rare beauty that can stand "close up" reproduction because they are so delicately white and smooth.

"The secret," Miss Grandin says, "lies not in any special care, or in the use of fancy lotions, but simply in a skin bleach of my own making. I get three ounces of Orchard White at the corner druggist and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a remarkable and at the same time perfectly harmless bleach. I rub a little into my hands—also my neck and face—every night and this keeps my skin not only clear and white but soft and smooth."

By Gladys Huntington Bevans

ELEPHANTS being a favorite animal among the younger element in the family, their father kept and read to them anything of interest he came across on the subject. One night before dinner he began a long article about the taming of the African elephant.

If you're interested in animals or have much to do with children you know the difference between the Indian and the African elephant in looks and demeanor. The former can be trained to docilely put his intelligence and strength at man's disposal. The latter, the swift, powerful beast with the sloping back and the huge flapping ears has always been referred to as "the untamable African elephant."

But this conception of the African elephant seems to be suffering the fate of many of our previous ideas of what constitutes the impossible. The African elephant is now found to be tamable—provided you know how to tame him. There is a training school conducted by a group of men in Africa who do know how and are able to make this fierce mammoth creature gentle as a lamb.

No Fundamental Difference.

Martin Johnson, who wrote the article referred to, expresses the conviction that there is no fundamental difference between the natures of the African and the Indian elephants. It is instead the difference in the way they have been treated that accounts for the difference in their behavior.

The attitude of human beings toward them has certainly been as different as possible. The Indian elephant has been treated with kindness, affection, and respect. The African elephant has found in man only an enemy—so he has always treated him as one in his turn. Since the African elephant has always stood for the fierce, the wild, the unapproachable, it is interesting to have this new slant on him.

A Better Understanding.

We see the same thing ourselves on every hand with domestic animals. Some people have no idea how to treat a dog or bird or cat and in a sense ruin them—while other people, who do know how, have pets that are even tempered, interesting, obedient, and loving. Why? Because they are naturally that way? Or because the owner understands how to love and manage them? Almost entirely the latter.

And we must admit a similar truth about children. Take, for instance, a huge class of grammar school boys in a public school. One teacher goes in and everything that shouldn't happen does happen, and practically nothing that should happen takes place in that room. Another teacher is given the class, and everything is peaches and cream. Is it the children? We know it isn't. It is the understanding and authority of the teacher—as if a violin were played first by an untalented novice and later the same violin was played by a master hand.

The same power and insight, or look of it, exists in a mother, a father, a nurse. Given normal children, the making or marring lies with those in charge of them. Strangely enough, some parents and also some who are not parents but are mere onlookers rise up in hot rebellion against this idea, especially if they see it in print.

I acknowledge that it is a hard fact to face, but the sooner parents face it the better. The sooner we hold ourselves responsible for results, the sooner we'll get them. Everybody [doctor, educator, psychologist, psychiatrist] is "passing the buck" to the parents these days. Why? Because that's where it belongs. This statement always arouses somebody's ire, but if we are honest about it we know it's the truth.

Wanted Present to Be Own.

"See the fountain pen Sally gave me," said a mother the other day. "She bought it with money she'd earned and saved. She wouldn't use her big money because that had been given to her and she wanted the present to be her very own to me."

"My little girl has never given me a birthday present in her life. She's getting more selfish every day," said the other mother.

Had that all happened by itself in both cases? We know it hadn't.

"Come here, I want to show you something," said a mother to her husband one Fourth of July eve. She pointed to her dressing table. There lay two strings of baby crackers, one package of larger Chinese crackers, one small red fire, one small green fire, one Roman candle and one piece of punk. "Bill gave them to me because he wanted me to enjoy my Fourth of July, too," she said, "and I didn't have any fireworks of my own."

Would that child have bought those with his own pocket money and presented them with his whole heart if his mother hadn't been the kind that entered into his pleasures with him? [The fact that you or I may believe in a safe and sane Fourth doesn't spoil the point of the story.]

A young mother in the delight and is suddenly given the care of a little labor of taking care of her first baby niece of five. "Her mother has always called her a disobedient, troublesome cry baby who made endless trouble at meals," she writes. "I had a feeling that she wasn't naturally that way, so I put my belief to the test. I used a different shaped glass every day for her milk, and we made a little ceremony of weighing her; and she eats everything I give her, drinks her milk always, has gained two pounds in ten days, and is a sweet, really a lovely little girl." How directly traceable to the way the child has been treated are her two quite different set of actions.

There is no use in resenting the idea that parents carry the fate of their children in their hands. It's so very evident to those who will see—and there are none so blind as those who will not.

Cases and More Cases.

I could cite dozens of cases.

There are two boys who are excitable, jerky, nervous, one stammers, one stutters. Their parents disagreed early in their lives. Emotional scenes took place. The children heard them. The mother was uncontrolled. She left the father and threw herself violently into loving and expecting love from her little boys. The present condition of the boys is obviously the result.

Here's a little girl—impudent, self-conscious, disobedient, impossible at the table, and gradually being disliked by both children and grown people. Her parents bemoan it all, but they've done it all themselves by discussing her and everything else in her presence, by being stern one minute and lax another, and by general mismanagement.

A mother is frantic because when she's in the house her little girl won't leave her a for a minute. She actually dogs her mother's footsteps, even sitting with her on the piano bench when she sits down to play. The thing seems almost like an obsession with the child. It transpires that the mother has had a theory that she would make her very little girl self-reliant by having her taken care of by maids—good, kind maids. The child has never been "entirely outside of her life," she says. Of course the trouble is simply analyzed. The child has never been truly entirely within her mother's life. She is hungry for her mother's love, her companionship, and so when her mother is at home she attaches herself to her like a starved little leech.

So it goes back always to the parents. If they could realize it enough they might prevent so much. Or, things once having gone astray, if they could realize their fault they could do much to straighten them out.

To hold yourself to account means thinking, understanding, caring. But when the reward is happiness and well being to your child and the resulting delight it gives you in him, it is well worth saddling yourself with the responsibility.

Jack and Jill Players to Entertain Sally's Guests

By Sally Joy Brown.

STAND by, girls and boys, for announcement of our next party! There'll be excitement and joy when I tell you, because it's something we've never done before. And what do you think it is? A week from this Saturday, on Aug. 17, 100 of us are going to spend an afternoon with the Jack and Jill players in the Aerial theater atop one of the buildings overlooking Oak street beach and the whole near north side!

You can't imagine how wonderful it is until you've seen it! The Aerial theater is one of Chicago's most charming and there'll be three short plays directed by Marie Agnes Foley, founder of the Jack and Jill players. Then around the theater there's the sky veranda, where we can sit and walk about between the plays, enjoying the cool breeze high above the heat and noise of the city, and looking down at the sparkling lake, Chicago's loop and the near north side, a scene you'll remember!

And the plays we'll see will be more wonderful than the scene. There'll be "Tip Top," a fast moving story of a young girl hired as school teacher in the oldtime cow puncher town of Tip Top, and what she did when the town went to war with the sheep herders. There'll be "The King's Cream," a delightfully humorous story about the origin of ice cream, and "Baby Moon" where the whole action takes place in the clouds.

But I can tell you more about the plays tomorrow. Here's something I think you should know now, about the Jack and Jill players, themselves. Among them are two groups that will interest you—the younger Jack and Jills, and the junior Jack and Jills, for the girls and boys of different ages who have liking and talent for acting. And the director, Marie Agnes Foley, tells me there's a splendid opportunity for any girl or boy who has talent to join one of these groups.

Just think what that means to some of you! You will come to the party and see what wonderful fun every one has—and then there'll be a chance to have a tryout on a later day, and if you show talent you may be able to join and share all the fun thereafter with expert training to develop your skill. But more will appear about that later.

What you want to know now is how you can win an invitation to this party. I know you'll all want to come, so it will be difficult choosing the hundred who'll enjoy this unusual party most. So, tell me all you can that will let me see why you'd be happy to come.

If you've ever taken part in plays at school, tell me about it. Tell me what plays you've seen, which ones you liked and why. And here are a few points to watch in writing your letters. Remember to have them in the mail by Wednesday afternoon at the latest, so they'll reach me by Thursday morning when I choose the winners. Be sure, also, to give your full name, street address, age and your grade in school, for that is important. And watch next Sunday's TRIBUNE to see if your name is included in the winning list.

Now comes the news for the lucky girls and boys who'll be my guests at the White Sox-St. Louis game on Thursday, Aug. 8. Your invitations with full information will be mailed to you on Monday.

SWIMMING TROUBLES.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

If I could only teach the waves
My mouth is not a proper place
For them to run through, I don't think
I'd care if they did splash my face.

But every time I start to swim
It seems as if the waves all know,
And then they make a game of it
And bang against my mouth they go!

Of course, I have to breathe a bit,
But if I open wide at all
I gurgle water—they must think
My throat's a red Niagara fall.

In the Feminine Realm

Women in Turkey have been granted exactly the same rights as men, but not the suffrage.

Louisville, Ky., is to be the meeting place of the National League of Women Voters for its 1930 convention.

Italy's only woman guide in Mrs. Mary E. Raiola of Naples. Her work in conducting tours about the country is said to be quite successful.

Miss Anita Phipps has the distinction of being the only woman member of the general staff of the United States army. Her duties deal with the part women will have in future military activities.

$5 Apiece for Bright Sayings

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune.

My cousin was 6 years old the other day. His mother had been promising him a birthday party.

Early on the morning of the eventful day he left the house only to return in a short time with all the smaller children of the neighborhood. "Mother," he called, upon entering the house, "here's the kids, where's my party." J. B.

Edgar was playing at Johnnie's house. When it was time to go home it started to rain. Mrs. White gave Edgar Johnnie's overcoat and galoshes to wear home.

"Don't take so much trouble, Mrs. White," said Edgar, politely.

"I'm sure your mother would do as much for Johnnie," replied Mrs. White.

"Yes, and my mother would ask Johnnie to stay for supper." T. W. H.

The following incident took place in a friend's family. There were spiced gooseberries on the table for dinner. Mr. A., who was enjoying them, said, "Why, wife, where did you get these? I did not know there were any in the market."

"I got them of the Storcks" (a family who have a fruit farm a little way out of town), said Mrs. A.

"Why, mama," said little Constance, "I didn't know the storks sold anything but babies." M. H. B.

Police Dog Wants Home.

"We have a police dog just 8 months old and as we are in a small apartment and have no room for him, we must dispose of him. Could you find a nice home for him with a large yard to play in? I would like to have him called for as soon as possible. "Mrs. J. B."

Can you meet the requirements of a home for this police dog? If you can and are looking for a new pet, write me for this one; please do not telephone.

Wants a Tennis Racquet.

"I am a young girl of 15, fond of sports, but unable to buy the things I need to indulge in them. I have no parents and am working as a maid. My salary is small and I want a tennis racquet. Do you think there is some one with an old one to give away? B. K."

If you are a devotee of this most enjoyable and healthful of outdoor games, it is likely you have more than one racquet. If you can give one of them to this girl I know how happy it will make her.

HOW TO USE THE PATTERNS

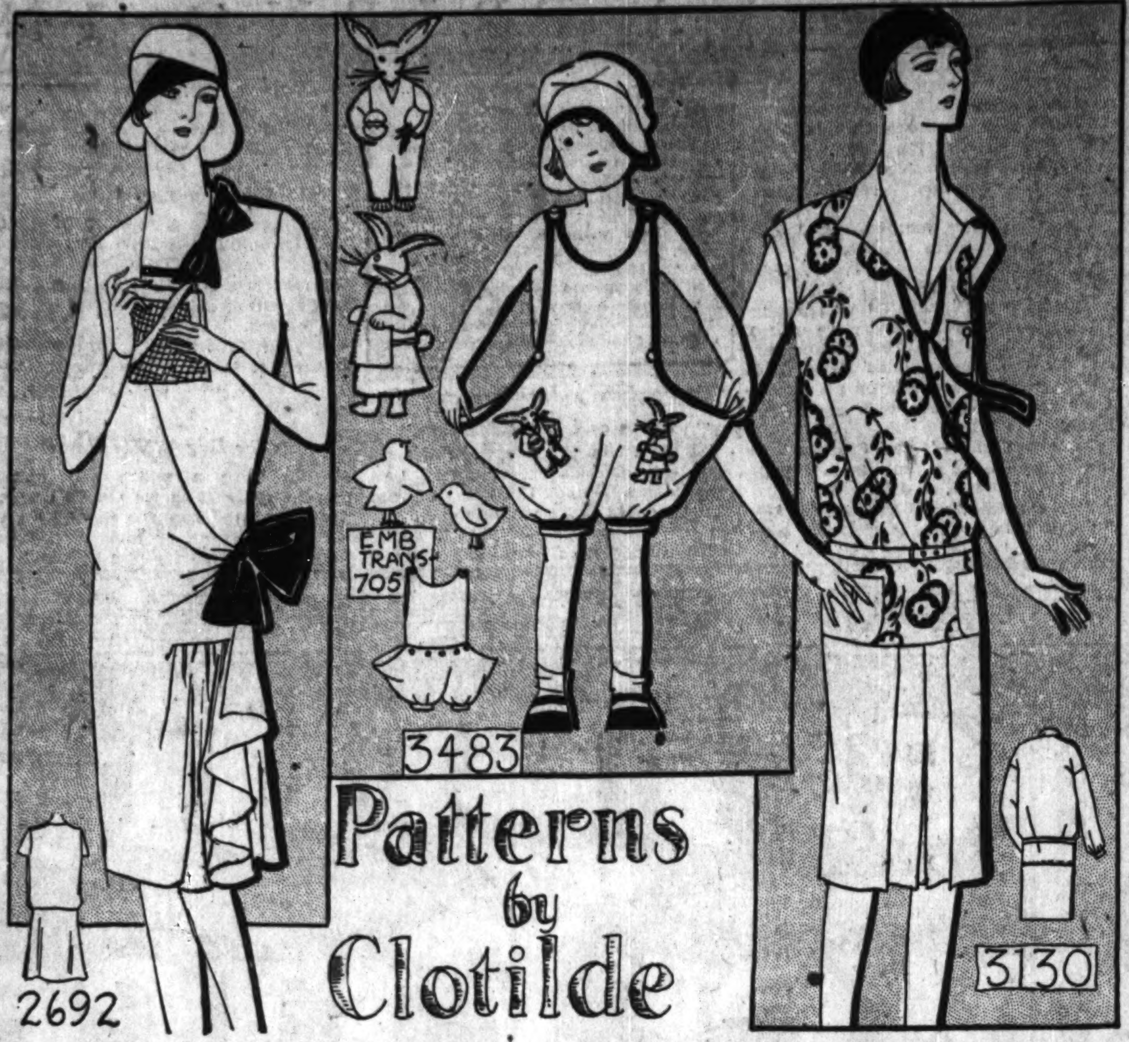
A wonderfully pretty swing at the hem is achieved through the clever cut of the skirt with the graceful side draping. Waist and skirt, of course, are cut separately, as you can easily see from the picture. In the back both are quite plain, and the skirt gores out slightly towards the lower edge. In the front you will have to be careful about how the pieces are laid on the material, for the left and right sides of both the waist and skirt are cut different. Even if the material doesn't seem to have any decided right and wrong sides, there is always a difference and you will be wise to lay the pieces on accordingly.

Be sure and mark the center front of both waist and skirt with a basting thread, for it is important that these lines are not disturbed. As you can see, the front of the skirt is slashed and the lower edge gathered and sewed to the upper edge. The slashed line is quite unusual and adds much to the attractiveness of the whole. The other front skirt section goes under the slashed part, and these are joined to the back. There is a picture chart inclosed with the pattern that shows quite clearly the putting together of each part. The front edges of the bodice may be finished with a wrong side facing, and so can the draped part of the skirt. This facing on the drapery may be made to run into a hem for the bottom of the skirt. Or a narrow, bias binding of the dress material will finish prettily.

Plain silk crêpe, georgette crêpe, crêpe Elizabeth, wool challis, rayon, and printed voile are both smart and practical materials.



2692—Woman's and misses dress. Sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 40 inch material with ⅝ yard of 36 inch contrasting.

3130—Woman's and misses dress. Sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 1⅝ yards of 40 inch figured material with 1½ yards of 40 inch plain material.

Pattern No. 3483 is for a cute sun suit for the small girl or boy. And if you haven't already made one of these, the days are still warm enough to make it worth your while making one or two. The direct rays of the sun in this sort of suit strike the unclothed body and it is recommended by the home economics department of the United States government for the welfare and happiness of youngsters.

In the flared sides are set small white appliqued rabbits, worked around the edges in a blanket stitch in a contrasting color. Gingham, poplin, broadcloth, percale and linen are all suitable materials.

A comfortable sports dress that is a clever imitation of the two piece mode combines printed and plain pique, and pattern No. 3130 is just the one to use for a dress for all around wear, whether at home or in the country. Skirt and waist are cut separately and set together with one row of stitching. The bottom of the waist is turned under one and one-half inches, and the edge of the skirt meets the edge of the turned under part of the blouse. They are stitched together 1¼ inches from the fold edge on the blouse, thus simulating a tuck, and emphasizing the two piece dress effect.

Patch pockets give a smart touch, and the dress at the neck is slashed down to a given perforation, underfaced and rolled with the straight collar. The skirt is pressed in plaits at the centerfront, and the drop shoulders form short sleeves. If you wish full length sleeves, one piece sections may be set in place, and at the wrists these sleeves are gathered and set into narrow fitted bands.

Printed and plain crêpe will combine beautifully in this dress, using the print for the blouse, and the plain for the skirt. The pockets, collar, underfacing and bands for the short sleeves can all be made of the plain crêpe. This dress at the bottom, for size 36, measures about 1⅝ yards.

Peach-beige shantung, sky blue tub silk, tomato red sport weight linen, striped silk broadcloth, polka dotted crêpe de chine in green and white, pink wool jersey, and georgette crêpe in a chartreuse shade are all most attractive.

What's in Your Birth Date?

BY YVONNE DUPEE.

People born on the seventeenth of any month are proud-spirited, good money-makers, and have a definite mission in life.

They are autocratic, good managers and promoters, clear thinkers, though not such good talkers. While their opinions are strong always, they often find it difficult to give expression to them. Of course, the name may modify this.

The professions suit them also, and they are inventive. With first names in the same number concord as their birthday they are apt to rise to eminence or distinguished success.

They as a rule either marry too often or not at all.

Nervous disorders affecting their arteries and sometimes threatening apoplexy are characteristic if they live otherwise than sensibly and normally.

They are "fire" people, with an intense, up and down clear rhythm in life, doing each thing with great absorption and vigor, and then leaving it definitely and going on to the next. Their natural or "lucky" numbers are the "fire" numbers the 2, 4, and 8; or any number reducing to one of these when its digits are added together.

The natural or auspicious days in any month for the 17 born are the "fire" days—the 2d, 4th, 8th, 13th, 17th, 20th, 22d, 26th, and 31st.

* *

Refined and Consistent.

If you were born on the eighteenth of any month the following is descriptive of you:

Refined and consistent, dramatic and emotional, a natural leader in the intellectual world; definitely an extremist in thought and action. With much ability for doctoring and for surgery and with a love of the arts and talent for music.

Such a person can be successful in a business way through railroads, locomotion of any kind, oils and stocks. He will have water journeys in his life—possibly some long ones.

His mind has good control of his body. He is a person who does not like to explain. And he has ordinarily keen discrimination and penetration. If his first name is numerically out of harmony with his birthday he is apt to be very critical, too given to seeing faults rather than virtues in other people.

Such a person, born on the 18th of any month, is an "air" person, one with a darting, soaring rhythm, never liking to be long in one place or long on one subject. He needs a name in the same numerical vibration as his birth to express himself freely and well.

The natural or "lucky" numbers for this birth are the "air" numbers—the 3, 6 and 9; or any number whose digits when added together reduce to one of these.

* *

Exclusive, Sympathetic.

Were you born on the nineteenth of any month? Then the following traits are characteristic:

Intense nervousness, with quick anger, which goes quickly also. Some love of teasing—of just a playful sort.

Leadership, directing, and pioneering belong to the birth. Those born on it feel much alone, desiring always a certain kind of understanding and sympathy which they do not feel they find often. By nature they are exclusive, however. Even in marriage they may feel aloof or alone.

People born on the nineteenth love home life, and always try to improve whatever place they find themselves in. Ordinarily they are thoughtful, and easy to please. They possess a great deal of wisdom in handling people, feeling their way carefully and subtly. Once in a while, however, they become tired of this rôle they play so much and so well, and then nothing will please them. But this soon passes if they are left undisturbed.

Your natural or "lucky" numbers are the "water" numbers—the 1, 5, and 7; or any number which reduces to one of these when its digits are added together.

For you are a "water" person, concealing your emotions for the most part, together with all inner disturbances, under an easy, flowing rhythm. And your name should be one that suits this.

* *

Strong Inventive Qualities.

Were you or any one you know born on the twentieth of any month? Are the following traits in such a case not characteristic?

Strong inventive qualities for one thing. You can always think of a way in which to do something. Your love nature is intense, somewhat maternal in nature. You are quietly secretive and possess ability for both writing and for dramatic art.

You should eat little or no red meat, should exercise a great deal, but not violently, and should not take cold baths. Living close to nature helps you in gaining strength and vitality, as does the eating of herbs and fruits.

You fall in love easily, and as far as you will allow yourself, and perhaps fall as easily out again, depending on the characteristics of your name. Your first impressions are very strong, and seldom change. You have a quick and keen power of observation—it is not so much visual as instinctive.

Home-making you love. You become attached to places, but as you move about a good deal in your life you are always having to give up the place you at the moment care about.

Your conscience is a tender one—if anything goes wrong with which you are connected you always feel yourself to blame, forgetting that it may be some one else or some unalterable circumstance that has caused the outcome.

You are very much the peace-maker, the diplomat and a person who loves to bring people together.

* *

Undertake Many Things.

If you were born on the twenty-first of any month see if the following anaylsis helps you to understand your self better:

An extreme nature belongs to this birthday, one that wants freedom above all things. This is characteristic of all "air" people.

You are subject to extreme emotions which waste your forces nervously, and scatter them too much. You are either way up or way down, though you do not stay down long. You undertake many things, scarcely waiting to finish one before starting another. Conservation of energy is what one of this birth must learn.

If your first name is not numerically in harmony with your birthday you are apt to be very impatient, and can destroy your happiness with this trait. To lessen the nervous tendencies and the liver disturbances that accompany it, you should change your first name to an "air" one when it is necessary.

Philanthropy is one of your especial trends, and is very helpful to you. You are a defender of the helpless. You love to entertain, to give people food, to care for and to like gayety and self-expression. Also you are interested in literature, poetry, astronomy, and anything geographical.

You should study music, especially singing, if you have any voice at all; for it would be a splendid tonic to your nerves, and would make you still more charming to your friends. Acting too is one of your natural gifts.

Your rhythm being an "air" one—like that of a bird, imaginative, darting, soaring, not liking to be long in one place or to stay long on one subject, your "lucky" numbers are the 3, 6, and 9, the "air" numbers.

* *

Hard to Understand.

People who are born on the twenty-second of any month are extremists. They are hard to understand or to get to the bottom of, for their nature has a definite ebb and flow, like the tide, and actually periodically following it.

They are sensitive to any environment and are seldom, in consequence, as successful in their childhood or home town as in other places. They need to push out into the world to become really independent and more themselves. Otherwise they hold on to everything too long. That is a general tendency.

Their love for refinement is strong. They like neither the crude nor the usual in life. They have a compassionate love for humanity as a whole, and a desire, consicious or unconscious, to break feters for the less fortunate in life. Philosophy is strong in them. They may need poise and balance, and these they should acquire, for it is possible for the 22d born to be benefactors and illuminators to the race.

They are interested in exploring of any kind, and they are interested in anything, old—in antiques, for instance, or in archæological studies, or in historical studies. They have much ability for business, and for diplomacy. And are also inventive.

Their fortunate or natural numbers are the "fire" numbers, the 2, 4, and 8; or any number which reduces to one of these when its digits are added together.

* *

Proud and Aloof.

Were you born on the twenty-third of any month? Was any child of yours of any friend? If so, is the following not characteristic?

You are proud of spirit, somewhat alone by nature—and yet you must, to live, have some one to love.

The professional field is a more successful one for you than the purely business one. You make an excellent diagnostician or a physician. Whatever the profession or art that you cultivate you can go far with it and can make also a good teacher of it. You make also good contractors and mechanical engineers. And there is a strong feeling for architecture.

Be certain to set your aim above the physical and emotional alone, however, so that you do not waste your forces in misdirected energies.

Everything you attract to yourself you have the ability to hold.

Being a "water" person your rhythm in life is an easy, rather smooth one outwardly, thus concealing more or less effectively any inner disturbance or emotion. Your first name should be also in this vibration to make you more balanced and more expressive and to assist you in maintaining the most healthy state possible.

Being a "water" person your natural or "lucky" numbers are the "water" numbers—1, 5 and 7, or any number whose digits reduce when added together to one of these numbers.

A Dollar for Your Dreams

Have you ever had a dream which later came true? If you'll mail us an account of your prophetic dream we'll pay $1 for every dream published. Address "Dreams," Chicago Tribune.

Saved Through Dream.

A former teacher of mine was in New York with a girl friend. One night this friend woke up screaming, and when my teacher asked her the reason, she replied that she had dreamed that she was in a high tower in a desert and was looking down on a funeral procession. She noticed that a rather good looking young fellow was driving the hearse, but when she looked in the coffin—horrors! It was made of glass and in it was herself.

One day, a few weeks later, they were in a bank building—on the eighteenth floor. When this girl was about to step into an elevator, she took a full look at the elevator boy and fainted dead away. It was the boy who had driven her hearse in her dream. Of course they took her off and tried to revive her. It was lucky they did, for when the elevator went down, it fell all eighteen stories, and all the passengers were instantly killed.

Dream Nets Her $60.

I had a dream recently. The scene was laid in a Cleveland real estate office. Five years ago I held a stenographic position there for a few weeks and because of an unpremeditated elopement, my only "notice" was a brief wire from Chicago. While in their employ I had sold two lots and received two generous commission checks.

In my dream the cashier was talking to my former boss and a young fellow in the office with whom I had frequently gone dancing. The girl said there was some money due me and they were wondering what had caused my sudden disappearance. They seemed to think it a big mystery.

Prompted by my vivid dream I decided to assume that the company was intebted to me and I wrote, giving my address for mailing any checks due me. A few days later I was thrilled beyond words to receive over $60 in deferred commission checks, together with a letter saying they often wondered where I was.

Able to Walk Again.

I have a friend whose mother had a paralytic stroke which caused the entire left side of the body and limbs to become immovable.

One night I dreamed that I saw her take a few steps at a time with a crutch, and when I awoke next morning my dream seemed so real that I telephoned immediately to find out how the invalid was getting along.

To my great surprise, I was informed that she was able to take a few steps with the support of crutches.

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

Ice Cream Is the Great American Dish. Here Are Recipes for Making Almost Any Variety

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

By Jane Eddington.

ICE CREAM making is in part or finally a process of churning cream or some substitute for cream. This churning takes place in a utensil set into another containing ice and salt, as everybody knows. The proportion between the ice and salt has a much greater effect in various ways upon the product than most people realize or will give attention to. The problem of freezing without churning—in the power refrigerators—is something else again, and no uniform way has as yet been worked out. In some cases the freezing must be started over night.

One way to get a definite proportion of ice and salt is to weigh both of these ingredients. It is the only exact way, unless you have some method of cutting the ice so that it will be in uniform small bits of the size of the salt.

There was an old time rule that the freezing mixtures for ices and ice creams should contain one portion of salt to three of ice. In actual practice the amounts were almost always haphazard because of the difficulty in measuring ice, and often the salt was in excess and because in excess a great deal of it was wasted. It is always a waste when a great quantity is left in the bottom of the freezer. The ideal way would be not to have any at all.

But the waste of the salt was a matter of little consequence as compared with the poor work done when it was in excess. A plain cream can be frozen with an excess of salt and still seem of good quality, although not of the finest. But the old fashioned frozen custards were often coarse, as many other cooked mixtures of today will be if too much salt is used around the utensil in which the preparation is frozen. The final product was also coarse, often because it had not been well chilled before the churning was started.

Modern Proportions.

The cooking laboratories have changed the old rule from one to three to one to eight, and recommended that the ice and salt be weighed in order to have this proportion comparatively exact. And housekeepers have found that all sorts of pudding mixtures may be satisfactorily frozen or churned with the mixture outside the churn largely of ice with only so much salt as will start the freezing process.

That is one way to get a finer, smoother, lovelier imitation of a real frozen cream with cooked preparations, but it is also necessary to chill the preparation first, and it is also best to add a little cream to the mixture.

In the cooking laboratories which took up this freezing of ice cream problem it was found that when the proportions were one to three the expansion of any sort of ice cream was only 18 per cent, that is, the bulk increased that amount, or one-fifth, but when an uncooked foundation like plain cream was used with the proportion of one to eight it would expand 35 per cent, or practically twice as much, and the increase of volume with a cooked preparation would be with the small proportion of salt of 28 per cent.

The first thing some people might think of when less salt is used is that the work would be slower. In the cooking laboratory it was found that it took only two minutes longer to do the work when the larger proportion of ice and the very small amount of salt was used, and this was not considered of any importance, since the product was smoother, or it was all to the advantage of the work because it was smoother.

It was also found that by lessening the salt further and taking a longer time for the freezing, a cream or some preparation might be doubled or expanded 50 per cent, although the commercial makers think a 35 per cent expansion is best, because when the expansion is too great the ice cream melts too quickly.

Combining Ice and Salt.

It is worth while to learn to combine the ice and salt in the best way for the freezing process, not only because the best effects can be secured if the work is exactly done but because all fine creams are made and repacked in ice and salt in order to be of more perfect flavor. This process is called ripening, and is less necessary when all cream is used than when only part cream and a cooked foundation is what is frozen. There is another advantage in repacking an ice cream: A ripened ice cream does not melt as rapidly when it is served as one just frozen.

The packing is an art in itself and the cream must not be churned until it is very stiff or it will not pack well. The same idea holds in reference to the packing of ice cream as in the freezing. By allowing a longer time for the ripening, only a little salt need be used, while for quick work a much larger proportion is needed. Repacking in small molds, an ice cream made in an iceless refrigerator and putting in drawers to set is good.

When an exceedingly small freezer is used, or that which holds a single cup, it is best to put the half cup of cream or whatever is used, into the churning part, then fill the whole outside space with ice finely broken, then sprinkle a little salt over this and give the churn a few turns. By doing this the mixture will settle and more ice and salt can be filled in at once. By using this method almost no salt will reach the bottom of the freezer and be wasted, but again we can say that this is only of slight importance as compared with the better product we can secure by using the minimum of salt.

Plain Vanilla Ice Cream.

The easiest and, in the long run, the nicest of all the ice creams is that made of full cream, slightly sweetened, and flavored, but it is always necessary to remember that both the sweetness and the flavor lose some of their intensity with the freezing. Therefore, the preparation must be slightly sweeter, and a little more flavoring will be needed than for a pudding that is served merely chilled.

If one has the smallest freezer, or that which holds but one cup, only half a cup of cream will be needed for two servings of ice cream, because it will swell to almost double in the freezing if the work is rightly managed. Experts in this work always advise having a container that holds twice as much as the amount to be frozen.

For a vanilla ice cream made for two, we may have half a cup only of thin cream or less of thick cream thinned a little with milk sweetened with one or two tablespoons of sugar and flavored just a little. Since most people like ice cream rather sweet, perhaps the two tablespoons of sugar to the half cup of thin cream should be the standard.

This ice cream has various names, the most common of which is Philadelphia ice cream, which, however, is frequently made of half plain uncooked cream and half cream that has been cooked and flavored and had the necessary amount of sugar for the whole mass added to it. When part or all of the cream is cooked with a piece of vanilla pod the preparation is called a French vanilla ice cream.

With a single bottle or cup of cream, it is possible to serve from four to six people if the upper half of the cream in the bottle is whipped and the other half frozen, then these two are combined with garnishes of chilled fruit or nuts.

New York Ice Cream.

The New York ice cream also has various names and different bases, but always one with egg is used and given this name. For a pint freezer take one cup of cream, one-fourth cup of sugar or more if needed, one egg, separated, and one-half teaspoon of vanilla. Cook part or all of the cream with the egg yolk and sugar in a double boiler until it thickens. Cool this preparation and then fold in the stiffly beaten egg white and the vanilla.

Let this set in the churn part of the freezer until well chilled and then it will take but a few turns to freeze it. The egg white can be folded into the hot custard and so cooked slightly and will be liked by those who believe that a raw egg is never digested.

Caramel Ice Cream.

A caramel ice cream may have either a base of solid cream or a custard base. If a custard base is used with a sufficient addition of cream the whole will have agreeable body and this will take the caramel flavoring exceptionally well. There are a good many ways of making the caramel ice cream and probably the easiest is to flavor plain cream with dark brown sugar and add a little vanilla, or here is a way of doing: Take two whole eggs or the yolks of four eggs, one cup of powdered sugar, three cups of scalded milk, one teaspoon of vanilla and three cups of cream. For the flavoring use two-thirds of a cup of granulated sugar melted and made into a caramel sirup by adding one-fourth cup of boiling water after it has melted and changed color. The sugar gets caramelized in the mere melting.

Beat the sugar and eggs together until they are light and add the scalded milk to them. Stir over a slight fire until the mixture thickens. Half a teaspoon of salt may be added to intensify the flavor but is always a risky addition for the amateur. When the mixture has thickened, take it from the fire and while it is hot or only partly cooled, add the caramel sirup. When it is cool, add the vanilla and the cream and freeze. All of the cream may be whipped before adding it to the cool custard or only part of it. This cream, in particular, is best if it is packed for two hours after the freezing, before it is served.

Peppermint Candy Cream.

Sticks of peppermint candy may be substituted for the caramel in the above mixture. These sticks of candy may be either pink or green and so give an ice cream of most attractive tint.

Once upon a time it was considered disastrous to have a cream sour if it had been saved or secured for ice cream. Now, it is well known that sour cream well sweetened will make an ice cream hardly a bit different, if well flavored, from one of sweet cream, although the work is perhaps a little more exacting. Sour milk or buttermilk may also be used and these, with egg, make an excellent base for a fruit ice cream. For a pint of sour or clabbered milk, or a pint of smooth buttermilk, allow one egg yolk and three-fourths of a cup of sugar to half a cup of cooked fruit, if that is also added.

The milk, if clabbered, needs to be beaten until it is smooth as buttermilk is, and to this add the egg yolk beaten well and freeze like any other ice cream.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

DO you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Nature causes the normal skin to peel off in tiny, unseen, flour-like particles, a little each day, renewing the complexion of youth naturally, but there comes a time when this skin shedding slows up. Worry, overwork, sickness, inactivity are reasons that cause the face to be blotchy, discolored, pimply and old looking. The thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, pimples, blackheads or a muddy complexion. The underneath skin, now in evidence, is clear, pink, fresh and velvety, and the entire face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty.

To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines we recommend a face lotion of unusual merit. One ounce powdered saxolite and one-half pint witch hazel.

Last Month Was a Banner One for the Talkies

Five Out of Six Films Were Audible.

JULY'S SIX BEST PHOTOPLAYS.

PICCADILLY.
COCOANUTS.
CHARMING SINNERS.
THE DRAG.
THUNDERBOLT.
THE LAST OF MRS. CHEYNEY.

By Roberta Nangle.

JULY was a banner month for the talkies. Five of what this department considers the best films of the month belong in that classification and all signs seem to indicate that films with dialogue in sound are growing better and better.

"PICCADILLY" was given four stars by Mae Tinée, who wrote: "Piccadilly, a melodrama of London night life from the story by Arnold Bennett, tells of passionate love, sordid passion and jealousy. It is the first of the British made productions to be shown over here and is an arresting thing by the man who produced 'Variety,' the Jannings film that marked an epoch in sensational photography. . . Though Gilda Gray is the featured player and does excellent work, there can be no doubt that Jameson Thomas as the café manager—lover of Mable and greatly beloved by her—who becomes strangely, hypnotically infatuated with a Chinese scullery maid whom he finds dancing in his kitchen, is the star performer. Here is acting, polished, forceful and intuitive. Mr. Thomas' characterization is as unusual as it is striking. . . There is a most original introduction, and though the film is too long, it never permits your attention to lag."

"COCOANUTS," with the four inimitable Marx brothers of stage fame, has been packing them in at McVicker's theater for almost a month. "Their clowning in the screenization of this musical comedy will chase your blues so far away you'll have a hard time catching up with them. All four of the brothers provoke insistent laughter and get along splendidly with the talkie apparatus—which, of course, means nothing in the life of Harpo the silent Marx, who never speaks. He contributes melody on harp and piano as he did on the stage.

"'The Cocoanuts' has been excellently directed, photographed, and staged. The sound effects are quite satisfactory. Costumes please the eye and—the film hasn't a dull moment!"

* *

As for "THE LAST OF MRS. CHEYNEY"—"Again you see Norma Shearer as a woman who is not all she should be, according to conventional standards. Mrs. Cheyney is a Lady Raffles (eminently virtuous, as circumstances prove). She is shrewd, conniving, hard headed—but GOOD. . . . It is all very amusing and exciting, very sophisticated, and very smart.

"The dialogue is delightful and the acting splendid. . . . Basil Rathbone, who plays Lord Dilling, will be remembered as the fascinating chap who played opposite Mary Nash on the stage in 'The Command to Love.' Miss Shearer is charming most of the time. . . . The picture has been luxuriously staged and costumed. . . . It was directed with acumen. . . . It sparkles with irony and laughter."

Of "THE DRAG" Miss Tinée wrote: "What distinguishes it from other productions of the sort is the human touch. . . . The picture it presents is an honest one of real folks conducting themselves believably. . . . The drag in the life of young David Carroll, so full of optimism and ambition when the picture opens, is the family of the blonde he marries. Dragged down by a slovenly, though loving enough wife, who is completely under the thumb of everybody related to her, he loses his pep and ambition—and there comes a day when he awakens to the fact that, unshaven, his clothes unpressed, he sits at a littered desk—swatting flies.

"A girl snaps him out of it. . . . Let the picture show you how. . . . It's a delightful film that has been most skillfully directed. . . . The acting is all that anybody could desire—Lila Lee will astonish you, and the story holds your interest throughout."

"CHARMING SINNERS," I thought, had "all the qualities needed to convert the last million cynics to the talkies. Its assets are a smoothly laid plot, clever dialogue, admirable acting, and fine photography, all manipulated with skill by a sagacious director. Ruth Chatterton in the rôle played on the stage by Ethel Barrymore, gives a deft and understanding performance.

"The picture is a first rate example of smart, sophisticated comedy of the so-called drawing room variety. . . . It proves beyond a doubt that a drama written for the stage and played with stage technique as a talkie makes the most acceptable sort of movie entertainment to date."

"THUNDERBOLT" was awarded three stars, with a leaning towards four—by Mae Tinée, who wrote that it is "a strange and fascinating goulash of practically everything that has gone to make the American photoplay box-office successful, and so cleverly and with so much originality have the ingredients been blended that yours is the connoisseur's thrill of having discovered something new and zestful.

"Fundamentally, it is a gangland film. Its hero is a killer who packs a sudden, swift and deadly mule kick in his right fist which has given him his nickname—'Thunderbolt.' The flaw in the gem, as I see it, is too labored comedy construction. . . . But—heavens! This is a hard piece to criticize! After all, here is a brilliantly produced film which is the last word in entertainment. You forget the parts that grate almost instantly.

"The lure of the whole is pervasive and enduring. Mr. Bancroft—don't you love him!—has never been better than as this good-hearted bad man. . . All other roles are brilliantly handled * * *"

SEEN—AND HEARD—IN THE LOOP THIS WEEK

POSES like this are conducive to handholding among the boys and girls in movie audiences. The scene is from "The Valiant," playing this week on the screen of the State-Lake theater.

JEAN ARTHUR.

SALLY O'NEILL.

THIS is Sally's idea of what a lady should wear when she's in an Izaak Walton frame of mind. Sally is one of the galaxy of stars to be seen this week in "On with the Show," at the United Artists theater.

PEGGY WOOD.

MISS WOOD is over in London now, making a hit in a musical comedy, but you may see and hear her in "Wonder of Women," the talkie of the Oriental bill this week.

Guinea Pig Loses Production Championship to Talkie Mills

By Tom Pettey.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—The guinea pig has nothing on the talkie mills of the east when it comes to production. Sound studios in this sun freckled neck of the woods are grinding out curtain raisers between meals, and it is a poor week when fewer than twelve shorts come hot out of the cameras into the refrigerated flicker palaces of Broadway.

The actor folks are about the only ones who speak English in New York, so the legitimate stage and vaudeville ranks are being heavily drawn on to provide food for the chatter box machines in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Long Island sound studios. All of Broadway's "name" artists from the drama stars to the night club choir singers have either had their fling at the screen or are having words put in their mouths, and the Statue of Liberty is the only leading lady hereabouts who has remained true to the mute pictures.

Not a Single Shooting.

Out on the vitaphone lot in Brooklyn Nan Halperin has just completed a satirical sketch in which no one got shot. Carlena Diamond, the vaudeville harpist, ferried her bloomin' lyre over to the same garden and twanged out a short subject in which she introduced a small Irish harp and danced and sang a bit as well. Irene Franklyn found time between vaudeville acts to do an abbreviated talkie which brought her more than a dollar a day she got for playing the baby in that old tear raiser of melodrama days, "Hearts of Oak."

Flournoy Miller and Aubrey Lyles, the darktown comedians, who came out of the Pekin theater in Chicago a quarter of a century ago, made their contribution to the canned word art in a skit entitled "They Know Their Groceries." Murray Roth directs the shorties.

Rudy Vallee, boys and girls, is getting ready to make the hearts of handholding movie fans from Hoboken to Hollywood got pitty-pat. Broadway's "It and Long Run Man" who croons lullabies in person for lovers in this vicinity, is being groomed for a feature film. He took his pink cheeks, blond curls and megaphone down to the Gramercy studios of R. C. A. Photophone this week and with the aid of a cast of forty, turned out a tabloid musical comedy. Being a Yale man 'n everything, he called it "Campus Sweethearts."

All of which, by the way, is to make Rudy cameraproof and incidentally introduce him to the outside world in case static or an early to bed habit kept the folks across the Hudson from meeting him over the radio. His full length heart tickler, to be entitled "The Vagabond Lover" will come along in the fall.

Over at Warner brothers they are bragging about a nifty little short that Irene Franklyn posed for the other day. It is a double exposure talking skit. Miss Franklyn appears simultaneously as a bathing beauty of the nineties and of the present day and chats in a delightful manner. It was done by dividing the screen in half with two different shots of the actress appearing.

Paramount's Long Island studio was the mecca for several hundred movie bugs when a call went out for extras during the filming of "Applause," Helen Morgan's sing-song talkie. Half of them became nuns and the other half cabaret habitués. Convents and night clubs were scrambling up in "Applause" like cafeteria eggs.

"Applause" should be ready for the cutting room most any day now, for the studio is getting all cluttered up with daggers, trap doors and cuch things so essential to the filming of Clive Brook's next feature, "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," which already is under way.

Paramount, however, lets nothing get in the way of its shorts and "The Spy," featuring Tom Howard, was the latest to come rolling out of the mill.

Five Pictures Cooking.

Pathé's east coast studio has five talking pictures cooking on the stove. They are mostly comedy skits and are featuring vaudeville stars. Frank T. Davis, Bill Frawley and Earle Dewey are contributing their bits of dialogue and Dagmar Oakland, one of Dr. Ziegfeld's roving beauties, is kicking her heels before fifty bathing girls in a jolly little musical comedy short.

A movie lady who came out of the west for culture instead of love got away from her voice and deportment teacher here the other night long enough to throw a little party in her hotel suite. This is the tale one of the surviving guests whispered to your observer on the eastern front:

All went well, it was related, until the guests gathered under the chandelier for dinner. The hostess had successfully tried out hr non-rasping talkie palate and was tripping over her rugs trying to be polite to her company. Then came the soup. First there was a well-bred silence despite the journeys of a dozen heavyweight silver spoons from plate to mouth. Suddenly there was a clatter as one of the guests dropped his soup spade on the dark stained hardwood floor. The hostess smiled to set the guest at ease. She had been taught that much, but she had not been taught what to say.

Her Fiance Says He Won Clara Bow by Being Different

By Rosalind Shaffer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 3.—[Special Correspondent.]—Harry Richman, who has been generally accepted for the last few weeks as the fiancé of Clara Bow, though Clara herself isn't sure about it, graciously allowed himself to be interviewed this week on how he won the talented, and vivacious gal, who has IT, THIS, THAT, THESE and THOSE!

"I met Clara some months ago in my night club in New York, the Club Richman. I was simply overcome, of course, when I was told that the pretty little girl with the red hair was Clara Bow. I didn't think she would be like THAT at all." THAT and what THAT is, he didn't reveal. Anyway, it seemed she was not at all THAT, whatever that was.

"Then I came to Hollywood," continued Mr. Richman, fingering the heavy gold link bracelet on his sunburned and brawny arm. "We renewed our acquaintance and I found out at once that every one in Hollywood was after Clara Bow. All you need to do to find out is to drop into Clara's kitchen and listen to the phone ring for half an hour."

"The Sunken Bell" Scheduled for Ravinia Premiere Tuesday

By Edward Moore.

IF you have noticed a little extra tension around Ravinia lately, a tendency to become preoccupied in expression, it is because they have been getting ready for "La Campana Sommersa," and it has been a good deal of a job.

This is to be a premiere presenting its own individual points. In the first place it is one of the rare cases where the United States saw it first and Europe afterwards. No later than last autumn it was put on in New York, and the two leaders of the cast, Elisabeth Rethberg and Giovanni Martinelli, are highly favored artists both at the Metropolitan by winter and Ravinia by summer.

Mr. Eckstein says that he saw the New York performance and was immediately convinced that these were the finest rôles these two artists had ever made public. He cabled at once to the publishers of the work asking the rights to put it on at Ravinia, and as soon as arrangements were settled started on the task of preparing for it there. It will therefore be made visible and audible next Tuesday evening.

Apparently Mr. Eckstein was in complete accord with the rest of the world, for the verdict upon the performance of these two artists was overwhelming. The New York critics confirmed it in enthusiastic detail, and this was followed by a cabled message from Benito Mussolini, asking them to come and appear in the first presentation of the opera in Rome. And reports from Rome say that there was another festive artistic triumph on April 11, the date upon which their acceptance became manifest.

"It was an assemblage of greatest splendor which had gathered to pass judgment on Respighi's newest opera," the critic of La Tribuna wrote. "The auditorium was filled with the highest notables of the artistocracy, politics, and the arts. Queen Elena, the crown prince, and princesses of the royal house were in the royal box."

A North Shore Creation.

Il Lavoro Fascista said: "The two protagonists were Elisabeth Rethberg and Giovanni Martinelli, two artists who were a sensation to the greatest part of the audience," while Corriere dello Spettacolo declared that "It is impossible to think of a more aristocratic mise-en-scene and of better interpreters for 'La Campana Sommersa.'" Eight Roman papers joined in the universal hymn of praise which was chanted to the glory of this work as opera, and of Mme. Rethberg and Mr. Martinelli as artists.

As it will be displayed Tuesday night, "La Campana Sommersa" is a Ravinia production, scenery and

This and That Thing About the Theater

And This Means About the Actors, Also.

By Frederick Donaghey.

PINERO, who had at least thirty years of undisputed leadership of the English dramatists, may be represented this season on the American stage by one or two new plays. One of these is a farce—"a sedate farce," he calls it—named "The Child-Man": it was written last year. The other is a piece of more serious plan, written, it is understood, four or five years ago, and held back from production not, as has been told, because producers are no longer interested in a new work by Pinero, but because he has to-date expressed dissatisfaction with every actor suggested to him for the principal man's rôle. . . . Pinero's théâtre, as the French would term his output of plays, is, in retrospect, staggering. His first play, a short piece called "Two Hundred Pounds a Year," was staged as long ago as 1877. The most recent of his plays to be staged was "The Enchanted Cottage," in 1922. The play of his that has taken the most attention is "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," revived in 1924 by Miss Barrymore. The play of his most recently acted in Chicago was "Trelawny of the Wells," revived by Mr. Tyler in the Spring of 1927.

¶ ¶ ¶

Miss Barrymore, by-the-way, is reported to be drawing capacity audiences in the Far West in her performances of "The Kingdom of God" and "The Love-Duel." She is expected to give both pieces in Chicago about October 1. Her appearance in the dramatization of "Scarlet Sister Mary" will not be before December.

¶ ¶ ¶

The Theater Guild of New-York, tentatively listing plays to be put on this season in its home-town, names "Karl and Anna," "The Genius and His Brother," "Mirror-Man," "A Month in the Country," "Red Rust," "The Game of Love and Death," "The Motive," "The Apple-Cart," "Meteor," and "The House of Connolly." Two are by American authors—"Meteor," by S. N. Behrman, and "The House of Connolly," by Paul Green. "The Apple-Cart" is, of course, the new work by Shaw. One of the ten plays is known in Chicago—"The Game of Love and Death": it is by Romain Rolland. The performers in the Goodman Memorial put it on there three years ago, when it seemed to me to be as dull and as stupid a play as any yet written with the French Revolution as a background. Miss Alice Brady is expected to act in it for the Guild; but she will previously have appeared for that organzation in "Karl and Anna," by Leonhard Franck, the author of "The Motive," also. Otto Kruger, who was so good in "The Royal Family" in what is known as "The John Barrymore Rôle," will be vis-à-vis with Miss Brady in "Karl and Anna."

¶ ¶ ¶

Leslie Howard is to be with Miss Gertrude Lawrence, known in Chicago as a performer in the second issue of the Charlot Revue, in "By Candlelight," but for one month only, according to his manager, who says that he will then put the English actor forward as a star in "Berkeley Square," by John L. Balderston. Mr. Howard has been acting in the latter play in London — where, by-the-way, "By Candlelight" is held to be delightful. Miss Margalo Gillmore, now through with employment by the Theater Guild, is to be "opposite" Mr. Howard in "Berkeley Square."

¶ ¶ ¶

R. C. Sheriff, author of "Journey's End," is said to have a commission to write another play. "Journey's End" is his first; and he wrote it for performance by fellow-members of a club. This piece, a current success in London and New-York, is to be acted in this country in the Autumn by at least three casts. (Gilbert Miller, who imported it, said not so long ago that he would have ten casts in it by October.) One of the three is to appear September 8 in the Adelphi.)

¶ ¶ ¶

Miss Katharine Cornell is to tour for a while in Margaret Ayer's dramatization of "The Age of Innocence": and Miss Irene Bordoni, who has been inspecting the sound-movies, is to resume performing in "Paris," a success last season in New-York.

¶ ¶ ¶

Now-and-again an American play-producer says he will put on "The Jury of Fate," by the late C. M. S. McLellan, an American writer remembered chiefly as the author of libretti for song-and-dance plays, although he wrote "Leah Kleschna," regarded in Chicago as a great work when Mrs. Fiske, George Arliss, the late John Mason, and the late Charles Cartwright acted in it. "The Jury of Fate" was an old, old piece long before McLellan passed on: the late H. B. Irving staged it in London when the current century was young. All of which is reaction to A. H. Woods' including the piece in the list he bulletins for the new season.

¶ ¶ ¶

Glenn Hunter, who tried his luck last season in a song-and-dance show and is now performing in the two-a-day, is named as the star of "Second-Sight," one of the new plays announced for early revelation.

Mantle Casts Aside Yoke of Daily Routine

Enthuses Over Freedom from Worry and Toil.

By Burns Mantle.

En Route to Canada Lake, N. Y.—[Special Correspondence.]—You do escape a lot, getting away from town. There is, first, that complete sense of freedom. That is what vacations mean. That is what vacations should mean—freedom! Freedom from routine! Freedom from worry! Freedom from the minor tyrannies that become settled irritations during the winter.

It is the little things that finally undermine a person's morale. I had a friend once who used to get drunk—well, not exactly drunk, but fairly tight—who insisted that the only reason he did it was to be rid of the annoyance of discovering that he was out of cigarets, or that if he had cigarets he was out of matches. Or having both, cigarets and matches, there was no ash tray handy and everybody objected to his tossing his cigaret ashes on the rugs.

He really did not want to drink. Didn't like the taste of liquor—but, it was pleasant for a little while, not to worry about little things. Being slightly spiffed he didn't care much whether he had any cigarets or not. And he could do more funny things with cigaret ashes, his wife used to say, than any other man alive.

* *

Freedom the Big Vacation Thrill.

This sense of freedom—though I am not one to advocate the drinking of alcohol as a release—this sense of freedom from a rasping routine is, as I say, the really big thrill of vacation time.

I arose this morning, or at least I prepared to arise this morning, and as I stretched the rheumatic kinks out of the aging joints, and reached under the pillow for a peek at the watch, the first thought that came to me was that at last I was free. The jobs were all done. The day had arrived, the ticket was bought, the choo-choo awaited, and at the other and there was the peace of the Adirondacks, the cool of the evening, the tonic of the fresh morning air, the friendly penetration of the midday sun, the smell of burning logs in a smoky fireplace—boy, you're free! Arise, you idiot, and begin to enjoy yourself!

And free I was. Of course, there were a few little things to be done. There was that milk in the ice chest to take across to the neighbors [milk certainly does accumulate when you don't stay at home the way you thought you were going to when the family left]; and there are the papers—you'll have to telephone and have them stopped; and there's the taxi to call and the golf sticks to collect at the club, and a little good-by telephoning to do—but you are practically free.

Helps the Monotony of Travel.

O, yes—and there's the mail. Well, you might as well take this last mail with you—nice to read on the train—get tired looking out at lordly Hudson for five hours—mail isn't nearly so irritating when you're free as it is when it spells work and obligations—as a matter of fact, mail is rather chummy when you're free. There is something about mail—there's as much personality in mail as there is in—well, take the mail and forget it—you're free—this is the day—vacation's here—the job's done——

Poor taxi man, has to work all day! Poor railroad guards, have to work all day! Poor lunchroom man, has to work all day! Wonder if lunchroom men resent having to work all day?

"Pretty long hours?" I said to the lunchroom man, the subconscious urge, I suspect, being to gloat.

"No," said he. "Not a bad trick. From six to three."

"Have to get up about five then?"

"Worse than that. A quarter to four. I live over in Staten Island."

"Have to get to bed pretty early?"

Poor lunch man ain't got no vacation! Probably never thinks of anything but old lunchrooms and subways and ferries and kids and jazz and getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning. Never gets away from his work, never gets away from himself. Never is free. Wonder if he drinks. Gosh, it's great to be free! Makes you feel guilty, though. Let's not ask any more lunchroom men about their work. What's the use of a vacation if you don't vacate, as it were—evacuate the mind of all and sundry, the petty irritations, the little worries, all thought of the job, everything——

* *

Can't Get Away from Business.

The first letter is from Dear Old George Tyler. Well, sir—if he hasn't gone and merged himself with Abe Erlanger—and George just about to quit the theater for good and all and go to Italy to live—and Erlanger—he was supposed to be through, too—sixty years in the business—or is it eighty? Rich beyond the dreams of the nonavaricious, and he still wants to produce plays—can you, as the saying so frequently assaults you—can you beat it?

Well, on the other hand, it's a good thing men like Tyler and Erlanger retain an interest in the theater. If there was ever a time when the theater needs them, now's that time—look what has happened to the poor old theater since it has fallen into the hands of speculative tailors, tinsmiths, and brokers who prefer blondes—or brunettes—look at the list of last season's plays—look at the character of the men who picked and produced them.

Theater Needs These Men.

Yes, sir—let there be rejoicing that George Tyler sticks—and that A. L. Erlanger isn't tired. Two men whose boast has always been that their plays have been clean and decent—two men who have always consistently fought against the vulgarizing and cheapening of the drama. Showmen, yes—Erlanger always keen as mustard for the glorification of commercialism and the fat profit—Tyler proud of success and, it may be, a little vain of those early years and embittered by a defeat of a fairly honest extravagance visited upon him [including the introduction of the first Josef Urban set of beautiful scenery to the legitimate drama, incidentally, in "The Gates of Paradise"]—but neither of them ever willing to compromise with smut for the sake of a bigger box office when the decision was theirs. Good thing for the theater, this Tyler-Erlanger combination.

And here is a letter from Arthur Hopkins. He's starting work with Kate Parsons' "Commodore Trunyon." Don't know Miss Parsons, but the Hopkins indorsement means something—that's what the theater has got to get back to—the indorsement of producers whose judgment means something. Walter Huston to star in "Commodore Trunyon." That's good news, too—one of the big character actors of our time, this Huston, and still growing.

William A. Brady Reappears.

And a letter from Brady, senior—he, too, is taking a hand at speeding the theater he has kissed good-by every season since he ventured into the movies and lost his other shirt. Well, William A. is like a golfer who shoots 73 today and 103 tomorrow—you can't depend on him—but he is as likely to be helpful as harmful.

And here's Arch Selwyn, brave as brave, with a new comedy from England's Moncton Hoffe which will bring Ernie Truex home after years on the other side. Successful years for Truex. They tell me he has acquired a following and an accent. Neither will do him any harm, but there is danger of his losing his public on this side if he doesn't renew his contacts pretty soon. Actors are forgotten more quickly these days than ever before.

And Charles Hopkins has a new play by Pirandello—"Lazarro"—which sounds interesting. Which recalls that nobody thought this 49th street Hopkins could run "The Perfect Alibi" through the season, but he did. For weeks it was the only decent piece on view to which both old ladies and young ladies could be advised to see—at least together.

And here is a clipping from somewhere telling me that Peggy Wood is a hit in London. That's good news, too. Sweet girl, Peggy Wood. Sane, wholesome, honest type you like to think of as representing American actresses in London.

And what are these—O migod!—didn't I forget to pay that damned electric light bill. Wouldn't you know I'd do something like that? Now I suppose they'll shut off the light. And the refrigerator—O gawd, I forgot to turn that off, too—what do they do after they get all froze up? Burst or something? Perhaps I can telegraph the company. O well, it certainly is great to be free—and away from the theater—that's what every one needs—change—release—freedom—where did I put that darned ticket?

Rothschild Cash Builds a Unique Theater in Paris

PARIS.—(AP)—Rothschild millions have created a "new" theater, new to France and Europe, and new, it is claimed, to the world. It is a playhouse where all the modern things artists and engineers could think of has had a chance to be used.

Baron Henri de Rothschild, successful dramatist under the name of Andre Pascal, has taken almost five years to build the Theater Pigalle which will open in October.

Rothschild had a score of architects, engineers and artists travel to find ideas and he had much that was built torn down to make way for newly thought of improvements. So now on a site 125 by 265 feet there stands the best that French brains and unlimited money could build.

There are four stages, 30 by 47 feet, that can be set before the curtain is raised. They are moved vertically and horizontally, electrically, so a change can be made in a minute. Two men can run the show, one at the switchboard for lights and effects and one at the board for scene shifting. The orchestra pit, likewise, is an elevator and even the proscenium arch can be raised and lowered.

ONE OF THE AUGUST ENTICEMENTS

MISS ROSITA MORENO

SHE'S among the many in "Pleasure-Bound"—a circumstance which has been stated ere now in The Tribune; and the reason for printing this picture of her is that it is both new and pretty. . . . Miss Moreno is from Spain. She appeared in the variety-theaters with her father and mother before going into the big, gay show that is now in the Grand Opera-House. Her father also is in the show: he appears amusingly in the first part in a duologue with Phil Baker.

SINGS "I WANT TO BE BAD"

MISS OLIVE OLSEN

SHE'S in "Follow Thru!"; and it is her business in that song-and-dance piece to speak many of the flipper lines of the text, to stand by the heroine in her tribulations arising from mixing love with golf, and to sing "I Want to Be Bad," which has the importance in "Follow Thru!" that "The Varsity Drag" had in "Good News." Miss Olsen seems to be a new-comer: at any rate, so far as principal parts are concerned.

The Claque in New-York.

Speaking of claques, they have, of course, largely passed. In the old days, when largesse was distributed with an open hand, many free seats were given out, particularly for the Italian operas. Nowadays, with subscription performances the rule, from ninety-five to ninety-eight percent of the house is sold out in advance. The few unsold seats are advertised for public sale on Thursdays for the following week; but long before Thursday they are bought up by friends and relatives of members of the company. Although these people no longer get in free, they are loyal enough to their favorites to perform the functions of the old-time claque on a smaller scale. At various times, the Opera officials have tried to learn the identity of these over-zealous applauders in order to disbar them from mass-formation in the future, but without much success.—From the New-Yorker.

Plays and Such of Ten Years Ago in Chicago Theaters

SUBJOINED are news of and comments on plays and shows printed in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE of August 3, 1919—the date most nearly corresponding to today. The excerpts are verbatim, and not rewrites or summarizations.

¶ ¶ ¶

Martin Brown's play, "An Innocent Idea," is said to be a travesty upon the bedroom-drama now so popular. Brown is the playwright whose first comedy, "A Very Good Young Man," was produced early last season by Arthur Hopkins, and who was said at the time to have some half-dozen other plays in readiness. "An Innocent Idea" will have its first production in Baltimore on August 25, with Robert Emmett Keane and John Westley in the leading rôles.

Mr. Brown is still writing plays. To date, he has turned out but one that can fairly be called a success—the piece named "Cobra." It was a crude thing; but part of the public seemed to like it.

An addition to the list of musical comedies in prospect is "Three Miles Out." As the title implies, it has to do with the timely topic of a realm in which Prohibition laws cease from troubling. The entertainment is the work of Walter Lindler and J. Edward Cort.

If it ever reached the stage, "Three Miles Out" didn't endure. After all, genius is required to write a play about Prohibition that would be more amusing than Prohibition, itself.

Oliver Morosco has changed his mind about revealing Hatton's new comedy, "Madame Sappho," at the Olympic on August 24. Instead, he will offer on that date "Seven Miles to Arden," identified as a novel by Ruth Sawyer made into a play by Anna Nichols.

Twenty Years Ago

GOING back through the files to twenty years ago, or to the corresponding Sunday of 1909, the interests of theater-goers were catered to in THE TRIBUNE of August 1 by the paragraphs that follow.

The coming of "The Climax" to Powers' Theater tomorrow evening will afford Chicago playgoers the first distinct novelty in some time; for it is over six weeks since the last important local opening took place—that of "The Candy Shop," at the Studebaker. The first presentation of this new play by Edward Locke, in addition to being the initial event of the new season, undoubtedly will be one of the most significant as well, judging from the reports regarding the piece which have come from the East. The original New-York cast will be brought on from Weber's Theater for the Chicago engagement. Miss Leona Watson will be seen as Adeline; Albert Bruning will be the elder Golfani and Effingham Pinto the son; while to William Lewers will fall the task of impersonating the Doctor.

As has occasionally been implied in these columns, "The Climax" was a false-alarm as a play, although there was a deal of excitement kicked up by the fact that it required but four actors and but one setting. Joe Weber, who owned it, could take down a handsome profit from a week of attendance so slim that the theater wherein the piece was acted would lose money. . . . Miss Watson disappeared from public view soon after "The Climax" was retired; Mr. Bruning died not long ago; Mr. Lewers has not of late acted in this neighborhood; and Mr. Pinto is still active.

"Follies of the Day," a melange of mirth and nonsense, burlesgue and comedy, music and dancing, peopled with pretty girls and amusing comedians, will be the offering at the Great Northern this afternoon and throughout the ensuing fortnight. The entertainment comes with the prestige gained during a successful run on Broadway in the early Summer. Barney Girard and Gertrude Hayes head the cast of principals.

This was an ordinary, two-a-day burlesque-show; and the "successful run on Broadway" was an engagement in a burlesque-house.

There are three acts in "The Goddess of Liberty," the new musical play which will be the attraction at the Princess beginning August 10. The leading rôles will be played by George Parsons, Miss Alma Youlin, and Miss Sally Fisher.

"The Goddess of Liberty" was one of the song-and-dance pieces turned out for Mort H. Singer by the collaboration of Hough, Adams, and Howard. . . . Mr. Parsons has not of late been heard of, and may be dead; Miss Youlin and Miss Fisher long since retired into matrimony.

Beginning Labor Day, Monday, September 6, Henry B. Harris will present at the Illinois Charles Klein's latest play, "The Third Degree." The original cast,—which played at the Hudson Theater, New-York, for seven months,—will be brought to Chicago; and the more important rôles will be enacted by Edmund Breese, Miss Helen Ware, Wallace Eddinger, Walter Craven, Frazer Coulter, and Earle Williams.

"The Third Degree" is recalled as a pretty-good in-doors melodrama, and as a better piece than Mr. Klein's "The Lion and the Mouse"; but the public didn't regard it as better. . . . Mr. Eddinger died some months ago; Miss Ware was here in 1927 in "Different Women" with the late Frank Keenan; and Mr. Breese acted here little more than three years ago in a piece called "Young Blood."

Brady and Belasco Open New York's Season This Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Next week two offerings are billed for New York theaters, and Ziegfeld's "Whoopee" will reopen after a layoff of three weeks, with Eddie Cantor heading the original cast. The two new plays scheduled are:

Now-a-Days—Monday night at the Forrest theater. To such veterans in production as Mr. Brady and Mr. Belasco go the honors of opening the new theatrical season. Mr. Brady's play is the work of Arthur F. Brash, and has to do with college life. Its players will include Irene Blair, Mayo Methot, Melvyn Douglas, Beverly Sitgreaves and Edward Pawley.

It's a Wiz Child—Tuesday night at the Belasco theater. This is a comedy by Laurence E. Johnson, who used to be content to be known simply as Larry E. Johnson. Acting in it will be Minor Watson, Mildred McCoy, Harlan Briggs, Sidney Toler, Helen Lowell, Leila Bennett, Humphrey Bogart and Porter Hall. Most of them have given good accounts of themselves before this.

'Sunken Bell's' Ravinia Debut Comes Tuesday

By Edward Moore.

costumes all having been constructed in the north shore workshops. That is another item to create preoccupation. Still another is that it is rated as one of the most difficult scores ever attempted by the company, and rehearsals have been going right and left for weeks past.

The mystic story which forms the basis for this opera is by no means unknown to American readers. Something more than a quarter of a century ago an English translation of Gerhart Hauptmann's famous German poetic drama, "Die Versunkene Glocke," was brought forth in this country under the title of "The Sunken Bell." It was acclaimed far and wide as a masterpiece of symbolism and no work of the kind has ever enjoyed greater popularity. Ottorino Respighi decided that this poetic drama contained all of those elements which go into the making of opera, and he felt that its story would lend itself admirably to the expression of that ultra-modern idiom which more and more is giving the opera of the present day an individuality that is all its own. Claudio Guastalla/was selected to adapt an Italian libretto, which was to deviate but little from the Hauptmann poem, and it is this libretto for which Respighi has provided the musical setting.

Mme. Rethberg is cast as Rautendelein, who, as the heroine of this bit of Germanic folklore which is peopled with elves and gnomes and other creatures of the eerie world, is partly human and partly elf. She is the granddaughter of an old woman of the mountains, who is called a witch for dramatic purposes, but who, according to Hauptmann, is a human who is in close contact with the strange powers of nature. Rautendelein, herself, has thoroughly human emotions, yet she is scarcely a creature of earth. She is loved by Nickelman, the spirit of the water, who would wed her and take her with him to the bottom of the lake where he dwells.

But Rautendelein loves Heinrich, the character assumed by Mr. Martinelli, who is a bell-caster who has become the victim of the gnomes and whose masterpiece, a marvellous bell designed for the parish church, has been sunk beneath the waters of Nickelman's lake. Rautendelein knows that this is the work of the Faun, and being in love with Heinrich, she resolves, against the wishes of her grandmother, to help him. Heinrich, overcome by his ill fortune, is carried to his home by his neighbors, and there Rautendelein goes under the pretext of assisting Heinrich's wife. Heinrich has almost lost his mind because of the loss of his masterpiece, and declares that he can never create another unless he is able to draw new life from a wondrous and mythical blossom.

Rautendelein exerts her wiles in an effort to give Heinrich the inspiration he needs, and succeeds in her task. Heinrich becomes infatuated with the elf-girl, abandons his family and goes to live with her in the mountains. Through her power he makes Nickelman and the Faun his slaves and becomes imbued with the desire to erect a temple dedicated to the heretical philosophy he has now adopted.

"If I depart from this purpose," he declares, "may the sunken bell toll again."

False Happiness Fails.

But the false happiness of Heinrich and Rautendelein is not to last. His old neighbors, hearing of his ungodly plan, send the parish priest, who strives, as the representative of orthodoxy, to restore Heinrich to his senses, but Heinrich scorns him and again declares that he has found perfect happiness with Rautendelein in his new philosophy. However, in a vision the bell-caster sees the wraiths of his children who bear an urn which is filled with the tears their mother shed just before she committed suicide by drowning herself in the lake. And then, from the depths of the lake there comes the tolling of the sunken bell.

This awakens Heinrich to his senses. In anger, he abjures his love for Rautendelein and flees into the night. Rautendelein, driven to distraction, descends into the water and weds Nickelman. But Heinrich cannot live without her and begins a search which is all in vain. At last he appeals to Rautendelein's grandmother, who grants him one favor, and this to see Rautendelein before he dies. She appears to him worn and sorrowful and reproaches him for having driven her into a union with Nickelman. However, as Heinrich dies, she kisses him tenderly and forgives him.

Such is the story of "The Sunken Bell," but no bare outline of this plot can begin to reveal the wealth of fascinating color that has been woven into both its drama and its music. The Ravinia cast for this work, in addition to Mme. Rethberg and Mr. Martinelli, will include Mario Basiola as Nickelman, Julia Claussen as the grandmother, Lola Monti-Gorsey, Margery Maxwell, Philine Falco, Gladys Swarthout, Virgilio Lazzari, Giordano Paltrinieri, Louis D'Angelo, Lodovico Oliviero and others. Gennaro Papi will conduct.

Seventh Week Opens.

Ravinia's seventh week will open this afternoon with "An Afternoon of Solo Numbers by Members of the Orchestra." The Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Eric DeLamarter, will present four ensemble numbers and the remainder of the program will be devoted to solos by Jacques Gordon, violin; Alfred Wallenstein, 'cello; Joseph Vito, harp; Edward Llewellyn, trumpet; Robert Lindeman, clarinet; Ernst Liegl, flute; Alfred Barthel, oboe; Hugo Fox, bassoon; Pellegrino Lecce, horn; Clarence Evans, viola; Francesco Napolilli, English horn; and Gustav Stange, trombone. There is no charge for reserved seats in this concert.

Other new items for the week are "Carmen" tonight with Ina Bourskaya in the name part, Mr. Martinelli as Don Jose, Lola Monti-Gorsey, a Ravinia newcomer in her debut as Micaela, and Mario Basiola as Escamillo; "The Tales of Hoffman" on Thursday night with Mario Chamlee as Hoffman, Florence Macbeth as the first and third of his famous loves and Gladys Swarthout as the second; and "The Masked Ball" on Saturday night with Mme. Rethberg, Miss Macbeth, Mr. Martinelli, and Mr. Danise prominent in the cast. Mme. Bori will repeat her double bill of "The Secret of Suzanne" and "La Vida Breve" on Friday night, and Edward Johnson, who has been absent from Ravinia casts for a week, will return in "L'Amore dei Tre Re" tomorrow and "Tosca" on Wednesday.

Ten Weeks of Sousa.

Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa, 75 years young, will take up another tour Aug. 24 with his famous band, but because of radio engagements it will be only ten weeks in length. The first two concerts will be at Atlantic City, from which place he will go directly to Minneapolis for a four days' appearance at the dedication of the Foshay tower in that city. He has composed three new marches for the tour, "Flor de Seville," in honor of the Seville exposition, "University of Illinois," dedicated to that institution of learning, and "Foshay Tower Washington Memorial March," whose title is self-explanatory.

The fees of the eminent bandmaster would seem to be entirely satisfactory. He recently concluded a series of ten radio concerts for the General Motors corporation for which he received a fee of $50,000, he will receive $20,000 from Wilbur B. Foshay for his engagement in Minneapolis, and he has been notified that the General Motors company will exercise its option upon his services for a second series of ten concerts, for which he will again be paid $50,000.

[(C) Mishkin Photo.]

FOR the first time in this part of the country Ravinia audiences next Tuesday evening will see Ottorino Respighi's opera, "La Campana Sommersa," based upon the Hauptmann drama, "Die Versunkene Glocke," and known to English speaking playgoers as "The Sunken Bell." Mme. Rethberg will appear in the part of Rautendelein, with Giovanni Martinelli as Heinrich, roles in which they appeared last winter at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York and in the spring at the Teatro Reale in Rome.

Clara Bow's Fiance Gives the Secret of His Wooing

By Rosalind Shaffer.

we took his word for that and stayed out of the kitchen.

"How," Mr. Richman was asked, "did you manage to make yourself stand out against the background of these other pursuing men? How were you able to win the lady of your choice against such competition?"

"I'll tell you how I did it," said Mr. Richman, folding his bronzed biceps, developed by pounding the grand piano. "It was this way. I found everybody was too impressed by Clara. I saw that when she put off invitations from other young men they allowed themselves to be put off and so lost out. I determined to allow nothing of the sort in my case. I vowed that if she tried to put me off, 'so long, Clara, I will be here tonight at nine,' and I was. So was she. She must have liked it. It was different.

"Then Clara was ill. She felt she needed only a rest, but when five days of resting made her no better I called a doctor. Clara had to have a blood test. Clarita, I call her. She needed iron to build her up. I insisted that she take the treatment. Never before has Clara, I mean Clarita, had any one to order her about. That, I believe, is the secret of how I won her love."

Slight Difference of Opinion.

Richman signified that he wished to have Clara retire from the screen in a year and a half, at the expiration of her contract. Clara can't see it that way, she later demurred in an interview of her own, but since Richman has made up his mind, possibly she will retire. At least, Richman had no doubt when interviewed. To conclude the account of his flaming idyll, as told by Mr. Richman:

"Clara, I think you will be making a big mistage if you don't marry me," he says he told her. "I have plenty of money, I am a bright young fellow and I am a good business man. Our temperaments are alike. I have what you need. I will take care of you."

It now begins to look as if Harry has his job cut out for him for Clara was much annoyed when second-hand versions of his conversation reached her. Wise guys do not believe that the projected marriage will take place, for it is not a year ago that Clara and a foreign actor of prominence verbally agreed to be announced as engaged—just like Clara and Harry—but that engagement, announced publicly, never was really reaped for some reason or other not confided by the principals.

News of Films and Players.

Lew Cody was seen walking alone into a motion picture theater this week. Although attended by a nurse, he walked without support. He thinks he will be able to go back to work in six months.

Helen Hayes, wife of Charley MacArthur, author of "The Front Page" and other opuses, who confided that she is expecting the stork early in the new year, has left her play, "Coquette," for a vacation. Mildred Davis Lloyd, wife of Harold Lloyd, is another celebrity with the same sort of secret.

The opening of "The Four Feathers," at United Artists theater, was something of an event this week. Paramount's picture had as its most intriguing shots nature scenes in jungles with hippopotami leaping into a river to escape a forest fire and baboons throwing their young from rock to rock, crossing the river to escape the fire. These shots were made by Cooper and Schoedsack in Africa, the two men being already famous for "Grass" and "Chang," filmed in out of the way locales.

Stravinsky's Latest Ballet Is Something New

Composer Places Singers Among Musicians.

BY WAVERLEY LEWIS ROOT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—With music that obviously depends so much upon the plot of the ballet which accompanies it as does that of "Renard," Stravinsky's latest ballet, one is loath to say much until the music has been heard in conjunction with the action on the stage. The London press, invited to the final rehearsal of the music, was in this rather uncomfortable position.

It may be suggested tentatively that the music with the action will prove worthy of Stravinsky—but of the later Stravinsky who, to my mind, does not approach the composer of "Petroushka," the "Fire Bird," and "Le Chant de Rossignol"—perhaps even of the fantasy on the nuptial flight of the bee. I say nothing of "Sacre du Printemps," which, oddly enough, since it is the best known of his compositions, is the only one which I have never happened to hear, with the exception of some of the very latest works.

In "Renard," which tells the tale of the barnyard adventures of the fox hungry for the hen, Stravinsky has placed his singers in the orchestra, a procedure which will be familiar to those who have heard the Metropolitan Opera company's version of "La Coq d'Or." The effort is excellent, particularly in those passages where the voices carry the interminable Russian melodies which possess an unmistakable national characteristic.

To add to the exotic effect of the treatment of the voices, there is included in the instrumentation a plucked string instrument,—judging from the sound. A bass balalaika perhaps—or even a dulcimer. The scoring is thin; the music is much less adaptable to concert presentation than Stravinsky's earlier ballets, which were nearly as interesting divorced from their story as in the theater.

It is a common complaint against modern musicians that everything they have to say is to be found somewhere in "Petroushka." It is odd that the same criticism can be made of "Renard." Stravinsky has been heavily indebted to his own earlier work. It is an indebtedness that is more than a continuation of his style; he has himself become so imbued with the glitter and the color of his ballet that, like other musicians who have come under its spell, he cannot forget it as he continues to compose. The characteristic thumping rhythms, the sudden shrill sweeps of piccolos, all are to be found in "Renard" as in "Petroushka."

* *

Human Voices Used.

There are a few startling effects where shouts and unusual noises are employed in the orchestra. The use of unpitched human voices, as a sort of cymbal crash, is an effective means of pointing crises of the action.

"Renard" is a good piece of work, and could be nothing else, coming from Stravinsky. But it is not of the caliber of "Petroushka."

Rather more interesting from certain points of view than the Stravinsky music was an additional tit-bit offered to the press—the pianoforte concerto of Igor Markevitch, a 16 year old boy who played the work himself, rippling easily through its evident technical difficulty.

The work was worth hearing and certainly far beyond the age of its composer. The first movement, involved and complex, of the familiar modern polyphonic style, was logical and excellently developed; but it was dry. The slow movement came more naturally and feelingly, and was followed without pause by an effective and exciting vivace finale. It would have been interesting from an older composer; from so young a musician it was astounding.

The Work of Youth.

But the new music which is developing about us seems to be the work of youth. Chicago possesses an example of a youthful but thoroughly competent musician in Miss Anna Gluck, pupil of Leo Sowerby. Miss Gluck cannot yet be 20, but she has a number of important compositions to her credit. Among her chamber music opera is one particularly fine string quartet, while she has already composed two symphonies.

The first, I believe, has been completely scored and copied; if the Chicago Symphony orchestra is interested in developing native talent it might consider performing this work. The second symphony, a musical picture of Paris, was nearly completed when I had the privilege of seeing the score over a year ago. It has perhaps been finished by now, and should be played; I have seen no better work in the last five years.

not tarry long. Miss Swanson has business in Europe. She is trying out something new. For the first time an American talkie is going to have its premier in dear old Lunnon. It is Gloria's picture called "Tresspasser," and she hopes the chappies will like it.

Miss Swanson will make personal appearance with the picture, which is being released by United Artists in London, Paris and Berlin. The Gloria is stopping off here to warble the three or four songs she sings in the film for the Victor discs and to take on her publicity mob. She is going to travel in a summer snowstorm of press clippings, and will not be home until the leaves begin to fall in October.

Norma Shearer and her husband are Broadway bound, having decided to look the big town over after paying a few business calls in Washington. New York has to have a few of the west coast stars around every week in order to fill up the Sunday picture sections.

Meet the "Echo Chaser."

Your correspondent has been looking behind the doors at a couple of the talking studios this week and has met a pair of gentlemen who should be better known. One is the "echo chaser," who really is a technical engineer who checks up on the acoustics and other nuisances around the chatter parlors.

The other fellow is the "sound mixer." He is the technician who sits up close to the roof and juggles the dials which control the microphones. He shades the tones like an artist does a sunset and can make or break a star so far as talkies go.

Shaw's New Play, "The Apple Cart," to Open Aug. 19

GREAT MALVERN, England.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw's new play woven around an imaginary American attempt to annex the British empire in 1962, will have its English première here at the Malvern festival, which it opens on August 19.

Three other plays by Shaw will be presented during this festival—"Back to Methuselah!" "Heartbreak House" and "Cæsar and Cleopatra"; but "The Apple Cart" is of special interest as his latest. It was recently presented, for the first time on any stage, in Warsaw; the playwright's idea being to launch it before a politically minded audience not particularly interested in present day British politics.

Castle to Become Museum.

DIEZ, Germany.—(AP)—The Oranienstein castle, built in 1676, is to be converted into a museum in connection with the observance of the 600th anniversary of this town. The castle was the original seat of the House of Orange, which is still the reigning house in Holland.

THE VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Why Praise Women Stars?

Dear Miss Tinée: It is said to be illbred praising a woman to her face, but I wish to say I believe you clever and we are east and west, so I must forget good manners. It is my habit to read your work because it has life, the only alive column except Miss Butcher's by women in your paper. But even with a woman's desire to please why do you continually praise women stars? The work of any of them at times falls to mediocrity, even flatness. Many years ago when there was only spoken drama, realism in setting of scenes and clothing of actors was considered essential. The beautiful garments and jewelry worn by those of Hollywood are mostly out of place, often ridiculous, the opposite in cash value to those displayed by the stage companies of Nicholas Nickleby, and even more garish. Surely art in Hollwood should conform to life, not break out in warts, in the form of hats and necklaces. PAPA.

Editor's note: Papa!

He Knows About Snakes.

Miss Mae Tinée: In your writeup on "The Letter" I believe you made mention of the fact that the hideous fight in this picture took place between a mongoose and a python. May I inform you that the snake in question was a cobra, not a python?

The cobra is a venomous snake, found in India, whose death giving power lies in its poisonous fangs. It is easily recognized by the flaring hood of skin that can be raised to protect the head when angered. The cobra is the only one of its species that has this peculiar growth, and hence it is important as a means of identification.

The python is usually a much larger reptile of the boa type, which kills its prey by crushing it in its powerful coils.

Hoping I may have been of service I remain truly,

DON CARLOS FOZQUETA.

Editor's note: Indeed you have been of service! I've never seen many snakes. It was probably a cobra.

* *

A Cheer for Greta Garbo.

Dear Mae: I always read your column on the "Voice of the Fan." I can't help commenting on the letter written to you by Mrs. W. after she saw Greta Garbo in "Wild Orchids." Did you notice, Mae, that she wrote her husband's opinion, not her own.

As for me—I'm all for Miss Garbo no matter what sort of a picture. Believe me, it takes someone else to love your wife or husband before you can appreciate him and realize how much you are in love.

I can't imagine what sort of a person Mrs. W. can be to dislike such a picture. I'll wager a whole nickel she's been married for about thirty years. But then, Mae, you and I shall have to go hand in hand with Greta because even my best girl friend can't see this "fascinating" woman.

I'm hoping Mrs. W. reads this.

S. J.

Editor's note: She probably will.

Best Movies

If you will tell us what movie, in your opinion, rates above all the others you've seen, and why this particular movie is deserving of praise, we'll pay $1 for your letter if we print it. Address Best Movies, Chicago Tribune.

"Gallant Doug."

One of the best pictures I have ever seen is "Don Q. Son of Zorro." Gallant Doug Fairbanks showed a real spirit. His whip cracking and broncho busting put him high over the top with all honors. His real strength was a big addition to his work. The girl was good looking and pleasant and as in the "Gaucho" encouraged him. I have not seen him act as well even in his late pictures, including "The Iron Mask." He must have liked this kind of work or I am sure he would not do so well. Its loves, hates, battles, and fights impressed me more than anything I have read, seen, or heard since. J. A.

IN "PARIS BOUND."

ANN HARDING and FREDRIC MARCH.

ANN HARDING, the lovely star of the stage production of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," and Fredric March, also a recruit from the legitimate theater, are appearing at the Studebaker in the talkie version of "Paris Bound."

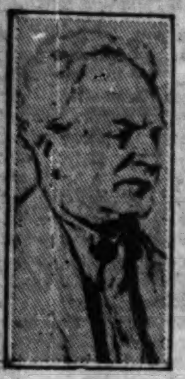
The Armchair Playgoer

By Fanny Butcher.

AT RAVINIA.

Tonight "Carmen" will be sung, the favorite opera of over half of any opera audience. It is justly popular, for no opera has more drama to the square inch than "Carmen," and Bizet's music is in itself tingling with drama. "Carmen," the novel, was written by Prosper Merimee and published in 1847. In 1875 it was used as the foundation for the script of an opera by Meilhac and Halevy with music by a composer who had never won much fame with his operas, Georges Bizet. Bizet died believing himself an unsuccessful composer, for he lived only three months after the premiere of "Carmen." He had no hint that it would become one of the most popular operas in the repertoire of the world. The text of the opera differs slightly from the plot of the book, for Escamillo, the toreador, who plays so large a part in the opera is only a suspicion on the part of Don José. In the novel Don José kills Carmen, buries her body in the woods and rides to Cordova and gives himself up. The book was a sensation in its day because Merimee turned away from artificial society which was at that time the recognized melieu for a novel, and wrote about the passions and ferocities of primitive nature.



GERHART HAUPTMANN.
[Drawing by Eugen Spiro.]

On Tuesday "The Sunken Bell" will be sung. Its text was taken from one of the classics of modern German literature, "Die Versunkene Glocke," by Gerhart Hauptmann. It belongs to the period in Hauptmann's career when he clothed cosmic ideas in the garb of fairy tales. It is about an artist who has cast a wonderful bell which, however, is sent tumbling down the mountainside by bad fairies just as he is about to have it hung in the church tower for the countryside to hear. Crazed by the loss of his masterpiece he tries to pursue it, but falls in a stupor in the woods and is rescued by a nymph with whom he falls in love and through whose aid he starts work on another bell far more wonderful and destined not for one community but for mankind. Temporal love interferes in the form of his wife who has drowned herself because he has deserted her, and in his despair he curses the nymph and returns to the world of men. But there is no peace there for him, and he goes back to the nymph who does him the final service of presenting him with the cup of death. As is obvious, it is highly symbolic, and, as a poetic drama, is one of the best examples of its school in any language. There is an excellent translation of it published by Viking Press.

On Thursday evening "Tales from Hoffman" will remind armchair playgoers that there once was a collection of short stories called "Weird Tales," written by one Ernst Theodor Hoffman. In it were three stories which Jules Barbier used as a foundation for the book of an opera of which Jacques Offenbach made the musical setting. They gave the author of the stories more credit than most authors are given, for they called their opera "Tales from Hoffman." A good translation of the "Weird Tales" was made and published in the United States in 1923.

Notes of Music and Musicians

THEY say that Vicente Escudero, the Spanish dancer who is to visit this country for the first time next season, does not feel in the least complimented to be called the male counterpart of La Argentina or compared in any way with her. For one thing, the male dancing of Spain is something of quite different character from that done by the women. For another, he has a fairly pardonable desire to be judged on his own individuality. Cyril Rice has been discussing him quite at length in the Dancing Times of London.

"Escudero's heels first thundered in village squares," writes Mr. Rice, "when, as a budding gypsy dancer, he wandered through Andalusia accompanied by a guitarist with the requisite 'hands of gold.' Although he has subsequently moved in more sophisticated circles, he is still almost as close to his native soil as in the days of his youthful pilgrimages. There is a complete absence of showmanship that is not only refreshing, but also, perhaps, more effective than the most ingenious combinations of that necessary evil. The rising curtain discloses a bare stage with a plain backcloth, half white, half black. From the wings appears a rather diffident guitarist carrying a chair and his guitar. Having apologetically seated himself, he commences to strike chords on his instrument. From the opposite side Escudero strolls in, completely unconcerned. He stops by the player and starts chatting with him. Soon he begins beating a rhythm with one foot while still leaning over his accompanist's chair. Then, apparently when the mood takes him and no sooner, he starts to dance.

Spontaneity of Movement.

"Naturalness is an innate quality of his art. Every movement has the appearance of spontaneity. Can it be that there is a certain amount of improvisation in his dances? One spectator, at least, has felt, after seeing a dance repeated, that while the general form was the same, the details varied perceptibly from before. But such control does he possess, such perfect mastery, that there is never the least question of faltering or fumbling—every step, every beat is sharp, decided and in unbroken continuity. In dances which, like the Miller's Dance from De Falla's 'Three Cornered Hat,' or his abstraction 'In Castille,' show a more formal arrangement, one sense that he is, so to speak, dancing according to plan; outstanding as the performance is, the magic fluid which permeated his Rhythmes, his Alegrias and his Farruca, is no longer in evidence."

"In the Jota of Aragon," continues Mr. Rice, "he successfully captures the strong, almost rude atmosphere of the peasant dance. One sees in it the countryman of central Spain, patient and industrious, but at the same time the man whose proverb is 'I am as well born as the king—only he is more fortunate.' With 'Cordoba' and 'Seguidillas,' both danced to the music of Albéniz, we enter 'El Andalus.' We enter, too, the province which Argentina has made particularly her own. It is partly this association which makes us feel that a purely masculine interpretation could not extract the full value from this music, and we are not surprised that to it Escudero has arranged duets.

Blood and Sand.

"With curves and fioriture the girl embellishes the sharp, staccato framework danced by her partner. As, after a burst of disturbing taconeo, he bounds across the stage with the rapidity of a tiger, in every step we see the precison of the torero before the bull. Indeed, the resemblance to the world of blood and sand runs through much of his work, notably in the 'Alegrias Zapateado,' in the latter part of which he lashes himself into a frenzy of tauromachian mimicry.

"One can hardly say that Escudero dances to the guitar; it would be at least equally legitimate to say that the guitarist follows the dancer. United by some bond of sympathy, they so work together that they are always in perfect harmony—every rallentando, every pause occurs at exactly the right moment. He is quite different from the step dancer who, with mechanical precision, keeps in time to a musical accompaniment. The flamenco dancer seems to be creating rhythms in collaboration with his guitarist. The sorcery that lies in Argentina's castanets Escudero achieves with his feet."

Musical Bits.

Claudia Muzio, absent from the civic opera forces last season because of the illness of her mother, will return to this country about the end of September to remain until February, 1930. Her first weeks will be taken up with a concert tour, and she will come to Chicago about the end of October and stay through the thirteen weeks of opera in the new house. It is told that she will appear in the most popular rôles of her repertoire and in one or two new ones, as well.

She appeared at the Royal Opera in Rome last winter, making several guest appearances in other Italian cities. In the spring she sang in Germany and is now resting at her villa at Ospedaletti, Italy. Her mother, who is reported greatly improved in health, will accompany her to this country, likewise her newly acquired husband.

Antonio Cortis, another artist of the civic opera, has just been the special star of a festival opera season in the arena at Valencia, Spain. His schedule there included appearances as Don José in "Carmen," Manrico in "Il Trovatore," the name part of "Andrea Chenier," and Rodolfo in "La Boheme."

Madame Frere will give a lecture in French on "The Origin of Russian Music" at the Hotel Moraine, Highland Park, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The musical program will include works by Scriabine, Tschaikowsky, Arensky, and Moussourgsky-Rachmaninoff.

The Chicago and North Western Railway Choral club will give its third annual concert for the Lake Geneva chamber of commerce this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Shore park. A program of operatic, martial, and popular music and folk songs will be given. The choral club, which has been in existence for four years, has a membership of forty-five, all employés of the railroad and representing practically all branches of railroading. E. B. Hall, president of the club, is general superintendent of motive power and machinery, and Harry Slater, musical director, is locomotive shop foreman.

Twenty-four members of the chorus from the Chicago Civic opera, under the leadership of Herman Tappo, secretary and business agent of the choral union, have been enjoying considerable success at the Zoo opera in Cincinnati. The Cincinnati newspapers have given them a lot of praise, citing their work in "Faust," "Carmen," "Andrea Chenier" and other works of the standard répertoire. This summer marks the fourth season during which the same two dozen have carried the burden of the chorus work for the Cincinnati organization.

Vincenzo Celli, Chicagoan and premier danseur of La Scala, Milan, has been appearing in a new creation, "Casanova at Venice," which had nineteen performances at La Scala last season. During the spring he was a member of the company which toured from Milan to Berlin under the direction of Arturo Toscanini.

Lake Geneva Colony Prepares for Flower Show

MISS JEANETTE PETERKIN.

FASHIONABLE summer colonists at Lake Geneva are preparing for the annual flower show to be given by the Lake Geneva Garden club, assisted by the Gardeners' and Foremen's association, on Aug. 16 and 17 at Horticultural Hall. Among the Chicagoans who will send entries from their gardens to the exhibit are Mrs. Frederick H. Bartlett, Mrs. Henry Isham, Mrs. Walden W. Shaw, Mrs. Frank A. Rehm, Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson and Mrs. Lawrence B. Robbins. Mrs. Daniel Peterkin and Mrs. Catharine Bartholomay Osborne are in charge of the fruit display.

Lido Party Brings Venice to Grounds of Onwentsia

By Mme. X.

ONWENTSIA club at Lake Forest returned to its early traditions and festive and picturesque life last week when it held its Lido, Venice, fête. It was a lively, motley throng that gathered there for dinner, dancing, and swimming. The call was sent out to come in such attire as is worn by habitués of that most cosmopolitan and vividly brilliant summer resort, the seashore of the city of the doges. Many of the Onwentsia members and their guests had been at Venice in the height of its season and the rest of those assembled had read and seen pictures describing it. Therefore the party that evening was a lively and accurate reproduction of the throngs that disport themselves on the Lido. (Lido means "shore.") Pajamas were the prevailing mode—pajamas of every possible color and several cuts. Men and women alike wore them.

Taken en masse, the attire was picturesque and colorful. It must be admitted, however, that it is not the most becoming mode either for men or women if one analyzes it and studies each wearer, though for the former it must be delightful to don anything so cool and comfortable for a gala occasion instead of the hot and stuffy conventional garb to which they are condemned. Just as an aside: I wonder how much longer are men going to permit themselves to be enslaved by tailors and bound to the present unesthetic and dreary dress. Their garments seem chiefly designed to conceal defects, not to reveal well built bodies.

Charming Setting.

But this is not a thesis on styles; so, back to the Lido party! The general effect that evening was one of the most charming parties ever staged here. The black glass topped dinner tables were set out on the club's west terrace under the summer stars. Candles flickered in the evening breeze. At the beginning of the feast the last glow of the sunset still lingered in the sky and the view across the wide and green expanse of the golf links was beautiful. Slowly the crimson and golden hues faded and the fragrant mysteries of a midsummer night possessed the land.

The gayly attired company divided its time between partaking of the excellent dinner and dancing in the nearby ballroom. This is after a Spanish fashion. In Spain a dinner frequently lasts from nine o'clock until one or two o'clock, the intervals between courses being protracted to an extraordinary degree. In this part of the world there is a custom growing in frequency to delay the start of dinners until long after the hour set. Eight o'clock means to most of the young people nine o'clock and later. If it is a club dinner that is so delayed it is supposed to be more endurable, though even then the people serving the feast are only human and must suffer serious discomfort. When the occasion is in a private house the lack of consideration of the convenience as it touches both host and domestic corps is harder to bear.

After dinner the Lido party adjourned en masse to the swimming pool, a vast, oblong basin of pale green water at the south end of the clubhouse. The company disposed itself about the margin of the pool and on all available ledges giving a view of the scene. This made a most lovely picture. High up at one end of the house was a large, curved balcony, on the balustrade of which sat a dozen or more guests in bright attire, their legs hanging over the edge in what looked like none too secure a fashion. Other ledges and balconies were also made gay with onlookers. Many colored lanterns illuminated the scene.

Swimming Stunts.

Swimming stunts provided by a band of experts entertained the throng until after midnight. There was much applause and laughter, especially when one of the club members, a popular youth, was pushed into the pool unexpectedly to himself. After the swimming contests dancing was resumed again and the party kept up until Sunday had become well established.

The Onwentsia is developing more and more as the popular rendezvous of Lake Forest youth. The new and extremely beautiful clubhouse makes a charming background for the many summer sports and social affairs that make these five months pass so swiftly. The women, young and not so young, gather there Tuesday mornings. They meet together at the club for golf and luncheon, later getting out the card tables. Thursdays is also a popular day for informal dining there in sports attire after an afternoon of golf and tennis, ending the day with dancing or "contract."

It is interesting to the onlooker driving about the region surrounding Chicago to note the growing number of country clubs scattered over the landscape. Picturesque affairs they are, and usually surrounded by flocks of automobiles of every size and make, evidences of a national prosperity of unprecedented kind. Two young Britishers, sons of Sir William Bull, one of the chief promoters of the Anglo-French channel tunnel project, who are making a little tour of this country, are more impressed by the almost universal ownership of motor cars here than by anything else. The spectacle of the long lines of cars parked about any construction work is of unceasing interest to

Will Be Held at Home of H. Stillson Harts.

By Mildred Jaklon.

The August social outlook in the many nearby countrylike regions, too luxurious to be styled suburbs, is a pleasant vista of leisurely outdoor pursuits. What matter if the men folk must needs scurry to town in the mornings for business? They rush back on commuters' specials in time for quick showers and dashes into sports clothes to complete the typical leisurely scene at country clubs, swimming pools, late garden teas and the like. Those magazine cover idealizations of greenery with affable figures in pale sports regalia disporting themselves in the approved idle fashion are applicable to Chicago environs as well as to other portions of the country, even if they aren't supplemented with diagrams of the preliminary heats that made possible their perfection.

* *

Flower Show Tuesday.

Barrington, where life is perhaps a bit more informal and leisurely than Lake Forest or Wheaton [at least Barrington doesn't go in for anything so strenuous as horse shows] is having its fourth annual garden show this Tuesday and Wednesday at "Hartwood," the H. Stillson Harts place. This is appropriate, as Mrs. Hart is one of the most active members of the Garden club and the other activities of the community.

The show will be comprised of classes for arrangements of cut flowers, displays of annuals, perennials, and flowering shrubs, flower perfection, wild flowers, vegetable displays, window boxes, colonial bouquets, various table arrangements, and a children's class. There will be a ribbon awarded, also, for the rarest flower exhibited.

Last year the show at the James R. Cardwell estate was highly successful, and this year the plans are slightly more elaborate and ambitious. Mrs. Robert Work is president of the Garden club of Barrington and other officers who are to assist with the arrangements include Mrs. Lloyd Canby, secretary of the club; Mrs. Hart, vice president; and Mrs. Lafayette Markle, treasurer There will be box lunches sold between 12 and 2 o'clock on both days. The exhibits will be open at 1 o'clock on Tuesday and at noon on Wednesday.

Chicagoans at Barrington.

Chicagoans who find Barrington their notion of a pleasant spot for summer include the George E. Van Hagens, Sr. and Jr., the Edwin Seipps, who have a delightful rambling place with a swimming pool and stunning gardens, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Evans, who call their dwelling "Midoaks," and whose week-end party invitations are never refused; the Cardwells, the Harts, Emil O. Wetten, whose barbecues at "Wetten Farms" have a special reputation of their own; the young Malcolm Shroyers, the Marvin Miners Jr., and the Frank Whitings.

The Barrington Hills Country club is a rendezvous for many parties as well as the every day occasional gatherings.

Polo Revived at Newport After 15 Years

Notables Build Team to Play Meadowbrook.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 3.—[Special.]—After an absence of fifteen years polo is once again coming into its own. The first match held at Mrs. Moses Taylor's field at Sandy Point farm received so much attention that it has been decided to hold matches three times each week during the remainder of the season, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The glory of the one time Westchester Polo club is recalled in the decision of the enthusiasts to adopt the name for the new organization. At present practice matches between Newport colonists and visitors are being scheduled with the hopes of developing a team capable of representing this resort against other eastern teams, notably those of Meadowbrook and Rumson.

White Versus Reds.

The White and Red teams played this last week. On the former were Messrs. William Goadby Loew, a veteran poloist; Robert E. Strawbridge Sr., W. Thorn Kissell and Thomas Nather. The Reds consisted of Messrs. John R. Fell Jr., H. James Van Alen, William L. Van Alen and Alexander McFadden.

Among those who have taken box reservations for the games are Miss Julia Berwind, Mrs. Moses Taylor, Mrs. J. Laurens Van Alen, Mr. and Mrs. William Goadby Loew, Mr. and Mrs. W. Thorn Kissell, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice, Dr. and Mrs. Roderick Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gould Jennings, Mrs. Walter B. them. In England similar enterprises have bicycles clustered nearby. On the continent even this aid to getting to business is not very plentiful. The day laborer usually goes afoot there or by public trams. No wonder trouble makers, soviet agents and their ilk find it rather hard going in this motor equipped land of ours!

A Restless Race.

One of the salient features of our American civilization is the restlessness it seems to breed among its citizens. To stay still is abhorrent to most of the people you and I know. While they may have preferences as to the direction they want to take in their flights, the chief desideratum is the process of motion. The principal thing to be avoided is repose. And yet it is only in repose that the soul can find itself and know life. American society is really a good deal like those little clouds of summer midgets that come in August and do nothing but jiggle, jiggle, jiggle, glittering in the sun and being wafted hither and yon by any breeze that blows, but always in mindless motion.

With this apparently uncontrollable tendency to hurry hither and yon it is unlikely that we shall develop any real national culture, any important self-expression. Our railway trains, steamships and hotels are our chief contribution to life's equipment today. Our artists, composers and writers may struggle hard to create the impression that we have culture, but as long as the majority of the men and women who make up our well to do classes are chiefly occupied in packing and unpacking their bags the former earnest workers can expect little real attention, understanding, or support.

Let no one confuse repose with stagnation. The two are quite different. You can rush heedlessly up and down the world and yet have a stagnant mind, and contrariwise, you can stay quietly at home and have an alert intelligence that never ceases functioning. This tendency to unceasing motion is a product of our enormous prosperity. We can afford trains, steamers, motor cars, yachts, airplanes, so we make endless use of them.

A Daring Adventure.

Great waves of American tourists sweep across the seas, invade [peacefully] distant and very alien lands, swarming even into the comfortless domain of the soviets, or adventuring into the insanitary solitudes of middle Asia.

The round the globe air trip of the young Vicomte and Vicomtesse de Sibour was of its kind a record breaker. The young vicomtesse was of old Chicago stock, having first seen the light here on Rush street, and being a member of the well known Buckingham family. Her paternal parent, Harry Gordon Selfridge, is a world famous figure, so she inherited the tendency to do remarkable things successfully. For this youthful pair to traverse the uncharted skies in a small moth plane and cross Europe and Asia with no guide or pilot or even an assisting engineer to valet the plane was an evidence of exceeding courage, not to say daring. Death rode on their wings. Disaster seemed more likely than success.

As if peeved at the kindness of the elements to the adventurous pair, fate visited the vicomte with an acute attack of appendicitis in central Asia, an illness that necessitated a prompt operation in Teheran, the Persian capital. This city is probably as lacking in suitable surgical necessities for such an event as any spot on the globe. It was however, successfully performed, showing that the fate that watched over them was an efficient power.

It also rescued them when their plane fell into a desolate morass in a wild country whose only inhabitants were savage tribes. The tale of their adventures vies with that of any of their famous predecessors from Sir John Mandeville and Marco Polo down through the ages. Her friends are hoping that Violette Selfridge, Vicomtesse de Sibour, will make a book out of the delightful letters which she sent back to her family from every stop along the long route.

Airplane Enthusiasts.

Two Chicagoans, Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Willett, set out lately for what might be called ultra-modern touring. On July 22 they embarked on the new Transcontinental Air Transport route for Los Angeles, Cal. Although they have traveled extensively in Europe and North and South America, they have up to now never visited California or the western coast of this country. They made a mutual vow some years ago that they would not go to that part of the continent until they could go by airplane.

They have flown about Europe by airplane, crossing the channel many times. They have visited Estes park in Colorado in a tiny plane many years ago, their doing so being all the more courageous because only the day before, on the same route, a similar little airplane had crashed to earth, breaking all the front teeth of a woman passenger.

Of the beauties she anticipates on this air trip Mrs. Willett writes: "Imagine floating on a cool cloud over the Painted Desert shimmering below in rainbow ribbons of brilliant color. Imagine passing over gigantic mountain ranges and glimpsing the magnificent Grand canyon." The enterprising pair are making a ten day stay in California and are using airplanes to take them up and down the coast and to Mexico. They will return to New York by train and airplane. They arrange to fly by day and travel by night in Pullman sleepers, as up to now the sleeping arrangements are somewhat incomplete on even the largest planes.

Mrs. Willett is particularly interested in studying California gardens, as she plans to develop the terraces on her roof bungalow at 2139 Lincoln Park West to resemble the hanging gardens of Babylon, and is told that the conditions in such gardening are more like those in a California garden than in the average enterprise of a similar kind in this part of the land. It sounds most attractive.

In this aviation tour Mr. and Mrs. Willett are pioneers, laying trails for less energetic and daring fellow citizens to follow in the course of time. Perhaps in a decade we shall all be going to the Pacific coast in planes by day and Pullmans by night. Or perhaps by that time the airplanes may have developed pleasant sleeping arrangements. The trip by air ought not to take much over twenty-five or thirty hours by then.

Races Draw to a Close.

The racing season in and around Chicago is drawing to a close. At Arlington they have had a most brilliant and successful five or six weeks. The Post and Paddock club has been the scene for many a gay party and the rest of the enclosure has been packed daily with large and enthusiastic crowds.

The races have been run according to the highest type of rules for such affairs and have attracted the country's best horseflesh and racers. Also, many prominent and well known visitors have attended these events. Vice President Curtis, who is a devotee of horse racing, has been here twice as a guest of the Arlington management. He charmed every one who met him by his genial manners and friendly air.

Stolen Hapsburg Crown Jewels Found in Africa

BUDAPEST—(AP)—The "Hapsburg Treasure," the Hungarian crown jewels which were stolen from Vienna in 1927, are reported as having turned up in French Morocco. Police of this kingdom and of France are working on the case.

A member of ex-Empress Zita's household, who followed the royal family into exile in Spain, said that these jewels should not be confused with the family jewels belonging to the late Emperor Carl. Those were dissipated, this court official said, by jewel sharks who sold them for less than their real value and squandered the proceeds, leaving Zita and her eight minor children destitute.

The jewels reported to have been found in Africa were those set in the diadem, surmounted by the crown of St. Stephen, which the late Empress Maria Theresa used to wear on special occasions in the royal palace in Budapest. According to the police report an Italian offered them for sale to a Jewish dealer at Saffi, French Morocco. The dealer informed the police and the Italian was arrested. He is said to have pleaded that he was the innocent tool of persons prominent in the social life of Austria.

Communists May Expel Famous Woman Leader

BERLIN.—(AP)—Clara Zetkin, one of the great German revolutionists, intimate friend of Rosa Luxembourg and Karl Liebknecht and once communist candidate for president of Germany, has fallen from grace and is slated to be read out of the party.

Charges have been filed against her in Moscow, the outcome of the dispute for power there which culminated in the exile of Leon Trotzy, junior partner in the firm of Lenin and Trotzky that founded the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Frau Zetkin, who is 72 years old, has been in Moscow most of the time since 1924. Although she has been a member of the German reichstag, having been elected for term after term, she seldom attended the national legislature in Berlin. When she did it was always a sign that the communists wished to put forward their most skilled tactician and their most convincing orator.

The whole Reichstag listened when Clara Zetkin spoke. Her wit and repartee were famous, her pathos [illegible] gripping.

Saratoga Is the Topic of Social Week

Racing Season Draws the Usual Throng.

By Nancy Randolph.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—[Special.]—Having opened on quite the hottest day of the season and, furthermore, with a brilliant array of equine blue-bloods, Saratoga has been the one topic in society all week.

With the town fully emptied and the most fashionable taverns and dancing places closed for the month, every one of note has departed until things cool off and brighten up. The season at Newport and Southampton is now well under way, with visits to the New York spa absolutely in order.

* *

Clubhouse Is Crowded.

Opening week at Saratoga has been unusually colorful. The picturesque clubhouse of the Saratoga Association for the Improvement of the Breed of Horses—which is quite a name—has been crowded all week with fashionable lunchers. The J. Harry Alexandres gave a large luncheon on the first day as well as one on the fourth day. Other giving luncheons this week included Mr. and Mrs. William A. Prime, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Adams, Mrs. Samuel D. Riddle, Mrs. D. Walter Mabee, Isaac Clothier of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Olcott and Mrs. Seth W. Morton.

One of the largest luncheons of the week was that given by Mrs. George Mesta, who since her acquisition of a box in the Metropolitan has been doing noble work in the way of entertaining. Quite a newcomer to the gay ranks, Mrs. Mesta has been making all New York aware of her. At her luncheon were the R. T. Wilsons, without whom no Saratoga affair is complete, since Mrs. Dicky's smile is the height of social effulgence; their daughter, Marian Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Allen Clark, George H. Bull, the ancient but far from finished beau, Vincent Serrano, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Prime, Foxhall P. Keene, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Theriot, Mrs. Vassar Baker, Gen. and Mrs. John C. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Adams, and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Clothier.

Which, as one may gather, was quite a massing of New York newcomers with the right sprinkling of social dependables.

Interest Centers on Races.

Not all the cottages have opened, but the hotels are well filled. Everything just at present centers about the track, with the night life still a bit slow, but certain to get into swing soon. Among those who were in their boxes last week were Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingston Gerry, Mr. and Mrs. William Woodward, C. K. G. Billings, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, Mr. and Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, Harry Payne Whitney, Henry Disston, Miss Elizabeth Altemas, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Biddle and Mrs. J. K. Maddux.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ziegler Jr. had guests all week in their box including Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Tweedy, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Stevens, and Mrs. Sloane Hilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart M. Don had with them Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradley of Evanston, Ill.

Vincent Astor won't have to dash back to New York at the beginning of each Newport week any more, since Helen arrived finally from abroad on Tuesday. With the Newport estate open, the Nourmahal will remain in harbor and the Astors begin their program of entertaining, which this year will be on a more lavish scale than in past years.

* *

Fewer Sportsmen Go to Scotland.

There haven't been so many of our "prominents" departing for Scotland and the north of England this summer as heretofore. Grouse shooting means not only a terrific expense, but it is likely to be a questionable pleasure for those who only like brilliant crowds and hectic partying. Where shooting is all the thing and early morning rising absolutely de rigueur, quite a lot consider the shooting parties just so much trouble.

Of course, J. P. Morgan never misses a year, having sailed several days ago, and Clarence H. Mackay must tear himself from his grandchildren and hie him to the moors—but the majority of those who two or three seasons ago thought it the proper thing to rent a shooting box have decided to stay home this year and watch the polo matches, instead.

* *

Stork Hovers Around.

The stork is hovering about the fashionable resorts. From what I learn, the John V. Bouvier III's are awaiting the arrival of the domestic bird at Easthampton, where the Bouviers are in residence.

Mrs. Bouvier was Janet Lee, a debutante of '26, and all town was thrilled when she married Black Jack Bouvier, who was supposed to be as hard hearted a bachelor as ever burned up Broadway.

However, Jack succumbed to matrimony and the young couple only recently celebrated their first wedding anniversary. Now they are to become proud parents, and the other gay bachelors of town are rather amusedly thinking of dark young Bouvier as a staid father.

Honor Joan of Arc.

CHARLEVILLE, France.—(AP)—A new church dedicated to Joan of Arc is being built here in fulfillment of a vow by local citizens that they would erect the structure if France emerged victorious from the world war and this town itself was spared from destruction.

Schact's Daughter Socialist.

HEIDELBERG.—(AP)—Miss Inge Schact, daughter of Dr. Hjalmar Schact, president of the reichsbank, and chief German delegate to the Paris reparations conference, is doing her best to destroy her father's right to private property by preaching socialism. She is six feet tall, blond, and devoted to aviation, for which she holds a pilot's license.

MRS. ROBERT L. ALLEN.

Drained Lake Reveals Galley Sunk by Romans

Italians Disappointed by Ancient Hulk.

ROME.—Caligula's galley, about which so much has been written in Italy and elsewhere, is proving a disappointment to the Italians and a source of worry to the peasants of Nemi, whose medieval city overlooks the lake in which the galley was sunk.

Now that several million gallons have been drained from what was till recently the most beautiful lake near Rome, the hulk has appeared in all its dilapidation. Its worn beams, entirely bare of those ornaments of marble, copper and mosaic that were described with such glowing color, have been kept together only by the mud of the bottom of the lake. Now that they have been exposed to the sun, they are in danger of crumbling away altogether, and the two firms that have undertaken its salvage at their own expense hastily had it boarded up, while continuing pumping operations, though on a reduced scale, as the rapid pumping of the last six months not only caused landslips, but may throw the beams of the hulk apart altogether.

Hope to Reconstruct Galley.

Archeologists and antiquarians are not so disappointed as the general public, nor do they share the anger of the Nemi peasants, whose famous strawberry beds, which used to reach to the water's edge, are damaged by the withdrawal of moisture and the frequent landslides.

They point out that, once the water is drained from the galley's keel, and the cooler weather makes it possible to remove the boarding, it will be simple enough to remove the hulk beam by beam and "reconstruct" it on the shores of the lake, where a small museum is to be built for its reception.

Whether the operation will solve the riddle of how galleys of ancient Rome were propelled remains to be seen. Former attempts to save this one did more harm than good. Large quantities of wood taken from it were sold for fuel, and the better parts made into "keepsakes," such as snuff boxes and walking sticks.

Emperor Is Playful.

As to the precious marbles and bronzes with which the barges were covered, local rumor has it that the Emperor Caligula, being in a playful mood, sunk the boats on purpose, with his friends on board to see what they would do when in danger of drowning, but carefully had everything of value removed. The discovery of a large wolf's head in copper, a few tiles and some long copper nails does not entirely refute this legend, for the heads were used as figureheads, and the tiles may have covered a cabin. One head, evidently the twin of that found near the hulk recently, has been in Terme museum in Rome for some years. The copper nails were purely ornamental, as experts who examined the hulk found the beams were kept together by dovetailing one into the other.

Now that the barge near the shore has proved disappointing, archeologists' hopes are centered on the one further out which, they say, will be in better condition, as neither peasants nor relic hunters could get at it so easily. But the two firms who are undertaking their salvage for purely patriotic reasons have already spent over 1,500,000 liras [$75,000] against an estimated 200,000 liras [$10,000]. And it is not certain that they will be able to attack the second vessel, which would prove even more costly. The estimate was that both would be laid bare by next October.

Free in September.

As it is, the one that has partly emerged will not be quite freed until September. Delays were caused by heavy winter rains, which filled up the lake as fast as electric pumps drained it. Landslides, which made it necessary to remove the pumps to safer places, and eventually to floats, specially constructed in armoured cement, combined with the danger of pumping too fast once the water receded from part of the hulk, added to the other troubles.

But no doubt the archeologists will manage a wonderful "reconstruction," and nobody will be able to prove that it is not a true conception of an ancient Roman pleasure barge. As to the peasants, they will get compensation, and in time the lake will fill up to its old level.

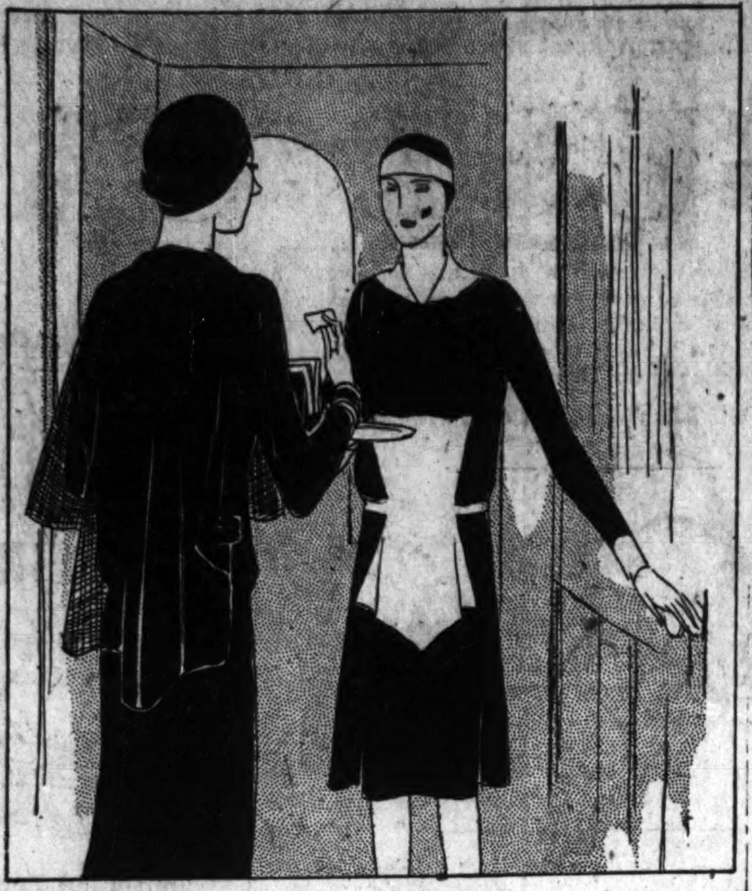
The Etiquette of the Visiting Card

Convention Has Definite Rules About Its Form and Its Social Uses

It is the aim of this department to serve as a practical guide in problems of every day etiquette. Self-addressed, stamped envelope must accompany each request for information. Send your letters to Miss Helen Bartlett, Sunday Department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

By Helen Bartlett.



A VISITING card is, in a sense, the social representative of the person whose name it bears. It is left as evidence of one person's presence in the house of another; it may serve as witness to the fact that one person regrets his inability to be present in the house of another; it can be the bearer of congratulatory or condoling messages and it has almost entirely taken the place of the written invitation to informal parties. It is even used as indorsement in giving an order.

Fashions in cards, as in everything else, change from time to time. When making a selection, therefore, it is advisable to consult with a good stationer. One of the best sets seen this year was on thin but substantial ivory colored paper, glazed, and with a margin of a quarter of an inch. The man's card measured 3 by 1½, the woman's 3 by 2 inches, and the double card for Mr. and Mrs., 3½ by 2½. Occasionally on this double card one finds a flap on the back, free of engraving, on which messages may be written.

Simple Type Is Correct.

No ornamentation is permissible on visiting cards and the type should never be fancy. To be unquestionably correct initials should never be engraved on cards, but this whim of convention is disregarded more often than not, since it sometimes entails discarding a cherished name, even though of awkward length.

A widow, like a married woman, uses her husband's full name, preceded by "Mrs." She is never Mrs. Sarah Blank, always "Mrs. John Blank." A divorcée usually retains her husband's family name and on her cards precedes it with her maiden surname. To illustrate: The card of Mary Smith, who married Mr. Jones and subsequently divorced him, reads "Mrs. Smith Jones."

When "Jr." is used on a young man's card it in no way takes the place of "Mr." His card reads "Mr. John Smith Jr.," and his wife's "Mrs. John Smith Jr." If "Jr." is spelled out the capital J is not used.

The cards of a young girl after she is 16 always have "Miss" before her name. A boy puts "Mr." on his card when he leave school. Incidentally, nicknames must never appear.

The double card is used for formal visits and as an enclosure with wedding presents, flowers or any gift.

* *

When Cards Are Sent.

If you do not intend to go to a tea or an "at home" to which you have been invited, cards are mailed to the hostess so as to arrive the morning of the entertainment. If you have received an invitation to a wedding reception [which did not have r. s. s. v. p. on it] and cannot attend, you send cards to the mother and father of the bride and another set to the bride and bridegroom.

Like a great many other social customs, punctilious visiting and card leaving have been reduced to the simplest demands of politeness but there are circumstances when even the most indifferent to social obligations must leave cards.

When They Should Be Left.

Etiquette absolutely demands that one leave a card within a few days after taking a first meal in a house. After one has been invited for the first time to lunch or dine with strangers it is rude not to leave a card, whether or not one has accepted the invitation. A first call must be returned, even though you do not care to continue the acquaintance, and on this occasion you must leave a card. Cards are also left as an indication of the new relationship when an engagement takes place in one's family or as a courtesy to a newcomer such as a bride or a stranger whom one wishes to welcome.

When calling on "at home" days cards are left. Incidentally, cards are left on a tray or handed to a servant, never handed to one's hostess. A card is left for the hostess when one calls on a woman guest in her house. A man, calling on a man guest, leaves cards for both host and hostess.

Any one acting as arbiter in matters of etiquette is invariably asked one important question about card leaving. This is what are the rules regarding the number of cards left?

Well, the underlying idea is that women visit women only and men visit both men and women. When leaving cards, therefore, a woman leaves hers for the woman or women in the house and her husband's for both the men and women of the family. If the hostess has guests whom one knows or has been asked to meet, the procedure is the same. A widow leaves her card for women only.

* *

Accompanying Gifts.

In using cards with a gift of remembrance they may remain as formal as they are, but if any message is written on them, the sender crosses off the Mr., Mrs., or Miss. In this gesture of friendship one does not refer to himself or herself by title.

The paying of visits and leaving of cards seems to worry young brides and young married women going to live in new places. In smaller places one is apt to have need of knowledge of these things but in our present day large cities calls on brides and new neighbors are very rare, unless the bride or new neighbor is known, directly or indirectly to the older residents. In city life one has neither time, space, nor leisure to cultivate the society of one's fellow men. This should not be misinterpreted as unfriendliness or neglect—it is merely one of the exigencies of city life.

London's Swains May Lose Sunday Trysting Place

LONDON.—(AP)—Sunday on the Thames, for years the standby of London swains who have leisurely punted their ladies fair up and down the calm waters and parked them at the bank under conveniently overhanging trees, is threatened with extinction as a recreational institution.

A proposal to drain the river, dig an auxiliary channel, and cut away various islands, shoulders, and corners of land at a cost of $1,500,000 has been approved by the works committee of the Thames conservators.

"If the proposal is carried out," said Basil Holmes, representing the board of trade, "the river as we know it will no longer exist. For the surface of the river will be between high banks. Instead of seeing the countryside over the banks those on the river will be below them."

Representatives of various towns along the upper reaches of the river and the Barge Owners' association supported Holmes in his opposition, arguing that the dredging and enlargement of the river would be detrimental to industry as well as pleasure.

Dawes Tells Way to Court Success

LONDON.—(AP)—Gen. Dawes explained at a dinner the other night how he "the least experienced diplomat that has ever been to the Court of St. James's" solved his problems of diplomatic etiquette.

"I just follow the lead of the Japanese ambassador, who is my senior here," he explained. "When he speaks, I speak, and when he bows, I bow."

Tourists Seek to Escape Sun in Catacombs

Relief Found Amid Bones Centuries Old.

PARIS.—[U. P.]—The Catacombs of Paris, cool and dark, have just been opened for the summer season and tourists from all nations of the world are flocking there on hot Saturday afternoons.

There are more than 6,000,000 pieces of skeletons in this strange issuary of the underground. There seems to be nothing but bones, bones, bones, skulls and more bones, arranged in fantastic patterns. Patterns made from tibias, femurs, fibulae, humeri and skulls with empty eyes that grin sardonically at curious passersby.

It is the land of the dead, yet the traffic of Paris roars above it. The tourists must enter at the Place Denfert-Rochereau. After descending a narrow stairway, they suddenly find themselves in the midst of the Catacombs of Paris, which once were old Roman quarries. Guides with flickering candles then wind them through murky passages lined with bones, some perhaps a thousand years old.

* *

Many Bones Mingled.

These bones are from old Paris cemeteries done away with to make room for the living. The first collection was made in 1786 from the cemetery of the Innocents where many of its dead had been buried 800 years before. Some had died from plagues; and the skeleton remains of lepers are mingled with the bones of nuns and monks, ancient nobles and serfs.

The last lot to be deposited in the Catacombs was in 1814. By that time practically all of the old burial grounds about Paris had been cleared away. Today there is no room for more bones in the Catacombs.

* *

Tour Takes Hour.

American college boys and girls are in the majority among the tourists who visit the Catacombs of Paris on Saturday afternoon, for they are only open to the public once a week during the summer months and not at all during the winter time. Greek letters of university fraternities are carved with a penknife on some of the tombs and along the stony walls.

Special precaution is taken to prevent any souvenirs being carried away by collectors of curiosities. Often visitors attempt to slip a tiny bone from some ghastly pile into the pockets or handbags.

As a rule the tour of the Catacombs is made in an hour. But if the day is extremely hot there is a tendency to linger half an hour longer in the damp atmosphere of the dead of past centuries.

Sunburn Found to Be Best Cure for Sunburn

BOSTON, Mass.—[U. P.]—Sunburn, caused by overexposure to the sun's rays, can be cured by exposure to the same rays, according to the Boston physiotherapy clinic.

Doctors attached to the clinic report that the infra-red ray is the best antidote for sunburn, which results from exposure to the ultra-violet ray. Out of 60 test cases, they say, 47 needed only one treatment, and the others responded to two treatments.

MRS. THEODORE E. BACH.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Freese of 4928 North Damen avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruth Irene, to Theodore E. Bach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bach of 7415 Sheridan road. After Aug. 1 they will reside at 2016 Estes avenue.

19th Hole of New U. S. Golf Club in Canada

PORT FAIRFIELD, Me.—What could be more refreshing after a red-hot round of golf in the country that Mr. Volstead made dry than to step over the boundary into the king's Canada and at the "nineteenth hole" enjoy a cold bottle of not-so-near beer or a drink of the forbidden fluids?

The most unique country club in the United States which recently opened has this unheard of feature for American golfers.

It is the Aroostook Valley Country club, at the northern extremity of the territory where United States Senator Arthur R. Gould recently rebelled against the eighteenth amendment.

The course is nine holes, all in Fort Fairfield, Me., and the clubhouse is but a few yards over the line in the wet belt.

Members will be able to stand on the porch, toss a cigaret into American territory and then retreat to the locker room where they can enjoy absolute freedom with any alcoholic beverage that may appeal to their palates.

Not only will the Aroostook Valley "green pounders" be privileged to drink what they please, but there will be no custom or immigration official at their heels when they motor to the club for a day on the green. The club has arranged for parking space on the Maine side of the line. No report to immigration officials will be necessary unless a machine is driving across the boundary, George Baltch, professional at the club, declared.

The Aroostook Valley golfers have taken steps to guard their unusual privileges. They have limited the membership to 150. This number, they believe, will be sufficient to provide a real club spirit.

Dan Haines, Aroostook county "potato king," is secretary and treasurer of the club.

They Were Mothballs.

I work in my brother's drug store and have a great habit of picking up a piece of candy and sticking it into my mouth, especially mints which we keep in a large jar.

The other day a young man, with whom I have gone only twice, was talking to me at the counter. I was trying to appear nonchalant and I reached into a jar and took out a "mint" at the same time proffering one to him. I had failed to notice that I was at the other counter and that these were mothballs. I had popped mine in my mouth, but, thank heaven, he had not. And from the way I acted I guess he thought at first I had taken poison. I never want a more embarrassing moment.

E. L. R.

It Was a Neighbor.

My husband was convalescing after a long illness. Coming across the lawn one evening I saw him industriously wielding a spade. I ran up behind him and threw one arm across his bent shoulders and reached for the spade and begged, "Please don't do that, sweetheart, it's too hard for you."

It was our new neighbor who turned and looked at me with astonishment. He had been digging at the very edge of his unfenced lot where it joined ours.

H. I. H.

Made It a Duet.

Last summer a series of revival meetings were held in a tent not far from my home town. I decided to attend; the service was to be in the Swedish language. As I came close I heard them singing an old familiar hymn within, but the singing lacked the usual pep. I thought to myself—it's strange, just because it's Swedish they are afraid to sing out—I hadn't more than got seated before I started to sing out at the top of my voice.

All eyes turned my direction and the girl seated next to me poked me in the side but still I sang on.

It wasn't until the pastor stopped and said, smilingly, "I wish to thank our dear sister for helping me out so wonderfully," that I realized the situation. He had been singing a solo and—I had made it a duet.

In the Feminine Realm

Mrs. Sigourney Thayer, the former Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, is beginning a literary career as a reader in a publishing firm in New York City.

In Tibet, according to Prof. Nicholas Roerich, the women have more energy than the males, and are better business dealers. The male seldom has more than one wife and a wife often has five husbands.

Beware of Him Who Warns of Card Sharpers

He May Be One of Ocean-Going Gang Himself.

PARIS.—[U. P.]—If you are coming to Europe, watch out for the man aboard the liner who warns you of the tricks of the card sharpers who haunt the tran-Atlantic giants. Most likely he is one of the gang himself and has picked you out as his pigeon.

This is a favorite opening for the card sharper, according to the French police, who each year have more and more complaints from Americans debarking at Cherbourg who have been swindled during the voyage. It is estimated also that perhaps 50 per cent of the passengers who are swindled are ignorant of the fact, believing they lost their money fairly.

Police Coöperate.

Recently the French Surate-Generale and Scotland Yard got together to try to curb the activities of the trans-Atlantic crooks, but it is a hard job. In the first place, the shipping companies do not want detectives to travel aboard their vessels, since if passengers found out they would probably tell their friends and the ships would gain a bad reputation.

Most of the shipping companies know the prominent card sharpers. This is understood, as these crooks spend the season traveling between the United States and Europe. But the shipowners are unable to interfere, for two reasons. First, they have no definite proof and they would hate to take a chance; secondly, the fear of creating bad publicity again holds good here.

Blackmailed of $5,000.

It is known that some card sharps travel all the year round on the Atlantic route, devoting their attentions in the winter to big men of business going to Europe. Other crooks change about, going down to Havana in the winter, or even working the Pacific until business brightens on the Atlantic. The Atlantic trip, however, is more favored, since the voyage is shorter, enabling the crook to skip ashore at Cherbourg with his loot before the ship gets too hot to hold him.

Nor are card sharps the only pests. He is only one of a variety of parasites who make the big ships their business field. When the tourist season opened this year a rich New Yorker was swindled by blackmailers to the tune of $5,000. He had made the acquaintance of a good looking girl who invited herself to a cocktail party in his cabin, and then along came the husband unexpectedly. The business man paid to keep things quiet.

Chicago Churches Respond to the New in Architecture

By the Rev. John Evans.

THE fifth official directory of the Chicago Church federation, which is just published, presents an interesting survey of the way in which Chicago churches have responded to the new spirit in church architecture. It has been said that the older utilitarian spirit in the building of churches has all but passed, and that the present day is a period of transition into a form which will permit architecture to enter the pulpit with the preacher as a teacher and guide to devotions.

Fathers of American Protestantism, as they faced the vast expansion of church life across the country with the rapid changes demanded by migrations of people, found it necessary to build for utility. They needed places where congregations could assemble and where religious instruction could be given. Promotion, or as they would have said, evangelization, was the great word. Promotion is concerned with utility, and utility to the church leader, the evangelist, the missionary, meant a place where people could meet in large numbers, where Sunday schools could be conducted, and where social activities could be carried on.

Architectural form was secondary, and justly so. Peter Cartwright and other famous preachers of the past would have made themselves ridiculous by advocating perpendicular or Tudor Gothic structures for their promotion of the Gospel. Promotion was their one job and they did it well with useful but plain or even ugly church buildings.

The need of beauty enters when the function of the churches passed out of the purely promotional field and when the added duty of conserving the results of past promotion is needed. The churches of today need not only to promote, but they must also conserve. The beauty of spirit and promotional zeal of early fathers of American church life are being conserved and held for contemporary inspiration in the vaulted ceilings and lofty towers of the churches which are being built today. History is repeating itself. Amos, the prophet promoter from among the herdsmen of Tekoa, is always succeeded, sooner or later, by the prophet-conserver Ezekiel and a vaulted temple.

The new Wilmette Methodist Episcopal church represents the spirit of conservation as well as promotion. The Church federation directory describes the great Gothic edifice as a "temple fit for the human spirit in its grandeur, where instinctively the voice is lowered to a whisper, and where men remove their hats."

The Wilmette church is perhaps the largest and most elaborate Protestant church to be erected in the Chicago area during the last year. The Church federation directory states that its cost exceeded $400,000. Another church erected during the last year represents the new spirit in church architecture in the use of a modernized English gothic. At a cost of nearly $250,000, the members of the Des Plaines Congregational parish have made a notable contribution to the city's churches.

The United Evangelical Lutheran church, Greenfield and Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, is another of the recent additions noted in the new directory as representative of the new spirit. The style of architecture is described as early decorated English Gothic with low aisles and high clerestory. While it is traditional in design, the edifice is adapted to a congregation that not only comes to worship, but also to hear the preaching of the Word.

Other new churches completed or under construction which show the late development are the Grace English Lutheran church of La Grange, the Western Springs Congregational, Villa Park Community, Wilmette Evangelical Luthern, Eden Evangelical Lutheran, 4943 Ainslie avenue, Bishop Charles P. Anderson Memorial chapel of Western Theological seminary at Evanston, Grace Episcopal, 1422 Indiana avenue, St. Philip's Evangelical Lutheran, Bryn Mawr and Campbell street, Evangelical Lutrehan Church of Peace, 5944 Cullom avenue, St. Stephen's Evangelical Luthern, 2620 North Kildare avenue, Glen Ellyn Presbyterian, Nazareth Evangelical Lutheran, 60th street and Spaulding avenue, St. Michael's and All Angel's Episcopal, Berwyn; St. Alban's Episcopal, Norwood Park; First Methodist Episcopal, Glen Ellyn; Westwood Evangelical Lutheran, Elmwood Park; Northminster Presbyterian, Evanston; First Presbyterian, Evanston; Humboldt Park Evangelical Luthern, the Mayfair Presbyterian church and Bethany Evangelical Lutheran, Naperville.

Episcopal church headquarters, which have been located in the Tower building at Madison street and Michigan avenue for severay years, are to be moved the latter part of this month to 664 Rush street, according to an announcement from the office of Bishop C. P. Anderson. The headquarters will occupy a four story structure which is part of the St. James' cathedral properties on the near north side.

Removal to the new location, it is said, will concentrate the activities of the diocese and the cathedral parish to a larger extent. The Rush street building is being remodeled at the present time to accommodate the church headquarters.

Use Exotic Foods in Armchair Tour

PARIS—(AP)—Instead of making "arm chair tours" with the aid of travel books, Parisian members of the Société d'Acclimatation have made their annual gastronomic tour of the world. Once a year the organization gives a luncheon composed of exotic dishes in order to permit untraveled members to taste the foods of far places.

The menus include such unusual delicacies as bird-nest soup, sharks fins, camel hump, whale steak and bear sirloin. This year's luncheon began with Chinese sausage, composed of pork and soy bean cheese perfumed with attar of roses.

Brazilian fish ragout was the next dish, followed by Bokhara wild sheep served with sweet potatoes and grass from Madagascar. Pig liver with sauce of Brazilian sweetmeat and soured milk from Kirghiz, in Turkestan, completed the menu.

NEWS OF CHURCHES

WALTER R. MEE.

As the executive secretary of the Chicago Church federation during the last ten years, Walter R. Mee has guided the federation's work through a development which, in terms of budget, has grown from a small agency with expenditures of $4,000 in 1918 to one which will require more than $50,000 to carry on its work during the coming year. The federation is engaged in "laboratory work," according to Secretary Mee. The laboratory is Chicago.

"In quietness and simplicity the Chicago Church federation is doing its laboratory work in developing ways to win the restless giant metropolis to God," Mee stated. "Like scientists who toil steadily and patiently, unmindful of whether the multitudes acclaim them or not, at the task which eventually will provide better living conditions for multitudes, or even revolutionize civilization itself, so its program for meeting the spiritual needs of harassed and needy millions moves noiselessly but surely forward."

The 58th convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of America will be held in Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 5-7, according to an announcement by Mary C. Carney of the Illinois headquarters of the union. The convention sermon will be preached by Father Francis Duffy, well known A. E. F. chaplain, and the session will be held under the patronage of Bishop Conroy of the diocese of Ogdensburg.

A number of Chicago members of the union will attend. The Chicago delegation plans to visit the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupré, near Quebec en route. The fact that Pope Pius XI has stipulated temperance as the intention for August in the Apostleship of Prayer, a world-wide agency of the Catholic church, makes August the opportune month for conventions of the union.

Announcement is made of the dedication of the Father Wright memorial altar in the chapel of the new Grace Episcopal church at St. Luke's hospital. The altar is a memorial given by the alumnæ association of St. Luke's Training school and friends to commemorate the years of work at the hospital on the part of the late chaplain. The altar is at the west end of the north aisle of the new church.

The cornerstone of the new Sunday school and parsonage annex of the First Congregational church of Naperville was laid last Sunday with fitting ceremonies and an address by the Rev. O. L. Kiplinger of Glen Ellyn, according to an announcement by the pastor, the Rev. Earl F. Collins. The new building has been the objective of the congregation during the six years of the Rev. Mr. Collins' pastorate. The new building will be of Gothic design and a cloister will connect the new building to the church. Ten classrooms and a large assembly hall is provided on the first floor and the second floor will be given over to an apartment for the pastor.

A complete new set of furnishings for the offices and parish house of St. Edmund's Episcopal [colored] church, 5831 Indiana avenue, has just been installed. Most of the furnishings were the gift of L. Binberg of the Fish Furniture company. The remaining articles were purchased by the parish and include a new electric radio installed in the parish hall for recreational purposes.

The new furnishings were formally presented and dedicated at a parish dinner and celebration Thursday night of this last week. Dr. Edwin J. Randall, diocesan secretary, the Rev. Joseph Higgins, the Rev. Samuel J. Martin, rector of the parish, and Mr. Binberg were the speakers.

The Rev. George McGinnis of La Grange, president of the American Saxon federation, will be the preacher today at the First Baptist church of Racine. His subject will be "Dew and Lion."

The regular August meeting of the St. Matthew's branch of the Holy Name society has been announced for Thursday evening, Aug. 8, and will be held in St. Matthew's auditorium. John J. Brown, president of the bowling league, will read a report, and plans for fall and winter activities will be presented by Chairman Henry W. Udine of the entertainment committee.

Claude Buck Paintings on View

Institute Has Fine Exhibition of Artist's Work

Critic Rates Him Among Ablest Men.

By Eleanor Jewett.

THE exhibition of paintings by Claude Buck, now to be seen in one of the galleries of the east wing of the Art institute, provides us with a great many pleasurable sensations. Mr. Buck is a young man. He is a Chicago artist who has studied abroad and he is one of the sincerest individualists working in paint today.

Much of his earlier painting was mythical; a great deal of it was religious. Beauty generally marked his paintings which were small in size, and a curious manner particular to him stamped them all. He has not outgrown the manner though he has widened the scope of his subjects. You can tell a Claude Buck picture by its mellow color, by its effective use of simplicity in arrangement, by a certain smooth surface and cushioned texture. His work is practically unmistakable, once you have learned it. He maintains as a constant a high level of romantic conception and finished painting; he never lets his audience down.

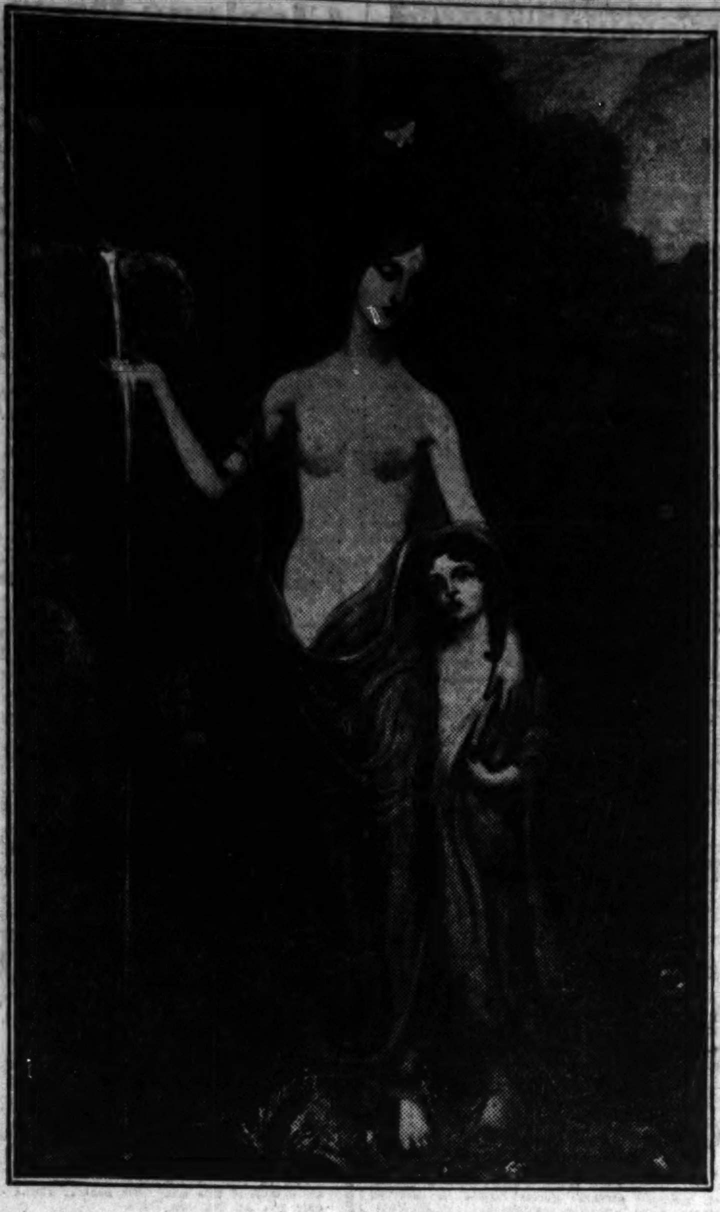
Representative Collection.

In the present exhibit nearly all of his favorite subjects for paintings are illustrated. We find portraits of himself and his family; paintings of Biblical scenes; paintings of simple homelike episodes; paintings of dramatic incident, and paintings that hang on nothing more real than the silver slit of a new moon and yet are possessed with a beauty that is deathless.

His "Self-Portrait" is an interesting piece of work in exact reproduction and so is the magnificent "Family Portrait." We find here that curious waxen perfection of the flesh tones which verges sometimes upon the extreme. The richness of the details and the unswerving faithfulness of their portrayal make the "Family Portrait" an arrangement for leisurely consumption.

"The White Horse," "The Crescent Moon" and the "Lady in Green" are all exquisite little poems. They have the same fragile and lilting beauty as has the butterfly that brushes the rose in erratic flight. A similar timid beauty, more quiet in its expression, is found in the charming paintings of mother and child. There is the "Mother and Child" itself, and then there is the delightful "Morning Bath" and the interior on the farther wall that concerns itself, to the best of my memory, with warmth and love and supper and the homecoming urchin.



"SPRING IDYL," by Claude Buck, to be found in his one-man show current in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. Mr. Buck has been given an entire gallery for his paintings and he has contrived an exhibit of rare beauty. Symbolism and straight painting rub shoulders and both gain by the contact. The exhibition will continue into the fall.

In strong contrast to these is the dramatic and vivid "Volga Boatmen." Those straining heads tell many stories. And again there is contrast when we look at the paintings in which Christ is the theme. Mr. Buck visualizes the various scenes in a tender and beautiful way. A sort of glorified mist hangs like a thin curtain between them and the world. For instance, consider that "One of you shall betray me." Christ in the midst of his closest friends is yet alone and the figures are as much apart from this world as they are of it. The "Entombment" is another beautiful painting, and much of the horror has been taken from the crucifixion by the simple expedient of turning the cross with its back to us. The horror is lessened, but the sorrow is as great, that and the dramatic suspense of a world in chaos while the King is treacherously, cruelly and most foully murdered.

Generous Offer to Artists.

A special display of water colors by J. Vavak is now being shown at the Theater club, 1358 North Clark street. The exhibit is open to the public every evening after 7 o'clock. The collection includes still life and landscape. This little gallery is making a generous offer to the artists of Chicago to exhibit their work in turn. Any who are interested may call Diversey 10240.

To Hang in Governor's Mansion.

J. F. Cornelius, president of the Illinois Academy of Fine Arts, has sent in several interesting announcements. The academy has sold for one of its members, Lucie Hartrath, an oil painting by her, entitled "Autumn in the Hills." Gov. Louis L. Emmerson bought the picture for the governor's mansion, where it now hangs. "At the Movies," by Gregory Orloff, was sold to a prominent business man in Springfield.

The exhibition held by the Illinois Academy of Fine Arts has just closed in the state art gallery in the Centennial building at Springfield, but it is being continued at the Springfield state fair. The purchase prize jury will soon make its report and the list of prize winners will then be announced. Prizes amounting to about $10,000 in all will be distributed.

Last Gift of Mrs. Rosenwald.

The Art institute has announced the gift of $50,000, unrestricted as to principal and income, from the late Mrs. Julius Rosenwald. Mrs. Rosenwald had been for many years a constant friend to the Art institute, contributing each year since 1912 a sum sufficient to purchase for the public schools of Chicago a painting from the annual Chicago Artists exhibit. Recently the rare and valuable gift of the Muesham collection of glass, comprising one half of this magnificent German collection, was received by the Art institute from Mr. and Mrs. Rosenwald and is now installed in Gunsaulus hall.

The other half of this collection was acquired by the Metropolitan Museum of New York. It has no equal in the United States and includes work of the finest kind from the glass workers of Austria, Germany and Holland, of the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries. The most recent gift of Mrs. Rosenwald, the money gift, is especially appreciated by the trustees of the Art institute and its intrinsic value is greatly enhanced, because of the wise way in which it was given, unrestricted as to the use to which it may be put.

Old Castle with Ghost Tradition Is Up for Sale

LONDON.—[U. P.]—Hurstmonceux castle, famous as one of the most beautiful buildings in the south of England, has been offered for sale here. It is a mellow red brick stronghold, built by Sir Roger Fiennes in 1440.

The castle is part of the estate of Col. Claude Lowther, who spent $1,000,000 on its restoration. The majestic entrance, with towers 84 feet high on either side, has been much admired.

Who Started 18 Day Diet?

WASHINGTON, D. C.—[U. P.]—Harm may result from the indiscriminate use by young girls and others of special diets without consulting a physician, the United States public health service has announced in commenting on the current 18-day diet fad.

"The best way to reduce," the service said, "is to eat less of your regular diet without leaving out any of the essential items of body-building food. A simple reduction in the amount a person consumes will have effective results and can do no harm.

"In special dieting systems where certain essential foods are eliminated from the menu for a certain period, harm may result to persons who are not robust or who need a well-balanced and wholesome diet. Special diets should not be adopted without consulting a physician."

The origin of the ubiquitous "18-day diet" is in doubt. It has been claimed without any apparent justification that the régime was originated in Hollywood by a specialist called in to remove tonnage from a movie queen. There were other reports, later denied vehemently, that the diet was sponsored by Ethel Barrymore, by the celebrated Mayo clinic, and by a prominent Viennese physician.

There is a suspicion, too, that the diet is the work of an acute press agent for a citrus growers' organization. The frequency with which grapefruit and oranges appear accounts for this theory.

At any rate the results of the diet are at variance. Some dieters have lost as much as a pound a day; others have gained weight. The general average, however, seems to be a loss of nine or ten pounds. Deleterious effects of the diet noticed in some cases include acidosis and an attack of boils.

By now there are several versions of the diet, although all are basically the same.

Italy's Aviation Growth Revealed

ROME.—(AP)—The cruise of 35 big Italian bombing planes to the eastern Mediterranean and the Black sea, and the annual report of Gen. Italo Balbo, undersecretary for aeronautics, have combined to reveal again Italy's astonishing growth in aviation.

The country of Ferrarin and Del Prete and Maj. de Bernardi now occupies one of the chief levels in European military aviation strata, only a little behind France, ahead of Germany, and the equal of England.

Within the last year several new lines, land and water, have been opened. Overcoming her geographical difficulties — namely, a mountainous backbone running down her long torso —Italy is connecting all her major cities with passenger and mail lines.

Local newspapers print time tables of the airlines as they do the schedules of the railroads. Nine lines run out of Rome, north, east, south and west, across land and across water. Every day a seaplane starts from Ostia, Rome's old seaport, and flies across the Tyrrhenian sea to the island of Sardinia. Every day another plane arrives from the island. From the same point seaplanes leave for the long flight up the coast to Columbus' city, Genoa. In the same direction seaplanes depart for Barcelona, Spain, and fly along the Ligurian coast, past celebrated Monte Carlo and Nice; or in the opposite direction to Naples, Palermo, and Tripoli, in north Africa. Land planes take off from the Littorio field, a few miles away, for Milan, Venice and Vienna, or Bologna.

Mausoleum for Polish Hero.

TARNOW, Poland.—(AP)—The ashes of Gen. Joseph Bem, who was born here in 1795 and participated in Napoleon's 1812 campaign against Moscow, have been brought from Aleppo, where he died, and placed in a mausoleum erected in a public park.

Czar Ferdinand Honored.

BAYREUTH.—(AP)—This city, home of the annual Wagnerian festivals, has bestowed an honorary citizenship upon Ferdinand, ex-czar of Bulgaria.

Put Beggars to Work.

MEXICO CITY.—(AP)—Five thousand beggars infest the streets here, a police census showed. The authorities are rounding up the able bodied mendicants and putting them to work.

For the 2 "little meals" serve this delicious food-beverage

CHILDREN need extra energy in mid-morning and mid-afternoon. Schools and hospitals recognize this. And many of them have found in Clicquot Club Golden ginger ale the perfect tonic food for these little meals.

Its "invert" sugar gives almost instant energy. Its double carbonation, mellow syrups made from pure fruit juices, and the abundance of liquid help to regulate the system. And Clicquot Club Golden makes mealtime appetites actually better!

Mellow aged flavor at no extra cost

Ageing brings out the mellow bouquet found only in Clicquot Club and makes it quicker, easier to digest. You cannot get such flavor and goodness in ordinary ginger ales. Moreover, they are not so economical to use.

For Clicquot Club Golden costs no more, ounce for ounce, than "near quarts" of ordinary ginger ale. And so much of the content of a bulky "near-quart" bottle may "go flat" and be wasted.

So remember to get Clicquot Club Golden. It comes only in clean new bottles, full-measure 16-ounce pints. That is the right size in which to buy ginger ale. Order in twos, sixes, dozens, or by the case. Ask your dealer for Clicquot Club Golden.

• • •

NOTE: If you like a "dry" ginger ale rather than the "golden" flavor, ask for Clicquot Pale Dry. For an extra dry ginger ale, ask for Clicquot Club Sec.

For Your Pleasure

CANADA. CANADA.

Canada is Calling You!

IF a cool, pine-laden breeze blew down out of Canada to your hot city, would you follow it back to its northland home? A short train journey and then — you embark on a luxuriously appointed steamer to sail down the St. Lawrence River. All the historic grandeur of old French Canada is crowded upon its shores.

You see the jewelled Thousand Islands and shoot the series of eight roaring rapids to Montreal. This is a prelude to the sterner beauty of the rugged Laurentian Mountains that follow the river from Quebec City to thrust their stupendous, rocky heads into the black waters of the mysterious Saguenay.

Murray Bay, where the fashionable Manoir Richelieu operates its own superb golf links and Tadoussac, with its comfortable hotel and trout fishing camps — are ports of call.

IMPORTANT—Our ships sail from the head of the Great Lakes down the St. Lawrence River, through the Saguenay Canyon, nearly 2000 miles of beauty and grandeur. The river varies from roaring rapids to a vast expanse of blue water 18 miles wide. Steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or at Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

The Greatest Two-Week Vacation Trip Ever Offered

Circle Tour East

Through the Switzerland of America

In America's finest Motor Coaches—equipped with washroom and lavatory, high back deep-cushioned seats and ice water containers. The most comfortable and easy riding cars ever built.

If you are fed up on the "usual" tour offerings, here's a two weeks' vacation trip that will thrill you—it has that romantic "something" we call adventure, it has scenic beauty, real natural scenery, points of historical interest and many other things that no other vacation suggestion has to offer.

NEXT TOUR August 4th* and Weekly Thereafter

Every minute will be an interesting one. You'll enjoy the picturesque Irish Hills, the trip across romantic Canada, and your visit to that never-to-be-forgotten wonder Niagara Falls. You'll love the Thousand Islands, the forested ranges of Adirondacks, beautiful Lake Placid and you'll be thrilled with your visit to Ausable Chasm and your trip across Lake Champlain. Your journey through the Green and White Mountains, over the Berkshire Trail, through the Berkshires, along the Hudson River, on the Storm King Highway, over the Poconos, through the Delaware Water Gap and Watkins Glen, will provide scenes you'll never forget and things to talk about, for the rest of your life. And Gloucester—you'll never forget your half day on romantic Cape Ann, you'll enjoy Salem, the witch city, and you'll never forget your visit to Marblehead, that brine-drenched town by the sea.

Then there's a day in Boston—two full days and three glorious nights in New York—with a heavenly night and an enchanted day at Alexandria Bay, and the grand climax—a trip across Lake Erie.

All of these scenic thrills are packed into the greatest vacation trip ever offered, the result of six years of successful operation and experience.

Your Dinner Guests Will Be Cooler If Entertained at Chicago's Morrison Hotel

HARRY C. MOIR
PRES. & GEN. MGR.
"THE MAN BACK OF THE INSTITUTION"

The New Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel—46 stories high with 3,400 rooms.

DINING IN THE ROSE ROOM, MORRISON HOTEL

Tallest Hotel in the World Most Central in Chicago

UNLESS your home dining room is artificially cooled, your August dinner parties will be far more enjoyable if you invite your guests to the Morrison Hotel.

A Stream of Chilled Air

A special cooling plant supplies refrigerated air to the dining rooms. In addition, you will be delighted at the resourcefulness of the Morrison chefs in preparing the most tempting menus to suit the warm season.

Private Rooms of All Sizes

Even an intimate party of a very few guests can be admirably accommodated here. Movable partitions make the space readily adjustable in the Rose Room and other rooms. A very popular alternative is to entertain parties in the luxuriously cool "dine-and-dance" Terrace Garden.

1944 Rooms, $2.50 Up

The singularly low room rates at the Morrison are due to the central location, which makes subrentals so valuable that they pay all the ground rent, and rooms are therefore rented at $2.50 to $5 that would cost $5 to $8 elsewhere.

Every Room With Bath

All rooms are outside, with bath, running ice water, bed-head lamp, telephone and Servidor, which assures absolute privacy. Every floor has its housekeeper, and all guests enjoy garage privileges.

YOUNG EVANSTONIANS PASSING A LONG SUMMER DAY

Here's a cross section view of life in the summer time for little Miss and Master Evanston. Long summer days pass quickly in soap carving and doll making at Boltwood fieldhouse. Upper left, left to right: Celia Jencz, Viola Ruesch, Wayna Marie Daume, Eva Pleszewa, and Ellen Holmquist making dolls over bottles. The cat and the mouse is the best loved game played at Mason park. In the lower left picture Mary Wood is the cat and Jane Van Stael the mouse. Others are Patsy Powers, Frances, Marie and Jimmy Battaglia, Mary Nellessen, Dorothy Powers, Alice Powers, Buddy, Marion and Billy Conarchy.

While a total of more than 5,000,000 people are expected to play and swim at the many north side bathing beaches before the summer is over, an even greater attendance will be recorded at the many small parks and playgrounds, park directors estimated last week. In the six small parks of the Lincoln park district alone, a total of 5,263,654 people made use of the facilities in 1928, E. L. Wheeler, supervisor of small parks and athletics, said. This number does not include the thousands who daily visit Lincoln park, the large playground on the north side.

Summer activities are now in full swing, the park supervisors said, and the baseball diamonds, tennis courts, swimming pools, wading pools, horseshoe courts and other facilities are crowded from early morning to the closing hour. This month the various championship athletic contests will be held at the parks.

Total Area Only 30 Acres.

The six small parks under the jurisdiction of the Lincoln park commissions are: Lake Shore park, Lake Shore drive and Chicago avenue; Seward park, Elm and Orleans streets; Stanton park, Reese street and Clybourn avenue; Chase park, Ashland and Leland avenues; Hamlin park, Hoyne and Barry avenues, and Welles park, Western and Montrose avenues. Although these recreation centers served more than 5,000,000 persons last year, their combined area is only slightly more than 30 acres.

All of the six parks are equipped with baseball diamonds, horseshoe courts and clubhouses, where showers are available to the public. More than 440,000 persons used the public shower baths last year, Mr. Wheeler said. Tennis courts are provided at all but Stanton and Seward parks. Outdoor swimming pools at Stanton and Hamlin parks attract thousands of north siders who are distant from the lake beaches. Wading pools for

Play Is Serious Business for Children of Evanston

Evanston children take their recreation seriously. Early each morning they start at it and every hour is crammed full until supper time. Between the beaches and the twelve playgrounds that Evanston boasts there isn't a minute of dullness for them.

Here's a typical day. Up with the sun and out for a dip in the lake. Breakfast and then a try at carving soap animals or making dolls out of bottles for the girls. For the boys, wood carving or manual training. After a game of baseball or liberty ball, back to the lake again, and lunchtime on the beach.

Frank McNally found a barrel raft swept up on the shore from no one knows where and since then Frank has been unusually popular. All his friends, who are slim enough to get through the small opening at the side of the barrel, are begging for turns at playing "lost at sea."

Afternoon Chuck Full.

The afternoon is varied with folk dancing, tennis, more ball games, and impromtu shows. Scooter bike races or track meets, pet shows, poster making, sand modeling, and playing in the kazoo band are among the alternatives offered to the children.

One of the high spots of the year has been the pet show with all the playgrounds competing. Mason Park came out first, largely through the array of pets produced by Harold Horton, 1513 Church street. He had fourteen of them, the only squirrel, and one of the two waterfowl among them. Mrs. Ethel Polzin, Evans Hellstrom and Miss Ruth Whitman are in charge of the playground work at Mason.

Prepare for Doll Show.

At Boltwood park, the girls are busily engaged in making dolls over bottles for the coming doll show and a doll village has also been constructed. Boltwood's soap circus won the prize in playground competition recently, all the animals and performers carved out of soap, painted and set up under a tent. Mrs. Polly Froelich is in charge of women s work at Boltwood.

Part of the playgrounds are owned by the schools and part by the city but the recreation bureau manages all of them. W. C. Bechtold is director of the bureau.

94 ROOKIE COPS GO TO STATIONS OF NORTH SIDE

A total of 94 new policemen were assigned to the eight north side stations by an order issued last week by Police Commissioner William F. Russell. The recruits will begin duty at once. Another order was made yesterday transferring many of the veteran patrolmen in order to equalize the number of men in the 40 stations throughout the city.

The Summerdale avenue station leads the north side districts with 16 new policemen. The numbers assigned to other stations are as follows: Hudson avenue, 15; Rogers Park, 14; North Robey street, 13; East Chicago, 11; Town Hall, 10; Sheffield avenue, 9, and Albany Park, 6.

Thirty-two new policemen were assigned to the traffic division, with headquarters at 152 West Illinois street.

ASKS FOR TRAFFIC LIGHT NEAR THE BELMONT BEACH

Ald. O. F. Nelson [46th] announced yesterday that he will ask the Lincoln park commissioners to install stop lights at the intersection of Belmont avenue and the outer drive in Lincoln park. Children crossing the drive to reach the Belmont beach are endangered by the constant flow of traffic entering Sheridan road at this point.

Belmont beach was opened again this summer after being closed a greater part of last season. The oily discharge from motor boats anchored in Belmont harbor formerly spoiled the beach for bathing, but the commissioners have eliminated the condition by prohibiting boats to anchor near the beach. George Wagner and Robert Schunman are guards at the beach.

WILMETTE VOTES ON PURCHASE OF NEW SCHOOL SITE

Returns on the special election held yesterday to determine whether residents of Wilmette in the district north of Lake street and west of Ridge road wish to acquire a site for future school building purposes will be made known tomorrow.

The site which the board of education of the district, No. 39, contemplates buying is a five acre tract just east of the Indian Hill estates section at Dartmouth and Elmwod avenues. Although the property will be bought now if the voters authorize purchase, no building is planned at present.

The election was called at a special meeting of the board after the receipt of a petition signed by three hundred voters because purchase of the tract in question seemed advisable now before subdivision, according to members of the board.

Miss Lunt, Evanston's Grand Old Lady, Going Abroad at 86

BY VIRGINIA SCHMITZ.

A brown frame house, not new, but with an air of eternal youth about it, gracious, inviting, dignified but with a comfortable look to it, a house that murmurs of fine traditions and happy lives spent within—it stands at Judson avenue and Clark street in Evanston.

And its owner—like her home—not young but with a youthfulness all her own, gracious and dignified, too, charming as one must be who looks back on 86 years of living and loving life.

She is Miss Cornelia Gray Lunt, Evanston's grand old lady, whose father, Orrington Lunt, made Evanston possible, and who herself has made it lovable.

"I have always wanted the river of life to run through my house," she says, "not around it." And social, intellectual and artistic life has centered there for more than a half a century.

Formerly in Many Activities.

In her youth and middle life she was hostess and guest, organized clubs and worked actively in them. The University guild at Northwestern university was her contribution to the social life of the women connected with the university, the Fort Dearborn chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, she organized as well as the Chicago branch of the Colonial Dames.

"But," she said, "I realized in later years that I must conserve my strength and since then I have kept open house here. People seem willing to come to me. Age usually sits in the corner and as a result is ignored. But I am interested in life and in others and I feel an intense sympathy for the young."

Miss Lunt was born where now skyscrapers tower, in a pioneer house on Michigan avenue between Lake street and Randolph, in 1843. Her earliest and most treasured memories are of the lake beating on the shore and the lake is still her front yard in Evanston. March 19 is her birthday and the whole town turns out to do her honor each spring.

To Country—Michigan and Congress.

She was still very young when the family moved out into the country—between Van Buren and Congress, to be exact, on what is now the site of the Auditorium hotel—and the Lunt house with the one next to it were the first stone houses in Chicago.

MISS CORNELIA GRAY LUNT.

They were destroyed by the fire in 1871 and it was shortly afterward that the family moved to Evanston, into the former home of Bishop Hamlin.

But their connections with Evanston date further back than that. Orrington Lunt was one of the group of men who were seeing a site for Northwestern university. The others had just about decided on a spot in Jefferson, having looked over the Evanston scene and discarded it. The land was swampy and would require too much expensive reclaiming.

Mr. Lunt was in love with the section and went on a discovery tour of his own, and found the slight bluff overlooking the lake where Northwestern now stands. He persuaded the others to his point and the basis for Evanston was laid. They wanted to name the town after him, but he refused and the honor went to Dr. John Evans, who had married Mrs. Lunt's sister.

CHURCH MAKES TRAINING YOUTH ITS CHIEF WORK

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

"To gather the young folk for singing, worship and instruction makes the foundation for the future church," says the Rev. Elof K. Jonson, pastor of the Lutheran Ebenezer church, Foster avenue and North Paulina stret. In order to fully care for this work the new Sunday school building, which when completely equipped will cost around $200,000, has recently been dedicated.

THE REV. ELOF K. JONSON.

The structure was designed by Andrew Norman, also architect of the church built in 1904. The two buildings are connected at the rear by the administration offices and pastor's study.

Growth of the Sunday school caused the need of a new building to be considered some four years ago. The committee chosen to make investigations was composed of Fred J. Nelson, Oscar Peterson, and H. William Peterson.

Ground Broken Last Year.

Ground was broken on Memorial day, 1928. C. Oscar Peterson was promoter of the project. The building committee consisted of Harry Burg, Andrew Norman, H. William Peterson, president; Olof Olson, R. H. Johnson, J. Benson, O. Peterson, the Rev. Mr. Jonson, August W. Johnson, treasurer; A. Tharnstrom, Andrew Strandin, Mathias Olson, G. Seegren, J. E. Swanson, and Victor Lundgren. Gunnar Peterson was financial secretary of the building fund.

Among the speakers at the laying of the corner stone were Dr. Peter Peterson, State's Attorney John A.

DEMAND OGDEN BE COMPLETED ACROSS ISLAND

Business Men Get Pledge of Faherty's Backing.

Support in obtaining the immediate opening of Ogden avenue across Goose Island to form a time-saving connecting artery between the lake shore and the west side was promised west side business men Thursday by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements.

Mr. Faherty told a group of fifty representatives of the West Town chamber of commerce who appeared in his office to enlist his coöperation in behalf of the project that when the city council reconvenes next month he will seek legislation permitting the board to make the improvement without further delay.

The west side business group will be requested to appear at the city hall again when the council is in session, he said, to indorse his demands upon the council finance committee. Members of the chamber signified their willingness to take any steps necessary to obtain completion of the street, which has been held back since 1921.

Cost Estimated at $8,800,000.

The cost of the improvement has been estimated at $8,800,000, and the board will probably seek to obtain funds by special assessment on property owners with payments spread over a period of 20 years, according to the terms of a law recently passed by the state legislature. To open Ogden avenue across the island two bridges must be constructed across the river channels which must be connected by a viaduct across the island. The latter is covered by a network of railroad tracks.

"Opening of Ogden avenue will bring traffic on a direct line from such western towns as Aurora, Naperville, La Grange, and Lyons across the west side to the north shore," C. B. Clemons, forum chairman of the chamber, said. "The improvement is complete from Randolph street to the island, but its full usefulness has never been realized because the part across Goose Island is not done. A delay of 15 minutes is necessitated in crossing the island."

C. H. Kavanaugh Makes Plea.

Manufacturers in the entire west side as well as property owners and merchants feel the need of the improvement, according to Clarence H. Kavanaugh, director of the chamber and president of the West Side Commercial league.

Ald. J. H. Taylor [37th] said that residents in a section as far removed from the improvement as Austin realize the great benefit to the west side which its completion would bring. He pledged his support, and assured the gathering that other west side aldermen were also prepared to vote for the necessary ordinances.

Frank J. Bilek, secretary of the South Central Lions club and director of the chamber, told Mr. Faherty that the entire southwest side is heartily in favor of the project and believes that since it was started eight years ago, it should be completed without delay.

Cites Duty to Folk Who Paid.

"I realize that the improvement is needed by the entire west side, and will lend every effort to obtain its completion as soon as possible," Mr. Faherty said. "More than 37,000 property owners throughout the district have been assessed for the parts of Ogden avenue already completed, and they are entitled to a return on their money. The Goose island project should be completed before any other local improvement is attempted," he added.

H. J. Ruggles, manager of the chamber, was chairman of the meeting. Some of the other men present were: F. R. Campbell, Sam Baumgard, Harry J. Gardiner, M. F. Blondell, John Miller, Charles Severinghaus, Fred W. Murray, Joseph Chaban, Roland O. Watson, I. F. Dankowski, George C. Koltz, Irving N. Klien, Charles Hayes, Otto Nicholas, Sam Schuham, Louis E. Golan, Mark Shanks and George J. Dehn.

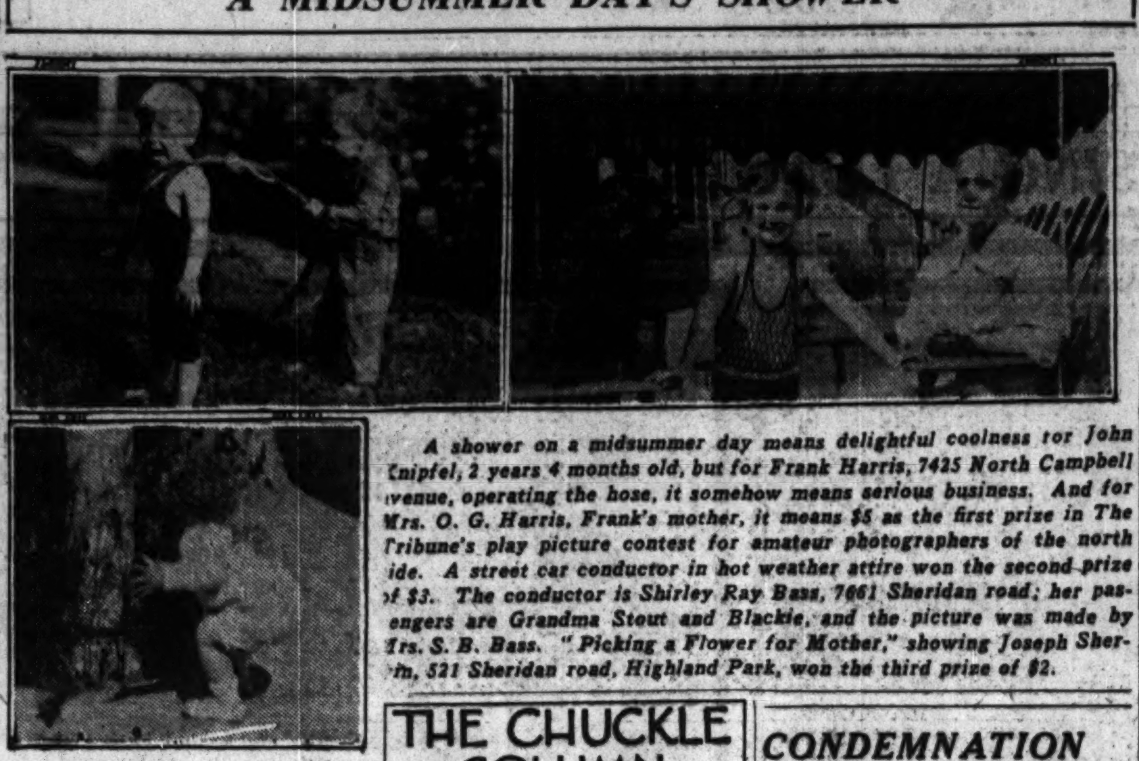
A MIDSUMMER DAY'S SHOWER



A shower on a midsummer day means delightful coolness for John Knipfel, 2 years 4 months old, but for Frank Harris, 7425 North Campbell avenue, operating the hose, it somehow means serious business. And for Mrs. O. G. Harris, Frank's mother, it means $5 as the first prize in The Tribune's play picture contest for amateur photographers of the north side. A street car conductor in hot weather attire won the second prize of $3. The conductor is Shirley Ray Bass, 7661 Sheridan road; her passengers are Grandma Stout and Blackie, and the picture was made by Mrs. S. B. Bass. "Picking a Flower for Mother," showing Joseph Sherwin, 521 Sheridan road, Highland Park, won the third prize of $2.

MIDTOWN GROUP SEEKS TO UNTIE TRAFFIC KNOTS

Business Men Act for Improvements.

The Mid-Town North Business Men's association, composed of property owners and business men in the Diversey parkway-Clark street district, has started another campaign to improve traffic conditions and provide safeguards for pedestrians in the district.

Traffic has always been the major problem of the business men of the community, Emery T. Erickson, executive secretary of the association, said, and while many measures have already been adopted to help solve the situation, steps are now being taken to further relieve the congestion.

Sheridan Road Problem.

Foremost among the projects sponsored by the organization is a plan to untangle the traffic conditions at the intersection of Sheridan road and Diversery parkway. The control of traffic at this corner is difficult, due to the narrowness of Sheridan road north of Diversey parkway. Much of the traffic entering and leaving Lincoln park converges at this point and in addition there is a steady flow of traffic on Diversey and some traffic on Lake View avenue, which terminates at this point. The section of Diversey parkway east of Sheridan road has been closed for more than a year to aid the movement of cars.

Through the coöperation of the Lincoln park commissioners, who have jurisdiction over all the streets at this point, the Mid-Town North association has adopted a plan to help solve the problem. If the association can devise a system of traffic control lights which can be used satisfactorily at this intersection, in the opinion of Capt. Charles Shaw of the Lincoln park police, the park commissioners will further aid the plan by widening Sheridan road 20 feet between Diversey parkway and Surf street.

Believes Lights Can Be Used.

According to Mr. Erickson the association believes that traffic lights that are manually operated during the rush hours and automatically operated at all other hours can be used successfully. The proposed widening of the one block stretch will be made by cutting off ten feet of each curb.

A second important improvement undertaken by the business men is a plan to safeguard pedestrians at the intersection of Diversey parkway, Clark street and Broadway, one of the busiest corners on the north side. Mr. Erickson has been given authority by the department of streets to mark out cross walks and safety loading zones at the intersection. A crew of workmen will be sent out this week to lay out the lines designating the walks and zones. The association was instrumental in obtaining traffic lights for this corner a year ago.

Seek to Halt Parking.

A third traffic improvement in the association's program will be the elimination of parking on Diversey parkway between Sheridan road and Halsted street. A meeting of all business men in the district will be held this week to present the parking ban to the merchants for their approval. Mr. Erickson said that 99 per cent of the shoppers in the district are pedestrians and a majority of the motorists parking on the boulevard are not shopping people, but only use the street as a garage. A campaign against all night parking will also be undertaken by the association.

Pennsylvanian to Preach.

Prof. Stewart C. Cole of the Congregational church at Chester, Pa., will preach at the Wilmette Baptist church this morning. Dr. George P. Allison left on his vacation Thursday and the pulpit will be filled by visiting ministers throughout August.

CONDEMNATION SUIT IS STARTED IN PARK FIGHT

Both Sides Confident in Evanston Row.

The squabble over the park district question in northeast Evanston has advanced into the legal stages with an appeal already filed by opponents of the district questioning the legality of the election of July 9 which formed the district. The commissioners meantime have filed condemnation proceedings on the plot at Central street and Ridge avenue, the bone of contention and reason for the agitation for a district.

The land was leased by Northwestern university to Gustav E. Seegren, Chicago contractor, and his appeal to the zoning board for permission to erect a large three story apartment building there caused a division in the ranks of the residents of the community. Some wanted the building and others insisted it should be kept for a park.

Election Results Disputed.

At the special election called July 9 to determine whether the majority wished to create a park district to buy up the land proponents of the plan claim to have won by a vote of 421 to 411.

The opposition bases its claims on the fact that if fifteen ballots which named park commissioners but voted no on the park had not been thrown out the district would have been lost by a vote of 421 to 411.

According to Samuel Adams, attorney for the citizens who oppose the park, there is sufficient legal basis to defend their claim that the disputed votes should have been counted.

"The statutes are very clear on the point," he said. "The explanation for the votes is that fifteen of those not wishing a park voted no but wanted a hand in selecting the commissioners if there had to be one."

The condemnation proceedings will not be automatically stopped by the filing of the petition on the legal status of the district.

"However," said Mr. Adams, "we shall fight the proceedings."

Names of Petitioners.

The ten citizens whose names were signed to the petition for a review of the election in the circuit court are: Charles J. Heaney, Mae E. Heaney, Herman J. Andresen, Otto G. Ortmund, William Charles Bauer, Arthur C. Angove Sr., Roland G. Chase, Gertrude M. Chase, John T. Balkman, and Paul P. Hardman.

Alfred R. Bates, an attorney and one of the park commissioners—if there is a park—expressed a belief that the district would win out.

"We shall continue with our condemnation suit," he said, "simultaneously with fighting this other proceeding. Of course, should we lose out the condemnation proceedings would be automatically dropped."

Other members of the park board are: Samuel Sackett, president; Erret Grable, George Paddock, and John Landreth.

Meantime, Mr. Seegren, the contractor, has started work on a portion of the tract in question, a small parcel at the west end. His appeal to the zoning board is still pending and until that is settled he can do nothing with the rest of the land. He disclaims any interest but watchful waiting in any part of the proceedings.

VOTE MONEY TO IMPROVE SHORE IN ROGERS PARK

An appropriation of $10,000 for development of the lake front between Devon avenue and the city limits was included in the yearly budget adopted by the north shore park board at its latest meeting. Howard P. Savage, president of the board, has advocated the voting of funds for the improvement of the shore line in Rogers Park since his election to the commission early in April.

The budget approved by the park commissioners totals $194,700, an increase of $30,000 over the quota voted last year. Expenditures of the board during the last twelve months exceeded the $164,000 budget by more than $15,000. According to members of the board, the board of equalization, to which the budget will be presented, will probably reduce items in the estimates. The larger figure was voted, President Savage said, to take care of any emergencies that may develop during the year.

$3,500 for Park Sites.

A second addition to the budget over last year is an appropriation of $3,500 for the purchase and improvement of small parcels of property to be converted into parks. The development of small parks or baby parks was one of the important issues during the election campaign, in the spring. Numerous organizations and individuals in Rogers Park have urged the necessity of additional small parks. They point out that the beaches are the only places where infants may be taken to derive the benefits of sunlight and fresh air, and the beaches, they declare, are not only unsuitable for such purposes but are not convenient to all residents of Rogers Park.

Sees Saving on Lighting.

A lot has already been offered to the use of the board as a temporary park, Mr. Savage announced, and it can be improved at a small cost.

A saving over expenses during the last year will be noted this year, the commissioners said, in the lighting department and the pay roll in general. The board formerly let a contract to a lighting engineer to maintain all the lights and other electrical equipment in the park district, but this year two electricians in the employ of the board will take care of the work.

THEIR GOLDEN DAY

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Burmeister, 1939 School street, who are spending several weeks in northern Wisconsin, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary today. They have two children, Dr. W. H. Burmeister and Mrs. H. H. Best, both of Chicago.

ASK REZONING O 50TH WARD BLOC FOR RESIDENCE

Preservation of part of the ward as a residence section w construction of apartment b will be prohibited is the aim of Curtis F. Mellin, according to a posed zoning change presented to city council committee on buildings and zoning recently.

When the committee reconvenes next month it will take up an ance submitted by the aldermen wh would rezone Fairfield avenue between Ardmore and Thorndale avenues from an apartment to a residence district. The committee has received a petition for the change signed by 80 per cent of the property owners in the block.

Ordinances rezoning three other parcels of north side property were recently passed by the city council. Zoning of the following property has been changed:

SUMMER DAYS ALL TOO SHORT AT NORTH SIDE'S SMALL PARKS

North side youngsters are finding the summer days too short for the enjoyment of all the forms of recreation offered by the small parks that are within the reach of nearly all children. Upper left: Children enjoying a sand box at Stanton park, Vedder and Vine streets. Upper right: Young splashers in the wading pool at Stanton park. Lower left: Joseph La Fleur, 10 months old, announcing that he believes he'll get more fun out of the wading pool at Seward park, Elm and Sedgwick streets, when he's a bit older. Left center: A beauty spot in Indian Boundary park where children enjoy feeding swans and ducks. Right center: Anna Frances Riley, 3 years old, and Joan Gaylord Mooney, 2 years old, resting between romps in the wading pool at Indian Boundary park. CATHOLICS FORM RETREAT GROUPS FOR NEW CENTER

Corpus Christi Church Is Taken Over by League.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Parishes of the Roman Catholic archdiocese throughout Chicago's north side and adjacent towns are organizing classes of retreatants to participate in the opening of the St. Francis Laymen Retreat league's new city headquarters at Corpus Christi church, 49th street and South Parkway.

Workmen have been engaged for several weeks remodeling the Corpus Christi school building to meet requirements of retreat classes. It is expected all will be in readiness for an opening retreat class on or about Labor day. These classes are being organized through the coöperation of north side councils of the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies, Catholic Order of Foresters, and other church organizations.

Mayslake Retreats Continue.

Retreat classes conducted by the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league will continue to be held at Mayslake, Hinsdale, Ill., every week-end from Friday evening until early Monday morning. The establishment of the city retreat house at Corpus Christi church will augment the work that is being carried on by the Franciscan priests at Mayslake.

Corpus Christi church is regarded as one of the most beautiful Catholic edifices in the United States. It was founded in 1901 in what was then considered one of the best residential sections in the city. But of recent years the neighborhood's complexion has changed and in May it was given over to the jurisdiction of the Franciscan order of monks to be used as the city headquarters of the retreat league.

Father Valerius, O. F. M., one of Chicago's most widely known Franciscan fathers and former retreat master at Mayslake, is to take charge of the new retreat house. The work of class organization will be in charge of the Rev. Patrick Maloney, O. F. M. Father Maloney grew up in Chicago and maintains at 115 Polk street an office where reservations to attend the retreat classes at either Mayslake or at Corpus Christi this fall may be made.

Inaugurated by Mundelein.

Realizing the benefits that result from a weekend spent in contemplation and prayer, Cardinal Mundelein inaugurated the retreat movement in Chicago about five years ago. The first retreat class was held at St. Francis Retreat house at Mayslake March 5, 1925. The response to the "sixty golden hours" was immediate. Men from all walks of life found peace and consolation within the walls of the retreat house.

The Rev. Giles Strub, O. F. M., was the founder of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. Its purpose was to spread the benefits of a retreat once a year for every Catholic man in the archdiocese. Today the league has a membership of approximately 5,000.

Labor, Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies and business organizations list many members in the league. Parishes, too, have coöperated and last year Chicago was awarded first place in retreat attendance in the United States. Members of the Asbestos Workers' union have the honor position for attendance at Mayslake. Hughie Mulligan, business representative of the labor organization, is also president of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. He is one of the most enthusiastic workers in behalf of the league's activities in the archdiocese. He is serving his second term as president.

Move Spreads Among Labor.

With Mulligan's coöperation Father Maloney was able to spread the work of the league into many labor organizations, especially among the building trades. Working under the league banner today are such labor officials as Bernard Cruice, Stephen Bailey, Bernard Rubbery, Charles Mulcahy, Patrick Cullen, Martin Durkin, Frank Kane, John Durkin, Thomas O'Donnell, John Murphy, and John Stretch.

The Knights of Columbus have coöperated with Father Maloney and many councils have sent individual classes to Mayslake. Some of the leaders of this movement are Edward Houlihan, state deputy of the K. of C.; Frank Enright, president of the Chicago chapter; Leo Flynn, Judge John P. McGoorty, Patrick Woods, John Reiner, Joseph McMahon, Frank Walsh, Arthur Donohue, James Carney, Austin O'Malley, and P. J. J. McCarthy.

To date only a few parishes have done pioneering work in behalf of the Retreat league, and these include St. Jerome's, of which the Rev. T. F. Farrell is pastor; St. Ignatius, with the Rev. F. G. Dinneen as pastor; St. John the Baptist, with the Rev. P. T. Gelines as pastor; St. Joseph's, with the Rev. J. V. La Marre as pastor, and St. Kilian's, with the Rev. James M. Leddy as pastor.

Benefits Early Workers.

A retreat class lasts from the close of business on Friday evening until Monday morning. Conclusion of the spiritual exercises is arranged to permit retreatants to be at work at 8 o'clock Monday morning. However, to many of the workers in Chicago it is necessary for them to be at work Monday morning as early as 5 and 6 o'clock and it is to facilitate their return that the Corpus Christi retreat house will be opened.

Aug. 30 has been set by Father Maloney as the date for a city fire fighters' class.

Teeth Decayed on Gold Coast; Italians' Good

Gold coast children eat sweets and develop dental cavities. The poor Italian children of the near north side eat spaghetti and vegetables and have healthy teeth. These facts were discovered by dental examiners of the city health department in a recent survey of health conditions among school children of the area north of the loop.

Although usually children of the poorer districts have poor teeth because they neglect them and because they eat unwholesome food, according to Commissioner Kegel, the Italian youngsters are an exception to the rule. Children in fourteen schools of the near north side were examined and figures showed that the Italian children have far better teeth than the youngsters from well-to-do families.

Furthermore, Dr. Kegel said their teeth are better not because they receive better care but because of their diets. Although comparatively few Italian children brush their teeth regularly, few instances of decay were found by the examiners.

Questionnaire Reveals Diets.

Answers to a questionnaire of the department regarding diets of the children showed that the poorer youngsters eat a variety of vegetables and other healthful foods and little candy. Gold coast children, while they brush their teeth and ward off decay to some extent, eat pastry, candy, and rich foods which are not healthful.

One Italian child wrote the following letter listing the foods he ate:

"I like potatoes and meet, ham beans spgette toast butter string beans Oranges Apples hot dogs pears plumbs Bannas art choaks lemon cream pies strawbeary chearies freash eggs oatmeal ice cream puffed wheat grapes grape nut corn flakes peas pig feet raszbearies grap fruit tomatoes carrots cakes vegetable neck bones and milk.

"At noon I eat applesause a slice of bread and a glass of milk and for supper I eat tomatoes sauce and big plate of spegatte with sause on it and then some pop."

Prefers His Eggs Fresh.

Another youngster sent in the following letter:

"The foods I like is milk bread butter oranges apples grapefruet peach pears and potatoes and eggs if they are fresh and all kinds of vegetable. In the morning I eat buther and a cup of milk every morning and some bread and butter and bannas are my food."

More than 70 per cent of 2,600 children questioned make spaghetti an important part of their diets, and consume a good deal of fruits and vegetables.

Highland Park Given Name by Nature After Men Failed

This is the eighth of a series of articles explaining the origin of names or north side streets and suburbs.

Highland Park sprang from the ashes of two other settlements that had grown up and then languished on the picturesque rolling country twenty odd miles north of young Chicago. And its name, given by Walter S. Gurnee, who also named Glencoe, was the third the spot had known since the white men came.

The first setlement, made in 1845, was called St. Johns and boasted a warehouse and a sawmill. A little log Catholic church, St. Mary's of the Woods, built there in 1846, has formed the basis for many conjectures, notably that early missionaries had stopped there and constructed the church. But it has been fairly accurately dated as of a much later era.

Life was hard there and the settlement thinned out, only to be followed by another, a little to the south, known as Port Clinton. Port Clinton in the early 1850s rivaled Waukegan as a lake port and bid fair to make Milwaukee and Chicago watch their steps. But cholera laid the community low and hard times set in.

Named by Topography.

Then it was that Walter S. Gurnee took a hand. He bought up all the stock of the Port Clinton Land company and formed another, The Highland Park Building company, selling the former stock to the latter. The residential possibilities of the community were emphasized over the commercial and the name Highland Park, descriptive of the natural geography, was considered better than Port Clinton.

In 1869 Highland Park was incorporated with Frank P. Hawkins, who had been general manager and agent for the company, as the first mayor. Owen Monaghan was the first and only lighthouse keeper, since after his tenure, because of the lack of necessity for a lighthouse, it was allowed to lapse. Highland Park's beauties as a residence town were enhanced when Cleveland and French, landscape artists, laid out the roads and streets in 1872. The French of the concern was W. M. R. French, for many years director of the Art institute of Chicago.

Highland Park is the township center for Deerfield township in Lake county, and just escaped being in Erin township. When the meeting was called to decide the name, many of the Irish who had settled there wished to have it called Erin, but the proponents of Deerfield won out by three votes, 17 to 14.

Makes His Name Stick.

The city's name was never put to a vote but Gurnee seemed to have done a good job in naming it for there has never been a move to give it a fourth name.

Gurnee was mayor of Chicago in 1852 and 1853, but was not born here.

MILLIONS PLAY YEARLY AT TINY N. SIDE PARKS

Other Events Set for August.

Events remaining on the summer schedule include the small park's swimming championship, to be held Aug. 10, the girls' field meet on Aug. 24 at Welles park, and the tennis championship scheduled for Aug. 31.

A staff of more than 50, including directors and other employés, is in charge of the six parks. The park managers for 1929 are as follows: Lake Shore, Samuel Moore; Seward, Frank Beyer; Stanton, William O'Neill; Chase, F. C. Doyle; Hamlin, W. C. Pearson, and Welles, John Hoff.

In the six parks managed by the River Park commissioners, the same activities are being carried on, Fred J. Bohn, president of the board, said. Thousands of residents in the territory bounded by Belmont, Western, Kedzie and Devon avenues are swimming in the outdoor pools and playing on the baseball diamonds and tennis courts.

Two New Field Houses.

In East River park, Argyle street and North Francisco avenue, a new field house has been built, and in Green Briar park, Peterson and North Talman avenues, a new field house will be dedicated next month. The other three parks of the district are Brand's park, Elston and California avenues; Paul Revere park, Irving Park boulevard and North Rockwell street, and Dakin park, Irving Park boulevard and North Campbell avenue.

The Albany Park commissioners have provided three parks for residents of that northwest community: Kiwanis, Eugene Field and Matson parks. At Indian Boundary park, Lunt avenue and North Rockwell street, the Ridge avenue park commissioners have supplied a large wading pool and playground equipment for residents of the North Town district. The playgrounds of the North Shore park district in Rogers Park are all located on the shore of the lake.

Doll Buggies, Kiddie Cars to Roll in Parade

Bicycles, doll buggies, kiddie cars and wagons will be transformed into floats for the sixth annual children's Mardi Gras which will be staged during August by the board of education bureau of recreation. The playgrounds operated during the summer by the school board have been divided into four groups, each of which will present its gay pageant and parade at a different time and place. In previous years all the playgrounds have united for one large affair in Grant park.

North Side Parade Aug. 21.

The group of north side playgrounds will hold their part of the Mardi Gras at 6 o'clock Wednesday, Aug. 21. The children will start their parade at Lincoln street and Lawrence avenue and will march down Lincoln to Wilson avenue and down Wilson a few blocks, over to Sunnyside avenue, and back on Sunnyside, retracing Lawrence avenue to Lincoln street.

Miss Iserman in Charge.

Miss Arlene Iserman, director of the Budlong playground, is in charge of the program for the north side division of the Mardi Gras. The following playgrounds are included in this division:

Hayt, Swift, Budlong, McPherson, Le Moyne, Nettelhorst, Hawthorne, Agassiz, Waters, Belding, Henry, Audubon, Avondale, Brentano, Goethe, and Burley.

Approximately 500 children are expected to participate.

PETERSON AVE. WIDENING TO BE FINISHED OCT. 1

Provides Adequate Route Into Northwest Side.

The widening and repaving of Peterson avenue between Clark street and the north shore channel will be completed by Oct. 1, Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements has announced. With the completion of this improvement another wide thoroughfare will be opened connecting the lake with the North Town and north park districts.

The new Peterson avenue will provide a direct route to the rapidly growing communities between Western avenue and the canal, residents of the area point out, and in addition will relieve the traffic congestion on Devon and Granville avenues. The only other east and west thoroughfare from the lake to the northwest side is Lawrence avenue, one mile and a half to the south. Traffic into the district west of Western avenue between Peterson and Lawrence avenues is blocked by Rosehill cemetery. The improvement of Peterson avenue west of the channel will be completed by Sept. 1, Mr. Faherty said.

Favor Widening Lincoln Avenue.

Several other widening and paving projects to aid the movement of traffic in the large area west of Western avenue between Wilson and Devon avenues are also being urged by the residents and business men and are being considered by the improvement board. Foremost among these projects is the widening of Lincoln avenue between Catalpa and Devon avenues. This improvement, the motorists declare, will provide the most direct route through the North Town district to the north park and Peterson woods communities, Niles Center, Tessville and other northwest side suburbs.

Steps have already been started to complete the underground work preparatory to the widening of Lincoln avenue and the assessment for the paving of the street is now being spread. The assessment roll will be filed in court within a few weeks and the board expects to have confirmation of the assessment in order that work may be started next spring. The improvement will be completed in the fall of 1930, Mr. Faherty said.

The widening of Catalpa avenue between Western and Lincoln avenues has been completed. This stretch will provide an entrance on the south to the new northwest through street.

Another important improvement in the central north side designed to aid traffic between the lake and the west side is the widening and paving of Foster avenue which is being considered by the improvement board. A 42 foot roadway between the lake and Central Park avenue has been suggested to relieve some of the traffic on Lawrence avenue.

Prepare Wilson Avenue Petitions.

Property owners on Wilson avenue are preparing to circulate petitions requesting the city to widen and pave Wilson avenue between Clarendon avenue and the north channel. The Wilson avenue business men also seek to relieve the traffic on Lawrence avenue as well as on Montrose avenue, the only east and west through streets in the Uptown district. They also point out that a wider pavement will be needed to take care of the flow of traffic that will pass through the district when the outer drive in Lincoln park is extended to Wilson avenue.

One of the major street improvements of the north side, the widening and paving of Ashland avenue between Addison street and Winnemac avenue, is nearly completed. The completion of this work will furnish a wide thoroughfare, nearly three miles long, connecting Rogers Park with the Lincoln and Belmont avenue district.

In the near north side two street improvements of major importance are underway. The pavinug of Ohio street between Lake Shore drive and Orleans street will be completed by the end of August. The widening of Walton place has been started and the laying of the pavement west of Michigan avenue will be started as soon as the underground work is completed. The underground work east of Michigan avenue has been completed for several months.

Ordinance Is Passed to Pave Winnemac Ave.

SCARF, HAT, SHOES PROVIDE BARGAINS FOR 3 NORTH SIDERS

The Tribune will pay $2 for each story of the best bargain obtained in a neighborhood store, printed in the Metropolitan section. Address Bargain, Metropolitan Section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper, and print your name and address plainly.

Chicago, July 28.—I did so want a good looking black and white scarf to wear with my knitted suit. I bought a cheap one but the black ran into the white when it was washed. One day I spied a beautiful scarf on a local bargain counter. It had been priced at $9 originally but because of a tiny rip in the corner where the price tag was pinned it was marked down to $2. I bought it, mended the little tear and now have that nice expensive feeling when I wear it. The scarf is of an excellent grade of silk and, incidentally, launders beautifully.

A BIG HAT AT A LITTLE PRICE.

Chicago, July 29.—Not long ago a small millinery shop in this neighborhood advertised a special sale of odd sized felt hats for $1. Having had considerable trouble in getting large head sizes, I felt a bit dubious about the kind of hat I could secure at a sale; I usually have to pay even more than the original price. But, in going through the assortment, I found a lovely blue felt marked at $10. It fit me perfectly and is the most becoming hat I have ever worn—truly a remarkable bargain for me.

LONG WAIT REWARDED.

Waukegan, Ill., July 28.—I have been longing for a pair of $18 slippers—the soft kid with a genuine alligator trimming—but had begun to give up hope of ever securing them on my present salary. Even when they were reduced to $12.50 recently they were still beyond my "purchasing power." The other day I could hardly believe my eyes when I saw my slippers in the window of a neighborhood store with a tag on them reading, "Reduced to $5.45 for quick clearance." Dame Luck was surely smiling on me that day.

Pageant to Take Northbrook Back to Prairie Schooner Days

The days of the pioneers will be recalled next Saturday when Northbrook day is celebrated by residents of the Skokie valley village. An historical pageant is planned for that day picturing the colonial background out of which the first settlers came, log cabin days, the pony express, and down through civil war days to the present.

Mrs. Ruth Reichelt Pettis of Deerfield, who teaches in Northbrook, is chairman of the pageant committee. Organizations of the village and neighboring communities have been invited to take part in the pageant.

From Mrs. Pettis, whose mother, Mrs. Marie Ward Reichelt, wrote a history of Deerfield, comes the explanation of how Northbrook got its name.

"O'Plaine," she explains, "was what the early trappers called it. In 1846 the town was known as Sherman or Shermans after Joel Sterling Sherman and his family, who settled there. But gradually the Shermans sold their land to the German settlers who were coming in and there was another change of name—to Schermerville, after the Schermers.

Present Name Adopted in 1922.

"And that name the town bore until 1922 when the villagers, desiring a less rural and more suburban sounding name, voted on three or four. Northbrook was the selection, appropriate because the north branch of the Chicago river goes past the town and because it is in the north section of Northfield township."

Joel Sherman, at one time, owned the site of the Palmer house, but let the taxes lapse on it because he thought the swampy land of Chicago would never amount to anything, and moved up to Northbrook. Another of his family, however, Francis C. Sherman, was the original owner of the Sherman house in the 1840s. The Shermans came to Northbrook in 1838 and bought 159 acres from the government at $1.25 an acre, gradually purchasing more until they owned half the town.

The rest of the town was owned by Orestin Shepard and his wife, Sarah Wayman Shepard. Their daughter, Eliza Jane, now Mrs. Joseph Wilson, was born in 1844 and now lives in Deerfield. She is one of the many old settlers who are planning to return for the pageant.

Built First Frame House.

Jennie Shepard, as Mrs. Wilson was known in her youth, was one of the earliest teachers in the Northfield locality. The Shepards erected a pioneer log cabin when they came to the locality but later built the first frame house in the village.

"Mrs. Wilson always rode a spirited horse in her youth," said Mrs. Pettis, "and in her estimation the thrills of riding behind a spanking team are superior to automobile riding."

Bricks in the foundation of the present Walters home in Northbrook were made in the Shepard kiln in 1850. A store and blacksmith shop as well as a tavern were also run by Mr. Shepard. The tavern was a halfway station between Chicago and Milwaukee and was used extensively by lawyers traveling to and from courts in both cities.

The name of the township in which Northbrook is situated, Northfield, is carried over from the early days of its history. The township was familiarly divided into four parts, north Northfield, east Northfield, south, and west.

Some of the Early Families.

Some of the prominent families of the district were the Steeles, Galloways, Elveys, Will Davises, Adams, Sipleys, Hutchings, Reeds, Russells, Hanleys, and Richards. The Mitchells and the Kiests were early settlers in South Northfield. Among the German settlers who came after the English and New Englanders are Mr. and Mrs. Levi Schinleber and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kiest. Both families still live in Northbrook and will take part in the pageant.

Tentative plans for the pageant include fifteen groupings: Colonial background out of which the first settlers came; prairie schooner days, the pony express, log cabin days, and the Indian contacts, impersonations of early settlers by remaining members of their families, gold rush, Forty-niners, civil war days, early schools, early churches, a picture of the '80s in song and dance, first railroad in 1871, "Then and Now," contrasting methods of costuming, transportation, machinery, etc.; Spanish war days, the town's share in the world war, beginning of present day civic organizations.

Ald. Curtis F. Mellin [50th] announced yesterday that he has obtained an ordinance prohibiting parking at the northwest and southeast corners of Devon and Western avenues, at the southwest corner of Lawrence and Western avenues and at the southwest corner of Lincoln and Western avenues. The ban is designed to facilitate the movement of street cars at these intersections. He is also urging the elimination of taxicab stands at the corners, he said.

Louisville is interested especially in the tribute to Edison inasmuch as he once lived there and worked as a telegraph operator. CHURCH MAKES TRAINING YOUTH ITS CHIEF WORK

Dedicates $200,000 Sunday School Annex.

The new Sunday school building contains an auditorium seating 1,200 persons, which is so arranged with removable partitions as to provide 32 classrooms. The partitions, costing $15,000, are so constructed that the auditorium can almost instantly be transformed into desired divisions.

Victor Lundgren is superintendent of the Sunday school. Eric Larson is his assistant. The school has a membership of 1,000, and there are more than fifty teachers as follows:

F. Carlson, I. Forsberg, Mrs. V. Lofquist, V. Lundgren, E. Larson, Mrs. E. K. Jonson, M. Anderson, S. Anderson, E. Nelson, S. Hofstedt, H. Johnson, E. C. Anderson, G. Edman, A. Nelson, E. M. Anderson, M. Norberg, M. Larson, Mrs. D. Carlson, H. Peterson, Mrs. S. Carlson, C. Anderson, E. Berggren, F. J. Nelson, M. Peterson, Mrs. R. Carlburg, Mrs. H. Norden Jr., Mrs. R. Swanson, F. Monson, E. Peterson, S. Larson, M. Hammarquist, L. Shaleen, O. Peterson, F. Stohl, H. Burg, H. William Peterson, G. Hallberg, J. Anderson, H. Nordin Jr., E. Peterson, J. Anderson, V. Streiffert, H. Almquist, E. Nelson, O. Colb.

Teachers Have a Teacher.

These teachers also have a teacher—Miss Ruth Bonander. Classes for their instruction are held every Monday night. Many of the teachers are products of the Sunday school. Loyalty, sincerity, and religious zeal are said to account for the school's unusual success.

These same qualities in the Ebenezer Lutheran chorus choir—made up largely of teachers in the Sunday school—are also credited by the pastor for the outstanding reputation of that organization.

Fred J. Nelson, a charter member of the church, is secretary of the congregation. Emil Anderson is financial secretary; H. William Peterson, treasurer; Oscar Evanson, treasurer of benevolences and missions; David Anderson, vestry chairman; Frank Wahlgren, sexton.

The Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Ezenezer church was organized in 1892 with 37 members. There have been two church buildings previous to the present house of worship. Both were frame structures — one at 1500 Summerdale avenue, and the other at 1700 Winnemac avenue. The site for the church of today on Foster avenue was purchased in 1903.

Since 1903 the church has had only two pastors. The Rev. T. S. Johnston served from 1903 until 1925, when he was succeeded by the Rev. Mr. Jonson.

GRAND OLD LADY OF EVANSTON, [illegible], GOING TO EUROPE

their Chicago home burned they return to Evanston. Mr. Lunt was on the board of trustees of the university, donating heavily to its endowment. Orrington Lunt library on the campus was named for him, as is Orrington avenue in Evanston, as well as Lunt avenue in Rogers Park.

Miss Lunt's many nieces and grand nieces and nephews have always been interested in her tales of early days and her experiences—so much so that she was persuaded to write them down for them and have them privately printed. The sketches take her from the age of 4 to 21, just the end of the civil war. Intimate and charming relations they are—the little girl and the young girl of the last century.

In them she tells of how as a youngster she had printed in childish lettering for herself calling cards bearing the inscription "O. Lunt's daughter" to the delight of her father. And of her friendships and growing interests, her joys and her sorrows. There, too, she tells of her visit to the army of the Potomac, its last visitor before going into the combat. On the fly leaf is her motto—"He most lives who most enjoys, most loves and most forgives."

Her View of Life.

"Life is a falling down and getting up again, both spiritual and physical," she says, "and if I can't run I'll walk. Age does not need to be drab and arid. It can be full of vividness and interest. That's what keeps me so happy.

"I have a feeling of affection and sympathy with the young. They have changed today. They are sophisticated and have more knowledge—they are so far advanced. But they begin earlier to understand life."

Although Miss Lunt spends most of her time at Anchorfast, as she calls her home, occasional trips to Europe are one of her great enjoyments. This year she plans to go late in August to evade the hayfever that assails her at that time of year.

And as she sits looking out on the lake—her lake—she says:

"My sunset hours are full of warmth and glow with the company of others, because I know I can win them to me."

SPECIALISTS NOW HANDLE PROGRAM MAKING DETAILS

Radio Advertisers Look to Agencies.

Radio broadcast's evolution into the field of big business has gradually brought about a segregation of activities until nearly every department is in the hands of specialists. One of the most significant markings is the creation of program specialists.

Nto so very long ago the making of programs was wholly in the hands of broadcasting stations. The trend is now in the opposite direction; program sponsors either directly or through their advertising agencies seek to build up their entertainments as a complete entity and take it to the station ready to use its air facilities and nothing else.

William B. Murray, vice president and general manager of an organization specializing in program building, recently explained how program making came to be a specialty.

Like Editorial Department.

"We do the sort of work that the editorial department of a publication does," he said, "or you might limit it even more than that and say we are like the art department of a publication.

"But naturally, as sponsors came to have a better understanding of radio broadcast, they wanted to control their representation on the air. The result was that their advertising agencies began to study radio very intensively. Some advertising agencies have built up what are really very good radio departments. But even with expert script writers, expert production men, expert musical impresarios, they still need artists to express the ideas they create and so naturally they have to come to us or whoever controls the talent they wish."

Mr. Murray told how program services at first were merely booking agencies for talent.

"But," he said, "we soon learned that we would have to go the whole route in order to fairly represent our artists as well as satisfy the sponsors who engaged them.

Like Theatrical Production.

"Each radio period is a complete theatrical production. It requires the combined and related effort of all the wisdom and experience and talent that any such enterprise deserves. Consequently it became necessary to organize a group of experts in every phase of radio production, quite apart from the artists who finally appear before the microphone."

This means not only a large permanent staff of professional radio folk, but also a considerable physical equipment, such as studios, library, technical equipment. The musical library of Mr. Murray's organization for radio use solely is reputed to be worth more than a quarter of a million dollars. It is the largest and most complete collection of its kind in the world.

"Nowadays," Mr. Murray stated, "advertising agencies are the point of contact in most of radio's important programs. The broadcasting stations and the broadcasting chains sell "time on the air" to sponsors through the advertising agencies. The sponsors no longer look to the stations for entertainment facilities; they look to their advertising agencies. Some of these agencies have created export radio departments. These look on us as an expert art service, ready to supply them with talent to fit the copy they create. Other advertising agencies lean on us entirely, asking both copy and art service, so to speak."

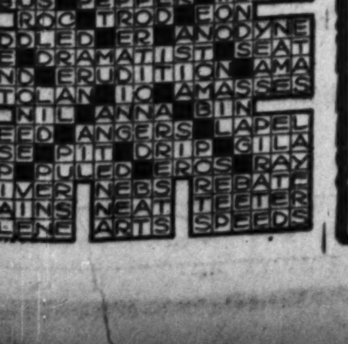
Cross Word Answers



Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Let's pretend that we're back in the days of the war again, and we're listening to the radio on the afternoon of July 27, 1918. The announcer is speaking to us from the ringside of the Jack Dempsey and Fred Fulton fight at Harrison, N. J. Jack Dempsey was not yet champion, nor even much of a celebrity. It was a whole year before Dempsey met Willard. Here goes:

ANNOUNCER — Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. This is W-G-N, broadcasting the Jack Dempsey-Fred Fulton fight direct from the baseball park in Harrison, New Jersey!

They're rioting out here in this ball park right now! We can hardly hear ourselves talking, this howling, screaming mob is making so much noise. There's been a rush on the high price seats down there in the baseball field by the customers in the less expensive sections, and the Harrison police force has just been helpless. Look at 'em go!

Wait a minute—there's somebody scrambling up into the ring now—wait'll we see who it is. It's Ed Curley, and he's raising his hands for silence. Don't look as if he'll get it—there comes another mob down from the grandstand in a raid on the ringside seats! Listen to 'em howl!

Ed Curley is the man who brought Fulton and Dempsey together for this fight, that will unofficially give one of them the heavyweight boxing championship, since it seems to be the general opinion that Jess Willard will never leave his Kansas farm and the cows and the chickens to come out and defend his title.

It's almost seven o'clock, and since Curley has promised to start the fight promptly at that hour, we've got very little time left to tell you about the details of this scrap. Jack Dempsey is the twenty-two year old youngster who's come up in heavyweight circles like a flash in the last two years. He's been bowling over the star heavies right and left, winning most of his contests with a K. O. sock in the first round. He's trimmed the best of the lot—Willie Meehan, Gunboat Smith, Porky Flynn, Billy Mike, Bill Brennan, and Carl Morris.

Very nearly we didn't have a fight here today. Fred got himself into something of a mess with the draft board early this week, and for a time it looked as if Fulton would be grabbed by the government sleuths and slapped into the army. Fred hadn't appeared before the New York draft board owing to the fact that the notices sent him had strayed on the way, but everything has been satisfactorily explained, and Fred was given a clean bill of health.

This fight means a lot to Fred Fulton. Only Dempsey stands between him and Jess Willard. While Jess has been loafing out on that Pottawatomie farm of his in Kansas, Fred has been making fistic hay in the ring, and everything is set for his scrap with Willard if he puts Dempsey away. He may have to wait until the end of the war, but if he can put "One Round Jack" to sleep decisively this afternoon, he'll have first crack at the titleholding Kansan's crown, which Willard packed away in the moth balls after he won it from Johnson, and which has rarely been seen since.

Jack Kearns, the man who is managing Dempsey thinks that Jack is head and shoulders above Fulton and every other heavyweight in the field—even Willard—and he's willing to let his protégé try to prove it.

Both men appear fairly well matched, and many experts figure that they'll last out the full ten rounds. They're hard hitters, but neither looks to be a hard enough hitter to knock the other down. If anybody's got the edge, it's Fulton.

Whee! There's a yell! It's Fulton coming down the aisle on his way to the ring! Fred Fulton, the big, tall, lean Minnesota boy who wants to win the world's championship! The crowd is giving him a great cheer as he comes up the aisle and swings through the ropes and into the ring!

Mike Collins, his manager, is with him, and a gang of seconds, water boys, trainers and camp followers. They think he's the coming champion of the world. Fred is showing the crowd a great big grin.

Fred looks fit and ready for the battle, and Ed Curley, the promoter, has joined the little crowd in Fulton's corner and he's talking to him. Curley probably wants to promote the Willard-Fulton fight for the championship.

Wait a minute! What's that! There's more noise! It's Dempsey this time—Jack Dempsey, the twenty-two year old bruiser from Nevada, who has been heaving the best of the heavies right and left for the last two years. He's coming down the aisle to the ring, almost fighting his way through the mob that's clogged up the passages ever since they raced in from the cheaper seats at the edge of the field.

Jack Kearns is with him, and a group of seconds and trainers. Dempsey looks like a big surly boy. He's wearing an old torn red sweater, and there's a two day's growth of whiskers on his chin and jowls. His face and body are brown—he's been doing a lot of training in the sun. He's just scowling—not smiling as Fulton was when he came in the ring, and he looks every inch the fighter.

Now the new chocolate-colored boxing gloves have been dumped on the floor, and the seconds are sorting them out. Jack Kearns has wandered over to Fulton's corner to take a look at Fred's bandages on his hand, and Mike Collins has gone into Dempsey's corner to do the same thing. Jack has pulled off that red sweater, and now they're fitting the gloves on the hands of both the fighters.

Here comes the announcer signaling for quiet. Here's the dope as he shoots it to us with that megaphone voice—ten rounds, no decision, between Jack Dempsey, 188 pounds, and Fred Fulton, 202 pounds.

Now the referee is calling the men to the center of the ring for their final instructions. Fred comes out of his corner with his bathrobe draped over his shoulders, and he's smiling as he steps to the center of the ring. Jack still is wearing that scowl, and he's looking at the floor as the referee talks to them. Ten rounds—no decision—eight ounce gloves—and behind the smiling face of Fred Fulton and the scowling mask of Jack Dempsey there is the same thought—that a decision won't be necessary. A few weeks ago in Chicago Jack Dempsey told THE TRIBUNE's boxing editor that he intended to knock out Fulton in one round, and he looks as though he intends to do it.

Now they've gone back to their corners. Ed Curley is up in the ring now, the announcer is introducing him, and he's getting a hand from the crowd! Ed is saying something, but we can't hear what it is in all the din.

Now they're clearing the ring for action. Jack Kearns is whispering into Dempsey's ear as the two fighters face each other across the ring and wait for the gong. The seconds are scampering out of the ring.

There's the bell! Round one! Dempsey is out of his corner and in the center of the ring in a flash. Fulton comes out with a smile on his face. They spar for a moment! Fulton sticks out his left hand with a widening grin. What's this Dempsey got? he asks himself. Wow! That's what he's got! Dempsey lands a hard right to the heart! It hurt Fulton. He didn't expect it. A clean blow just above the heart! Look at Dempsey tear in. He's forcing Fulton back against the ropes—Dempsey lands a left hook to the jaw—Dempsey has Fulton groggy—Dempsey has him groggy from two punches! Now their wrestling a bit—Fulton is still groggy O. Dempsey starts a right hander from his shoes. . . . . on the jaw. . . . . Fulton is down. . . . . Fred Fulton is on the mat. . . . . He's just crumpled up and gone down . . . . there's the count. . . . . he strains his body. . . . there's a look of pain on his face. . . . . three . . . . four . . . . Mike Collins, his manager, implores him to get up. . . . . Dempsey stands over him scowling. . . . . seven . . . . . eight. . . . Fulton writhes in pain. . . . He lifts his body a foot from the floor. . . . . his head hangs over the lower rope. . . . . Dempsey is waiting, fists clenched. . . . Jack Dempsey has knocked out Fred Fulton! Dempsey wins in the first round!

Bring on Jess Willard!

SALE OF RADIO LICENSES BARRED, COUNSEL HOLDS

Is Violation of the Act of 1927.

Radio licenses, like automobile tags, cannot be sold, mortgaged, or leased without the consent of the federal radio commission, Bethuel M. Webster Jr., general counsel of the commission, holds in an opinion of section 12 of the radio act of 1927. The legal view has been given on account of the raising of the question upon the presentation of petitions for renewals. In one instance recently the commission found an applicant who apparently was making a business of obtaining and selling licenses at a profit.

Section 12 is intended, Mr. Webster says, "to prevent development of the theory of property rights in the use of frequencies or in the right to communicate by radio"; also "to prevent the making of any profit based on the sale of a license" and the acquisition of stations by ineligible or undesirable persons.

"The actual assignment of the license itself without consent of the commission," Mr. Webster said, "is clearly a violation of section 12, since it amounts to a transfer of control. Moreover an outright sale of station apparatus, where the effect is to put an unlicensed vendee into possession and control is not permitted.

"During the license period the act prohibits any termination of the mortgagor's control, whether that control is terminated by default, repossession or foreclosure.

"A lease which is so drawn as to constitute a mere sale of time allows the lessor to retain control of the use or operation of the station, to continue financially responsible for the debts of the station and to continue its management is not objectionable.

"On the other hand, a lease which puts into the hands of a lessee the station management, which the commission in issuing a license has placed in the hands of the lessor licensed in accordance with the standard of public interest, would, in effect, be an assignment of license and therefore void."

CHILDREN'S CONCERT

They play their best music for the children. Sometimes lazy tunes that shepherds have sung or piped on eerie pipes. Sometimes laughing songs that elves have learned from water tumbling over stones in a young brook. Stories, too, there are. They speak familiarly of Pan and his ilk who have youth sealed up safely within them. The music is by the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra responding enthusiastically to the baton of Gaston Du Moulin. Be gay and begin the concert at 5:45.

JEAN GOLDKETTE . .

A bomb has dropped in the dance music world. Victor Young, prominent young orchestrator and violinist—Van Fleming, inspiring tenor and guitarist—Bill Herring, who plays an elastic trombone that croons as Sophie Tucker wishes she could—Jack Codaro, who licks out the dirty runs on any of half a dozen saxophones and toots a merry break on a clarinet—they're all members of Jean Goldkette's most famous of radio bands. Sunday's their big day. 1:30, 2:25, and 11.

ACCIDENT DEATH TOLL OF PUPILS CUT 7 A MONTH

Safety Bureau Reviews Two Years' Work.

The death toll of accidents to school children was reduced by more than seven a month during the first five months of this year in comparison with 1927, according to figures presented by Frank C. Singleton, director of the bureau of safety of the board of education, in the annual report of the bureau. School children incurred each month of 1929 until June 1 an average of 107 fewer injuries than during 1927, the year in which the bureau was organized.

Assuming that the figures for 1929 will be added to at the same rate recorded in the two previous years it will still leave an average of 200 accidents and 10.6 deaths per month of 1929 as against 307 accidents and 17.8 deaths each month in 1927 and 270.8 accidents and 17 deaths each month of 1928.

The bureau was organized in October, 1927, to reduce crippling and killing of Chicago's school children in school, street and home accidents.

214 Pupils Killed in 1927.

The success achieved by the bureau up to the present time has been told in the figures quoted in the report. Whereas there were 3,684 injuries and 214 fatalities in 1927, 3,250 injuries and 205 deaths in 1928, there were only 996 injuries and 56 children killed up to June 1, 1929.

"However, these figures are still far too large," according to Mr. Singleton, "for a progressive city such as Chicago, who rightfully boasts that she is a leader in matters pertaining to schools and school administration, and a city in which the population is increasing at a rate of 125,000 persons annually with an automobile registration increasing between 15,000 and 18,000 a year."

According to a survey conducted by the bureau of safety, not all the accidents to school children occurred on the streets, but also on school playgrounds and yards, in shops for manual training instruction, wood shops, domestic science rooms, in gymnasiums, classrooms, corridors, basements and stairways.

Many Groups Aid Work.

The bureau has enlisted the aid of parent-teacher organizations, business, civic, commercial and religious organizations, clubs and homes, in a drive to educate the children to an idea of safety consciousness. Teachers from the kindergarten to ninth grade have been given an outline of a safety study.

Some of the slogans which teachers for two years have been asked to impress upon the minds of the pupils and upon which they have enlarged with classroom talks have been such as "Don't Hurry, Start Early"; "Say It with Safety and Save the Flowers"; "Safety Takes the Dent Out of Accident"; "An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Ton of Regret"; "A Safety Tip: Don't Slip."

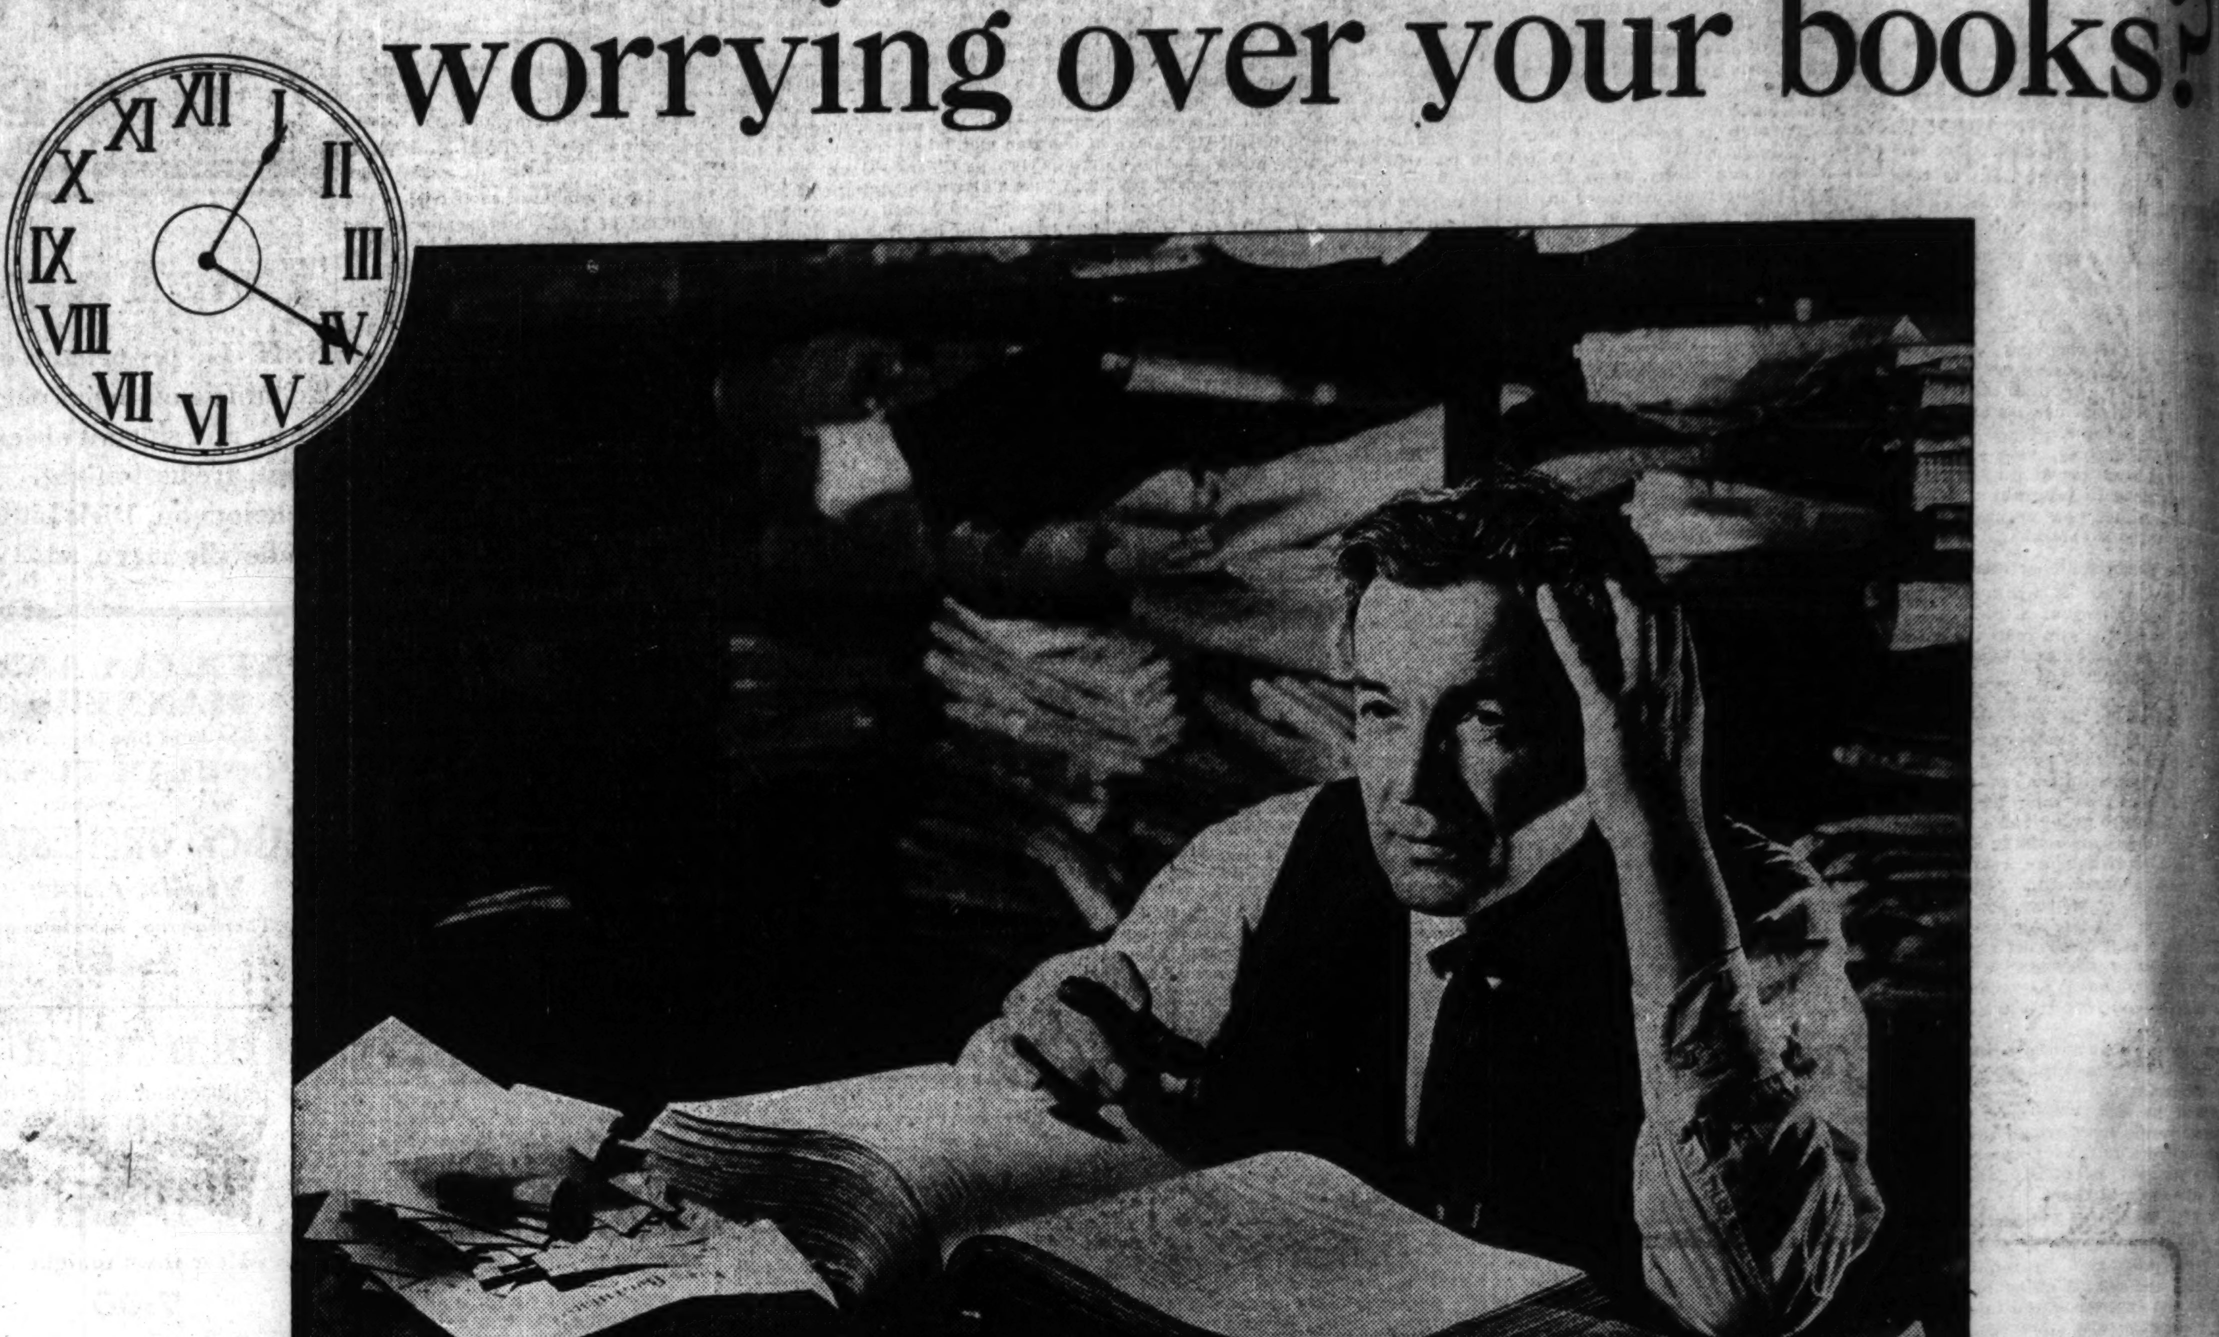
In addition to the educational program, the bureau of safety with the coöperation of a committee from the federation of parent-teacher associations was active in securing a state law requiring that all drivers of automobiles be licensed and is at present working to secure a uniform traffic code over the city.

"A driver going north from the south side passes through six different traffic ordinances before reaching Rogers Park," said Mr. Singleton, who contends that uniform traffic laws and crossing lights would simplify driving and eliminate accidents.

Patrol Boys Got Uniforms.

The bureau also succeeded in getting uniforms for the junior safety patrols connected with all grade and junior high schools, and are working for better supervision for school playgrounds.

A large map in the office of the bureau of safety shows the location of accidents which have occurred to school children. A yellow tack is placed in the map to indicate an injury and a small American flag indicates a fatality. A glance at the map shows that Chicago avenue, Milwaukee avenue, North Halsted street and North Clark street were the scene of the majority of accidents which have occurred on the north side



Did this morning find you still worrying over your books?

Let us help you build greater profits with this new principle

EVERY great business of today was once an experiment and a venture. Mandel Brothers started out with a small store on Clark Street. Walgreen's only a few years back was just another drug store on Chicago's South Side. One small candy shop grew into the Fannie May chain.

These are just three outstanding examples of phenomenal business growth. There are scores of others you can recall within your own experience—many of them less spectacular, perhaps, but all illustrative of a great principle that works just as certainly today as it did when Mandel's, Walgreen or Fannie May were making their starts.

Grow with Your Opportunities

No enterprise just grows. Success comes from ideas. These ideas have to be pushed. Push them hard and long enough and the world begins to sit up and take notice.

Are you building a business or merely running a store? Are you doing anything that sets your store or service apart from your competitors? Are your ideas original or are you just keeping in step with everybody else in your line?

The top-notchers make their own "breaks." It takes a working head as well as a fighting heart to stay out in front in this day of competitive crowding. Following the crowd isn't enough. Success requires leadership and the ability to recognize profit-making opportunities wherever they may arise.

A New Plan for Merchants

The Chicago Tribune has watched the amazing growth of Chicago through 82 eventful years. It has watched the growth of small business ventures into some of the greatest commercial enterprises of the present day. It has studied the causes making for success and noted the causes that led to failure. Now, out of this vast experience, the Tribune has developed a plan designed to help retail merchants achieve greater success under conditions as they exist in the city of Chicago today.

The complete details of the Tribune's plan have been published in book form, under the title "Bigger Profits for Merchants." The Tribune would like to place a copy of this 32-page book into the hands of every retail merchant doing business on the North Side.

A copy of this interesting book will be sent free of charge to every merchant who will ask for it. There are no strings tied to this offer. By filling in and mailing the coupon, you will not be obligating yourself to anything.

DEMAND OGDEN BE COMPLETED ACROSS ISLAND

Business Men Get Faherty's Backing.

Support in obtaining the immediate opening of Ogden avenue across Goose island to form a time-saving connecting artery between the lake shore and the west side was promised west side business men Thursday by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements.

Mr. Faherty told a group of fifty representatives of the West Town chamber of commerce who appeared in his office to enlist his coöperation in behalf of the project that when the city council reconvenes next month he will seek legislation permitting the board to make the improvement without further delay.

The west side business group will be requested to appear at the city hall again when the council is in session, he said, to indorse his demands upon the council finance committee. Members of the chamber signified their willingness to take any steps necessary to obtain completion of the street, which has been held back since 1921.

Cost Estimated at $8,800,000.

The cost of the improvement has been estimated at $8,800,000, and the board will probably seek to obtain funds by special assessment on property owners with payments spread over a period of 20 years, according to the terms of a law recently passed by the state legislature. To open Ogden avenue across the island two bridges must be constructed across the river channels which must be connected by a viaduct across the island. The latter is covered by a network of railroad tracks.

"Opening of Ogden avenue will bring traffic on a direct line from such western towns as Aurora, Naperville, La Grange, and Lyons across the west side to the north shore," C. B. Clemons, forum chairman of the chamber, said. "The improvement is complete from Randolph street to the island, but its full usefulness has never been realized because the part across Goose island is not done. A delay of 15 minutes is necessitated in crossing the island."

C. H. Kavanaugh Makes Plea.

Manufacturers in the entire west side as well as property owners and merchants feel the need of the improvement, according to Clarence H. Kavanaugh, director of the chamber and president of the West Side Commercial league.

Ald. J. H. Taylor [37th] said that residents in a section as far removed from the improvement as Austin realize the great benefit to the west side which its completion would bring. He pledged his support, and assured the gathering that other west side aldermen were also prepared to vote for the necessary ordinances.

Frank J. Bilek, secretary of the South Central Lions club and director of the chamber, told Mr. Faherty that the entire southwest side is heartily in favor of the project and believes that since it was started eight years ago, it should be completed without delay.

Cites Duty to Folk Who Paid.

"I realize that the improvement is needed by the entire west side, and will lend every effort to obtain its completion as soon as possible," Mr. Faherty said. "More than 37,000 property owners throughout the district have been assessed for the parts of Ogden avenue already completed, and they are entitled to a return on their money. The Goose island project should be completed before any other local improvement is attempted," he added.

H. J. Ruggles, manager of the chamber, was chairman of the meeting. Some of the other men present were: F. R. Campbell, Sam Baumgard, Harry J. Gardiner, M. F. Biondell, John Miller, Charles Severinghaus, Fred W. Murray, Joseph Chaban, Roland O. Watson, I. F. Dankowski, George C. Koltz, Irving N. Klien, Charles Hayes, Otto Nicholas, Sam Schuham, Louis E. Golan, Mark Shanks and George J. Dehn.

PARKS ARE SUMMER HAVENS FOR NORTHWEST SIDE YOUNGSTERS

Children of the northwest side are making use of the parks these warm days. The pictures here were taken last week at Mayfair park, which is governed by the Irving Park district commissioners. The picture at the upper left shows several youngsters enjoying the wading pool. A number of children are making the most of the shower in the lower picture at the left. The third picture shows little Billy James celebrating his second birthday in the company of his grandfather, James Waters of Park Ridge, by building castles in the sandpit of the park. Billy lives at 4557 North Kenton avenue.

At the request of property owners on Waller avenue between Adams and Madison streets, Ald. John S. Clark [30th] recently submitted to the city council an ordinance rezoning that section to permit the construction of apartment buildings. Approval of the zoning change at a public hearing is assured, according to H. C. Patterson, president of the Austin Business and Civic association, since more than 90 per cent of the residents have expressed themselves in favor of it.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

BY FRED PASLEY.

THE Park Ridge rumor that Homer S. Van Denburgh, the editor, had left town, is a base canard. Homer had the mumps and availed himself of the opportunity to stay home and get acquainted with the family. Despite the fact the vacation was slightly involuntary, Homer reports a swell time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Cook of 5115 North Kolmar avenue have sent us a card announcing "the birth of a baby boy: his name is Robert John," and from what we hear the card explains why vox pop has been so lusty of late.

WE were surprised to learn that Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, is to be officially received into the Order of the White Lion. We thought he was a White Mule.

William Zeman of the Chicago Auto laundry, 5516 West 22d street, has returned from a week's stay at Rice's lake, Wisconsin, from which he was reluctant to depart because of the abundance of fish. William says he left a few.

The fire department had to be summoned to the St. Charles Country club a few days ago, we are informed, to extinguish Ira Isaacson, the insurance salesman of 5327 North Kimball avenue, when Ira made it a hole in one from the fifth tee.

A CLIPPING from the Naperville Clarion, forwarded by one of our valued subscribers, indicates that Naperville, too, is feeling the heat, the news being very scanty: "A number of clews were followed and finally the sheriff of Edwards county came to Naperville, seeking for a large woman who wore glasses and a few other meager details."

Mrs. John Kiely and son, John Jr., of 224 North Waller street, have returned from a visit with Mrs. Kiely's mother, Mrs. Marie Witte, at Hillside, Ill., where at the Domotillas picnic Mrs. Kiely won first prize in the woman's running race and her son won second prize in the boys' running race.

JACK IFLAND of 4702 North St. Louis avenue, who has just completed a thorough course in fishing, accompanied E. C. Nagel of 5749 North Christiana avenue and Frank Held of Mayfair to Pistakee bay, where they spent a pleasant day at the summer home of John C. Kuch. Jack suggested they indulge piscatorially and consented to supply them with professional advice if needed. After six hours on the water Messrs. Kuch and Held had a catch of twenty each and Jack had hooked one. On examination it was discovered to be blind.

Committee to Seek Site for 22d Ward Playground

The city council committee on parks and playgrounds will conduct an investigation in the 22d ward next month to find a suitable site for a playground, according to an order sponsored by Ald. Joseph Cepak and referred to the committee by the city council recently. Ald. Cepak suggested that the council group recommend condemnation of property in the neighborhood of 25th street and Sacramento avenue for playground purposes.

Close Street Afternoons for 20th Ward Play Spot

The children of the 20th ward, who are practically without playground facilities, will be able to play in Gilpin place between Clinton and Jefferson streets without danger from automobiles for the remainder of the summer. An ordinance sponsored by Ald. William V. Pacelli was passed by the city council recently closing this street to traffic every afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

140 Children in Maywood Have Parts in Play

About 140 children took part in the play, "In Little Folks' Town," presented at Library hall, Maywood, last Friday under the auspices of the Maywood recreation board. Music was furnished by the playground band of the village.

BAND WILL GIVE SECOND CONCERT AT MAYFAIR PARK

Ettore Gualano's band will present a concert at Mayfair park, 4550 Sunnyside avenue, Wednesday, Aug. 14, under the auspices of the Irving Park district board. This will be the second of a series of four programs being presented at the parks of the Irving Park district.

Numbers on the program for the first concert, which was presented at Kilbourn park, Kilbourn avenue and Addison street recently, included March Symphonic, E Gualano; selections from "Martha," Floto; solo, "Let Us Be Sweethearts Tonight," sung by Sam Rothman; selections from "Traviati," Verdi; Triumphal March, E. Gualano; American Patrol; sextet from Lucia; solo, "Wonderful You," sung by Sam Rothman; Mergellina, E. Gualano; and overture, "Morning, Noon, and Night," Suppe.

Concerts will be presented at Independence park, Irving Park boulevard and Springfield avenue, Wednesday, Sept. 4, and at the Addison street athletic field, Sunday, Sept. 8.

Order New Fountain.

The commissioner of public works was recently directed by the city council to install a public drinking fountain at Fullerton and Central Park avenues.

Playgrounds Preparing for Gay Festival

Bicycles, doll buggies, kiddie cars and wagons will be transformed into floats for the sixth annual children's Mardi gras which will be staged during August by the board of education bureau of recreation. The playgrounds operated during the summer by the school board have been divided into four groups, each of which will present its gay pageant and parade at a different time and place. In previous years all the playgrounds have united for one large affair in Grant park.

Scheduled for Aug. 15.

The group of west side playgrounds will hold its part of the Mardi gras on Thursday evening, Aug. 15, at 7 o'clock. The children will parade around the lagoon in Garfield park.

Herman J. Fischer is director of the bureau of recreation sponsoring the affair and Miss Flora J. Wolfson, one of the supervisors of the play grounds, is directly in charge. Miss Kate Kravel, director of Nash playground, is in charge of the program for the west side division.

Participating Playgrounds.

Approximately 500 children are expected to participate.

ASK PARK BOARD TO GIVE CONCERTS IN LOGAN SQUARE

Civic and business organizations of Logan Square are appealing to the west park board this week for two band concerts at the square before Labor day. Clubs of the district are sponsoring the movement for the concerts as an aid to establishing the square as not only a public green but as a community center for the northwest side, according to Charles V. Falkenberg, president of the Logan Square Business Men's association.

Other residents of the Logan Square district joining in th appeal are J. A. Hollander, president of the Logan Square Kiwanis club; Milton F. Darr, president of the Logan Square Lions club; J. T. Dempsey, president of the Logan Square Athletic club, and Nicholas Goldberger, director of the Milwaukee-Armitage-Western Business Men's association.

"We want the band concerts to be held in the various districts of the west side instead of only in the three large parks, Garfield, Columbus, and Humboldt," Mr. Falkenberg said. "Concerts were held at the square about ten years ago and were discontinued for some reason. We want them again, and have the support of every club in the district, including the American Legion, the service clubs, business organizations, and parent-teacher groups."

Council Votes Sidewalks for 4 West Side Streets

Ordinances for the construction of sidewalks on four west side streets were passed recently by the city council. Sidewalks will be laid on the following streets: 18th street between Mechanic street and Canal street; Harrison street between Damen and Western avenues; Lake street between Halsted street and Ashland avenue, and Paulina street between Chicago avenue and Kinzie street.

OPEN ELMHURST COLLEGE COURSE IN LEADERSHIP

The Elmhurst college leadership training school will open Aug. 6 and continue through Aug. 14. The school will be attended by Sunday school teachers, church leaders, and others interested in Christian leadership.

The Rev. Fred McQueen of St. Louis will be director of the school. Dr. T. Lehmann of Elmhurst will be dean, while Prof. Henry Katterjohn is to have charge of musical events and will instruct in several of the courses. Seven similar schools are conducted throughout the country each summer, the Elmhurst school ranking as one of the largest. Prof. Katterjohn was also an instructor in the Dunkirk, N. Y., school, which completed its course last week.

A number of campus get-togethers and other social affairs are being arranged. Alban Keppler will supervise the recreational activities.

The students will be housed in the college dormitories. Courses are open to both men and women and practically all of the central states will be represented. Credit is given for some of the courses taught at the school.

River Forest and Oak Park Asked to Widen Harlem Av.

Chase House Turns Children Into Citizens

BY LILLIAN CUNNINGHAM.

Have you ever visited "Labor Row"? It is interesting and quite unique. Sometimes it is designated as "the great medical center," claiming to have more hosptials, clinics, dispensaries, etc., than any other one section in the world.

Not so many years ago Ashland avenue, from Lake to Twelfth streets, was a fashionable part of Chicago, but now few real homes exist there, although the population has increased several times within the last few years. Where one family once occupied a house of ten rooms, possibly eight or ten families are occupying that house today— a family in nearly every room.

Furnished rooms are not conducive to family life. In most cases both parents are employed, and the children have to shift for themselves. Wee Peter, Johnny, Mary, and Katie have to fight their own battles and their baby faces grow old quickly.

Care for the Children.

Chase house, under the inspiration of the mission staff of the Episcopal church of Chicago, decided the best way to serve this neighborhood was to care for these youngsters. Out of this thought has come the day nursery or nursery school, which is meeting a great need.

Daily applications are made for the nursery and the kindergarten is running full capacity all the time. A thorough physical examination is required before entrance and the spiritual and mental growth of the child is under careful supervision. The charge is nominal and is only a sixth of the actual expense of keeping the child.

It is indeed a labor of love. An interview with Deaconess Fuller, head resident, dispels all doubts as to her capability for such a tremendous task —the shaping and molding of the child mind and the care of their little bodies. Tasks which properly belong to the parents, but, because of economic conditions, have to be shifted to other shoulders.

Cheerful Room for Children.

The children range in age from two to six years. And what happy youngsters! But who wouldn't be happy in such pleasant surroundings? The kindergarten is a joy. Deaconess Fuller, with the assistance of the instructors, has changed a dreary large room into a most cheerful and charming study and play room. On the little orange and black painted tables faces of animals from the zoo stare up at one quite cockily. One is almost tempted to try and sit down in the tiny chairs.

I followed the deaconess into the immaculate washroom, and there, all in a row in the small cupboard, hung the tiny toothbrushes. They were neatly marked and as sanitarily kept as if they reposed in the cupboard of a large hospital.

"The children are taught to wait upon themselves," said the deaconess. "And how they love to do it!"

Rest Room Attractive.

The rest room was light and airy and the cots and cribs, with their snowy white coverlets and pillows, were ready to coax the children to make their afternoon visit to the sandman.

This section of Chase house had been the barn in days of past glory, but the aristocrats of horsedom which were sheltered there would never recognize the attractive rooms.

"What is the aim of Chase house?" I asked. Deaconess Fuller immediately answered, "To make them good citizens."

"Once a month," she continued, "we hold a dinner for the parents, which is followed by an instructive talk and entertainment. You know (and here the deaconess smiled) you must teach the parents, for squabbly parents make squabbly children."

For All Members of Family.

Chase house does not confine itself entirely to the nursery. Older members of the family are also given attention.

The program for the week runs something like this:

Monday—Scout day; girls.
Tuesday—Scout day; boys. Sunset, girls
Wednesday—Wawa-tayse; girls. Nitehawks, boys.
Thursday—Blue Bloods; boys. Meeting, mothers and grandmothers.
Friday—C. H. F.; big sisters.
Saturday—Visitors; girls.
Every day—Library [a branch of the public library].

A weekly visit is made by the attending physicians and the parents instructed in regard to the care of their little son or daughter.

Mexican Boy a Favorite.

An interesting little chap is Fernando L., from Mexico. His parents, cultured and once possessing means, fled from one of the numerous Mexican revolutions and settled in Chicago. Both mother and father were forced to seek employment. Fernando has become a favorite at Chase house. Although in his own home he speaks his native tongue, he is learning the English language very quickly and is a great help to his parents in their mastery of their adopted country's tongue.

Take a look at the smiling faces of the Chase house youngsters in the play yard, and especially at Fernando's as he stands beside "Santa."

"It is not a spectacular work," said the head resident. "Rather discouraging trying to make people get on their feet who are not very anxious to do so—like trying to make a doll stand when it only has sawdust legs, but where there are children, any amount of effort is worth while to help them to a right start in life."

Land Given for Addition to Eugene Field Park

An addition to Eugene Field park consisting of the section of Carmen avenue from the alley west of Hamlin avenue to Lawndale avenue has been arranged by the Albany Park district commissioners. The city council recently passed an ordinance whereby the city gave over its rights to the park. Three property owners also gave up their rights. Ald. J. C. Ross was instrumental in effecting the move.

COSMOPOLITAN CHURCH SERVES 7 DAYS A WEEK

45,000 Children Its Chief Interest.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

THE REV. ROBERT STEPHENSON.

Out along the shores of the Fox river, between St. Charles and Elgin, forty youngsters from the vicinity of 19th and Halsted streets, are enjoying the fresh air and sunshine, the green grass and the shade of the trees. A group of forty goes from the Halsted Street Institutional church every ten days. For those who have already had their vacation or whose period for the outing has not yet arrived, there is the pool, purified by violet rays, that offers its cool waters in the church building at 1935 South Halsted street.

The church plant, erected in 1927 at a cost of $320,000, has the latest equipment for its manifold activities, and the Ward Memorial pool, gift of Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Ward, is particularly popular these days when the sun beats down on the asphalt.

The church, fostered by the Methodist Episcopal denomination, is located within a half mile of 45,000 children.

In 1915, Dr. Robert Stephenson, a native of Leeds and with university training both in England and the United States, came to the church as organizer, inspirer, pastor, mediator, and friend to the responsive throngs in the congested section of the city.

Organized in Dance Hall.

Launched 62 years ago in a dance hall over a saloon at Halsted and 22d streets, the church built a frame home which was followed by one of brick. Two years ago that building, having become inadequate, was torn down to make way for the present structure of ecclesiastical design, which is adapted to all kinds of social, educational and recreational activities.

The new building is utilized in conducting clubs, promoting athletics, furnishing motion picture entertainment, as well as in the direct work of the church and Sunday school. It is a place

"Where nationalities meet and mingle,
Where clear brains with clean bodies count,
Where wholesome living brings high reward,

The gymnasium on the fourth floor is open to all sorts of groups and there is rarely a night in the winter months that there is not a contest in progress there. On the first floor is a first class cafeteria, which serves some 300 patrons each noon. Both the boys and the girls are taught to cook in the domestic science department.

The play rooms are crowded, but who cares? For here are chess and checkers, pocket billiards, spelling games and story books.

Carpenter Shop for Boys.

There is a carpenter shop where the boys draw their own designs and develop them in terms of wood. Just now the greatest interest is in model airplanes.

Under scientific supervision, the girls are taught the rudiments of sewing. There is a favorite room with the girls—the model dining room —where students are taught to lay the cloth properly, to place silver and china correctly.

Every Monday night, except during July and August, there is a motion picture show for the children in the big auditorium. The admission to this entertainment is one cent. Six times during the year a play is given for the adults by talent recruited from the institution.

Sundays, from early morning through the evening worship, Halsted Street church teems. Through the Gothic archway pass babies and little children, boys and girls, men and women in their prime and in the weakness of age. From twenty-two countries of the old world they come, and the church knows no limit of age.

Beyond the open doors are rooms furnished in simple, homelike, friendly fashion—the offices, the Halsted Street library, the reception and waiting rooms.

All Reverence in Chapel.

The memorial chapel, furnished by Mrs. Perley Low in honor of her late husband, is a place apart. Here no one speaks boisterously nor acts rudely. The amosphere is sacred and reverent. The young people who compose the choir represent twelve nationalities.

Members of the church staff are Dr. Robert Stephenson, pastor and superintendent; Roy Steen, assistant pastor; Mrs. Robert Stephenson, director of women's work; Miss Edna Cutshaw, head of domestic science department; Miss Verna McFerrin, church visitor and relief work; Miss Florence Lyons, director of religious education; Mrs. Edith Young, church secretary; June Parish, director of boys' work and printing; Miss Miriam Poole, head of dramatic department; Miss Elizabeth Beers, swimming instructor and gymnasium director for girls; Theodore Krause, swimming instructor and gymnasium director for boys; Miss Viola Anderson, cafeteria director; Miss Anna Olson, camp director; Mrs. Sophie Wieman, assistant camp director; Jacob Ongemach, caretaker; and Miss Doris Price, housekeeper.

On the board of directors are George Engelking, president; F. J. Thielbar, secretary-treasurer; John Thompson, George W. Dixon, A. H. Clement, R. Clarence Brown, Edward C. Schutz, F. C. Eiselen, C. E. Greenfield, William Lee, and Nillis Johnson.

PETERSON AVE. WIDENING TO BE FINISHED OCT. 1

Provides Adequate Route Into Northwest Side.

The widening and repaving of Peterson avenue between Clark street and the north shore channel will be completed by Oct. 1, Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements has announced. With the completion of this improvement another wide thoroughfare will be opened connecting the lake with the North Town and north park districts.

The new Peterson avenue will provide a direct route to the rapidly growing communities between Western avenue and the canal, residents of the area point out, and in addition will relieve the traffic congestion on Devon and Granville avenues. The only other east and west thoroughfare from the lake to the northwest side is Lawrence avenue, one mile and a half to the south. Traffic into the district west of Western avenue between Peterson and Lawrence avenues is blocked by Rosehill cemetery. The improvement of Peterson avenue west of the channel will be completed by Sept. 1, Mr. Faherty said.

Favor Widening Lincoln Avenue.

Several other widening and paving projects to aid the movement of traffic in the large area west of Western avenue between Wilson and Devon avenues are also being urged by the residents and business men and are being considered by the improvement board. Foremost among these projects is the widening of Lincoln avenue between Catalpa and Devon avenues. This improvement, the motorists declare, will provide the most direct route through the North Town district to the north park and Peterson woods communities, Niles Center, Tessville and other northwest side suburbs.

Steps have already been started to complete the underground work preparatory to the widening of Lincoln avenue and the assessment for the paving of the street is now being spread. The assessment roll will be filed in court within a few weeks and the board expects to have confirmation of the assessment in order that work may be started next spring. The improvement will be completed in the fall of 1930, Mr. Faherty said.

The widening of Catalpa avenue between Western and Lincoln avenues has been completed. This stretch will provide an entrance on the south to the new northwest through street.

Another important improvement in the central north side designed to aid traffic between the lake and the west side is the widening and paving of Foster avenue which is being considered by the improvement board. A 42 foot roadway between the lake and Central Park avenue has been suggested to relieve some of the traffic on Lawrence avenue.

Prepare Wilson Avenue Petitions.

Property owners on Wilson avenue are preparing to circulate petitions requesting the city to widen and pave Wilson avenue between Clarendon avenue and the north channel. The Wilson avenue business men also seek to relieve the traffic on Lawrence avenue as well as on Montrose avenue, the only east and west through streets in the Uptown district. They also point out that a wider pavement will be needed to take care of the flow of traffic that will pass through the district when the outer drive in Lincoln park is extended to Wilson avenue.

One of the major street improvements of the north side, the widening and paving of Ashland avenue between Addison street and Winnemac avenue, is nearly completed. The completion of this work will furnish a wide thoroughfare, nearly three miles long, connecting Rogers Park with the Lincoln and Belmont avenue district.

In the near north side two street improvements of major importance are underway. The pavinug of Ohio street between Lake Shore drive and Orleans street will be completed by the end of August. The widening of Walton place has been started and the laying of the pavement west of Michigan avenue will be started as soon as the underground work is completed. The underground work east of Michigan avenue has been completed for several months.

BUSINESS BODY PAYS HONOR TO S. G. SCHWARTZ

Logan Square Civic Chief Dies Suddenly.

Sydney G. Schwartz, 31 years old, real estate dealer and Logan Square business leader, died suddenly last Sunday at Lutheran Memorial hospital. Members of the Logan Square Business Men's association turned out in a body at his funeral Monday at Waldheim cemetery.

Mr. Schwartz, who went to Logan Square three years ago as manager of the Michael Flicht real estate interests, is credited with bringing about a good deal of the business development on Milwaukee avenue and other business streets in the neighborhood. Under his direction more than $6,000,000 worth of properties were leased, sold, or transferred, until today almost every store in the Logan Square district is held under a long term lease.

As chairman of the business association's trade extension committee, Schwartz successfully managed the spring business celebration at the square this year.

He was unmarried, and lived with his parents at 3233 Cortez street. He was a member of the John Corson Smith lodge, A. F. & A. M., West Town lodge of Knights of Pythias, and Logan Square B'nai Brith.

Enroll at St. Patrick's.

Registration is now taking place at St. Patrick's academy, Des Plaines, for the coming school year. The enrollment of 90 students last year is expected to be considerably augmented this term. The school year will commence Sept. 9.

George M. Ellis, Retired Business Man, Is Dead

George M. Ellis, 4459 Leland avenue, resident of Chicago for twelve years, was buried at Ridgewood cemetery Wednesday morning. Mr. Ellis, who was 72 years old, was survived by five sons, William O., James D., Walter G., John Harvey, and E. Homer; and two daughters, Ruth and Mrs. May Ellis Wolgast. He had retired from business.

Mrs. Mary G. Wallace's Funeral Service Is Held

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Grace Wallace, who died last Tuesday, was held Friday at Our Lady of Angels church. A solemn high mass was sung after which interment was at Mount Carmel cemetery.

HEARING AUG. 26 FOR BRYN MAWR, TOUHY SEWERS

Two sewer projects which have been sought for more than two years by residents of the northwest side were presented for confirmation in the County court Monday by attorneys for the board of local improvements. The cases will be heard Aug. 26, and if the procedure is not delayed by a large number of objections, the board will be permitted to advertise for bids immediately.

The sewer systems which the board is seeking to construct are the Bryn Mawr system, costing $1,121,000 and providing sewerage facilities for the district bounded by Bryn Mawr, Lawrence, and Austin avenues and the city limits; and the Touhy avenue system, estimated to cost $375,000, and serving the territory bounded by Harlen and Touhy avenues, Howard street, and the city limits.

Officials of the board expect little difficulty in obtaining confirmation of the projects since residents in the areas affected have been asking for relief for years and would not be likely to object.

During the last few years basements throughout these sections of the northwest side have been flooded by almost every heavy rain, creating an insanitary condition. The proposed sewers would be part of the city's central drainage system, and would flow into the northwest side sewage disposal plant.

Ordinances for the sewers were passed a few months ago under the guidance of Ald. T. J. Bowler. Assessment rolls were completed two weeks ago by the board of local improvements.

Northwest Women's Clubs Get New Meeting Place

A new meeting hall for women's clubs of the northwest side has been provided by the Irving park district, according to Charles Mueller, superintendent. Part of a building at 3100 Byron street, recently acquired as an administration building for the district, has been set aside for the use of women. A kitchen and a meeting room have been provided.

CATHOLICS OPEN RETREAT CENTER ON LABOR DAY

Many Organizations Form Classes of Laymen.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Parishes of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese throughout Chicago's west side and suburban towns are organizing classes of retreatants to participate in the opening of the St. Francis Laymen Retreat league's new city headquarters at Corpus Christi church, 49th street and South parkway.

Workmen have been engaged for several weeks remodeling the Corpus Christi school building to meet requirements of retreat classes. It is expected all will be in readiness for an opening retreat class on or about Labor day. The classes are being organized through the coöperation of the west side councils of the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies, Catholic Order of Foresters, and other church organizations.

Work of organizing the west side and suburban town classes has been placed under the supervision of Frank Murphy, Edwin Rilley, William Mullally, Frank Kane, Anthony Carroll, and James Cashman. The loop territory is being solicited by John McCormick, Frank Bradley, Joseph J. Croak, James A. Meagher, Francis E. Sammons, and George Cannon.

Mayslake Retreats Continue.

Retreat classes conducted by the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league will continue to be held at Mayslake, Hinsdale, Ill., every week-end from Friday evening until early Monday morning. The establishment of the city retreat house at Corpus Christi church will augment the work that is being carried on by the Franciscan priests at Mayslake.

Father Valerius, O. F. M., one of Chicago's most widely known Franciscan fathers and former retreat master at Mayslake, is to take charge of the new retreat house. The work of class organization will be in charge of the Rev. Patrick Maloney, O. F. M. Father Maloney grew up in Chicago and maintains at 115 Polk street an office where reservations to attend the retreat classes at either Mayslake or at Corpus Christi this fall may be made.

Inaugurated by Mundelein.

Realizing the benefits that result from a weekend spent in contemplation and prayer, Cardinal Mundelein inaugurated the retreat movement in Chicago about five years ago.

The Rev. Giles Strub, O. F. M., was the founder of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. Its purpose was to spread the benefits of a retreat once a year for every Catholic man in the archdiocese. Today the league has a membership of approximately 5,000.

Labor, Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies and business organizations list many members in the league. Parishes, too, have coöperated and last year Chicago was awarded first place in retreat attendance in the United States. Members of the Asbestos Workers' union have the honor position for attendance at Mayslake. Hughie Mulligan, business representative of the labor organization, is also president of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league.

Move Spreads Among Labor.

With Mulligan's coöperation Father Maloney was able to spread the work of the league into many labor organizations, especially among the building trades. Working under the league banner today are such labor officials as Bernard Cruice, Stephen Bailey, Bernard Rubbery, Charles Mulcahy, Patrick Cullen, Martin Durkin, Frank Kane, John Durkin, Thomas O'Donnell, John Murphy, and John Stretch.

The Knights of Columbus have coöperated with Father Maloney and many councils have sent individual classes to Mayslake. Some of the leaders of this movement are Edward Houlihan, state deputy of the K. of C.; Frank Enright, president of the Chicago chapter; Leo Flynn, Judge John P. McGoorty, Patrick Woods, John Reiner, Joseph McMahon, Frank Walsh, Arthur Donohue, James Carney, Austin O'Malley, and P. J. J. McCarthy.

To date only a few parishes have done pioneering work in behalf of the Retreat league, and these include St. Jerome's, of which the Rev. T. F. Farrell is pastor; St. Ignatius, with the Rev. F. G. Dinneen as pastor; St. John the Baptist, with the Rev. P. T. Gelines as pastor; St. Joseph's, with the Rev. J. V. La Marre as pastor, and St. Kilian's, with the Rev. James M. Leddy as pastor.

Benefits Early Workers.

A retreat class lasts from the close of business on Friday evening until Monday morning. Conclusion of the spiritual exercises is arranged to permit retreatants to be at work at 8 o'clock Monday morning. However, to many of the workers in Chicago it is necessary for them to be at work Monday morning as early as 5 and 6 o'clock and it is to facilitate their return that the Corpus Christi retreat house will be opened.

Aug. 30 has been set by Father Maloney as the date for a city fire fighters' class.

YOUNG MR. HOSCHUTZ LIKES THE CHICKENS

The first prize of $5 in The Tribune's play picture contest for amateur photographers of the west side was awarded this week for a snapshot of William Fred Hoschutz Jr., 2259 North Keating avenue, among the chickens on a farm he visited recently. The photographer was his mother, Mrs. Edna Hoschutz. Edith and Harriet Ericksen, 4253 N. Central Park avenue, have learned to keep cool in their own backyard. A picture of them taking a hose shower on their garage roof won the second prize of $3 for their mother, Mrs. S. Ericksen. The charming lass among the blossoms is Catherine Stroker, 16 South Bothwell street, Palatine Ill. For that picture Mrs. A. C. Stroker was awarded the third prize of $2. "Playing Soldier," showing John Alexander, 613 Wilson avenue, Downers Grove, and made by Reid Alexander, won an extra prize of $2.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR MASSMEETING SEEKING TAX CUT

Civic Groups Back Session Tuesday.

Arrangements for the tax reduction meeting sponsored by the Northwest Federation of Improvement clubs, which will be held at the city hall Tuesday night have been completed, according to T. P. Quinn, chairman of the committee in charge. Delegates from more than 700 civic organizations throughout the city will meet in the city council chambers at 8 p. m.

The program of the meeting will include an introductory address by Mr. Quinn and general discussion of the problem at hand by delegates from the various groups. Temporary officers of the civic body will be elected, and the drive for reform in local government through which members of the federation hope to obtain a reduction in taxes will be launched.

All Private Citizens.

The new association will be composed entirely of private citizens, and no public officeholders will be affiliated in any way, according to Mr. Quinn. Members of his committee are E. D. Jackson, John Klier, William Schmidt, William Crump, Henry Pollard, C. C. Foster, E. F. Boyle, B. A. Rooney, S. W. Haddock, E. O. Hutchinson, John Pahl, James Davis, Dr. H. J. Weiland, and O. W. Holmes, president of the federation.

The drive to organize the tax reduction meeting was begun by the Northwest federation a month ago, and was the outgrowth of an attempt to organize the Citizens' Tax Reduction association.

Not wishing to permit a new organization to take the matter of tax reduction into its hands, the federation adopted the following resolution:

"The question of taxation is now looming up as one of the major questions for immediate consideration of the citizens of this city and county.

"New organizations are springing up in an attempt to deal with this vital question. These organizations have no background to justify our confidence in their ability or sincerity to handle the question of taxation in the interest of the small taxpayer; therefore be it resolved:

"That the chairman of this organization be authorized to appoint a committee of five or six members of this body, with authority to work out a system of city-wide organization to deal with this situation."

Tentative Program Adopted.

At subsequent meetings of the committee appointed by O. W. Holmes, president of the federation, a tentative program for the city-wide tax reduction organization was worked out.

The program would include a survey of the city and county departments with a view to consolidating those whose efficiency would be increased by consolidation, and studies of the various city departments to detect waste and to determine whether Chicago is being run under the best possible system of local government.

According to the plan, the county government and sanitary district would be investigated, as well as park systems and the city and county judiciary.

Golf at Big Oaks.

25 CENT BOOK HELPS HER WIN ESSAY PRIZE; GOOD BIRD CAGE CHEAP

The Tribune will pay $2 for each story of the best bargain obtained in a neighborhood store, printed in the Metropolitan section. Address Bargain, Metropolitan Section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper, and print your name and address plainly.

Chicago, July 28.—My best neighborhood bargain was a book on France for 25 cents at a local department store. I found it among many all more or less damaged, but this one was in perfect condition and beautifully bound. It is the work of a famous French historian, and was my principal source of information for a prize essay I wrote last semester on the French revolution.

3343 North Monticello avenue.

BIRD CAGE FOR 85 CENTS.

Chicago, July 30.—A well made brass bird cage equipped with perches, swing and cups on sale at a nearby department store for 89 cents was my greatest bargain. I have used it for two years now, and it will probably continue in service for many more.

MRS. A. SAWYER,
2439 North California avenue.

WORTH WAITING FOR.

Chicago, July 28.—Some time ago I bought a pair of fine leather oxfords for $1 at a sale in a department store in the 26th and Halsted street district. These oxfords are of a well known make that sell regularly for $10 a pair. I had to do some before-the-doors-opened waiting, but such a bargain was more than a sufficient recompense.

MRS. C. SHONEROCK,

Police to Ban Fruit Stands on Lawrence Ave. Sidewalk

In accordance with a request of Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] the police of the Albany Park district have begun a drive to eliminate all display of fruit on the sidewalks of Lawrence avenue and Kedzie avenue. Ald. Ross said his action was in response to numerous complaints made by residents and civic organizations of the community.

Gilman Club Women Observe 30th Anniversary

The Sigma Delta club of Gilman, Ill., a group of women organized thirty years ago, met July 26 and 27 at Gilman to observe the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the organization. Twenty-seven members were present, coming from remote sections of the country. Several are now nationally known.

SNAP 'EM AT PLAY AND WIN CASH PRIZE IN TRIBUNE CONTEST

Try your hand at a playtime picture and win a prize in The Tribune's photo contest. Playtime for Sally Ann under the hose, or playtime for father with a fishing rod, Jane and John playing cowboy and Indian, or baby sister finding out that grass is ticklish for the first time—catch them with a camera and send them in.

The Tribune will pay $5 for the best playtime picture taken by an amateur. It will pay $3 for the second best and $2 for the third. All pictures must be taken in the Chicago area.

CLAY'S ESTATE GAVE NAME TO ASHLAND AVENUE

Street Developed by Former Kentuckian.

This is the eighth of a series of articles on the naming of west side streets and suburbs.

Ashland avenue was named after the Kentucky home of Henry Clay, the noted American statesman.

By patient drill through methods of his own, Clay had carefully laid the foundation for that repute for marvelous eloquence which marked him even down to his old age. His property rapidly increased, and following his marriage to Lucretia Hart in 1799, he purchased the estate of 600 acres near Lexington, which became famous as his Kentucky home. His eleven children were born there. For fifty years it was a sort of Mecca for political pilgrims on every kind of an errand.

The Ashland mansion, known for its grandure and its hospitality, had registered itself in the minds of the Kentuckians who had migrated to pioneer Chicago.

Ashland Avenue's Pioneer.

Among those from the Blue Grass state was Samuel J. Walker, capitalist and real estate operator, who owned a vast frontage along the portion of Ashland avenue which lies west of the loop district and who was responsible for its first building improvements.

Mr. Walker's first venture—1864—was six fine brick homes on different corners. In 1868 he built twenty marble front houses. Thus, we are told, "within four years Ashland had become an avenue of palaces."

In 1874 the street had improved to the point where it was described as "foremost among the fancy residence thoroughfares of the west side. The sidewalks are all uniform and laid in flagstones, although in some places wooden walks are down now. This splendid walk has no equal anywhere for symmetry, uniformity and grace."

First Called Reuben Street.

The thoroughfare might have prospered as well under its original name —Reuben street, but the term "Hey, Rube" came into vogue and, upon petition of the sorely tried residents, a change to Ashland was obtained.

Former Mayor Carter H. Harrison in "Chicago Yesterdays" recalls that in his boyhood it was known as Reuben street. He speaks of the street when it was a dirt road and one of its seven houses belonged to "the chicken woman."

"I can close my eyes today," he wrote, "and the hissing of her geese and the quacking of her ducks are still in my ears."

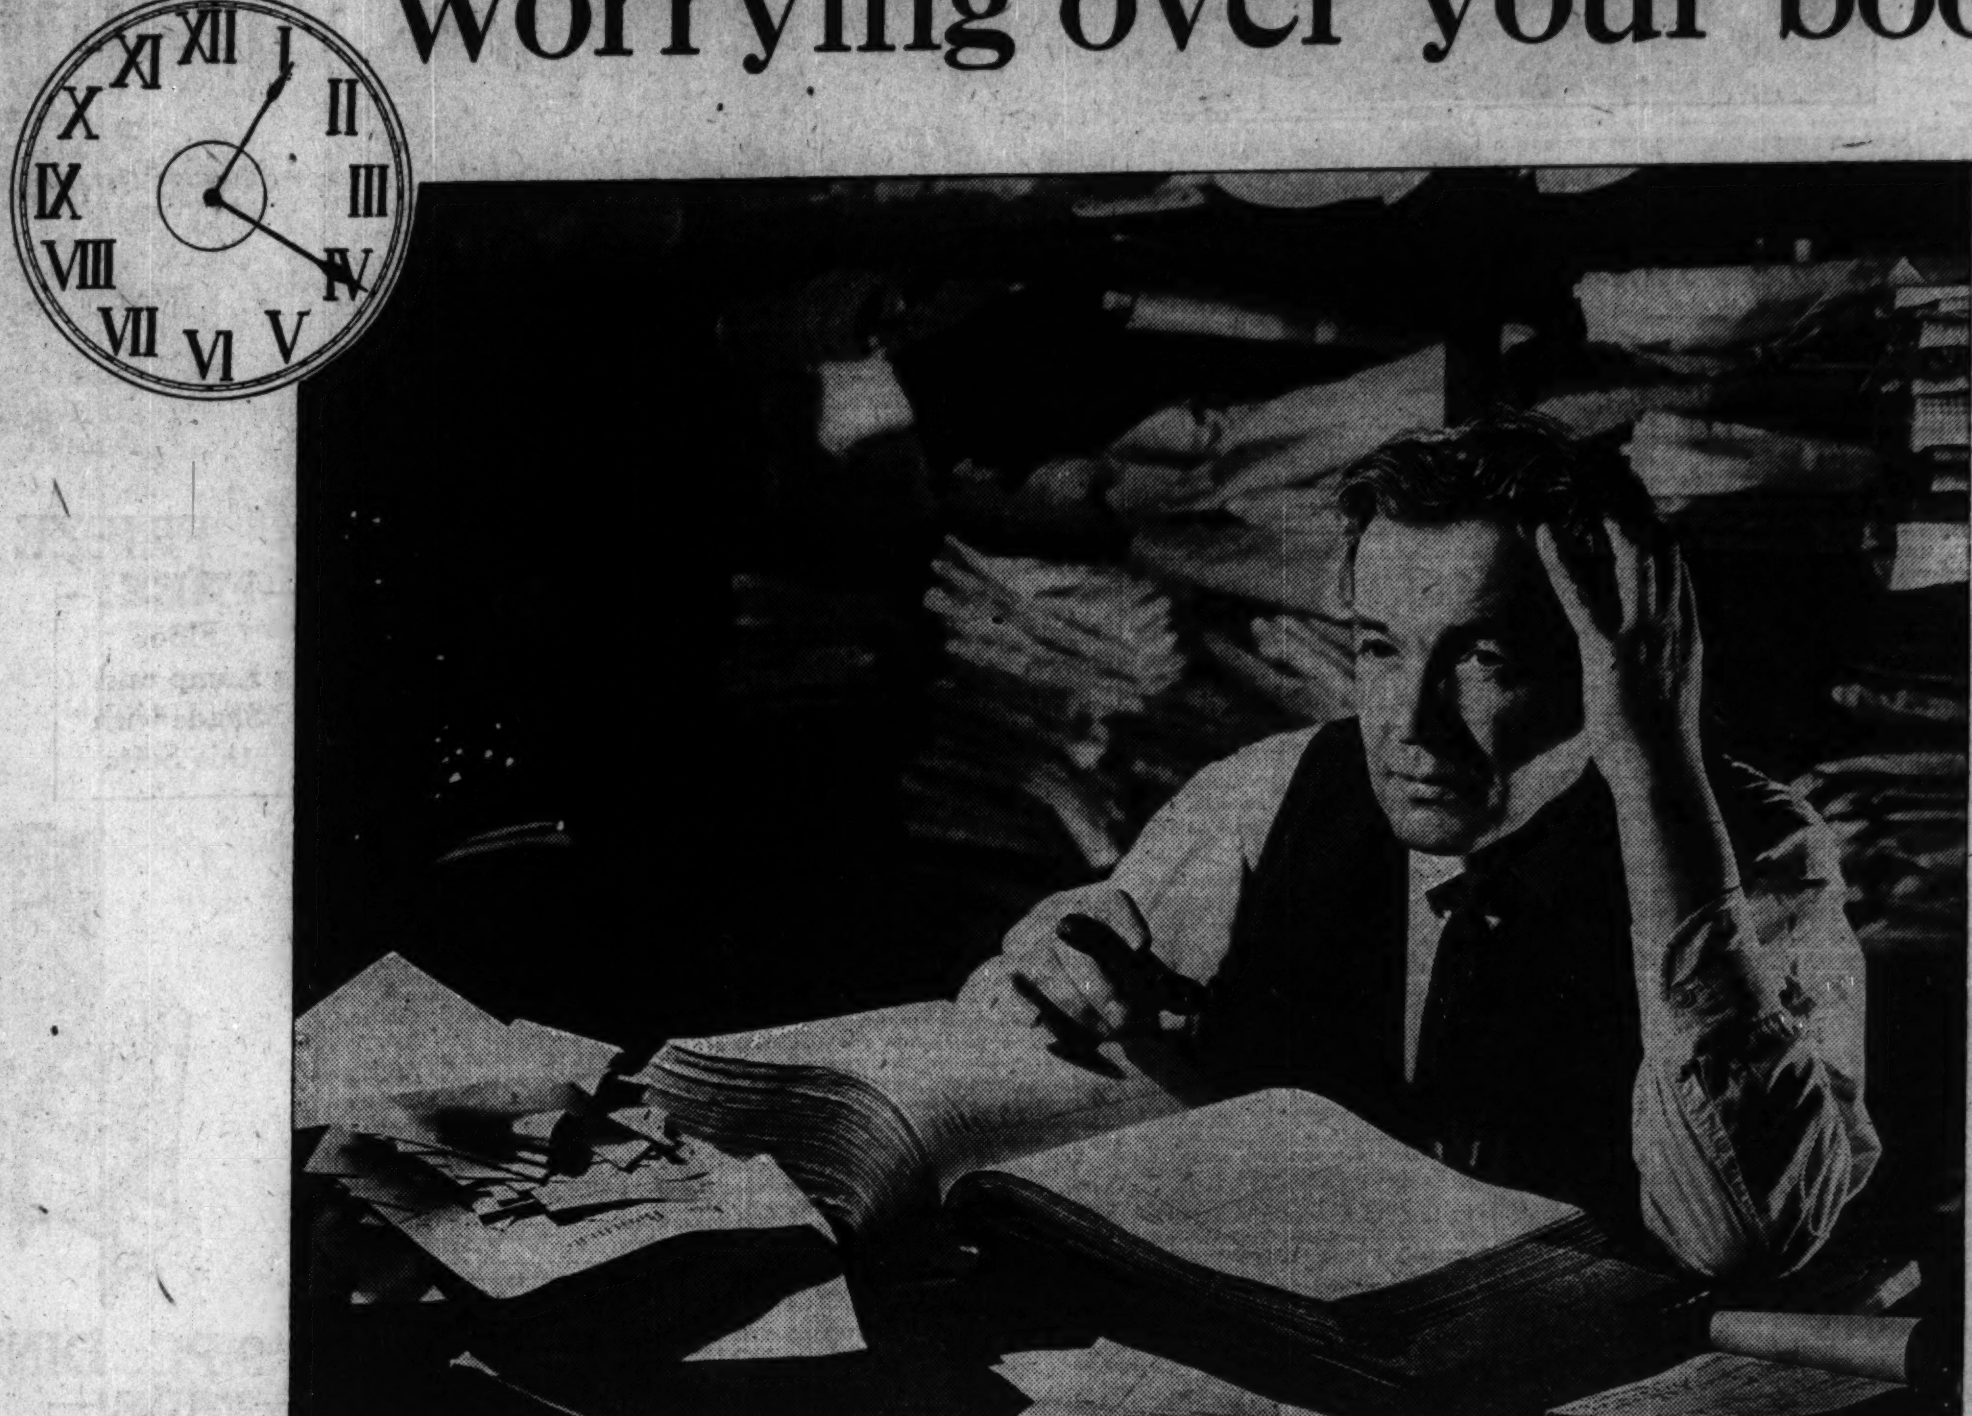
Did this morning find you still worrying over your books?



Let us help you build greater profits with this new principle

EVERY great business of today was once an experiment and a venture. Mandel Brothers started out with a small store on Clark Street. Walgreen's only a few years back was just another drug store on Chicago's South Side. One small candy shop grew into the Fannie May chain.

These are just three outstanding examples of phenomenal business growth. There are scores of others you can recall within your own experience—many of them less spectacular, perhaps, but all illustrative of a great principle that works just as certainly today as it did when Mandel's, Walgreen or Fannie May were making their starts.

Grow with Your Opportunities

No enterprise just grows. Success comes from ideas. These ideas have to be pushed. Push them hard and long enough and the world begins to sit up and take notice.

Are you building a business or merely running a store? Are you doing anything that sets your store or service apart from your competitors? Are your ideas original or are you just keeping in step with everybody else in your line?

The top-notchers make their own "breaks." It takes a working head as well as a fighting heart to stay out in front in this day of competitive crowding. Following the crowd isn't enough. Success requires leadership and the ability to recognize profit-making opportunities wherever they may arise.

A New Plan for Merchants

The Chicago Tribune has watched the amazing growth of Chicago through 82 eventful years. It has watched the growth of small business ventures into some of the greatest commercial enterprises of the present day. It has studied the causes making for success and noted the causes that led to failure. Now, out of this vast experience, the Tribune has developed a plan designed to help retail merchants achieve greater success under conditions as they exist in the city of Chicago today.

The complete details of the Tribune's plan have been published in book form, under the title "Bigger Profits for Merchants." The Tribune would like to place a copy of this 32-page book into the hands of every retail merchant doing business on the Northwest Side.

A copy of this interesting book will be sent free of charge to every merchant who will ask for it. There are no strings tied to this offer. By filling in and mailing the coupon, you will not be obligating yourself to anything.

SALE OF RADIO LICENSES BARRED, COUNSEL HOLDS

Is Violation of the Act of 1927.

Radio licenses, like automobile tags, cannot be sold, mortgaged, or leased without the consent of the federal radio commission, Bethuel M. Webster Jr., general counsel of the commission, holds in an opinion of section 12 of the radio act of 1927. The legal view has been given on account of the raising of the question upon the presentation of petitions for renewals. In one instance recently the commission found an applicant who apparently was making a business of obtaining and selling licenses at a profit.

Section 12 is intended, Mr. Webster says, "to prevent development of the theory of property rights in the use of frequencies or in the right to communicate by radio"; also "to prevent the making of any profit based on the sale of a license" and the acquisition of stations by ineligible or undesirable persons.

"The actual assignment of the license itself without consent of the commission," Mr. Webster said, "is clearly a violation of section 12, since it amounts to a transfer of control. Moreover an outright sale of station apparatus, where the effect is to put an unlicensed vendee into possession and control is not permitted.

"During the license period the act prohibits any termination of the mortgagor's control, whether that control is terminated by default, repossession or foreclosure.

"A lease which is so drawn as to constitute a mere sale of time allows the lessor to retain control of the use or operation of the station, to continue financially responsible for the debts of the station and to continue its management is not objectionable.

"On the other hand, a lease which puts into the hands of a lessee the station management, which the commission in issuing a license has placed in the hands of the lessor licensed in accordance with the standard of public interest, would, in effect, be an assignment of license and therefore void."

Ban Parking on Several Streets in Albany Park

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] last week announced that the city council has approved a no parking ordinance for several streets in Albany Park. A ban on parking will soon be placed in effect on the west side of Sawyer avenue from the first alley north of Lawrence avenue to the first alley south; on Spaulding avenue from the first alley north of Lawrence avenue to the first alley south, and on Christiana avenue from Lawrence avenue to the first alley north. The measure has been adopted to relieve traffic congestion and to help in preventing accidents.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Let's pretend that we're back in the days of the war again, and we're listening to the radio on the afternoon of July 27, 1918. The announcer is speaking to us from the ringside of the Jack Dempsey and Fred Fulton fight at Harrison, N. J. Jack Dempsey was not yet champion, nor even much of a celebrity. It was a whole year before Dempsey met Willard. Here goes:

ANNOUNCER — Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. This is W-G-N, broadcasting the Jack Dempsey-Fred Fulton fight direct from the baseball park in Harrison, New Jersey!

They're rioting out here in this ball park right now! We can hardly hear ourselves talking, this howling, screaming mob is making so much noise. There's been a rush on the high price seats down there in the baseball field by the customers in the less expensive sections, and the Harrison police force has just been helpless. Look at 'em go!

Wait a minute—there's somebody scrambling up into the ring now—wait'll we see who it is. It's Ed Curley, and he's raising his hands for silence. Don't look as if he'll get it—there comes another mob down from the grandstand in a raid on the ringside seats! Listen to 'em howl!

Ed Curley is the man who brought Fulton and Dempsey together for this fight, that will unofficially give one of them the heavyweight boxing championship, since it seems to be the general opinion that Jess Willard will never leave his Kansas farm and the cows and the chickens to come out and defend his title.

It's almost seven o'clock, and since Curley has promised to start the fight promptly at that hour, we've got very little time left to tell you about the details of this scrap. Jack Dempsey is the twenty-two year old youngster who's come up in heavyweight circles like a flash in the last two years. He's been bowling over the star heavies right and left, winning most of his contests with a K. O. sock in the first round. He's trimmed the best of the lot—Willie Meehan, Gunboat Smith, Porky Flynn, Billy Mike, Bill Brennan, and Carl Morris.

Very nearly we didn't have a fight here today. Fred got himself into something of a mess with the draft board early this week, and for a time it looked as if Fulton would be grabbed by the government sleuths and slapped into the army. Fred hadn't appeared before the New York draft board owing to the fact that the notices sent him had strayed on the way, but everything has been satisfactorily explained, and Fred was given a clean bill of health.

This fight means a lot to Fred Fulton. Only Dempsey stands between him and Jess Willard. While Jess has been loafing out on that Pottawatomie farm of his in Kansas, Fred has been making fistic hay in the ring, and everything is set for his scrap with Willard if he puts Dempsey away. He may have to wait until the end of the war, but if he can put "One Round Jack" to sleep decisively this afternoon, he'll have first crack at the titleholding Kansan's crown, which Willard packed away in the moth balls after he won it from Johnson, and which has rarely been seen since.

Jack Kearns, the man who is managing Dempsey thinks that Jack is head and shoulders above Fulton and every other heavyweight in the field—even Willard—and he's willing to let his protégé try to prove it.

Both men appear fairly well matched, and many experts figure that they'll last out the full ten rounds. They're hard hitters, but neither looks to be a hard enough hitter to knock the other down. If anybody's got the edge, it's Fulton.

Whee! There's a yell! It's Fulton coming down the aisle on his way to the ring! Fred Fulton, the big, tall, lean Minnesota boy who wants to win the world's championship! The crowd is giving him a great cheer as he comes up the aisle and swings through the ropes and into the ring!

Mike Collins, his manager, is with him, and a gang of seconds, water boys, trainers and camp followers. They think he's the coming champion of the world. Fred is showing the crowd a great big grin.

Fred looks fit and ready for the battle, and Ed Curley, the promoter, has joined the little crowd in Fulton's corner and he's talking to him. Curley probably wants to promote the Willard-Fulton fight for the championship.

Wait a minute! What's that! There's more noise! It's Dempsey this time—Jack Dempsey, the twenty-two year old bruiser from Nevada, who has been heaving the best of the heavies right and left for the last two years. He's coming down the aisle to the ring, almost fighting his way through the mob that's clogged up the passages ever since they raced in from the cheaper seats at the edge of the field.

Jack Kearns is with him, and a group of seconds and trainers. Dempsey looks like a big surly boy. He's wearing an old torn red sweater, and there's a two day's growth of whiskers on his chin and jowls. His face and body are brown—he's been doing a lot of training in the sun. He's just scowling—not smiling as Fulton was when he came in the ring, and he looks every inch the fighter.

Now the new chocolate-colored boxing gloves have been dumped on the floor, and the seconds are sorting them out. Jack Kearns has wandered over to Fulton's corner to take a look at Fred's bandages on his hand, and Mike Collins has gone into Dempsey's corner to do the same thing. Jack has pulled off that red sweater, and now they're fitting the gloves on the hands of both the fighters.

Here comes the announcer signalling for quiet. Here's the dope as he shoots it to us with that megaphone voice—ten rounds, no decision, between Jack Dempsey, 189 pounds, and Fred Fulton, 202 pounds.

Now the referee is calling the men to the center of the ring for their final instructions. Fred comes out of his corner with his bathrobe draped over his shoulders, and he's smiling as he steps to the center of the ring. Jack still is wearing that scowl, and he's looking at the floor as the referee talks to them. Ten rounds—no decision—eight ounce gloves—and behind the smiling face of Fred Fulton and the scowling mask of Jack Dempsey there is the same thought—that a decision won't be necessary. A few weeks ago in Chicago Jack Dempsey told THE TRIBUNE's boxing editor that he intended to knock out Fulton in one round, and he looks as though he intends to do it.

Now they've gone back to their corners. Ed Curley is up in the ring now, the announcer is introducing him, and he's getting a hand from the crowd! Ed is saying something, but we can't hear what it is in all the din.

Now they're clearing the ring for action. Jack Kearns is whispering into Dempsey's ear as the two fighters face each other across the ring and wait for the gong. The seconds are scampering out of the ring.

There's the bell! Round one! Dempsey is out of his corner and in the center of the ring in a flash. Fulton comes out with a smile on his face. They spar for a moment! Fulton sticks out his left hand with a widening grin. What's this Dempsey got? he asks himself. Wow! That's what he's got! Dempsey lands a hard right to the heart! It hurt Fulton. He didn't expect it. A clean blow just above the heart! Look at Dempsey tear in. He's forcing Fulton back against the ropes—Dempsey lands a left hook to the jaw—Dempsey has Fulton groggy—Dempsey has him groggy from two punches! Now their wrestling a bit—Fulton is still groggy O. Dempsey starts a right hander from his shoes. . . . on the jaw. . . . Fulton is down. . . . Fred Fulton is on the mat. He's just crumpled up and gone down . . . . there's the count. . . . he strains his body. . . . there's a look of pain on his face. . . . three . . . . four . . . . Mike Collins, his manager, implores him to get up. . . . Dempsey stands over him scowling. . . . seven . . . . eight. . . . Fulton writhes in pain. . . . He lifts his body a foot from the floor. . . . his head hangs over the lower rope. . . . Dempsey is waiting, fists clenched. . . . Jack Dempsey has knocked out Fred Fulton! Dempsey wins in the first round!

Bring on Jess Willard!

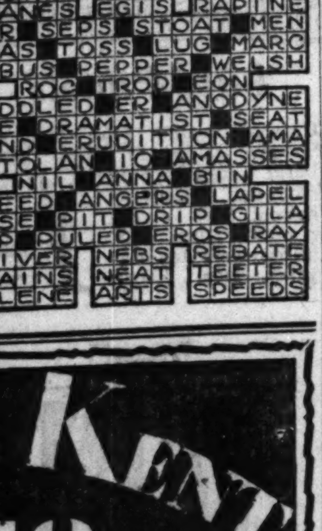
Cross Word Answers



SPECIALISTS NOW HANDLE PROGRAM MAKING DETAILS

Radio Advertisers Look to Agencies.

Radio broadcast's evolution into the field of big business has gradually brought about a segregation of activities until nearly every department is in the hands of specialists. One of the most significant markings is the creation of program specialists.

Nto so very long ago the making of programs was wholly in the hands of broadcasting stations. The trend is now in the opposite direction; program sponsors either directly or through their advertising agencies seek to build up their entertainments as a complete entity and take it to the station ready to use its air facilities and nothing else.

William B. Murray, vice president and general manager of an organization specializing in program building, recently explained how program making came to be a specialty.

Like Editorial Department.

"We do the sort of work that the editorial department of a publication does," he said, "or you might limit it even more than that and say we are like the art department of a publication.

"But naturally, as sponsors came to have a better understanding of radio broadcast, they wanted to control their representation on the air. The result was that their advertising agencies began to study radio very intensively. Some advertising agencies have built up what are really very good radio departments. But even with expert script writers, expert production men, expert musical impresarios, they still need artists to express the ideas they create and so naturally they have to come to us or whoever controls the talent they wish."

Mr. Murray told how program services at first were merely booking agencies for talent.

"But," he said, "we soon learned that we would have to go the whole route in order to fairly represent our artists as well as satisfy the sponsors who engaged them.

Like Theatrical Production.

"Each radio period is a complete theatrical production. It requires the combined and related effort of all the wisdom and experience and talent that any such enterprise deserves. Consequently it became necessary to organize a group of experts in every phase of radio production, quite apart from the artists who finally appear before the microphone."

This means not only a large permanent staff of professional radio folk, but also a considerable physical equipment, such as studios, library, technical equipment. The musical library of Mr. Murray's organization for radio use solely is reputed to be worth more than a quarter of a million dollars. It is the largest and most complete collection of its kind in the world.

"Nowadays," Mr. Murray stated, "advertising agencies are the point of contact in most of radio's important programs. The broadcasting stations and the broadcasting chains sell "time on the air" to sponsors through the advertising agencies. The sponsors no longer look to the stations for entertainment facilities; they look to their advertising agencies. Some of these agencies have created export radio departments. These look on us as an expert art service, ready to supply them with talent to fit the copy they create. Other advertising agencies lean on us entirely, asking both copy and art service, so to speak."

CALUMET PARK BOYS ORGANIZE ENGINEER CLUB

Twenty-five boys at Calumet park, 98th street and Lake Michigan, have organized the Junior Engineers club, under the direction of W. J. Dempsey, park director. The boys are busily engaged these summer days in constructing model bridges, skyscrapers, electric trains, elevators, and complete towns from one of the largest Meccano sets in the city. The latest achievement is the construction of a model airplane that runs by electricity.

R. H. L., proprietor of the middle column of The Tribune's editorial page called the "Line o' Type or Two" and shrewd observer for radio folks' entertainment, treats tonight. Back before the days of the nickelodeon, Dick Little was an ardent apostle of the vaudeville stage and variety stars in general. He gives an amusing cross section of the antiquated mode of entertainment as seen from the topmost dizzy rows of the Sweat Box. 8:45.

Request for Prisoner's Song

Chicago.

Gentlemen:

I understand that you solicit criticism. Here it is. We are absolutely unable to listen through one of the performances of the Hungry Five. If there ever was an assinine program, this is it. If the five were sentenced to the federal prison for a stretch, few of your patrons would refuse to join the celebration.

W-G-N FAN, S.

Discontented

Wauconda.

Dear Hungry Five:

If I could but express in a convincing way the admiration I have for your work, and tell you how thoroughly I enjoy your fun making, I would be content. I can never retire until I have heard what you boys have to play and say. May I live long to hear, "Ein, zwei, drei, spiel!

Very sincerely,
GRANDMA BUSCHRIEK.

CHILDREN'S CONCERT

They play their best music for the children. Sometimes lazy tunes that shepherds have sung or piped on eerie pipes. Sometimes laughing songs that elves have learned from water tumbling over stones in a young brook. Stories, too, there are. They speak familiarly of Pan and his ilk who have youth sealed up safely within them. The music is by the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra responding enthusiastically to the baton of Gaston Du Moulin. Be gay and begin the concert at 5:45.

JEAN GOLDKETTE . .

A bomb has dropped in the dance music world. Victor Young, prominent young orchestrator and violinist—Van Fleming, inspiring tenor and guitarist—Bill Herring, who plays an elastic trombone that croons as Sophie Tucker wishes she could—Jack Codaro, who licks out the dirty runs on any of half a dozen saxophones and toots a merry break on a clarinet—they're all members of Jean Goldkette's most famous of radio bands. Sunday's their big day. 1:30, 2:25, and 11.

DEMAND OGDEN BE COMPLETED ACROSS ISLAND

Business Men Get Faherty's Backing.

Support in obtaining the immediate opening of Ogden avenue across Goose island to form a time-saving connecting artery between the lake shore and the west side was promised west side business men Thursday by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements.

Mr. Faherty told a group of fifty representatives of the West Town chamber of commerce who appeared in his office to enlist his coöperation in behalf of the project that when the city council reconvenes next month he will seek legislation permitting the board to make the improvement without further delay.

The west side business group will be requested to appear at the city hall again when the council is in session, he said, to indorse his demands upon the council finance committee. Members of the chamber signified their willingness to take any steps necessary to obtain completion of the street, which has been held back since 1921.

Cost Estimated at $3,800,000.

The cost of the improvement has been estimated at $3,800,000, and the board will probably seek to obtain funds by special assessment on property owners with payments spread over a period of 20 years, according to the terms of a law recently passed by the state legislature. To open Ogden avenue across the island two bridges must be constructed across the river channels which must be connected by a viaduct across the island. The latter is covered by a network of railroad tracks.

"Opening of Ogden avenue will bring traffic on a direct line from such western towns as Aurora, Naperville, La Grange, and Lyons across the west side to the north shore," C. B. Clemons, forum chairman of the chamber, said. "The improvement is complete from Randolph street to the island, but its full usefulness has never been realized because the part across Goose island is not done. A delay of 15 minutes is necessitated in crossing the island."

C. H. Kavanaugh Makes Plea.

Manufacturers in the entire west side as well as property owners and merchants feel the need of the improvement, according to Clarence H. Kavanaugh, director of the chamber and president of the West Side Commercial league.

Ald. J. H. Taylor [37th] said that residents in a section as far removed from the improvement as Austin realize the great benefit to the west side which its completion would bring. He pledged his support, and assured the gathering that other west side aldermen were also prepared to vote for the necessary ordinances.

Frank J. Bilek, secretary of the South Central Lions club and director of the chamber, told Mr. Faherty that the entire southwest side is heartily in favor of the project and believes that since it was started eight years ago, it should be completed without delay.

Cites Duty to Folk Who Paid.

"I realize that the improvement is needed by the entire west side, and will lend every effort to obtain its completion as soon as possible," Mr. Faherty said. "More than 37,000 property owners throughout the district have been assessed for the parts of Ogden avenue already completed, and they are entitled to a return on their money. The Goose island project should be completed before any other local improvement is attempted," he added.

H. J. Ruggles, manager of the chamber, was chairman of the meeting. Some of the other men present were: F. R. Campbell, Sam Baumgard, Harry J. Gardiner, M. F. Blondell, John Miller, Charles Severinghaus, Fred W. Murray, Joseph Chaban, Roland O. Watson, I. F. Dankowski, George C. Koltz, Irving N. Klien, Charles Hayes, Otto Nicholas, Sam Schuham, Louis E. Golan, Mark Shanks and George J. Dehn.

URGE CHANGE IN STREET NAMES OF EDISON PARK

Resolutions recommending the following changes in street names in Edison Park were introduced recently at a meeting of the city council: Oleander parkway, from Pratt avenue to Touhy avenue, changed to Oleander avenue; Godefroy street, from Oriole avenue to a point east of Odell avenue, changed to Estes avenue; and Park Ridge boulevard, from the western limits to Odell avenue, changed to Touhy avenue.

Names of numerals streets west of Norwood and south of Higgins avenue, in the newly annexed section, are also being changed to conform to streets to the north.

Children of the northwest side are making use of the parks these warm days. The pictures here were taken last week at Mayfair park, which is governed by the Irving Park district commissioners. The picture at the upper left shows several youngsters enjoying the wading pool. A number of children are making the most of the shower in the lower picture at the left. The third picture shows little Billy James celebrating his second birthday in the company of his grandfather, James Waters of Park Ridge, by building castles in the sandpit of the park. Billy lives at 4557 North Kenton avenue.

They have two children, Mrs. Joseph H. Leonard of Kenilworth and Charles H. Lembcke of Aurora.

ACT TO REZONE WALLER AVENUE NEAR MADISON

At the request of property owners on Waller avenue between Adams and Madison streets, Ald. John S. Clark [30th] recently submitted to the city council an ordinance rezoning that section to permit the construction of apartment buildings. The ordinance, submitted at the final council session of this summer, was referred to the committee on buildings and zoning and will be taken up next month.

Approval of the zoning change at a public hearing is assured, according to H. C. Patterson, president of the Austin Business and Civic association, since more than 90 per cent of the residents have expressed themselves in favor of it.

River Grove Village Board Approves Street Lights

Other business transacted at the meeting included fvaorable action on the suggestion to raise the salary of the chief of police and the lieutenant because of their satisfactory work.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

BY FRED PASLEY.

THE Park Ridge rumor that Homer S. Van Denburgh, the editor, had left town, is a base canard. Homer had the mumps and availed himself of the opportunity to stay home and get acquainted with the family. Despite the fact the vacation was slightly involuntary, Homer reports a swell time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Cook of 5115 North Kolmar avenue have sent us a card announcing "the birth of a baby boy: his name is Robert John," and from what we hear the card explains why vox pop has been so lusty of late.

WE were surprised to learn that Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, is to be officially received into the Order of the White Lion. We thought he was a White Mule.

William Zeman of the Chicago Auto laundry, 5516 West 22d street, has returned from a week's stay at Rice's lake, Wisconsin, from which he was reluctant to depart because of the abundance of fish. William says he left a few.

The fire department had to be summoned to the St. Charles Country club a few days ago, we are informed, to extinguish Ira Isaacson, the insurance salesman of 5327 North Kimball avenue, when Ira made it a hole in one from the fifth tee.

A CLIPPING from the Naperville Clarion, forwarded by one of our valued subscribers, indicates that Naperville, too, is feeling the heat, the news being very scanty: "A number of clews were followed and finally the sheriff of Edwards county came to Naperville, seeking for a large woman who wore glasses and a few other meager details."

Mrs. John Kiely and son, John Jr., of 224 North Waller street, have returned from a visit with Mrs. Kiely's mother, Mrs. Marie Witte, at Hillside, Ill., where at the Domotillas picnic Mrs. Kiely won first prize in the woman's running race and her son won second prize in the boys' running race.

JACK IFLAND of 4702 North St. Louis avenue, who has just completed a thorough course in fishing, accompanied E. C. Nagel of 5749 North Christiana avenue and Frank Held of Mayfair to Pistakee bay, where they spent a pleasant day at the summer home of John C. Kuch. Jack suggested they indulge piscatorially and consented to supply them with professional advice if needed. After six hours on the water Messrs. Kuch and Held had a catch of twenty each and Jack had hooked one. On examination it was discovered to be blind.

The city council committee on parks and playgrounds will conduct an investigation in the 22d ward next month to find a suitable site for a playground, according to an order sponsored by Ald. Playgrounds Preparing for Gay Festival

Bicycles, doll buggies, kiddie cars and wagons will be transformed into floats for the sixth annual children's Mardi gras which will be staged during August by the board of education bureau of recreation. The playgrounds operated during the summer by the school board have been divided into four groups, each of which will present its gay pageant and parade at a different time and place. In previous years all the playgrounds have united for one large affair in Grant park.

Scheduled for Aug. 15.

The group of west side playgrounds will hold its part of the Mardi gras on Thursday evening, Aug. 15, at 7 o'clock. The children will parade around the lagoon in Garfield park.

Herman J. Fischer is director of the bureau of recreation sponsoring the affair and Miss Flora J. Wolfson, one of the supervisors of the play grounds, is directly in charge. Miss Kate Kravel, director of Nash playground, is in charge of the program for the west side division.

Participating Playgrounds.

Approximately 500 children are expected to participate.

ASK PARK BOARD TO GIVE CONCERTS IN LOGAN SQUARE

Civic and business organizations of Logan Square are appealing to the west park board this week for two band concerts at the square before Labor day. Clubs of the district are sponsoring the movement for the concerts as an aid to establishing the square as not only a public green but as a community center for the northwest side, according to Charles V. Falkenberg, president of the Logan Square Business Men's association.

Other residents of the Logan Square district joining in th appeal are J. A. Hollander, president of the Logan Square Kiwanis club; Milton F. Darr, president of the Logan Square Lions club; J. T. Dempsey, president of the Logan Square Athletic club, and Nicholas Goldberger, director of the Milwaukee-Armitage-Western Business Men's association.

"We want the band concerts to be held in the various districts of the west side instead of only in the three large parks, Garfield, Columbus, and Humboldt," Mr. Falkenberg said.

"Concerts were held at the square about ten years ago and were discontinued for some reason. We want them again, and have the support of every club in the district, including the American Legion, the service clubs, business organizations, and parent-teacher groups."

Council Votes Sidewalks for 4 West Side Streets

The students will be housed in the college dormitories. Courses are open to both men and women and practically all of the central states will be represented. Credit is given for some of the courses taught at the school.

Chase House Turns Children Into Citizens

BY LILLIAN CUNNINGHAM.

Have you ever visited "Labor Row"? It is interesting and quite unique. Sometimes it is designated as "the great medical center," claiming to have more hosptials, clinics, dispensaries, etc., than any other one section in the world.

Not so many years ago Ashland avenue, from Lake to Twelfth streets, was a fashionable part of Chicago, but now few real homes exist there, although the population has increased several times within the last few years. Where one family once occupied a house of ten rooms, possibly eight or ten families are occupying that house today— a family in nearly every room.

Furnished rooms are not conducive to family life. In most cases both parents are employed, and the children have to shift for themselves. Wee Peter, Johnny, Mary, and Katie have to fight their own battles and their baby faces grow old quickly.

Care for the Children.

Chase house, under the inspiration of the mission staff of the Episcopal church of Chicago, decided the best way to serve this neighborhood was to care for these youngsters. Out of this thought has come the day nursery or nursery school, which is meeting a great need.

Daily applications are made for the nursery and the kindergarten is running full capacity all the time. A thorough physical examination is required before entrance and the spiritual and mental growth of the child is under careful supervision. The charge is nominal and is only a sixth of the actual expense of keeping the child.

It is indeed a labor of love. An interview with Deaconess Fuller, head resident, dispels all doubts as to her capability for such a tremendous task—the shaping and molding of the child mind and the care of their little bodies. Tasks which properly belong to the parents, but, because of economic conditions, have to be shifted to other shoulders.

Cheerful Room for Children.

The children range in age from two to six years. And what happy youngsters! But who wouldn't be happy in such pleasant surroundings? The kindergarten is a joy. Deaconess Fuller, with the assistance of the instructors, has changed a dreary large room into a most cheerful and charming study and play room. On the little orange and black painted tables faces of animals from the zoo stare up at one quite cockily. One is almost tempted to try and sit down in the tiny chairs.

I followed the deaconess into the immaculate washroom, and there, all in a row in the small cupboard, hung the tiny toothbrushes. They were neatly marked and as sanitarily kept as if they reposed in the cupboard of a large hospital.

"The children are taught to wait upon themselves," said the deaconess. "And how they love to do it!"

Rest Room Attractive.

The rest room was light and airy and the cots and cribs, with their snowy white coverlets and pillows, were ready to coax the children to make their afternoon visit to the sandman.

This section of Chase house had been the barn in days of past glory, but the aristocrats of horsedom which were sheltered there would never recognize the attractive rooms.

"What is the aim of Chase house?" I asked. Deaconess Fuller immediately answered, "To make them good citizens."

"Once a month," she continued, "we hold a dinner for the parents, which is followed by an instructive talk and entertainment. You know (and here the deaconess smiled) you must teach the parents, for squabbly parents make squabbly children."

For All Members of Family.

Chase house does not confine itself entirely to the nursery. Older members of the family are also given attention.

The program for the week runs something like this:

Monday—Scout day: girls.
Tuesday—Scout day: boys. Sunset, girls
Wednesday—Wawa-tayse: girls. Nitehawks, boys.
Thursday—Blue Bloods: boys. Meeting, mothers and grandmothers.
Friday—C. H. F.: big sisters.
Saturday—Visitors: girls.
Every day—Library [a branch of the public library].

A weekly visit is made by the attending physicians and the parents instructed in regard to the care of their little son or daughter.

Mexican Boy a Favorite.

An interesting little chap is Fernando L., from Mexico. His parents, cultured and once possessing means, fled from one of the numerous Mexican revolutions and settled in Chicago. Both mother and father were forced to seek employment. Fernando has become a favorite at Chase house. Although in his own home he speaks his native tongue, he is learning the English language very quickly and is a great help to his parents in their mastery of their adopted country's tongue.

Take a look at the smiling faces of the Chase house youngsters in the play yard, and especially at Fernando's as he stands beside "Santa."

"It is not a spectacular work," said the head resident. "Rather discouraging trying to make people get on their feet who are not very anxious to do so—like trying to make a doll stand when it only has sawdust legs, but where there are children, any amount of effort is worth while to help them to a right start in life."

Land Given for Addition to Eugene Field Park

An addition to Eugene Field park consisting of the section of Carmen avenue from the alley west of Hamlin avenue to Lawndale avenue has been arranged by the Albany Park district commissioners. The city council recently passed an ordinance whereby the city gave over its rights to the park. Three property owners also gave up their rights. Ald. J. C. Ross was instrumental in effecting the move.

COSMOPOLITAN CHURCH SERVES 7 DAYS A WEEK

45,000 Children Its Chief Interest.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

THE REV. ROBERT STEPHENSON.

Out along the shores of the Fox river, between St. Charles and Elgin, forty youngsters from the vicinity of 19th and Halsted streets, are enjoying the fresh air and sunshine, the green grass and the shade of the trees. A group of forty goes from the Halsted Street Institutional church every ten days. For those who have already had their vacation or whose period for the outing has not yet arrived, there is the pool, purified by violet rays, that offers its cool waters in the church building at 1935 South Halsted street.

The church plant, erected in 1927 at a cost of $320,000, has the latest equipment for its manifold activities, and the Ward Memorial pool, gift of Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Ward, is particularly popular these days when the sun beats down on the asphalt.

The church, fostered by the Methodist Episcopal denomination, is located within a half mile of 45,000 children.

In 1915, Dr. Robert Stephenson, a native of Leeds and with university training both in England and the United States, came to the church as organizer, inspirer, pastor, mediator, and friend to the responsive throngs in the congested section of the city.

Organized in Dance Hall.

Launched 62 years ago in a dance hall over a saloon at Halsted and 22d streets, the church built a frame home which was followed by one of brick. Two years ago that building, having become inadequate, was torn down to make way for the present structure of ecclesiastical design, which is adapted to all kinds of social, educational and recreational activities.

The new building is utilized in conducting clubs, promoting athletics, furnishing motion picture entertainment, as well as in the direct work of the church and Sunday school. It is a place

"Where nationalities meet and mingle,
Where clear brains with clean bodies count,
Where wholesome living brings high reward,

The gymnasium on the fourth floor is open to all sorts of groups and there is rarely a night in the winter months that there is not a contest in progress there. On the first floor is a first class cafeteria, which serves some 300 patrons each noon. Both the boys and the girls are taught to cook in the domestic science department.

The play rooms are crowded, but who cares? For here are chess and checkers, pocket billiards, spelling games and story books.

Carpenter Shop for Boys.

There is a carpenter shop where the boys draw their own designs and develop them in terms of wood. Just now the greatest interest is in model airplanes.

Under scientific supervision the girls are taught the rudiments of sewing. There is a favorite room with the girls—the model dining room—where students are taught to lay the cloth properly, to place silver and china correctly.

Every Monday night, except during July and August, there is a motion picture show for the children in the big auditorium. The admission to this entertainment is one cent. Six times during the year a play is given for the adults by talent recruited from the institution.

Sundays, from early morning through the evening worship, Halsted Street church teems. Through the Gothic archway pass babies and little children, boys and girls, men and women in their prime and in the weakness of age. From twenty-two countries of the old world they come, and the church knows no limit of age.

Beyond the open doors are rooms furnished in simple, homelike, friendly fashion—the offices, the Halsted Street library, the reception and waiting rooms.

All Reverence in Chapel.

The memorial chapel, furnished by Mrs. Perley Low in honor of her late husband, is a place apart. Here no one speaks boisterously nor acts rudely. The amosphere is sacred and reverent. The young people who compose the choir represent twelve nationalities.

Members of the church staff are Dr. Robert Stephenson, pastor and superintendent; Roy Steen, assistant pastor; Mrs. Robert Stephenson, director of women's work; Miss Edna Cutshaw, head of domestic science department; Miss Verna McFerrin, church visitor and relief work; Miss Florence Lyons, director of religious education; Mrs. Edith Young, church secretary; June Parish, director of boys' work and printing; Miss Miriam Poole, head of dramatic department; Miss Elizabeth Beers, swimming instructor and gymnasium director for girls; Theodore Krause, swimming instructor and gymnasium director for boys; Miss Viola Anderson, cafeteria director; Miss Anna Olson, camp director; Mrs. Sophie Wieman, assistant camp director; Jacob Ongemach, caretaker; and Miss Doris Price, housekeeper.

On the board of directors are George Engelking, president; F. J. Thielbar, secretary-treasurer; John Thompson, George W. Dixon, A. H. Clement, R. Clarence Brown, Edward C. Schutz, F. C. Eiselen, C. E. Greenfield, William Lee, and Nillis Johnson.

CATHOLICS OPEN RETREAT CENTER ON LABOR DAY

Many Organizations Form Classes of Laymen.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Parishes of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese throughout Chicago's west side and suburban towns are organizing classes of retreatants to participate in the opening of the St. Francis Laymen Retreat league's new city headquarters at Corpus Christi church, 49th street and South parkway.

Workmen have been engaged for several weeks remodeling the Corpus Christi school building to meet requirements of retreat classes. It is expected all will be in readiness for an opening retreat class on or about Labor day. The classes are being organized through the coöperation of the west side councils of the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies, Catholic Order of Foresters, and other church organizations.

Work of organizing the west side and suburban town classes has been placed under the supervision of Frank Murphy, Edwin Rilley, William Mullally, Frank Kane, Anthony Carroll, and James Cashman. The loop territory is being solicited by John McCormick, Frank Bradley, Joseph J. Croak, James A. Meagher, Francis E. Sammons, and George Cannon.

Mayslake Retreats Continue.

Retreat classes conducted by the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league will continue to be held at Mayslake, Hinsdale, Ill., every week-end from Friday evening until early Monday morning. The establishment of the city retreat house at Corpus Christi church will augment the work that is being carried on by the Franciscan priests at Mayslake.

Corpus Christi church is regarded as one of the most beautiful Catholic edifices in the United States. It was founded in 1901 in what was then considered one of the best residential sections in the city. But of recent years the neighborhood's complexion has changed and in May it was given over to the jurisdiction of the Franciscan order of monks to be used as the city headquarters of the retreat league.

Father Valerius, O. F. M., one of Chicago's most widely known Franciscan fathers and former retreat master at Mayslake, is to take charge of the new retreat house. The work of class organization will be in charge of the Rev. Patrick Maloney, O. F. M. Father Maloney grew up in Chicago and maintains at 115 Polk street an office where reservations to attend the retreat classes at either Mayslake or at Corpus Christi this fall may be made.

Inaugurated by Mundelein.

Realizing the benefits that result from a weekend spent in contemplation and prayer, Cardinal Mundelein inaugurated the retreat movement in Chicago about five years ago. The first retreat class was held at St. Francis Retreat house at Mayslake March 5, 1925. The response to the "sixty golden hours" was immediate. Men from all walks of life found peace and consolation within the walls of the retreat house.

The Rev. Giles Strub, O. F. M., was the founder of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. Its purpose was to spread the benefits of a retreat once a year for every Catholic man in the archdiocese. Today the league has a membership of approximately 5,000.

Labor, Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies and business organizations list many members in the league. Parishes, too, have coöperated and last year Chicago was awarded first place in retreat attendance in the United States. Members of the Asbestos Workers' union have the honor position for attendance at Mayslake. Hughie Mulligan, business representative of the labor organization, is also president of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. He is one of the most enthusiastic workers in behalf of the league's activities in the archdiocese. He is serving his second term as president.

Move Spreads Among Labor.

With Mulligan's coöperation Father Maloney was able to spread the work of the league into many labor organizations, especially among the building trades. Working under the league banner today are such labor officials as Bernard Cruice, Stephen Bailey, Bernard Rubbery, Charles Mulcahy, Patrick Cullen, Martin Durkin, Frank Kane, John Durkin, Thomas O'Donnell, John Murphy, and John Stretch.

The Knights of Columbus have coöperated with Father Maloney and many councils have sent individual classes to Mayslake. Some of the leaders of this movement are Edward Houlihan, state deputy of the K. of C.; Frank Enright, president of the Chicago chapter; Leo Flynn, Judge John P. McGoorty, Patrick Woods, John Reiner, Joseph McMahon, Frank Walsh, Arthur Donohue, James Carney, Austin O'Malley, and P. J. J. McCarthy.

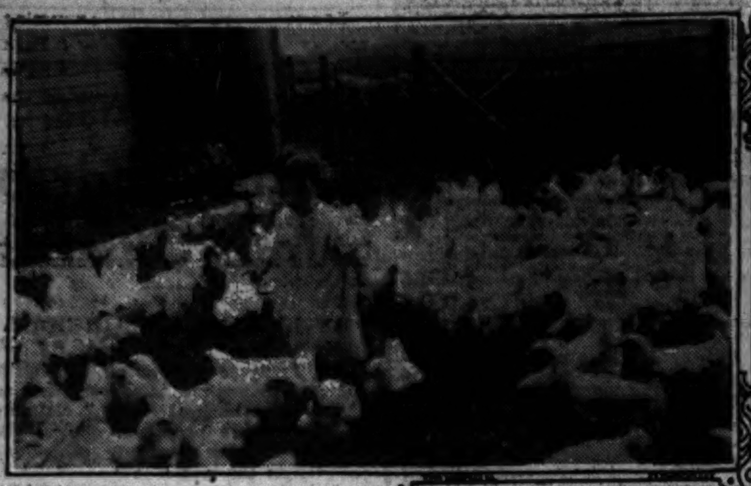
To date only a few parishes have done pioneering work in behalf of the Retreat league, and these include St. Jerome's, of which the Rev. T. F. Farrell is pastor; St. Ignatius, with the Rev. F. G. Dinneen as pastor; St. John the Baptist, with the Rev. P. T. Gelines as pastor; St. Joseph's, with the Rev. J. V. La Marre as pastor, and St. Kilian's, with the Rev. James M. Leddy as pastor.

Benefits Early Workers.

A retreat class lasts from the close of business on Friday evening until Monday morning. Conclusion of the spiritual exercises is arranged to permit retreatants to be at work at 8 o'clock Monday morning. However, to many of the workers in Chicago it is necessary for them to be at work Monday morning as early as 5 and 6 o'clock and it is to facilitate their return that the Corpus Christi retreat house will be opened.

Aug. 30 has been set by Father Maloney as the date for a city fire fighters' class.

YOUNG MR. HOSCHUTZ LIKES THE CHICKENS



The first prize of $5 in The Tribune's play picture contest for amateur photographers of the west side was awarded this week for a snapshot of William Fred Hoschutz Jr., 2259 North Keating avenue, among the chickens on a farm he visited recently. The photographer was his mother, Mrs. Edna Hoschutz. Edith and Harriet Ericksen, 4253 N. Central Park avenue, have learned to keep cool in their own backyard. A picture of them taking a hose shower on their garage roof won the second prize of $3 for their mother, Mrs. S. Ericksen. The charming lass among the blossoms is Catherine Stroker, 16 South Bothwell street, Palatine Ill. For that picture Mrs. A. C. Stroker was awarded the third prize of $2. "Playing Soldier," showing John Alexander, 613 Wilson avenue, Downers Grove, and made by Reid Alexander, won an extra prize of $2.

Two Projects to Cost Nearly $1,500,000.

Two sewer projects which have been sought for more than two years by residents of the northwest side were presented for confirmation in the County court Monday by attorneys for the board of local improvements. The cases will be heard Aug. 26, and if the procedure is not delayed by a large number of objections, the board will be permitted to advertise for bids immediately.

The sewer systems which the board is seeking to construct are the Bryn Mawr system, costing $1,121,000 and providing sewerage facilities for the district bounded by Bryn Mawr, Lawrence, and Austin avenues and the city limits; and the Touhy avenue system, estimated to cost $375,000, and serving the territory bounded by Harlem and Touhy avenues, Howard street, and the city limits.

Slight Objection Expected.

Officials of the board expect little difficulty in obtaining confirmation of the projects since residents in the areas affected have been asking for relief for years and would not be likely to object.

During the last few years basements throughout these sections of the northwest side have been flooded by almost every heavy rain, creating an insanitary condition. The proposed sewers would be part of the city's central drainage system, and would flow into the northwest side sewage disposal plant.

Ordinances for the sewers were passed a few months ago under the guidance of Ald. T. J. Bowler. Assessment rolls were completed two weeks ago by the board of local improvements.

Saving for Berteau Area.

The Bryn Mawr system will give relief to a part of the territory which was to have been drained by the proposed Berteau avenue sewer, an improvement which never materialized. Officials of the board expressed the opinion that if the Bryn Mawr system is completed, property owners along the proposed Berteau system farther to the east will not object to a sewer since it can be made smaller and at less expense than under previous plans, which called for a $3,000,000 project.

ASSERTS SELLING OF LANDS WOULD BENEFIT SCHOOLS

So. Austin Leader Sums Up Civic Bodies' Case.

"The time to sell idle and unproductive school lands in Austin is now," says J. Frank Lindsey, member of the school land committee of the Greater Austin Property Owners' and Business Men's association. "The time for development if we are to keep our community progressing is now. The people of Austin must hang together on this policy, or, as Benjamin Franklin said upon the drafting of the Declaration of Independence, 'most certainly we will hang separately.'"

Mr. Lindsey said this conclusion has been reached as a result of years of effort and many recent meetings in an attempt to solve what he terms an "unhealthy local community condition." The ideas, he adds, are supported by the vast majority of the west side commercial and civic organizations, all of whom have expressed themselves in resolutions to the board of education.

Outlines Land Deal.

Mr. Lindsey sums up the case of the Austin school fund land to date as follows:

"Since 1787 the board of education has owned more than 200 acres of idle and unproductive land, in the area bounded by Madison street, Cicero avenue, Roosevelt road, and Central avenue. About 100 acres of this tract lies south of the B. & O. C. T. railroad and paralleling Roosevelt road. That portion lying north of the railroad is in the midst of a high class residential section of Austin, where it has served no other purpose than to act as a no man's land for crime and disease. In that condition it has retarded community development, escaped its legitimate share of the general tax burden—making taxes higher for neighboring property—and deprived people of adequate housing facilities insofar as proximity to employment is concerned.

"If that portion of these school fund lands lying north of the B. & O. C. T. railroad be improved to the highest and best use according to present zoning regulations by allowing four persons per family—a population of about 43,000 could be housed there. Such would constitute a fair sized community with great purchasing power, and quite sizeable tax paying ability. As the situation now stands not only is this school board vacant land escaping its fair share of community responsibility, but by being vacant the business property on four streets is failing to produce its potention returns in taxes and business.

Blocked for 25 Years.

"So the situation is one of chief concern to the citizens and business interests of Austin, and specifically of South Austin. For twenty-five years these citizens have been laboring to remove this eyesore to civic progress, and for twenty-five years something has always prevented the sale and development.

"A small number have objected to disposing of the title to the land for the reason, as they say, that the federal government in the original grant intended that the land be specifically used for school buildings; that the schools retain perpetual title to the lands whether used or not. It does not seem possible that the government could ever have intended such, while quite the contrary has been the case in dozens of federal land grant experiences, where the proceeds from the sale and development of such lands have made possible city building, the extension of public utilities and the general betterment of the country.

Some Already Sold.

"Had all these federal land grant domains remained vacant and unproductive vast community areas throughout the country would be undeveloped. It seems logical to believe that congress intended that the lands, or the proceeds of sale therefrom, be used for educational purposes—and this is borne out in many similar instances throughout the country. Ample precedent is already established for the sale of the land from the fact that large quantities of this particular tract have already been sold years ago, and developed. This constitutes an incontrovertible fact—if it was legal then, why not now?

"There are a few persons who feel that the residential portion of this land should be leased for home building purposes. This contention needs little argument in reply for the two very good reasons that a home located on anything less than an actual ownership of the land is repugnant to the homeowning instinct; and because a leasehold on residential property is not adequate security for proper home financing. The best way to prove this is to inquire of any banker who makes loans on residences.

Scouts Political Objections.

"Then there are a few persons, some holdovers in public offices unfortunately, who say they favor the sale and development of this property provided it can be sold under a different political administration. That argument has and always will apply to the lame duck, or to the politician who can find no other valid reason for objecting when his or her party is not in power. They forget that they are elected to serve the best interests of the community. They would crucify a whole city to favor their own pet political peeve. For all these objections socalled—and they are not valid ones—there should be applied the test of cold facts and rational intelligence. Too many people are willing to jump at hasty conclusions formed through absence of essential facts.

"Early this year the business men and property owners of Austin organized for action in demanding the sale and development of the school lands for the general welfare of the community and city. All of the leading commercial and civic bodies of Austin met and adopted resolutions asking the board of education to sell this vast body of disease and crime breeding vacant land so that the whole Austin vicinity, the city generally, and the board of education specifically, could profit by such an undertaking. Representatives of these organizations have been before the board of education and its committee on schools and grounds at every meeting at which the Austin school fund lands were discussed. We have asked continually that these lands be sold—or at least that portion now zoned for residential purposes.

Sale is Recommended.

"The board heard our petition with generous consideration. An advisory committee with Harrison B. Riley, chairman, was chosen by the board to study the situation and make recommendations to that body. This committee reported and recommended the sale of all residential and business vacant ground lying north of the B. & O. C. T. railroad excepting four parcels on Madison street.

"The committee submitted no report as to valuation but suggested that bids be received, first, on the total in small parcels, say lots up to 100 feet and, second, on the property as a whole, with the total highest bid taking the property—provided the bids were satisfactory to the board. Such seems to be a fair procedure to both the public and the board of education as all interested in buying would have a chance to bid, and the highest price would be exacted for the sale. It was the thought of the committee, to which local people of experience agree, that the peak of values has passed on this particular residential land, and that unless vacant ground can be fairly presumed to double in value every fifteen years it is deemed wise to sell it.

"There is certainly no person of real estate experience in Chicago who can say this residential land has the prospect of doubling in value in fifteen years. So it would seem to be following the course of wisdom for the board of education to sell it now and save further depreciation, and loss of interest and taxes.

Provides No Revenue.

"For 142 years this ground has not produced one dollar in revenue for any purpose. It has not contributed one single element to community expansion but rather held back such development by serving as a breeder of crime and disease. How can the board of education, the city of Chicago, or the people of this community ever profit directly or indirectly by allowing such a condition to continue to exist? Where there is no profit, there must be loss sustained. What is there to be gained by the sale and development of this land?

"Let us take a typical 100 foot residential lot on which should be erected a thirty apartment building, and create this example:

"Sale price of lot, 100 foot, $16,000.

"General taxes on ground and building, $4,000 per year, 40 per cent of which goes to board of education, $1,600 per year.

"Sixteen thousand dollars per 100 foot lot invested at 5 per cent per year, $800 interest.

Value Returned in 10 Years.

"It will be seen from the board's share in general taxes, the value of the ground would be returned every ten years; that in every twenty years the value of the lot will be returned in simple interest on the investment—besides having the principal intact at all times. What would be the result if this process could go on for 142 years? Just a little figuring can prove the vast amounts accruing under such a process—and during all this period the principal sum—proceeds from the sale—is intact and inviolate.

"Which plan is the wiser holding the ground vacant with no return and a gradual depreciation in values [it is commonly known among men of real estate experience that residential vacant values in similar use areas decrease with the age of the improvements], or is it wiser to sell the ground and by thus doing create community, tax, and income values to the benefit of all concerned? It would seem that the proper course is obvious even to the blind.

"This is the problem of the people of South Austin. They are the ones most vitally affected. If they work out a sane, practical program of action whereby education, the city, and they themselves profit why should not their wishes prevail? It is they who are compelled to live in the presence of this sorry condition, and it should be to their voice that first attention should be given by the whole city, especially if the city generally is to profit."

25 CENT BOOK HELPS HER WIN ESSAY PRIZE; GOOD BIRD CAGE CHEAP

The Tribune will pay $2 fo reach story of the best bargain obtained in a neighborhood store, printed in the Metropolitan section. Address Bargain, Metropolitan Section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper, and print your name and address plainly.

Chicago, July 28.—My best neighborhood bargain was a book on France for 25 cents at a local department store. I found it among many all more or less damaged, but this one was in perfect condition and beautifully bound. It is the work of a famous French historian, and was my principal source of information for a prize essay I wrote last semester on the French revolution.

BIRD CAGE FOR 85 CENTS.

Chicago, July 30.—A well made brass bird cage equipped with perches, swing and cups on sale at a nearby department store for 89 cents was my greatest bargain. I have used it for two years now, and it will probably continue in service for many more.

WORTH WAITING FOR.

Chicago, July 28.—Some time ago I bought a pair of fine leather oxfords for $1 at a sale in a department store in the 26th and Halsted street district. These oxfords are of a well known make that sell regularly for $10 a pair. I had to do some before-the-doors-opened waiting, but such a bargain was more than a sufficient recompense.

FIX MERCHANTS' FEE FOR $ DAY IN OAK PARK

The participation fee in conjunction with the Dollar day to be held in Oak Park on Aug. 13 will be five dollars, according to an announcement made last week by the retail affairs committee making plans for the event. This investment will entitle the retailer to window cards, price cards, pennants and banners. The various districts of the village are expected to vie with one another in giving 100 per cent endorsement to the project.

District chairmen were chosen at the recent July meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Oak Park. They are E. A. Downing, D. Leonardi, S. Ragalie, P. H. Congdon, R. C. Hieber, J. R. Cessna, A. B. Trikryl, E. J. Gotsch, A. L. Schenk, and Miss Helen Knight.

OAK PARK WILL OPEN DRIVE FOR SUPERHIGHWAY

Planning for Group to Study Route.

President Charles H. Crysler of Oak Park announced yesterday that he will appoint a committee within two weeks to study the elevated highway proposed by the west park commissioners and to coöperate with the park board and other groups in pushing the project.

"We are 100 per cent in favor of the highway across the west side and want it to extend not only to Austin boulevard but through Oak Park and other western suburbs at least to the Des Plaines river," Mr. Crysler said.

"We are prepared to support the project and to work for its extension westward no matter what route is selected by the Chicago Plan commission.

Wants Grade Separations.

"Construction of the super-highway would bring separation of all grades at intersections from Canal street as far west as the improvement extended, something which is becoming more and more necesary as motor travel in the county increases.

"Separation of grades at boulevard intersections is becoming even more urgent than at railroad crossings," Mr. Crysler continued. "There were nine deaths at railroad crossings in the village last year and twenty-one deaths at highway intersections.

"Furthermore, there is a constant demand for stop signals, which, though they slow traffic, must be provided in the interests of safety. More than 200 such lights were recently installed in Oak Park.

Visit Dr. Robertson.

A delegation headed by Mr. Crysler visited President Robertson of the west park board Tuesday to offer the coöperation of Oak Park village officials in assuring completion of the project. There were present Judge J. M. Feron, police magistrate; Col. A. D. Rehm, president of the park commission of Oak Park; Thomas A. Walpole, village prosecutor; Paul R. Wick, village attorney, and State Representative Edward M. Overland.

Mr. Crysler favors construction of the super-highway also on the ground that it would create great trading centers throughout the west side at points where ramps would carry motorists up from surface streets. It would improve business and manufacturing sites, now almost inaccessible from other parts of the city, Mr. Crysler pointed out, by creating an artery on which a motorist could reach any part of the west side from the loop or the north or south sides within a few minutes.

Ladies' Day at Clubs.

Ladies' day was held at the Edgewood Valley Country club last Tuesday and at the La Grange Country club on Wednesday. A large representation of women members of both clubs was present.

CLARENDON HILLS IS PRAISED FOR STREET PROJECT

In a statement published last week the Oak Park chamber of commerce commended the foresight of the neighboring village of Clarendon Hills in obtaining a deed to land which is to be used to make its main business street, South Prospect avenue, 134 feet wide. When completed this thoroughfare will be the widest main street in the western suburbs. Paving will go forward as soon as the $190,000 sanitary sewer system now being put in is finished.

The chamber is praising the neighboring village regrets the fact that citizens of Oak Park were not equally foresighted years ago. Had they been, according to officials of the chamber, adequate sewers would have been installed on the north side, Oak Park avenue would have been wider throughout the village, the elevated lines might have been really elevated and other projects might have been undertaken.

Boys Visit Pie Factory; Engage in Eating Race

Twenty boys of the west side Y. M. C. A., 1515 West Monroe street, visited the Case & Martin Pie company recently, and through the courtesy of the management were permitted to take part in a pie eating contest. Three boys were tied for first place, each having consumed three pies. They are Ricard Yokom, Horatio Calveresi and Bruno Anquini. The other seventeen youngsters trailed with scores ranging from a half a pie to a pie and three-quarters.

Hinsdale C. of C. to Meet.

Members of the Hinsdale chamber of commerce will meet at the Blue Lantern, Hinsdale, on Aug. 19. Subjects of particular interest to business men of the village will be taken up.

CALIFORNIA PARK TO GET SWIMMING POOL EQUIPMENT

Equipment for the new swimming pool at California park, Irving Park boulevard and the north channel, was ordered at the latest meeting of the river park district board, in the administration building, 5100 North Francisco avenue. The swimming pool which was completed last fall is 300 feet long, 100 feet in width and contains 1,250,000 gallons of water. A beach house has also been constructed in the park.

The supplies ordered include a quantity of copper sulphate, a spring board and mats, two ladders, 500 towels and new bathing suits for the life savers. The new equipment will be installed within the next few weeks, Fred Bohn, president of the park commission, said.

The river park commissioners have jurisdiction over five parks in the territory bounded by Belmont, Devon, Western and Kedzie avenues. The other four parks are River park, Green Briar park, Paul Revere park, and Brand's park. Other members of the board are John O'Shea, Albert F. Otte, Joseph A. Lynn, and Elroy C. Sandquist.

Attendance at the golf course of Riis park, conducted by the Northwest park commissioners, is now about 450 on week days and 650 to 700 on Sunday. The course is opened every morning at 5 o'clock to accommodate early risers.

BOY SCOUT TROOP OF NORTH AUSTIN HAS 56 AT CAMP

Boy Scout troop 345 composed of boys of North Austin, last week had the largest membership of any troop at the scout camps at Whitehall, Mich., according to Scoutmaster Morris P. Jones. Fifty-six boys attended camp under the leadership of Assistant Scoutmaster Glenn Motschen.

The troop is sponsored by Our Lady of Christian Help church, Leamington avenue and Iowa street, and is often aided by the Austin Kiwanis club. J. W. McNichols is chairman of the club's troop committee which includes George R. Kelly, J. E. McCullough, and J. W. Harmon.

C. OF C. ENROLLS 24 NEW MEMBERS AT BIG MEETING

Practically every guest who attended the meeting was voted a member of the chamber. Several aldermen were present and they, also, joined the organization 100 per cent strong.

The enrollment of new members set a new record with 24.

16 SWIM POOLS LURE CHILDREN TO WEST PARKS

Director Traces Rise of Supervised Sport.

When west side boys of a generation ago wanted to go swimming, they hiked a few miles east to the lake and jumped in, sans formality or bathing suits, or trekked across the country roads to the Des Plaines river to take a dip in the muddy water. Today the west parks maintain 16 swimming pools in all parts of the west side.

In the late '90's boys of the west side played ball in vacant lots and had no recreation facilities whatever. In fact, paid recreation directors or playground instructors were unknown. To pay some one to teach the youngsters how to play was considered a waste of money—and none was wasted. Today thousands of boys and girls of the west side spend the entire summer in one of the 24 playgrounds maintained by the west park board and play under the direction of from three to twelve men and women in charge of activities at each park.

Some Girls Allowed Croquet.

W. J. H. Schultz, superintendent of the west parks recreation department, remembers the day when the girls used to pack up the croquet set and go on an outing to Garfield park, where they would spend a few hours driving the ball around on a makeshift green. And even that much play was indulged in only if the girls' parents did not deem it unladylike to take part in sports.

Fortunate girls were those who had persuaded their parents to provide them with a bean bag game, according to Mr. Schultz, and the height of sport was to spend a rollicking day trying to put the bag through the hole on the upright board.

"The only recreation facility worth mentioning was the old bicycle track in Garfield park," Mr. Schultz said. "Back in 1893 weekly races and meets were held there during the summer months, and young people from the entire west side used to assemble to watch the riders speed around the track. Not until ten years later, however, was any movement for playgrounds organized.

Turnverein Broke Ice.

"In 1903 members of the German Turnerein on the west side asked the park board to provide some gymnasium equipment in one of the parks to allow the German athletes to hold outdoor demonstrations of their gymnastic skill. The board finally agreed, and the first playground on the west side was established in Douglas park. Once the ice was broken the system grew constantly, until now every part of the west side has facilities for all kinds of play.

"We have 16 swimming pools, 24 gymnasiums, two golf links, 152 tennis courts, a bicycle bowl, a few handball and volley ball courts, and even some hopscotch squares. There are at least eleven employés at each swimming pool, and men and women instructors are at all the playgrounds.

"In contrast with the old days when Garfield park was practically unused, and was surrounded by a tall fence to keep the cows from entering and eating the grass, it is now visited by hundreds of thousands of west siders each year and offers every variety of recreation, both indoor and outdoor."

City Council Orders Stop Lights Installed

The commissioner of public works was directed by the city council recently to install warning stop lights along Kimball avenue at Lawrence, Montrose, Foster and Bryn Mawr avenues, Irving Park boulevard and Addison street; at Crawford avenue and Lawndale and Montrose avenues; at Otto street and Elston avenue; at Kedzie avenue and Wilson, Bryn Mawr, and Foster avenues; at Montrose and Sacramento avenues; at Irving Park boulevard and Sacramento avenue; and at Keeler avenue and Irving Park boulevard.

Priest Made Chief of Chippewas

ZONING CHANGED IN 8 AREAS OF NORTHWEST SIDE

Peterson Ave. District to Be Commercial.

Eight pieces of northwest side property were rezoned by the city council before adjournment for the summer recently. Ordinances legalizing the changes were previously approved at public hearings.

Ordinances rezoning the following property were passed by the council: Peterson avenue between Cicero and Kilpatrick avenues, from an apartment to a commercial district.

The area bounded by the alley south of Devon avenue, Kirkwood avenues, Rosemont avenue, Lemont avenue, and alley north of Hiawatha avenue, and the alley east of Keating avenue, from a residence to an apartment district.

Apartments for Peterson-Knox.

The section bounded by Kirkwood, Rosemont, Kostner, Forest Glen, and Sauganash avenues, from a commercial to a residence classification.

Newport-Laramie for Homes.

Prepare Plans for Four 41st Ward Improvements

Orders to prepare plans and estimates for four improvements in the 41st ward were submitted to the board of local improvements recently by Ald. T. J. Bowler. The alderman is seeking the paving of the alley between Newark and Natoma avenues from Bryn Mawr avenue to Heyden street; paving of Markham avenue between Elston and Menard avenues; sidewalks on Natchez avenue between Bryn Mawr and Foster avenues, and opening of Lamon avenue between Milwaukee avenue and Irving Park boulevard.

Logan Square Group Asks New Milwaukee Car Stop

At the request of the Logan Square Business Men's association the city council recently passed an ordinance requesting the Chicago Surface Lines to change one stop of the west bound Milwaukee avenue cars. Instead of stopping in the middle of the square, the business men want the cars to stop at the east curb of Kedzie avenue.

"SINGING MAN"

In a ceremony redolent of pioneer days members of the Chippewa tribe of Reserve, Wis., conferred the title of "Singing Man Black Robed," on the Rev. Francis C. Young, assistant pastor of Holy Ghost church, Kildare avenue and Adams street, July 25. The event took place at Court Oreille lake, near Reserve. Father Young, who is a poet, as well as a priest, is the second white man to become a chief of the tribe. The other is Eamonn de Valera.

The Indian words which make up Father Young's new title are "Naga ma Inini Me Ka te wik wa na i e."

The ceremony was witnessed by a large crowd of tourists and others. Arrangements for the affair were handled by two Chicagoans, James T. Gallahue, teacher in St. Philips' High school, 3141 West Jackson boulevard, and James P. Early, past grand knight of the Loyola-Hyde Park council of the Knights of Columbus.

Chief Peter Wolf presided at the ceremony. Others who gave speeches or assisted in the function included the Rev. Ignatius Kinney, pastor at Reserve, and Louis Corbine, interpreter.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR MEETING SEEKING TAX CUT

Civic Groups Join in Drive Tuesday.

Arrangements for the tax reduction meeting sponsored by the Northwest Federation of Improvement clubs, which will be held at the city hall Tuesday night have been completed, according to T. P. Quinn, chairman of the committee in charge. Delegates from more than 700 civic organizations throughout the city will meet in the city council chambers at 8 p. m.

The program of the meeting will include an introductory address by Mr. Quinn and general discussion of the problem at hand by delegates from the various groups. Temporary officers of the civic body will be elected, and the drive for reform in local government through which members of the federation hope to obtain a reduction in taxes will be launched.

All Private Citizens.

The new association will be composed entirely of private citizens, and no public officeholders will be affiliated in any way, according to Mr Quinn. Members of his committee are E. D. Jackson, John Klier, William Schmidt, William Crump, Henry Pollard, C. C. Foster, E. F. Boyle, B. A. Rooney, S. W. Haddock, E. O. Hutchinson, John Pahl, James Davis, Dr. H. J. Weiland, and O. W. Holmes, president of the federation.

The drive to organize the tax reduction meeting was begun by the Northwest federation a month ago, and was the outgrowth of an attempt to organize the Citizens' Tax Reduction association.

Not wishing to permit a new organization to take the matter of tax reduction into its hands, the federation adopted the following resolution:

"The question of taxation is now looming up as one of the major questions for immediate consideration of the citizens of this city and county.

"New organizations are springing up in an attempt to deal with this vital question. These organizations have no background to justify our confidence in their ability or sincerity to handle the question of taxation in the interest of the small taxpayer; therefore be it resolved:

"That the chairman of this organization be authorized to appoint a committee of five or six members of this body, with authority to work out a system of city-wide organization to deal with this situation."

Tentative Program Adopted.

At subsequent meetings of the committee appointed by O. W. Holmes, president of the federation, a tentative program for the city-wide tax reduction organization was worked out.

The program would include a survey of the city and county departments with a view to consolidating those whose efficiency would be increased by consolidation, and studies of the various city departments to detect waste and to determine whether Chicago is being run under the best possible system of local government.

According to the plan, the county government and sanitary district would be investigated, as well as park systems and the city and county judiciary.

CORNERSTONE LAID FOR DORMITORY AT PARK RIDGE SCHOOL

The cornerstone for a new dormitory at Park Ridge school for girls was laid Friday at a ceremony attended by directors of the school, pupils, and residents of Park Ridge.

The dormitory will be called Florence Tuttle hall, and will be constructed with funds given by the late William P. Tuttle in memory of his daughter. It will be maintained by an endowment fund donated by the late Mrs. William R. Linn and will provide a home for 22 girls.

Mrs. Amalie Hofer Jerome of the board of directors presided at the program, which included addresses by Mrs. Charles Ware, chairman of the board; Mrs. O. J. Buck; J. T. Hetherington, architect, and Miss Ruby K. Badger, superintendent. Girls of the school gave musical selections. The program was closed by a prayer led by the Rev. R. E. Carr of St. Mary's Episcopal church of Park Ridge.

Pass Ordinances to Pave 3 Northwest Side Streets

Permission to pave three northwest side streets was granted the board of local improvements by the city council recently. Ordinances were passed permitting paving of Altgeld street between Menard and Meade avenues; Sunnyside avenue between Austin and Narragansett avenues, and Bryn Mawr avenue between Northwest highway and the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks. Property owners approved these projects at a public hearing last spring.

Close Three 40th Ward Streets to Heavy Traffic

According to an ordinance passed by the city council recently, the following 40th ward streets are closed to heavy traffic: Monticello avenue between Montrose and Carmen avenues; Sawyer avenue between Lawrence and Carmen avenues; and Wilson avenue from the north branch of the Chicago river to Kimball avenue.

Police to Ban Fruit Stands on Lawrence Ave. Sidewalk

In accordance with a request of Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] the police of the Albany Park district have begun a drive to eliminate all display of fruit on the sidewalks of Lawrence avenue and Kedzie avenue. Ald. Ross said his action was in response to numerous complaints made by residents and civic organizations of the community.

Ordinance for Sidewalk on Nordica Avenue Passed

An ordinance permitting the board of local improvements to contract for laying a sidewalk on Nordica avenue between Addison street and Belmont avenue was passed recently by the city council. The ordinance was submitted by the board following approval of the project by property owners.

WEST O' HARLEM GROUP IS TOLD PLANS FOR PARK

The movement for an "Abraham Lincoln National Park," sponsored for the first time at a public meeting in Edison Park recently, received another boost when Col. Sydney Story addressed the West o' Harlem Property Owners association at a meeting held at the Norwood Park Masonic temple, Nina and Circle streets, last Monday evening.

The residents of the district heard an explanation of the huge national park proposed for the northwest section of Chicago. This park, as depicted by Col. Story, will extend from Riverside to Lake Michigan and will contain magnificent buildings erected by each of the states of the Union.

Besides Col. Story, the principal speaker, Judge Charles E. Miller of Park Ridge, D. E. Ward of the association of '93; James Herron, and William M. Madison were among the speakers.

LAUDS PROGRESS OF MADISON AND CRAWFORD AREA

Speaker Finds It Among Best in Chicago.

Property values in the Madison-Crawford district have increased until that section is one of the most valuable of all outlying business centers of the city. It is becoming recognized more and more by large organizations of Chicago as the logical business community in which to establish branches.

These statements were made on Wednesday by W. A. Wasson, manager of the Metropolitan Business college, 9 South Crawford avenue, and member of the Garfield Park club, in a radio address over station WGES. Mr. Wasson's address was one of a series given by members of the Garfield business men's group to acquaint residents of the city with the merits of the Madison-Crawford district as a shopping center.

Boom on West Side.

"In the early development of Chicago the growth quite naturally followed the lake, north and south. Now the west side is coming into its own," Mr. Wasson said. "Property values in the Madison-Crawford district have increased through the advent of such improvements as the Garfield State bank, the Midwest Athletic club, Guyon's hotel, and other new building projects.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, contemplating the opening of branches throughout the city, has seen the advisability of establishing their first branch in the Garfield Park district, having located at 4152 West Madison street. Montgomery Ward and company, after a general survey of the city, recently opened a branch at 3931 West Madison street. Many other large business houses are now established in this section.

"Plans are under way for the widening of Crawford avenue, the opening of Springfield avenue, the widening of Kostner avenue, and bridging it over the Chicago and North Western yards north of this district. All of these improvements will be realized in a short time.

Many Groups Coöperate.

"The Garfield Park club and other civic clubs such as the Garfield Park Lions club, the West Side Kiwanis club, and the West Town Chamber of Commerce are coöperating to build up the west side of which the Madison-Crawford district is the leading business center."

Another address on the merits of the district will be delivered next Wednesday by Austin R. Campbell, manager of the Jackson Storage and Van company, 4050 West Madison street.

DOWNERS GROVE PLANS $575,000 SEWAGE PLANT

Project Ready to Go to Court for Approval.

Downers Grove is to have a new sewage disposal plant. The project is being undertaken by the Downers Grove Sanitary district at a point on St. Joseph creek, a small stream running through the village, about one mile west of the town limits. A public hearing was held in Memorial hall, Downers Grove, last Monday morning, and the petition is expected to be filed in court within a week or two.

The improvement will necessitate wiring a tract of from 30 to 40 acres of ground and installing a line of pipe from the present plant to the new location. The plant now being used is within the village limits, although at the time it was constructed the property was part of a farm.

Plans for the new plant and designs for construction have been worked out in detail. The project is being undertaken by special assessment and will cost about $575,000.

Save Money by Changing Sites.

A new site for the plant has been chosen instead of the old location because very valuable property would have to be purchased to build an addition there.

A statement relative to the improvement was given to THE TRIBUNE last week by Bunge, Grotefeld & Bunge, legal representatives of the sanitary district of the village.

"In connection with the rapid expansion of any community," the statement said, "The main requirements are sewers and water supply. Adequate means must be taken to care for not only present needs of the community, but also those of the future. Also, the engineers must determine the possible degree of use and the kind of use to which the territory will be put in the future. Thus a sewage disposal plant constructed at this time must be able to take care of the needs of the district for years to come."

Space for Additional Units.

The new site is of such size and situation, however, that when further development may be necessary additional units of a similar type can be built upon the same ground without any purchase of land.

Most of the growth of the village as well as the majority of civic improvements have taken place within the last five years. Water mains, new pavements, and similar phases of community development have been installed during that time. Since 1910 the population of Downers Grove has increased 400 per cent, from about 2,600 to more than 11,000 residents.

SALE OF RADIO LICENSES BARRED, COUNSEL HOLDS

Is Violation of the Act of 1927.

Radio licenses, like automobile tags, cannot be sold, mortgaged, or leased without the consent of the federal radio commission, Bethuel M. Webster Jr., general counsel of the commission, holds in an opinion of section 12 of the radio act of 1927. The legal view has been given on account of the raising of the question upon the presentation of petitions for renewals. In one instance recently the commission found an applicant who apparently was making a business of obtaining and selling licenses at a profit.

Section 12 is intended, Mr. Webster says, "to prevent development of the theory of property rights in the use of frequencies or in the right to communicate by radio"; also "to prevent the making of any profit based on the sale of a license" and the acquisition of stations by ineligible or undesirable persons.

"The actual assignment of the license itself without consent of the commission," Mr. Webster said, "is clearly a violation of section 12, since it amounts to a transfer of control. Moreover an outright sale of station apparatus, where the effect is to put an unlicensed vendee into possession and control is not permitted.

"During the license period the act prohibits any termination of the mortgagor's control, whether that control is terminated by default, repossession or foreclosure.

"A lease which is so drawn as to constitute a mere sale of time allows the lessor to retain control of the use or operation of the station, to continue financially responsible for the debts of the station and to continue its management is not objectionable.

"On the other hand, a lease which puts into the hands of a lessee the station management, which the commission in issuing a license has placed in the hands of the lessor licensed in accordance with the standard of public interest, would, in effect, be an assignment of license and therefore void."

RETURNS FROM INSPECTION OF INDIAN MOUNDS

The Rev. C. H. Walter, pastor of the Elmhurst English Lutheran church, North and Larchmont avenues, returned Tuesday from a trip inspecting and photographing several groups of Indian burial mounds in the western part of the state.

In one Rock river group of mounds a mound in the form of a headless turtle, far in advance of surrounding burial mounds, was found. In another mound, which was especially well preserved, the tail of the mound turtle measured exactly one hundred and nine feet. The arrangement of the mounds to the rear of the turtle mound is also supposed to have a special significance.

In the Albany group of mounds was found one with a buried furnace, where it is believed the Indians smelted lead, due to the large amount of crude lead ore found.

Moose Lodge to Hold Half of Meetings in Elmhurst

Elmhurst-Glen Ellyn lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose has decided to hold alternate meetings in Elmhurst instead of all at Glen Ellyn as heretofore. The first meeting to be held in Elmhurst will be Tuesday, Aug. 27, at which time a large class of candidates will be initiated.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Let's pretend that we're back in the days of the war again, and we're listening to the radio on the afternoon of July 27, 1918. The announcer is speaking to us from the ringside of the Jack Dempsey and Fred Fulton fight at Harrison, N. J. Jack Dempsey was not yet champion, nor even much of a celebrity. It was a whole year before Dempsey met Willard. Here goes:

ANNOUNCER — Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. This is W-G-N, broadcasting the Jack Dempsey-Fred Fulton fight direct from the baseball park in Harrison, New Jersey!

They're rioting out here in this ball park right now! We can hardly hear ourselves talking, this howling, screaming mob is making so much noise. There's been a rush on the high price seats down there in the baseball field by the customers in the less expensive sections, and the Harrison police force has just been helpless. Look at 'em go!

Wait a minute—there's somebody scrambling up into the ring now—wait'll we see who it is. It's Ed Curley, and he's raising his hands for silence. Don't look as if he'll get it—there comes another mob down from the grandstand in a raid on the ringside seats! Listen to 'em howl!

Ed Curley is the man who brought Fulton and Dempsey together for this fight, that will unofficially give one of them the heavyweight boxing championship, since it seems to be the general opinion that Jess Willard will never leave his Kansas farm and the cows and the chickens to come out and defend his title.

It's almost seven o'clock, and since Curley has promised to start the fight promptly at that hour, we've got very little time left to tell you about the details of this scrap. Jack Dempsey is the twenty-two year old youngster who's come up in heavyweight circles like a flash in the last two years. He's been bowling over the star heavies right and left, winning most of his contests with a K. O. sock in the first round. He's trimmed the best of the lot—Willie Meehan, Gunboat Smith, Porky Flynn, Billy Mike, Bill Brennan, and Carl Morris.

Very nearly we didn't have a fight here today. Fred got himself into something of a mess with the draft board early this week, and for a time it looked as if Fulton would be grabbed by the government sleuths and slapped into the army. Fred hadn't appeared before the New York draft board owing to the fact that the notices sent him had strayed on the way, but everything has been satisfactorily explained, and Fred was given a clean bill of health.

This fight means a lot to Fred Fulton. Only Dempsey stands between him and Jess Willard. While Jess has been loafing out on that Pottawatomie farm of his in Kansas, Fred has been making fistic hay in the ring, and everything is set for his scrap with Willard if he puts Dempsey away. He may have to wait until the end of the war, but if he can put "One Round Jack" to sleep decisively this afternoon, he'll have first crack at the titleholding Kansan's crown, which Willard packed away in the moth balls after he won it from Johnson, and which has rarely been seen since.

Jack Kearns, the man who is managing Dempsey thinks that Jack is head and shoulders above Fulton and every other heavyweight in the field —even Willard—and he's willing to let his protégé try to prove it.

Both men appear fairly well matched, and many experts figure that they'll last out the full ten rounds. They're hard hitters, but neither looks to be a hard enough hitter to knock the other down. If anybody's got the edge, it's Fulton.

Whee! There's a yell! It's Fulton coming down the aisle on his way to the ring! Fred Fulton, the big, tall, lean Minnesota boy who wants to win the world's championship! The crowd is giving him a great cheer as he comes up the aisle and swings through the ropes and into the ring!

Mike Collins, his manager, is with him, and a gang of seconds, water boys, trainers and camp followers. They think he's the coming champion of the world. Fred is showing the crowd a great big grin.

Fred looks fit and ready for the battle, and Ed Curley, the promoter, has joined the little crowd in Fulton's corner and he's talking to him. Curley probably wants to promote the Willard-Fulton fight for the championship.

Wait a minute! What's that! There's more noise! It's Dempsey this time—Jack Dempsey, the twenty-two year old bruiser from Nevada, who has been heaving the best of the heavies right and left for the last two years. He's coming down the aisle to the ring, almost fighting his way through the mob that's clogged up the passages ever since they raced in from the cheaper seats at the edge of the field.

Jack Kearns is with him, and a group of seconds and trainers. Dempsey looks like a big surly boy. He's wearing an old torn red sweater, and there's a two day's growth of whiskers on his chin and jowls. His face and body are brown—he's been doing a lot of training in the sun. He's just scowling—not smiling as Fulton was when he came in the ring, and he looks every inch the fighter.

Now the new chocolate-colored boxing gloves have been dumped on the floor, and the seconds are sorting them out. Jack Kearns has wandered over to Fulton's corner to take a look at Fred's bandages on his hand, and Mike Collins has gone into Dempsey's corner to do the same thing. Jack has pulled off that red sweater, and now they're fitting the gloves on the hands of both the fighters.

Here comes the announcer signalling for quiet. Here's the dope as he shoots it to us with that megaphone voice—ten rounds, no decision, between Jack Dempsey, 189 pounds, and Fred Fulton, 202 pounds.

Now the referee is calling the men to the center of the ring for their final instructions. Fred comes out of his corner with his bathrobe draped over his shoulders, and he's smiling as he steps to the center of the ring. Jack still is wearing that scowl, and he's looking at the floor as the referee talks to them. Ten rounds—no decision—eight ounce gloves—and behind the smiling face of Fred Fulton and the scowling mask of Jack Dempsey there is the same thought—that a decision won't be necessary. A few weeks ago in Chicago Jack Dempsey told THE TRIBUNE's boxing editor that he intended to knock out Fulton in one round, and he looks as though he intends to do it.

Now they've gone back to their corners. Ed Curley is up in the ring now, the announcer is introducing him, and he's getting a hand from the crowd! Ed is saying something, but we can't hear what it is in all the din.

Now they're clearing the ring for action. Jack Kearns is whispering into Dempsey's ear as the two fighters face each other across the ring and wait for the gong. The seconds are scampering out of the ring.

There's the bell! Round one! Dempsey is out of his corner and in the center of the ring in a flash. Fulton comes out with a smile on his face. They spar for a moment! Fulton sticks out his left hand with a widening grin. What's this Dempsey got? he asks himself. Wow! That's what he's got! Dempsey lands a hard right to the heart! It hurt Fulton. He didn't expect it. A clean blow just above the heart! Look at Dempsey tear in. He's forcing Fulton back against the ropes—Dempsey lands a left hook to the jaw—Dempsey has Fulton groggy—Dempsey has him groggy from two punches! Now their wrestling a bit—Fulton is still groggy O. Dempsey starts a right hander from his shoes. . . . on the jaw. . . . Fulton is down. . . . Fred Fulton is on the mat. . . . He's just crumpled up and gone down . . . . there's the count. . . . he strains his body. . . . there's a look of pain on his face. . . . three . . . . four . . . . Mike Collins, his manager, implores him to get up. . . . Dempsey stands over him scowling. . . . seven . . . . eight. . . . Fulton writhes in pain. . . . He lifts his body a foot from the floor. . . . his head hangs over the lower rope. . . . Dempsey is waiting, fists clenched. . . . Jack Dempsey has knocked out Fred Fulton! Dempsey wins in the first round!

Bring on Jess Willard!

SPECIALISTS NOW HANDLE PROGRAM MAKING DETAILS

Radio Advertisers Look to Agencies.

Radio broadcast's evolution into the field of big business has gradually brought about a segregation of activities until nearly every department is in the hands of specialists. One of the most significant markings is the creation of program specialists.

Nto so very long ago the making of programs was wholly in the hands of broadcasting stations. The trend is now in the opposite direction; program sponsors either directly or through their advertising agencies seek to build up their entertainments as a complete entity and take it to the station ready to use its air facilities and nothing else.

William B. Murray, vice president and general manager of an organization specializing in program building, recently explained how program making came to be a specialty.

Like Editorial Department.

"We do the sort of work that the editorial department of a publication does," he said, "or you might limit it even more than that and say we are like the art department of a publication.

"But naturally, as sponsors came to have a better understanding of radio broadcast, they wanted to control their representation on the air. The result was that their advertising agencies began to study radio very intensively. Some advertising agencies have built up what are really very good radio departments. But even with expert script writers, expert production men, expert musical impresarios, they still need artists to express the ideas they create and so naturally they have to come to us or whoever controls the talent they wish."

Mr. Murray told how program services at first were merely booking agencies for talent.

"But," he said, "we soon learned that we would have to go the whole route in order to fairly represent our artists as well as satisfy the sponsors who engaged them.

Like Theatrical Production.

"Each radio period is a complete theatrical production. It requires the combined and related effort of all the wisdom and experience and talent that any such enterprise deserves. Consequently it became necessary to organize a group of experts in every phase of radio production, quite apart from the artists who finally appear before the microphone."

This means not only a large permanent staff of professional radio folk, but also a considerable physical equipment, such as studios, library, technical equipment. The musical library of Mr. Murray's organization for radio use solely is reputed to be worth more than a quarter of a million dollars. It is the largest and most complete collection of its kind in the world.

"Nowadays," Mr. Murray stated, "advertising agencies are the point of contact in most of radio's important programs. The broadcasting stations and the broadcasting chains sell 'time on the air' to sponsors through the advertising agencies. The sponsors no longer look to the stations for entertainment facilities; they look to their advertising agencies. Some of these agencies have created export radio departments. These look on us as an expert art service, ready to supply them with talent to fit the copy they create. Other advertising agencies lean on us entirely, asking both copy and art service, so to speak."

Chicago.

Gentlemen:

I understand that you solicit criticism. Here it is. We are absolutely unable to listen through one of the performances of the Hungry Five. If there ever was an assinine program, this is it. If the five were sentenced to the federal prison for a stretch, few of your patrons would refuse to join the celebration.

Dear Hungry Five:

If I could but express in a convincing way the admiration I have for your work, and tell you how thoroughly I enjoy your fun making, I would be content. I can never retire until I have heard what you boys have to play and say. May I live long to hear, "Ein zwei, drei, spiel!

CHILDREN'S CONCERT

They play their best music for the children. Sometimes lazy tunes that shepherds have sung or piped on eerie pipes. Sometimes laughing songs that elves have learned from water tumbling over stones in a young brook. Stories, too, there are. They speak familiarly of Pan and his ilk who have youth sealed up safely within them. The music is by the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra responding enthusiastically to the baton of Gaston Dufresne Moulin. Be gay and begin the concert at 5:45.

JEAN GOLDKETTE . .

A bomb has dropped in the dance music world. Victor Young, prominent young orchestrator and violinist—Van Fleming, inspiring tenor and guitarist—Bill Herring, who plays an elastic trombone that croons as Sophie Tucker wishes she could—Jack Cordaro, who licks out the dirty runs on any of half a dozen saxophones and toots a merry break on a clarinet—they're all members of Jean Goldkette's most famous of radio bands. Sunday's their big day. 1:30, 2:25, and 11.

CLAY'S ESTATE GAVE NAME TO ASHLAND AVENUE

"Street of Palaces" Developed by Kentuckian.

This is the eighth of a series of articles on the naming of west side streets and suburbs.

Ashland avenue was named after the Kentucky home of Henry Clay, the noted American statesman.

By patient drill through methods of his own, Clay had carefully laid the foundation for that repute for marvelous eloquence which marked him even down to his old age. His property rapidly increased, and following his marriage to Lucretia Hart in 1799, he purchased the estate of 600 acres near Lexington, which became famous as his Kentucky home. His eleven children were born there. For fifty years it was a sort of Mecca for political pilgrims on every kind of an errand.

The Ashland mansion, known for its grandure and its hospitality, had registered itself in the minds of the Kentuckians who had migrated to pioneer Chicago.

Ashland Avenue's Pioneer.

Among those from the Blue Grass state was Samuel J. Walker, capitalist and real estate operator, who owned a vast frontage along the portion of Ashland avenue which lies west of the loop district and who was responsible for its first building improvements.

Mr. Walker's first venture—1864—was six fine brick homes on different corners. In 1868 he built twenty marble front houses. Thus, we are told, "within four years Ashland had become an avenue of palaces."

In 1874 the street had improved to the point where it was described as "foremost among the fancy residence thoroughfares of the west side. The sidewalks are all uniform and laid in flagstones, although in some places wooden walks are down now. This splendid walk has no equal anywhere for symmetry, uniformity and grace."

First Called Reuben Street.

The thoroughfare might have prospered as well under its original name—Reuben street, but the term "Hey, Rube" came into vogue and, upon petition of the sorely tried residents, a change to Ashland was obtained.

Former Mayor Carter H. Harrison in "Chicago Yesterdays" recalls that in his boyhood it was known as Reuben street. He speaks of the street when it was a dirt road and one of its seven houses belonged to "the chicken woman."

"I can close my eyes today," he wrote, "and the hissing of her geese and the quacking of her ducks are still in my ears."

Samuel Insull, president of the Chicago Civic Opera company, will be the speaker. Mrs. Schwind is president of the Irving Park club.

COMMITTEES OF JEFFERSON PARK DISTRICT NAMED

New committees for the Jefferson Park district were announced last week by Abner G. Erickson, president of the park board. They are as follows:

Finance—W. J. Wiese, P. J. Barry, and M. F. McMahon.

Improvement—M. F. McMahon, W. J. Wiese, and A. G. Erickson.

Maintenance—A. G. Erickson, M. F. McMahon, and C. F. Schmook.

It is expected that at the next meeting of the board on Aug. 14, a complete criminal code will be adopted, enumerating and defining offenses, and providing for fining transgressors. Commissioners and park employés will be given the power to make arrests.

At this meeting a new municipal accounting system which is now being established will be placed in operation, one of the first steps in carrying out the commissioners' promise to put the park board on a business basis.

LUTHERANS OF WOODLAWN GIVE HAVEN TO YOUTH

Immanuel Fosters Social Activities.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

REV. CLARENCE E. PAULUS. [Waters Photo.]

C. W. HOWE.

Woodlawn Immanuel Lutheran church has always been interested in her young people, and when the new church and community center was erected in 1924 at Kenwood avenue and 64th street, full provision was made for facilities that would care for social and athletic activities.

The Rev. Clarence E. Paulus begins his fifteenth year as pastor of the church this August. During his ministry the spiritual life of the church has been deepened. Into the work, the pastor and his wife, with the consecrated men and women of Immanuel, have encourage serious thought and high enthusiasm. Their efforts have been greatly rewarded.

C. W. Howe, a member of the congregation is credited with probably having done more for clean athletics for young men than any other Lutheran layman, and the present recreational equipment is the realization of his dream of many years.

Organized Baseball League.

In 1915, through Mr. Howe's efforts, the Lutheran Baseball league of Chicago was organized. This organization had such a rapid growth and was so successful that overtures were made by the Sunday School association of Cook county requesting the Lutheran Baseball league to accept teams of other denominations, which request was gladly granted.

As the league grew it was thought best to change the name to the Church Athletic association of Chicago, taking in all Protestant denominations. The association has grown until today there are more than 62 baseball teams and more than 100 basketball teams. Track meets are held both summer and winter at Stagg field.

The Immanuel team has won six cups for baseball and bowling. This season Albert Marquardt, director of athletics, again sees his team as baseball champions.

Leading by Three Games.

"Our team," says Mr. Marquardt, "has won eleven games this summer and lost but one. We are leading the league by three games and have only three games yet to play."

Yesterday the Immanuel team played the Drexel Park M. E. team at Washington park. Next Saturday afternoon the Immanuel team will play the Trinity church team.

Players are ineligible for these contests who have not attended a church service twice a month. There is a fine spirit of fellowship among the players on the Immanuel teams—a comraderie that lasts through the years. Last May, when Immanuel church entertained 300 delegates of the Illinois synod, it was the baseball team that served the banquet.

Hold Vesper Tea.

During the winter season the young people of the church hold a vesper tea every Sunday evening that is most popular with university students. There is a social hour from 6 to 7 o'clock, and a devotional service from 7 to 8.

Another young peoples' activity is the Friendly Bible class made up of a group of forty business girls. Members of this group who wish to entertain their friends during the week are allowed to use the parlor without charge.

The church has a volunteer chorus of 25 voices that is noted for its trained talent. During the spring, the chorus provided a program of music, the compositions for which were written by a member of the congregation, Mrs. Eugenia Wirick.

Thus Immanuel church is dedicated to the purpose of making spiritual, educational and recreational contributions to all persons or groups who live, work and play in the community of Woodlawn.

Grows from Mission in 1898.

The history of Immanuel church dates back to 1898 when at the fall meeting of the northern conference of the synod of northern Illinois a committee was appointed to interest itself in the forming of n English Lutheran mission on the south side. Several informal meetings were held at the home of the Rev. A. J. Hesson, 4228 Calumet avenue.

Place for a regular service was obtained by the renting of Wilcox hall, 43d street and Champlain avenue. The Rev. Charles P. MacLaughlin, a student at Susquehanna university, was eventually called as the regular pastor. In 1900, the Sunday school was organized.

In 1903 a house of worship was built and the church began to grow. The Rev. B. F. Grenoble succeeded the Rev. Mr. MacLaughlin. During the serivces of Dr. and Mrs. Grenoble, the church developed both numerically and spiritually. The Rev. D. W. Michael was pastor between 1912 and 1914. A call was extended to the

BY FRED PASLEY.

E. V. WARD of 764 Oakwood boulevard is again edifying the neighbors and delighting the kids with his melodious bass horn playing. Gene is an artist of noble lung power and is now practicing hot marches to play in New Orleans next May when the Shrine session convenes in the Crescent city on the banks of the big uncle of rivers. Gene plays with both the Montjoie commandery band and the Medinah temple brassieres.

Gilbert W. Graper, the go, as the saying is, getting cashier of the Morgan Park Trust and Savings bank, has returned from a three weeks' jaunt up Canadaward. Gilbert took his good frau and small son in the family Buick and headed for the Gaspe peninsula, where the majestic St. Lawrence meets the stormy Atlantic. From Halifax the Grapers steamed via boat to New York, and thence by easy stages back to Our Town. O. E. Kenyon, the efficient cashier, was mighty glad to see his boss back on the job, figuring that he, too, can now get a little vacation.

EARL LEAMON of 5725 South Maplewood avenue is another fellow townsman who has joined the ranks of the unwilling bachelors. His helpmeet, Katherine, is out in Colorado, and poor Earl is heard constantly muttering, "Alone, alone, all, all alone on a wide, wide sea of matrimony vacation." Kitty writes that the Garden of the Gods looks better to her than her own garden, as she doesn't have to bother with the weeds or worry about the chinchbugs.

The sky's the limit for Morris B. Sachs, our well known merchant, who is buggy riding by plane between here and New York these days. For the opening of his newest store at 6638 South Halsted street he hopped down to the Manhattan marts and brought back a fuselage full of latest styles. "Keeping a hop ahead is my policy," says Morris.

W. C. EDEN of 7712 Loomis street is the proud possessor of three (3) speed boats at his Crystal lake summer home. Whitie wouldst fain annex all speed records on that shimmering body of water, and the putt-putt of his motors can be heard from early morn till dusk. Even so, the neighbors say they prefer the exhaust of the boats to the exhaustive practicing on the Eden cornet.

Arnold Rasmussen Jr. is absent from his cheery home at 1908 East 86th street, being engaged at Brodhead, Wis., in his annual battle with par over the course of the Decatur Lakes Country club, famed in slogan as "the sportiest course by a dam site." He will be back next week, we anticipate, with the official list of casualties and the diagram of X's marking the spot where the birdies fell.

Robert A. Bain of 6207 South Laflin street, they say, has more titles than a ten reel movie. Bob is vice president of the Bryn Mawr State bank, cashier of the Stony Island State Savings bank and vice president of the American Trust and Savings bank, besides being a passionate cornetist with the Englewood commandery band. Bob returned a few days ago from a six weeks' trip to Scotland, fatherland of the Bain clan, but maintains a discreet silence as to what he brought back with him.

Frolicking in Cool Waves and Breezes of Lake Michigan

Two efforts are being made to relieve the isolation of south side sections, according to Loran D. Gayton, city engineer. One is the construction of a bridge across the Calumet river at 106th street and the other is the paving of 95th stret. At present the farthest through route south from the far southwest side to the lake shore is 79th stret. To make another east-west crossing south of that point a motorist must now journey nearly ten miles to Sibley road at 147th street.

However, Mr. Gayton indicated that the new bridge will not relieve the lack of street facilities from east to west but will connect the western section of Calumet with the industrial section along the eastern shores of Lake Calumet.

Excavation has been completed from State street on 95th street to Ashland avenue in a program to pave 95th street to Western avenue. Sewers are being laid west of Ashland and will be ready for paving by the time the eastern section of the project is completed, Mr. Gayton said.

Children Busy on Mardi Gras of Play Spots

Bicycles, doll buggies, kiddie cars and wagons will be transformed into floats for the sixth annual children's Mardi Gras, which will be staged during August by the board of education bureau of recreation. The various playgrounds operated during the summer by the school board have been divided into four groups, each of which will present its gay pageant and parade at a different time and place.

Two Festivals on South Side.

Two divisions of the Mardi Gras will be held on the south side, one on the Midway the evening of Friday, Aug. 23, and the other will parade down Garfield boulevard to Racine avenue, and down Racine to the entrance of Sherman park, Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 21.

Herman T. Fischer is director of the bureau of recreation and Miss Flora J. Wolfson, one of the supervisors of the playgrounds, is directly in charge of the Mardi Gras. Miss Anne Prete of Kohn school playground, 10414 South State street, is in charge of the group which will parade down the Midway east of Cottage Grove avenue with floats and children dressed up to represent fairy tales. Last year this division represented the league of nations in the decorations of the floats. Miss Betty Page of Kershaw playground is supervising plans for the southwest division of the Mardi Gras.

Playgrounds in Each Division.

212 ROOKIE COPS GO TO STATIONS OF SOUTH SIDE

A total of 212 new policemen were assigned to the twenty south side stations in an order issued last week by Police Commissioner William F. Russell. The new patrolmen will begin duty at once. Another order was made yesterday transferring many of the veteran policemen in order to equalize the number of men in the 40 stations throughout the city.

The Hegewisch station leads the south side districts with seventeen new policemen. The number assigned to other stations are as follows. Wabash avenue, 15; Auburn Park, 14; Central, 12; Hyde Park, 12; Stockyards, 12; Pekin, 11; Woodlawn, 11; Englewood, 11; New City, 11; First District, 10; South Chicago, 10; East Side, 10; Grand Crossing, 10; Brighton Park, 10, Burnside, 9; Gresham, 8; Stanton avenue, 6; Deering, 6 and Canalport avenue, 4.

TWO BOULEVARD PROJECTS TO BE PUT TO HEARING

Fine Arts Building Work Next Month.

With the legal obstacles to the $15,000,000 bond issues finally removed, with public hearings soon to be held on Southeastern boulevard and Yates avenue, and with work on the rehabilitation of the old Fine Arts building to start soon, officials and employes of the south park commission have many busy months before them.

A public hearing on the proposed boulevarding of Yates avenue and constructing Southeastern boulevard will be held within two weeks, members of the Woodlawn Business Men's association were told recently by Michael L. Igoe, south park commissioner and representative of the fifth senatorial district.

Engineers have practically completed surveys of the Yates avenue and Southeastern boulevard projects and will present the results to the property owners at the public hearing, Mr. Igoe said. The Yates avenue boulevard, he explained, would be an extension of South Shore drive from 71st street to 103d street.

Route of New Boulevard.

Southeastern boulevard will begin on Jeffery avenue at 67th street and continue south to 92d street, east on that thoroughfare to Anthony avenue, southeast to Escanaba avenue, and then south on Escanaba avenue to 100th street, east on 100th street to Avenue L, over the latter to 112th street, and on 112th street to the state line.

The Yates avenue boulevard, which will extend from 71st to 103d streets, will furnish a south and north outlet to the proposed gasoline tax highway, which includes 103d street through South Chicago.

Plans for the rehabilitation of the old Fine Arts building in Jackson park call for an expenditure of $5,000,000. Work on the exterior will start in about two weeks, according to George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the south parks. The exterior will be rebuilt with Bedford stone and when completed will resemble in every detail the Fine Arts building of the world's fair.

The building will house the Rosenwald Industrial museum, toward which Julius Rosenwald has given more than $3,000,000. The interior of the building will be constructed according to plans and specifications drawn by the Rosenwald foundation. According to the engineers' reports, Mr. Donoghue said about three years' will be required to complete the structure.

Work on many long awaited small park improvements, which has been held up for lack of funds, will be started in the early future, according to Mr. Donoghue. The major project, which awaited the settlement of litigation, is the completion of the outer drive, which now ends at 39th street. Edward J. Kelly, president of the park board, announced earlier this week that the stretch between 39th street and Hyde Park boulevard would be completed with four months.

$1,000,000 for Madden Park.

One million dollars for small parks, included in the bond issue, has been set aside, according to Mr. Donoghue, to purchase ten acres of land bounded by 37th street, 38th place, Vernon and Rhodes avenue, to construct Martin B. Madden park. The building of a large field house with the most modern equipment is included in the plans for the park.

Five hundred thousand dollars will be spent to improve the twenty acres which compose Foster park, 83d street and Loomis boulevard. A field house, which will include two large gymnasiums, swimming pools, shower and locker rooms, and library quarters, will make it one of the outstanding plants in the system, according to Mr. Donoghue.

The commissioners plan to spend $810,000 for the construction of Avalon park, which will consist of twenty-seven acres at 83d street and Dorchester avenue.

Woodlawn to Celebrate.

The opening of 63d street, from Stony Island avenue to West Lagoon drive in Jackson park, is another improvement included in the small park budget. Most of the work on this project is completed and the new roadway will be opened as soon as it can be paved with a celebration by the members of the Woodlawn Business Men's association, according to Theodore Berker, president of the organization.

One hundred thirty-seven thousand dollars will be spent for the construction of comfort stations in Jackson and Washington parks, while $102,000 will be spent for the construction of comfort stations at 41st street and South Park way, 41st street and Drexel boulevard, Garfield boulevard and Prairie avenue, 64th stret and Loomis boulevard, Garfield boulevard and Stewart avenue, and 49th place and Western avenue.

REMAKE CHURCH INTO QUARTERS FOR RETREATS

Catholic Laymen to Start Classes in September.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Parishes of the Roman Catholic archdiocese throughout Chicago's south side and suburban towns are organizing classes of retreatants to participate in the opening of the St. Francis Laymen Retreat league's new city headquarters at Corpus Christi church, 49th street and South Park way.

Workmen have been engaged for several weeks remodeling the Corpus Christi school building to meet requirements of retreat classes. It is expected all will be in readiness for an opening retreat class on or about Labor day. These classes are being organized through the coöperation of the south side councils of the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies, Catholic Order of Foresters, and other church organizations.

Mayslake Retreats Continue.

Retreat classes conducted by the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league will continue to be held at Mayslake, Hinsdale, Ill., every week-end from Friday evening until early Monday morning. The establishment of the city retreat house at Corpus Christi church will augment the work that is being carried on by the Franciscan priests at Mayslake.

Corpus Christi church is regarded as one of the most beautiful Catholic edifices in the United States. It was founded in 1901 in what was then considered one of the best residential sections in the city. But of recent years the neighborhood's complexion has changed and in May it was given over to the jurisdiction of the Franciscan order of monks to be used as the city headquarters of the retreat league.

Father Valerius, O. F. M., one of Chicago's most widely known Franciscan fathers and former retreat master at Mayslake, is to take charge of the new retreat house. The work of class organization will be in charge of the Rev. Patrick Maloney, O. F. M. Father Maloney grew up in Chicago and maintains at 115 Polk street an office where reservations to attend the retreat classes at either Mayslake or at Corpus Christi this fall may be made.

Inaugurated by Mundelein.

Realizing the benefits that result from a weekend spent in contemplation and prayer, Cardinal Mundelein inaugurated the retreat movement in Chicago about five years ago. The first retreat class was held at St. Francis Retreat house at Mayslake March 5, 1925. The response to the "sixty golden hours" was immediate. Men from all walks of life found peace and consolation within the walls of the retreat house.

The Rev Giles Strub, O. F. M., was the founder of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. Its purpose was to spread the benefits of a retreat once a year for every Catholic man in the archdiocese. Today the league has a membership of approximately 5,000.

Labor, Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies and business organizations list many members in the league. Parishes, too, have coöperated and last year Chicago was awarded first place in retreat attendance in the United States. Members of the Asbestos Workers' union have the honor position for attendance at Mayslake. Hughie Mulligan, business representative of the labor organization, is also president of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. He is one of the most enthusiastic workers in behalf of the league's activities in the archdiocese. He is serving his second term as president.

Move Spreads Among Labor.

With Mulligan's coöperation Father Maloney was able to spread the work of the league into many labor organizations, especially among the building trades. Working under the league banner today are such labor officials as Bernard Cruice, Stephen Bailey, Bernard Rubbery, Charles Mulcahy, Patrick Cullen, Martin Durkin, Frank Kane, John Durkin, Thomas O'Donnell, John Murphy, and John Stretch.

The Knights of Columbus have coöperated with Father Maloney and many councils have sent individual classes to Mayslake. Some of the leaders of this movement are Edward Houlihan, state deputy of the K. of C.; Frank Enright, president of the Chicago chapter; Leo Flynn, Judge John P. McGoorty, Patrick Woods, John Reiner, Joseph McMahon, Frank Walsh, Arthur Donohue, James Carney, Austin O'Malley, and P. J. J. McCarthy.

To date only a few parishes have done pioneering work in behalf of the Retreat league, and these include St. Jerome's, of which the Rev. T. F. Farrell is pastor; St. Ignatius, with the Rev. F. G. Dinneen as pastor; St. John the Baptist, with the Rev. P. T. Gelines as pastor; St. Joseph's, with the Rev. J. V. La Marre as pastor, and St. Kilian's, with the Rev. James M. Leddy as pastor.

Benefits Early Workers.

A retreat class lasts from the close of business on Friday evening until Monday morning. Conclusion of the spiritual exercises is arranged to permit retreatants to be at work at 8 o'clock Monday morning. However, to many of the workers in Chicago it is necessary for them to be at work Monday morning as early as 5 and 6 o'clock and it is to facilitate their return that the Corpus Christi retreat house will be opened.

Aug. 30 has been set by Father Maloney as the date for a city fire fighters' class.

Noted Church Taken Over by Retreat League

Corpus Christi Roman Catholic church, 49th street and South Park Way, regarded as one of the most beautiful Catholic churches in America, has been taken over by the St. Francis Laymen Retreat league. The first retreat there is to be held early in September.

3 CIVIC GROUPS DEMAND LIGHTS ON SO. STATE ST.

Through pressure brought to bear by members of the East Hamilton Park Improvement association, the South Park Manor Improvement association and the Park Manor Improvement association, Ald. O. E. Northrup and Ald. W. D. Meyering have promised to introduce an ordinance requiring stop and go lights at every intersection on State street between 69th and 79th streets, at the next meeting of the city council.

Holes in the streets of the East Hamilton Park district are being cared for this week through the efforts of Ald. Northrup and Fred Overhue, ward superintendent.

BUSINESS MEN PLAN TO BOOM AUBURN PARK

T. J. Weldon, president of the Auburn Park Business Men's association, has called a meeting of the board of directors for tomorrow night at the Mutual National bank. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for a campaign to build up the neighborhood, which will be instigated in the fall.

According to Mr. Weldon, William McDonald, one of the directors, has a plan to present before the board for its approval which, he claims, cannot fail to arouse interest in the business and property of the district.

WORK IS STARTED ON ST. TUREBIUS SCHOOLBUILDING

Work has begun on the erection of a Catholic grade school at 57th street and Karlov avenue, which will be a unit of the St. Turebius church of which the Rev. Francis A. Kulinski is pastor. The school, which is to be erected at a cost of $38,000, will be a two story building containing eight class rooms.

According to present plans the new structure will be completed by the first week in September when the school opens again for the fall term. Sandel and Strong were the architects for the building which was planned to permit extensions if they become necessary.

The school is only a year old, classes during its first year having been held in a temporary structure. The enrollment during this first year was 95. The eight grades of the school are taught by the Felician sisters.

Champion Sand Modelers Compete in Park Meet

PLAN WHIRLWIND FINISH IN DRIVE FOR RESTRICTION

East Hamilton Park Will End Campaign Tuesday.

Members of the East Hamilton Park Home Owners' association hope to conclude by Tuesday night a restriction campaign they have carried on for the last two months.

Headquarters have been opened at 7315 Vincennes avenue and property owners in the community who have not yet signed restriction contracts have been urged to come to the temporary offices tomorrow or Tuesday to sign their agreements.

300 Parcels Yet to Be Signed.

According to Mrs. Cora Wilhelm, secretary of the organization, 300 parcels of property must be recorded before the community is entirely restricted against a possible invasion of undesirables. Signatures already obtained total 750.

The district which the association expects to restrict is the territory bounded by 69th, 77th and State streets and Wentworth and Vincennes avenues. Figures compiled by the restriction committee of the association show that there are 725 parcels of improved property in the district.

A last minute attempt to convince those property owners who have not yet signed restriction contracts will be made at a meeting of the organization tomorrow evening at the temporary headquarters.

In addition to a discussion of the restriction campaign, Mrs. Wilhelm announced there will be a report on the progress of the organization's efforts to get safety zone markers placed on State street at every street car stop from 69th street to 79th street.

Seek Talkie Theater.

This organization is also leading endeavors of the community to secure a motion picture house which will show talkies. The locations suggested for the theater are 71st street and Vincennes avenue, 73d street and Vincennes avenue, or 75th street and Vincennes avenue. According to Mrs. Wilhelm, these negotiations are necessarily slow because of the great amount of financing that would be necessary to bring about the success of such a project.

However, she said theater companies in the neighborhood have promised to build such a picture house as soon as they are assured of the future character of the neighborhood.

STONY ISLAND PASSES; AVENUE PRESERVES NAME

'Twas Coral Reef Eons in Past, Geologists Say.

BY ELEANORE GRAFF.

Swamps, seemingly bottomless, were one of the handicaps with which pioneers of Chicago had to contend before building their permanent streets and homes. Not the least of these was the slough completely surrounding the Stony Island, an oblong strip of land with a rocky surface which encompassed much of what today is South Chicago.

Considered an engineering feat at the time of its construction in 1869 by the board of trustees of the town of Hyde Park, the Stony Island avenue showed the possibility of such construction as has provided a part of the outer drive. Where only birds or muskrats previously had crossed in safety, one mile of Stony Island avenue, which extends four and a half miles from the northwest corner of Jackson park to Lake Calumet, was built on the quagmire at the western end of Stony Island. An old report issued by the president of the board of trustees of Hyde Park tells of the board platform first laid on the surface of mud and water, which in turn was covered by a thick layer of swamp grass and reeds on which gravel was dumped and pounded until it ceased to sink. . . .

Name Easy to Select.

The name of Stony Island was logically given to the new avenue and today it has come to refer exclusively to the street, and the old island for which it was named has been forgotten.

Stony Island lay between 91st and 94th streets and from Stony Island avenue on the west to Kingston avenue on the east, a distance of one and one-quarter miles. Its greatest width was little less than one-half mile. A flattened dome of limestone rock which covers the surface in most places to a depth of between two and eight feet, obviously contributed to the naming of the area.

The history of Stony Island can be traced back to the dark ages, according to geologists, who explain that millions of years ago Stony Island was a beautiful coral reef displaying its shades of purple, green, yellow, brown, and pink colors in the warm waters of the Silurian sea. This sea is supposed to have been part of North America before the forming of the limestone which includes Chicago.

The continent gradually emerged from the sea, bringing the coral reef nearer land, and pounding waves broke up the pieces of coral into sand and threw other stones and rocks upon its gleaming surface, according to geologists. Then came the era when great glaciers passed over Stony Island, cutting its already marred surface, and eventually submerging it when the glaciers melted into a lake designated as Lake Chicago.

Rocky Ridge in Swamp.

The lake was gradually drained by rivers pouring into the Atlantic and Stony Island again came to view. When the waters receded to form the present Lake Michigan Stony Island was left as a ridge of rocks surrounded by swamps, filled with decaying vegetation.

Today the city has been built over and around Stony Island until it is no longer distinguishable from the remainder of Chicago. Only two abandoned stone quarries, one at the northwest side of the island near 92d street, and the other at the foot of Euclid avenue, remain to expose the curious rock strata beneath the surface.

Vacation School Combines Fun and Training

A handcraft course offered to boys of Beverly Hills by the vacation church school being conducted by St. Paul's Evangelical Union church, 94th street and Winchester avenue, gives equal parts of fun and instruction, the faces of these youngsters indicate. Beginning with the boy in the right foreground and reading around the table, the members are: George Young, John Headland, Frank Thomas, Bruce Judd, Harry Roebuck, Richard Grinndall, Arthur Taylor, assistant instructor; John McKnight, Harold Schulte, and Walter Keefe.

100 BOYS FROM "Y" WATCH CUBS HIT HOME RUNS

Five home runs in the Cub-Philadelphia game Monday provided an unusual treat for 100 boys of the 111th Street Y. M. C. A. They were accompanied by the following men: Miles Calkins, Fred Saurbier, Grover Head, Ralph Haug, and Stephe Stefanik. The Boston-Cubs game today will be seen by a similar number of "Y" boys.

Sixteen boys of 10 to 13 years of age made an overnight trip to the sand dunes on Friday. They left Friday morning and cooked three meals and slept overnight out of doors. The boys were accompanied by Mr. Premer.

Next Wednesday afternoon the boys will be guests of the White City roller rink. The boys are looking forward to seeing the men who will accompany them put on the skates, too.

SHIP KEARSARGE WINS JACKSON PK. SEA SCOUT RACE

Ship Kearsarge of Sea Scouts won a cutter race from five competing scout boats at the Jackson Park yacht harbor last Sunday afternoon. The winning crew, composed of boys employed at the stock yards, was presented with a loving cup by the Southwest District council, of which F. B. Frizell is field scout executive.

The Farragut, operated by scouts of troop 1,600 under the leadership of Skipper M. A. Johnson, came in second. The race was judged by Capt. F. E. Stebbins of the U. S. Coast guard; C. A. Battray, and H. A. Patterson.

CHICAGO LAWN LIBRARY BRANCH THIRD BUSIEST

The Chicago Lawn branch of the Chicago public library, which was established May 1, showed the third largest circulation of all branch libraries in the city for the month of June. Legler, the main west side library, and the Woodlawn branch at 63d street and Kimbark avenue, both of which are long established libraries, were the only others from which more books were drawn.

The total of books circulated from this library in June was 28,762. According to Miss Florence Kedler, librarian, many of the books asked for were those written in a foreign language. The German books proved to be the most popular with Polish, Bohemian, and Lithuanian following in order, she said.

Paving of Three Streets on South Side Authorized

Three ordinances permitting paving of south side streets were passed recently by the city council. The projects were previously approved by property owners at a public hearing. The board of local improvements has received permission to levy assessments for paving the following streets: 82d street between Stony Island and Anthony avenues, Oglesby avenue between 70th and 71st streets, and Claremont avenue between 95th street and 98th street.

Four Drinking Fountains Ordered for South Side

The commissioner of public works was recently directed to install public drinking fountains at the following corners: 108th street and Ewing avenue; 93d street and Stony Island avenue; 119th and Morgan streets, and 63d street and Central Park avenue.

Miss Helen Kuich and Bernard Karshen, both of Ogden park, made high dives into flaming waters. Karshen incidentally became the diving champion of the south parks the week preceding the Ogden park water carnival at the south park contest held at Sherman park. George Appel, also of Ogden park and last year's junior diving champion, also performed fancy dives.

WINDOW SHADES COST 19 CENTS; STILL GOOD AFTER 22 YEARS' USE

The Tribune will pay $2 for each story of the best bargain obtained in a neighborhood store, printed in the Metropolitan section. Address Bargain, Metropolitan Section, The Tribune. Make them short and snappy, writing on only one side of the paper, and print your name and address plainly.

Chicago, July 30.—Twenty-two years side of the paper, and print your ago I purchased a dozen window shades, 19 cents each, at a sale in a 63d and Halsted street store. Nine of these shades, all in excellent condition, are still hanging at my windows and they look as if they're good for another ten years. I doubt if you could find many bargains equal to this.

BARGAIN IN SACKS.

Chicago, July 29.—My best neighborhood bargain was a dozen flour sacks that I purchased at a bakery. They cost me 55 cents and, of course, I had to soak them in kerosene to remove the printed matter. After washing them out in the usual manner, I made them into attractive muslin aprons, tea towels and baby bibs with colored pipings of bias tape.

A FAIR EXCHANGE.

Joliet, July 28.—Last summer I bought a dark blue bathing suit at a neighborhood shop for $5. It was guaranteed not to fade but toward the middle of September, after I had worn it for several months, I noticed that the sun had begun to affect the color. I took it back, was received most courteously and given a $6 model to replace it.

125 ENROLLED IN NEW SOUTH SIDE CIVIL AIR CORPS

Classes Started for Study of Aviation.

The first month in the existence of the south side council of the Chicago civil air corps has produced a total of 125 members in the council, 35 of whom have joined a class which meets every Thursday night in Armour square fieldhouse, 33d street and Shields avenue, to study aviation.

The south side council was organized by the Chicago council, which has headquarters at the Palmer house. According to Col. Paul Richter of the air commerce reserve, chairman of the national council of the civil air corps, the Chicago council eventually will be divided into north shore and the west central councils of the Chicago civil air corps.

Although the idea of the civil air corps originated in Chicago several years ago, according to Col. Richter, its first activities were begun in Michigan. However, the national council now has its headquarters in Chicago, Col. Richter said.

Opens Aviation to Everybody.

"Previously it has been only persons of financial means who could study aviation and have thereby come to understand its importance to progress," Col. Richter said, explaining that the principle behind the civil air corps was to give every one an opportunity to have at least a speaking acquaintance with aviation.

"We do not teach ground work or flying," Col. Richter said, "but take up such elementary subjects as methods and results of air transportation, elements of aircraft design and use of planes, how to keep aviation safe, engines, charting of trips, necessary ingredients to successful landing fields, coöperation with the government, how to detect airworthy planes, and various types of licenses and when required.

Promotion in the air class is made on the merit system, Col. Richter said. Although no actual flying instruction is given, those who at the completion of their air course desire to learn to fly will have sufficient information to investigate flying schools intelligently.

Study Civic Phases.

Members of the south side council meet once a month in Armour fieldhouse, although the class meets every week. The purpose of the council will be to study civic aviation interests and to sponsor those it considers worthy. At present the south side council is taking a leading part in a fight to retain and enlarge the municipal airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue.

Lieut. Floyd K. Smith of Chicago, one of the oldest living flyers in point of service, is president of the national council of the Civil Air Corps. Lieut. Smith is also an executive of the Aeronautic Chamber of Commerce for Illinois. Walter H. Hoyt of the Central Banknote company of Chicago and New York is first vice president; Howard P. Dean, a banker of Los Angeles, Cal., is second vice president; Mayor John Lodge of Detroit is a member of the board, as are George Miller, managing editor of the Detroit News, and former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck of Michigan.

The organization of the National Civic Air corps was copied from that of the Rotary club, according to Col. Richter, and it now has contact in twenty states.

LUTHERANS OF WOODLAWN GIVE HAVEN TO YOUTH

Immanuel Provides Social Activities.

Buy Site Near U. of C.

In 1917, in order that a Lutheran church might be located near the University of Chicago, the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the general synod, purchased a lot at the corner of Kenwood avenue and 64th street. The frame dwelling on the lot was repaired and preaching services begun with the Rev. John St. John as pastor.

Because of the rapid change in conditions in the neighborhood of the Immanuel church on 43d street, and the Rev. Mr. St. John having accepted a call at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, it was thought advisable to continue the work in Woodlawn with the assistance of a lay reader and to hasten the sale of the old church that all efforts might be put into the work at Woodlawn.

Dedicated in 1924.

Services were held in the Woodlawn Masonic temple until the new parish house was ready as a temporary place of worship. The new church was dedicated Sept. 21, 1924.

The membership and the council having worked harmoniously and faithfully to move forward in the face of difficulties summed up their feelings over their success with the words, "This is the Lord's doings and is marvelous in our eyes."

The Rev. Mr. Paulus is president of the church council and building committee; C. W. Howe is vice president; C. E. Braum, recording secretary; H. P. Johnson, financial secretary; A. L. Mortensen, treasurer, J. A. Hauder, treasurer of the building fund.

SUGGESTS CITY LEND SCYTHES TO CUT WEEDS

A suggestion that the city should lend large scythes to civic organizations came first among several proposals for betterment of the community made at the recent semi-monthly meeting of the Fifteenth Ward Non-Partisan club, held at 2848 West 59th street.

This plan was suggested following a request by Arnold H. Kegel, commissioner of health, that such organizations coöperate with the city in cutting down the ragweed, which obstructs the view at intersections, causing needless accidents, and causes hay fever.

At the suggestion of E. W. Strecker, president of the club, members decided to cut the weeds with small scythes until such time as a large scythe could be obtained.

SALE OF RADIO LICENSES BARRED, COUNSEL HOLDS

Is Violation of the Act of 1927.

Radio licenses, like automobile tags, cannot be sold, mortgaged, or leased without the consent of the federal radio commission, Bethuel M. Webster Jr., general counsel of the commission, holds in an opinion of section 12 of the radio act of 1927. The legal view has been given on account of the raising of the question upon the presentation of petitions for renewals. In one instance recently the commission found an applicant who apparently was making a business of obtaining and selling licenses at a profit.

Section 12 is intended, Mr. Webster says, "to prevent development of the theory of property rights in the use of frequencies or in the right to communicate by radio"; also "to prevent the making of any profit based on the sale of a license" and the acquisition of stations by ineligible or undesirable persons.

"The actual assignment of the license itself without consent of the commission," Mr. Webster said, "is clearly a violation of section 12, since it amounts to a transfer of control. Moreover an outright sale of station apparatus, where the effect is to put an unlicensed vendee into possession and control is not permitted.

"During the license period the act prohibits any termination of the mortgagor's control, whether that control is terminated by default, repossession or foreclosure.

"A lease which is so drawn as to constitute a mere sale of time allows the lessor to retain control of the use or operation of the station, to continue financially responsible for the debts of the station and to continue its management is not objectionable.

"On the other hand, a lease which puts into the hands of a lessee the station management, which the commission in issuing a license has placed in the hands of the lessor licensed in accordance with the standard of public interest, would, in effect, be an assignment of license and therefore void."

Ask Rezoning of Half Mile Section for Apartments

An ordinance to rezone for apartments a half mile square in the neighborhood of 63d street and Crawford avenue will be taken up next month by the city council committee on buildings and zoning. Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th] recently presented to the committee an ordinance rezoning the district bounded by the alley north of 63d street, the alley west of Crawford avenue, the alley south of 59th street, and Keeler avenue. A public hearing will be held on the proposal early next month.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Let's pretend that we're back in the days of the war again, and we're listening to the radio on the afternoon of July 27, 1918. The announcer is speaking to us from the ringside of the Jack Dempsey and Fred Fulton fight at Harrison, N. J. Jack Dempsey was not yet champion, nor even much of a celebrity. It was a whole year before Dempsey met Willard. Here goes:

ANNOUNCER — Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. This is W-G-N, broadcasting the Jack Dempsey-Fred Fulton fight direct from the baseball park in Harrison, New Jersey!

They're rioting out here in this ball park right now! We can hardly hear ourselves talking, this howling, screaming mob is making so much noise. There's been a rush on the high price seats down there in the baseball field by the customers in the less expensive sections, and the Harrison police force has just been helpless. Look at 'em go!

Wait a minute—there's somebody scrambling up into the ring now—wait'll we see who it is. It's Ed Curley, and he's raising his hands for silence. Don't look as if he'll get it—there comes another mob down from the grandstand in a raid on the ringside seats! Listen to 'em howl!

Ed Curley is the man who brought Fulton and Dempsey together for this fight, that will unofficially give one of them the heavyweight boxing championship, since it seems to be the general opinion that Jess Willard will never leave his Kansas farm and the cows and the chickens to come out and defend his title.

It's almost seven o'clock, and since Curley has promised to start the fight promptly at that hour, we've got very little time left to tell you about the details of this scrap. Jack Dempsey is the twenty-two year old youngster who's come up in heavyweight circles like a flash in the last two years. He's been bowling over the star heavies right and left, winning most of his contests with a K. O. sock in the first round. He's trimmed the best of the lot—Willie Meehan, Gunboat Smith, Porky Flynn, Billy Mike, Bill Brennan, and Carl Morris.

Very nearly we didn't have a fight here today. Fred got himself into something of a mess with the draft board early this week, and for a time it looked as if Fulton would be grabbed by the government sleuths and slapped into the army. Fred hadn't appeared before the New York draft board owing to the fact that the notices sent him had strayed on the way, but everything has been satisfactorily explained, and Fred was given a clean bill of health.

This fight means a lot to Fred Fulton. Only Dempsey stands between him and Jess Willard. While Jess has been loafing out on that Pottawatomie farm of his in Kansas, Fred has been making fistic hay in the ring, and everything is set for his scrap with Willard if he puts Dempsey away. He may have to wait until the end of the war, but if he can put "One Round Jack" to sleep decisively this afternoon, he'll have first crack at the titleholding Kansan's crown, which Willard packed away in the moth balls after he won it from Johnson, and which has rarely been seen since.

Jack Kearns, the man who is managing Dempsey thinks that Jack is head and shoulders above Fulton and every other heavyweight in the field—even Willard—and he's willing to let his protégé try to prove it.

Both men appear fairly well matched, and many experts figure that they'll last out the full ten rounds. They're hard hitters, but neither looks to be a hard enough hitter to knock the other down. If anybody's got the edge, it's Fulton.

Whee! There's a yell! It's Fulton coming down the aisle on his way to the ring! Fred Fulton, the big, tall, lean Minnesota boy who wants to win the world's championship! The crowd is giving him a great cheer as he comes up the aisle and swings through the ropes and into the ring!

Mike Collins, his manager, is with him, and a gang of seconds, water boys, trainers and camp followers. They think he's the coming champion of the world. Fred is showing the crowd a great big grin.

Fred looks fit and ready for the battle, and Ed Curley, the promoter, has joined the little crowd in Fulton's corner and he's talking to him. Curley probably wants to promote the Willard-Fulton fight for the championship.

Wait a minute! What's that! There's more noise! It's Dempsey this time—Jack Dempsey, the twenty-two year old bruiser from Nevada, who has been heaving the best of the heavies right and left for the last two years. He's coming down the aisle to the ring, almost fighting his way through the mob that's clogged up the passages ever since they raced in from the cheaper seats at the edge of the field.

Jack Kearns is with him, and a group of seconds and trainers. Dempsey looks like a big surly boy. He's wearing an old torn red sweater, and there's a two day's growth of whiskers on his chin and jowls. His face and body are brown—he's been doing a lot of training in the sun. He's just scowling—not smiling as Fulton was when he came in the ring, and he looks every inch the fighter.

Now the new chocolate-colored boxing gloves have been dumped on the floor, and the seconds are sorting them out. Jack Kearns has wandered over to Fulton's corner to take a look at Fred's bandages on his hand, and Mike Collins has gone into Dempsey's corner to do the same thing. Jack has pulled off that red sweater, and now they're fitting the gloves on the hands of both the fighters.

Here comes the announcer signalling for quiet. Here's the dope as he shoots it to us with that megaphone voice—ten rounds, no decision, between Jack Dempsey, 189 pounds, and Fred Fulton, 202 pounds.

Now the referee is calling the men to the center of the ring for their final instructions. Fred comes out of his corner with his bathrobe draped over his shoulders, and he's smiling as he steps to the center of the ring. Jack still is wearing that scowl, and he's looking at the floor as the referee talks to them. Ten rounds—no decision—eight ounce gloves—and behind the smiling face of Fred Fulton and the scowling mask of Jack Dempsey there is the same thought—that a decision won't be necessary. A few weeks ago in Chicago Jack Dempsey told THE TRIBUNE's boxing editor that he intended to knock out Fulton in one round, and he looks as though he intends to do it.

Now they've gone back to their corners. Ed Curley is up in the ring now, the announcer is introducing him, and he's getting a hand from the crowd! Ed is saying something, but we can't hear what it is in all the din.

Now they're clearing the ring for action. Jack Kearns is whispering into Dempsey's ear as the two fighters face each other across the ring and wait for the gong. The seconds are scampering out of the ring.

There's the bell! Round one! Dempsey is out of his corner and in the center of the ring in a flash. Fulton comes out with a smile on his face. They spar for a moment! Fulton sticks out his left hand with a widening grin. What's this Dempsey got? he asks himself. Wow! That's what he's got! Dempsey lands a hard right to the heart! It hurt Fulton. He didn't expect it. A clean blow just above the heart! Look at Dempsey tear in. He's forcing Fulton back against the ropes—Dempsey lands a left hook to the jaw—Dempsey has Fulton groggy—Dempsey has him groggy from two punches! Now their wrestling a bit—Fulton is still groggy O: Dempsey starts a right hander from his shoes. . . . on the jaw. . . . Fulton is down. . . . Fred Fulton is on the mat. . . . SPECIALISTS NOW HANDLE PROGRAM MAKING DETAILS

Radio Advertisers Look to Agencies.

Radio broadcast's evolution into the field of big business has gradually brought about a segregation of activities until nearly every department is in the hands of specialists. One of the most significant markings is the creation of program specialists.

Nto so very long ago the making of programs was wholly in the hands of broadcasting stations. The trend is now in the opposite direction; program sponsors either directly or through their advertising agencies seek to build up their entertainments as a complete entity and take it to the station ready to use its air facilities and nothing else.

William B. Murray, vice president and general manager of an organization specializing in program building, recently explained how program making came to be a specialty.

Like Editorial Department.

"We do the sort of work that the editorial department of a publication does," he said, "or you might limit it even more than that and say we are like the art department of a publication.

"But naturally, as sponsors came to have a better understanding of radio broadcast, they wanted to control their representation on the air. The result was that their advertising agencies began to study radio very intensively. Some advertising agencies have built up what are really very good radio departments. But even with expert script writers, expert production men, expert musical impresarios, they still need artists to express the ideas they create and so naturally they have to come to us or whoever controls the talent they wish."

Mr. Murray told how program services at first were merely booking agencies for talent.

"But," he said, "we soon learned that we would have to go the whole route in order to fairly represent our artists as well as satisfy the sponsors who engaged them.

Like Theatrical Production.

"Each radio period is a complete theatrical production. It requires the combined and related effort of all the wisdom and experience and talent that any such enterprise deserves. Consequently it became necessary to organize a group of experts in every phase of radio production, quite apart from the artists who finally appear before the microphone."

This means not only a large permanent staff of professional radio folk, but also a considerable physical equipment, such as studios, library, technical equipment. The musical library of Mr. Murray's organization for radio use solely is reputed to be worth more than a quarter of a million dollars. It is the largest and most complete collection of its kind in the world.

"Nowadays," Mr. Murray stated, "advertising agencies are the point of contact in most of radio's important programs. The broadcasting stations and the broadcasting chains sell "time on the air" to sponsors through the advertising agencies. The sponsors no longer look to the stations for entertainment facilities; they look to their advertising agencies. Some of these agencies have created export radio departments. These look on us as an expert art service, ready to supply them with talent to fit the copy they create. Other advertising agencies lean on us entirely, asking both copy and art service, so to speak."

CALUMET PARK BOYS ORGANIZE ENGINEER CLUB

Twenty-five boys at Calumet park, 98th street and Lake Michigan, have organized the Junior Engineers club, under the direction of W. J. Dempsey, park director. The boys are busily engaged these summer days in constructing model bridges, skyscrapers, electric trains, elevators, and complete towns from one of the largest Meccano sets in the city. The latest achievement is the construction of a model airplane that runs by electricity.

Request for Prisoner's Song

Chicago.

Gentlemen:

I understand that you solicit criticism. Here it is. We are absolutely unable to listen through one of the performances of the Hungry Five. If there ever was an assinine program, this is it. If the five were sentenced to the federal prison for a stretch, few of your patrons would refuse to join the celebration.

W-G-N FAN, S.

Discontented

Wauconda.

Dear Hungry Five:

If I could but express in a convincing way the admiration I have for your work, and tell you how thoroughly I enjoy your fun making, I would be content. I can never retire until I have heard what you boys have to play and say. May I live long to hear, "Ein, zwei, drei, spiel!

Very sincerely,
GRANDMA BUSCHEIEK.

CHILDREN'S CONCERT

They play their best music for the children. Sometimes lazy tunes that shepherds have sung or piped on eerie pipes. Sometimes laughing songs that elves have learned from water tumbling over stones in a young brook. Stories, too, there are. They speak familiarly of Pan and his ilk who have youth sealed up safely within them. The music is by the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra responding enthusiastically to the baton of Gaston Du Moulin. Be gay and begin the concert at 5:45.

JEAN GOLDKETTE . .

A bomb has dropped in the dance music world. Victor Young, prominent young orchestrator and violinist—Van Fleming, inspiring tenor and guitarist—Bill Herring, who plays an elastic trombone that croons as Sophie Tucker wishes she could—Jack Codaro, who licks out the dirty runs on any of half a dozen saxophones and toots a merry break on a clarinet—they're all members of Jean Goldkette's most famous of radio bands. Sunday's their big day. 1:30, 2:25, and 11.

MARK WHITE PK. WILL CELEBRATE 25TH BIRTHDAY

Plan Track and Water Events Aug. 17.

A tennis tournament, track and field meet and baseball game, climaxed with the annual water carnival, will be combined to make up the celebration of the 25th anniversary of Mark White Square park, 29th and Halsted streets, Saturday, Aug. 17.

Twenty-five years ago the residents of the district known as Bridgeport celebrated the opening of this park, one of the first to be established in the small park system. A well equipped park was a rarity in those days and it doubtless was with a great thrill of civic pride and community interest that the people of Bridgeport gazed upon the completed project, for which ground was broken Aug. 17, 1904. The park bears the name of Mark White, an early superintendent of the south park system and a tireless worker in its upbuilding.

Same Equipment Today.

The fact that Mark White Square was ultra-modern when it was built is proven in the fact that the same auditorium, gymnasium and swimming pool are in use today, with only the few necessary changes required by increasing attendance.

The program in celebration of the anniversary is in charge of J. Lackey, 6641 Talman avenue, director of the park, with the assistance of his instructors, H. Dunham of 5315 Drexel avenue and Miss Perle Nachbar, 4737 North Whipple street.

The track and field events will include a 50 yard dash and running broad jump for boys under 15 years, the same events for girls under 15; 100 yard dash and running broad jump for boys under 17; the same for girls 15 and older, and a 100 yard dash, one-half mile run, and running broad jump for boys 17 years or older. The field meet is scheduled for 1:30 p. m., and will be followed by the senior men's horseshoe tournament. The tennis tournament will be held in the morning.

Events in Water Carnival.

Walking the greased pole, barrel tilting, an obstacle relay in which an exchange of clothes will be made, a fight for a greased watermelon, and a beauty parade and contest by the boys, will make up part of the water carnival, which will also include a serious demonstration of life-saving devices by representatives of the Red Cross, races, relays, and diving contests, in which boys and girls of the park will participate.

GIVE RECEPTION FOR TWO SONS, RECENT GRADS

In honor of their sons, Lester, who just received his law degree from the University of Chicago, and Oscar, who was recently graduated from Englewood High school, Mr. and Mrs. J. Plotkin, 6119 South Whipple street, gave a reception and dance last Sunday. More than 150 guests were present.

Lester Plotkin will enter the offices of a downtown firm in the fall. Oscar Plotkin, who was on the honor roll during his entire four years at high school, will enter the premedical department of the University of Illinois.

Among the guests present were Miss Ann Sachar, Miss Gertrude Cowen, Miss Rose Benson, Miss Beatrice Friedberg of Houston, Texas; Miss Florence Golenternek of Tyler, Texas; Miss Lillian Newberger, Miss Shirley Plotkin, Miss Jeanette Greenberg, Miss Florence and Miss Sarah Swiren; Miss Mathilda Ernstein, Miss Gertrude and Messrs. South Side Kiwanians Attend Meeting in Loop

Members of south side Kiwanis clubs traveled to the Hotel Sherman Thursday to attend the annual meeting of the All-Chicago Kiwanis club. Horace McDavid; who was elected president of Kiwanis International at the recent convention at Milwaukee, was the special guest and principal speaker.

Delta Chi Gamma Members Splash at Jackson Park

Members of Delta Chi Gamma sorority held a splash party last week at Jackson Park beach. Those who attended the affair were: Miss Bee Anderson, Miss Mildred Anderson, Miss Tess Ringbauer, Miss Betty Lackner, Miss Marian Seaberg, Miss Helen Peterson, and Miss Dorothea Hassfeld.

Odd Fellows to Frolic Sunday in Jackson Park

South Side Odd Fellows will picnic in Jackson park next Sunday. The outing is being sponsored by the members of the Jericho club, an organization composed of Odd Fellows. Games, various contests, and athletic events have been planned for the day's program.

Substitute Pastor Today.

The Rev. E. A. Gilmore, representative of the Illinois Baptist convention, will preach at this morning's services at the Foster Park Baptist church, 84th and Justine streets. He will occupy the pulpit in place of the Rev. Ralph Nordlund, pastor, who is on his vacation.

Loyal to Friends of 41 Years

Louie Shadduck, stable foreman of the south parks, has worked with horses for forty-one years, and somehow his sense of loyalty won't permit him to adopt an automobile for his daily tours of the park system.

While airplanes are breaking speed and endurance records, while crack trains are carrying travelers to distant corners of the country in time that would amaze railroad passengers of twenty years ago, and while automobiles are traveling at a 35 mile an hour clip over boulevard systems, Louie Shadduck, who has been stable foreman for the south park commission more than thirty-three years, still uses a horse and buggy for his daily tours.

Residents in the vicinity of Jackson and Washington parks know Louie well, for every day, rain or shine, for twenty years he had taken a ride through those parks. He has watched automobiles slowly crowd him to the far right hand side of the road where his horse trots along today, keeping out of the way of the gas buggies and smiling at the speeding motorists who throw back good natured remarks as they pass him.

Bought His Buggy During Fair.

Louie purchased during the World's fair the buggy he still uses every day, while his horse, Tom, is more than ten years old. Louie allows nobody but himself to harness Tom for his daily ten mile trot.

When Louie was asked why he would not purchase an automobile he said that at the age of 74 and after working around horses all of his life he could not forsake his friends for their successful rival, the automobile.

"I'll stick to Tom and the old buggy," Louie asserted.

When Louie went to the south park commission stables more than 41 years ago as a hostler, a fine horse was the mark of a man's position in the world. Nowadays, Louie declared, a man must have three $15,000 automobiles and an airplane before he is recognized as a "somebody."

Compares Horses in Fairs.

Louie recalled that during the 1893 World's fair the south park commission used more than 130 horses. He regretfully remarked that during the 1933 World's Fair there will be no need for horses and that even the thirty horses that remain will stand in the stables or do odd jobs around the parks while trucks do the work at the fair grounds.

He is one of the oldest employés of the park board and he has watched the system, which in 1888 included Jackson, Washington, Gage and McKinley parks, add more than thirty small parks.

"After working with horses for more than forty-one years," Louie said, "and after watching the automobiles crowd them out of their rightful place, I could not possibly join that parade and leave them. Although I have taken one ride in a car to see how it feels, I will never buy one nor do I believe I ever will get into another one. I am content with Tom and the buggy."

FATHERS, SONS OF 111TH ST. "Y" PLAN OUTING

"Food cooked just like mother's" will be the aim of a score or more fathers and sons of the 111th Street Y. M. C. A. who will auto to Palos Park next Tuesday and prepare their supper out-of-doors.

Each couple will take along their own food. Fathers and sons who have no automobiles will be taken care of by those who have. They will leave the "Y" at 6:30 and expect to be back before 10 o'clock. Mr. Edward Menke, 41 West 1112th place, is chairman of the evening.

Hamilton Players Dine.

Eight members of the Hamilton park players were guests at a party given by Miss Grace Williamson at her home, 6720 Lowe avenue, last week. Miss Margaret Musser, who will be married on Aug. 17, was a special guest.

St. Cecilia's Parish Goes on Picnic Today

St. Cecelia's parish, 45th and Wells streets, will hold a picnic today in Oaks grove, 119th street and Archer road. LAUNCH PLAN TO ENHANCE BEAUTY OF 95TH STREET

Ridge Civic Council Will Push Improvement.

Contending that the 16 foot space which will be left unpaved when the 76 foot 95th street is completed will mar the beauty of Beverly Hills' thoroughfares, members of the Ridge civic council are considering plans for the beautification of that street from Western avenue to Ashland avenue, according to Robert Blackburn, president of the organization.

The 16 foot space will be left unpaved with the hope that it will be used in the future for a car line. Mr. Blackburn, however, pointed out that he could see no future possibility of using this stretch as a car line and it would be to the best interests of the residents of the community if the space were beautified by the planting of low shrubs and grass.

Suggests Improving Street.

The suggestion that the street be improved was made by J. William Howard, 9351 Pleasant street.

"The plan is a good one," said Mr. Blackburn, "and a practical one. It will be another way in which to guard the beauty of Beverly Hills. The financial end of it could be handled by the civic council at an estimated cost of one dollar to each property owner for one-half mile north and south of 95th street. The total cost of the improvement will probably amount to $1,000."

Alderman Backs Plan.

Mr. Blackburn brought the matter to the attention of Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th] in order to learn whether the city would permit the beautification of the street. The alderman expressed himself in favor of the improvement, but could not put any light on the subject in regard to gaining the city's permission. He promised, however, to do everything in his power to gain the permission of the city council.

PROTESTANT GROUP DEDICATES LOCATION FOR CHILDREN'S HOME

MRS. W. S. HART. [Monfort Photo.]

Dedication ceremonies of the site for the proposed National Protestant Children's Home and Training School at Illiana Heights, Ill., which were held last Sunday, were attended by many south side residents. Other Chicagoans who are interested in the movement and who aided in the campaign to raise funds to purchase the site also attended.

W. R. Jasper, 6400 Normal boulevard, secretary of the board of trustees of the institution, was in charge of arrangements for the dedication exercises and presided at the service.

Following the ceremony, persons attending the dedication held an outing on the grounds, which are on the Kankakee river. Swimming, boating, and fishing were features on the picnic program.

Construction of the first of a group of buildings which will make up the institution is scheduled to be started in the fall. According to Mr. Jasper, the structure will be ready and in full operation early next year.

SOUTHWEST SIDE BODY AIDS MOVE FOR TAX REFORM

Arrangements have been completed for a meeting at the city hall Tuesday night at which representatives of civic organizations throughout the city will discuss means of obtaining reductions in taxes through reforms in local government, according to T. P. Quinn, chairman of the committee in charge. The tax reduction movement is being sponsored by the Northwest Federation of Improvement Clubs, an association of the leading civic groups of the northwest side.

Civic, business, and improvement clubs of the south side and foreign language newspapers, more than 700 organizations in all, have been invited to attend the meeting, which will be held in the city council chambers at 8 o'clock. M. A. Seymour, secretary of the Southwest Federation of Improvement Clubs, has announced that his group is prepared to lead south side organizations in support of the tax reduction movement.

The program of the meeting will include an introductory address by Mr. Quinn and general discussion of the problem at hand by delegates from the various groups represented. Temporary officers of the civic body will be elected and the drive for reform will be launched.

The new association will be composed of private citizens and no officeholders will be affiliated, according to Mr. Quinn.

Mrs. Charles Frank Elected by Golden Rod Society

Mrs. Charles Frank, 5649 South Racine avenue, was installed as president of the Golden Rod Ladies' Benefit society at a recent meeting of the organization. Other officers installed were: Vice president, William Finnegan; recording secretary, Miss Anna Hurley; financial secretary, Mrs. Frank Gengenbach, and treasurer, Mrs. Bert Hart.

Gives Sermon on Faith.

"The Shipwreck of Faith" will be the subject of a sermon by the Rev. Clinton C. Cox, pastor, at the services this morning at the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 64th street and Marshfield avenue.

No hand-rubbing even on cuffs and collar bands—
Big balloon wringer rolls never break buttons—
Solid cast aluminum tub, will never wear out!

Over One Year to Pay for the MAYTAG

The most recent improvement on the Maytag is the Roller Water Remover—the safest, handiest and most efficient method of soap and water removal known. It is altogether different from the ordinary wringer with two large soft rolls. The upper roll of the Maytag is soft, the lower roll hard. The large upper roll being elastic and springy, easily yields to pressure, molding itself over seams, wrinkles and lumps of clothing, always maintaining the same even contact at all points no matter how irregular, thus removing the soap and dirt-ladened water evenly from all parts of each garment. Buttons and snaps are not broken or even loosened.

LUTHERANS OF WOODLAWN GIVE HAVEN TO YOUTH

Immanuel Fosters Social Activities.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Woodlawn Immanuel Lutheran church has always been interested in her young people, and when the new church and community center was erected in 1924 at Kenwood avenue and 64th street, full provision was made for facilities that would care for social and athletic activities.

REV. CLARENCE E. PAULUS. [Waters Photo.]

C. W. HOWE.

The Rev. Clarence E. Paulus begins his fifteenth year as pastor of the church this August. During his ministry the spiritual life of the church has been deepened. Into the work, the pastor and his wife, with the consecrated men and women of Immanuel, have encourage serious thought and high enthusiasm. Their efforts have been greatly rewarded.

C. W. Howe, a member of the congregation. is credited with probably having done more for clean athletics for young men than any other Lutheran layman, and the present recreational equipment is the realization of his dream of many years.

Organized Baseball League.

In 1915, through Mr. Howe's efforts, the Lutheran Baseball league of Chicago was organized. This organization had such a rapid growth and was so successful that overtures were made by the Sunday School association of Cook county requesting the Lutheran Baseball league to accept teams of other denominations, which request was gladly granted.

As the league grew it was thought best to change the name to the Church Athletic association of Chicago, taking in all Protestant denominations. The association has grown until today there are more than 62 baseball teams and more than 100 basketball teams. Track meets are held both summer and winter at Stagg field.

The Immanuel team has won six cups for baseball and bowling. This season Albert Marquardt, director of athletics, again sees his team as baseball champions.

Leading by Three Games.

"Our team," says Mr. Marquardt, "has won eleven games this summer and lost but one. We are leading the league by three games and have only three games yet to play."

Yesterday the Immanuel team played the Drexel Park M. E. team at Washington park. Next Saturday afternoon the Immanuel team will play the Trinity church team.

Players are ineligible for these contests who have not attended a church service twice a month. There is a fine spirit of fellowship among the players on the Immanuel teams—a comraderie that lasts through the years. Last May, when Immanuel church entertained 300 delegates of the Illinois synod, it was the baseball team that served the banquet.

Hold Vesper Tea.

During the winter season the young people of the church hold a vesper tea every Sunday evening that is most popular with university students. There is a social hour from 6 to 7 o'clock, and a devotional service from 7 to 8.

Another young peoples' activity is the Friendly Bible class made up of a group of forty business girls. Members of this group who wish to entertain their friends during the week are allowed to use the parlor without charge.

The church has a volunteer chorus of 25 voices that is noted for its trained talent. During the spring, the chorus provided a program of music, the compositions for which were written by a member of the congregation, Mrs. Eugenia Wirick.

Thus Immanuel church is dedicated to the purpose of making spiritual, educational and recreational contributions to all persons or groups who live, work and play in the community of Woodlawn.

The history of Immanuel church dates back to 1898 when at the fall meeting of the northern conference of the synod of northern Illinois a committee was appointed to interest itself in the forming of n English Lutheran mission on the south side. Several informal meetings were held at the home of the Rev. A. J. Hesson, 4328 Calumet avenue.

Place for a regular service was obtained by the renting of Wilcox hall, 43d street and Champlain avenue. The Rev. Charles P. MacLaughlin, a student at Susquehanna university, was eventually called as the regular pastor. In 1900, the Sunday school was organized.

In 1903 a house of worship was built and the church began to grow. The Rev. B. F. Grenoble succeeded the Rev. Mr. MacLaughlin. During the services of Dr. and Mrs. Grenoble, the church developed both numerically and spiritually. The Rev. D. W. Michael was pastor between 1912 and 19[illegible]. A call was extended to the

JUVENILE BATHING BEAUTIES STRUT IN CONTEST

Little girls in colorful beach pajamas and sandals, sun-back bathing suits, or more elaborate swimming garb of silk with matching turbans—nearly a hundred of them—and all under ten years old, with their hair freshly curled by an adoring mother, were entered in the finals of the junior bathing beauty contest held Saturday afternoon, July 27, at the Club Casa Del Mar beach and esplanade, 74th street and Lake Michigan.

O'Connor, 7527 Rhodes avenue, has been awarded one of the ten scholarships given each year by the De Paul university college of commerce to students competing in an examination open to all graduates of Catholic high schools of the city. The other scholarship winners are: Miss Mary B. Beyenka, Miss Margaret E. Kenny, Miss Helen Krizek and Miss Veronica M. OUR TOWN

BY FRED PASLEY.

E. V. WARD of 764 Oakwood boulevard is again edifying the neighbors and delighting the kids with his melodious bass horn playing. Gene is an artist of noble lung power and is now practicing hot marches to play in New Orleans next May when the Shrine session convenes in the Crescent city on the banks of the big uncle of rivers. Gene plays with both the Montjoie commandery band and the Medinah temple brassieres.

Gilbert W. Graper, the go, as the saying is, getting cashier of the Morgan Park Trust and Savings bank, has returned from a three weeks' jaunt up Canadaward. Gilbert took his good frau and small son in the family Buick and headed for the Gaspe peninsula, where the majestic St. Lawrence meets the stormy Atlantic. From Halifax the Grapers steamed via boat to New York, and thence by easy stages back to Our Town. O. E. Kenyon, the efficient cashier, was mighty glad to see his boss back on the job, figuring that he, too, can now get a little vacation.

EARL LEAMON of 5725 South Maplewood avenue is another fellow townsman who has joined the ranks of the unwilling bachelors. His helpmeet, Katherine, is out in Colorado, and poor Earl is heard constantly muttering, "Alone, alone; all, all alone on a wide, wide sea of matrimony vacation." Kitty writes that the Garden of the Gods looks better to her than her own garden, as she doesn't have to bother with the weeds or worry about the chinchbugs.

* *

The sky's the limit for Morris B. Sachs, our well known merchant, who is buggy riding by plane between here and New York these days. For the opening of his newest store at 6628 South Halsted street he hopped down to the Manhattan marts and brought back a fuselage full of latest styles. "Keeping a hop ahead is my policy," says Morris.

* *

W. C. EDEN of 7712 Loomis street is the proud possessor of three (3) speed boats at his Crystal lake summer home. Whitie wouldst fain annex all speed records on that shimmering body of water, and the putt-putt of his motors can be heard from early morn till dusk. Even so, the neighbors say they prefer the exhaust of the boats to the exhaustive practicing on the Eden cornet.

* *

Arnold Rasmussen Jr. is absent from his cheery home at 1908 East 86th street, being engaged at Brodhead, Wis., in his annual battle with par over the course of the Decatur Lakes Country club, famed in slogan as "the sportiest course by a dam site." He will be back next week, we anticipate, with the official list of casualties and the diagram of X's marking the spot where the birdies fell.

* *

Robert A. Bain of 6207 South Laflin street, they say, has more titles than a ten reel movie. Bob is vice president of the Bryn Mawr State bank, cashier of the Stony Island State Savings bank and vice president of the American Trust and Savings bank, besides being a passionate cornetist with the Englewood commandery band. Bob returned a few days ago from a six weeks' trip to Scotland, fatherland of the Bain clan, but maintains a discreet silence as to what he brought back with him.

Fifty Golden Years

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES SWANSON.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swanson, 6755 Aberdeen street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday at the home of their son, Earl F. Swanson, 5102 North Keating avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Swanson were married at Rock Island, Ill., July 25, 1879. Mrs. H. Benson of Winnetka, a sister of Mrs. Swanson, who attended the wedding fifty years ago, also was present at the celebration.

Of the ten children born to Mr. and Mrs. Swanson, eight are still living, in addition to twenty-six grandchildren, and a great-grandchild. The sons and daughters include Charles, 6309 Wentworth avenue; Roy S., 8915 South Racine avenue; Mrs. Lillian White of Detroit; Earl S., 5102 North Keating avenue; Herbert, 6755 Aberdeen street; Mrs. Myrtle Bartz, 6756 South Morgan street; Mrs. Marie Frohm, 6755 Aberdeen street, and George, 6755 Aberdeen street. Fifty guests were present at the anniversary.

Children Busy on Mardi Gras of Play Spots

Bicycles, doll buggies, kiddie cars and wagons will be transformed into floats for the sixth annual children's Mardi Gras, which will be staged during August by the board of education bureau of recreation. The various playgrounds operated during the summer by the school board have been divided into four groups, each of which will present its gay pageant and parade at a different time and place.

Two Festivals on South Side.

Two divisions of the Mardi Gras will be held on the south side, one on the Midway the evening of Friday, Aug. 23, and the other will parade down Garfield boulevard to Racine avenue, and down Racine to the entrance of Sherman park, Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 21.

Herman T. Fischer is director of the bureau of recreation and Miss Flora J. Wolfson, one of the supervisors of the playgrounds, is directly in charge of the Mardi Gras. Miss Anne Prete of Kohn school playground, 10414 South State street, is in charge of the group which will parade down the Midway east of Cottage Grove avenue with floats and children dressed up to represent fairy tales. Last year this division represented the league of nations in the decorations of the floats. Miss Betty Page of Kershaw playground is supervising plans for the southwest division of the Mardi Gras.

Playgrounds in Each Division.

WINDSOR PARK CLUB TO HOLD FLOWER SHOW

The second annual flower show of the Windsor Park Garden club will be held Aug. 16 at the South Shore Community church, 74th street and Yates avenue. The show will not be limited to club members, and all persons interested in gardens are invited not only to attend but to exhibit their favorite plants and flowers.

Members of the committees in charge of the affair are Mrs. H. T. Alexander, Mrs. S. W. Gleve, and Mrs. P. J. Paulman, publicity; Mrs. F. C. Hill and Mrs. William Evans, entries; Mrs. J. C. Slaney, Mrs. T. F. Duplissis, Mrs. E. E. Wallace, Mrs. J. F. Smietanka, and Mrs. C. E. Shotwell, flower exhibits.

Mrs. F. Neal and Mrs. J. H. Streeter, commercial exhibits; Mrs. William Matthew, Mrs. C. W. Kearns and Mrs. O. Carliczek, house plants and window boxes; Mrs. Charles Griswold and Mrs. F. K. Kettler, membership and subscriptions; Mrs. C. L. Gerds, Mrs. C. C. Clark and Mrs. M. Fitch, tables, and Mrs. A. E. Clifford, Mrs. E. L. Hensley, Mrs. C. L. Tomlinson, Mrs. H. Missey, and Mrs. H. W. Huff, hospitality.

The junior girls' swimming meet of the south parks was held Friday at Sherman park, 53d street and Racine avenue, and the intermediate and senior girls' swimming meet was held yesterday at Sherman park. Miss Elsye Gates, general supervisor for the south parks, was in charge of the events.

The following were officials Friday afternoon: Miss Stella Rivaronas, Miss Jessie Simpson, Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick, Miss Ruth Seaberg, Miss Allene Gates, and Miss Ruth Fairbanks. Yesterday's officials included: Miss Doris Sullivan, Miss Mary Fitzpatrick, Miss Dorothy Childers, Miss Phebe Austin, and Miss Pearle Jordan.

Parker Practice P.-T. Body Forms Chorus of Mothers

A mothers' chorus composed of 39 members of the Parker Practice Parent-Teacher association, was organized at a summer meeting of the group last week at the home of Mrs. A. E. Dyer, 6912 Normal boulevard. Mrs. E. D. Humphrey, 7021 Eggleston avenue, will direct the choral group.

CITY WORKS FOR MORE HIGHWAYS ON SOUTH SIDE

Two efforts are being made to relieve the isolation of south side sections, according to Loran D. Gayton, city engineer. One is the construction of a bridge across the Calumet river at 106th street and the other is the paving of 95th stret. At present the farthest through route south from the far southwest side to the lake shore is 79th stret. To make another east-west crossing south of that point a motorist must now journey nearly ten miles to Sibley road at 147th street.

However, Mr. Gayton indicated that the new bridge will not relieve the lack of street facilities from east to west but will connect the western section of Calumet with the industrial section along the eastern shores of Lake Calumet.

Excavation has been completed from State street on 95th street to Ashland avenue in a program to pave 95th street to Western avenue. Sewers are being laid west of Ashland and will be ready for paving by the time the eastern section of the project is completed, Mr. Gayton said.

TWO BOULEVARD PROJECTS TO BE PUT TO HEARING

Fine Arts Building Work Next Month.

With the legal obstacles to the $15,000,000 bond issues finally removed, with public hearings soon to be held on Southeastern boulevard and Yates avenue, and with work on the rehabilitation of the old Fine Arts building to start soon, officials and employes of the south park commission have many busy months before them.

A public hearing on the proposed boulevarding of Yates avenue and constructing Southeastern boulevard will be held within two weeks, members of the Woodlawn Business Men's association were told recently by Michael L. Igoe, south park commissioner and representative of the fifth senatorial district.

Engineers have practically completed surveys of the Yates avenue and Southeastern boulevard projects and will present the results to the property owners at the public hearing, Mr. Igoe said. The Yates avenue boulevard, he explained, would be an extension of South Shore drive from 71st street to 103d street.

Route of New Boulevard.

Southeastern boulevard will begin on Jeffery avenue at 67th street and continue south to 92d street, east on that thoroughfare to Anthony avenue, southeast to Escanaba avenue, and then south on Escanaba avenue to 100th street, east on 100th street to Avenue L, over the latter to 112th street, and on 112th street to the state line.

The Yates avenue boulevard, which will extend from 71st to 103d streets, will furnish a south and north outlet to the proposed gasoline tax highway, which includes 103d street through South Chicago.

Plans for the rehabilitation of the old Fine Arts building in Jackson park call for an expenditure of $5,000,000. Work on the exterior will start in about two weeks, according to George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the south parks. The exterior will be rebuilt with Bedford stone and when completed will resemble in every detail the Fine Arts building of the world's fair.

The building will house the Rosenwald Industrial museum, toward which Julius Rosenwald has given more than $3,000,000. The interior of the building will be constructed according to plans and specifications drawn by the Rosenwald foundation. According to the engineers' reports, Mr. Donoghue said about three years will be required to complete the structure.

Work on many long awaited small park improvements, which has been held up for lack of funds, will be started in the early future, according to Mr. Donoghue. The major project, which awaited the settlement of litigation, is the completion of the outer drive, which now ends at 39th street. Edward J. Kelly, president of the park board, announced earlier this week that the stretch between 39th street and Hyde Park boulevard would be completed with four months.

$1,000,000 for Madden Park.

One million dollars for small parks, included in the bond issue, has been set aside, according to Mr. Donoghue, to purchase ten acres of land bounded by 37th street, 38th place, Vernon and Rhodes avenue, to construct Martin B. Madden park. The building of a large field house with the most modern equipment is included in the plans for the park.

Five hundred thousand dollars will be spent to improve the twenty acres which compose Foster park, 83d street and Loomis boulevard. A field house, which will include two large gymnasiums, swimming pools, shower and locker rooms, and library quarters, will make it one of the outstanding plants in the system, according to Mr. Donoghue.

The commissioners plan to spend $810,000 for the construction of Avalon park, which will consist of twenty-seven acres at 83d street and Dorchester avenue.

Woodlawn to Celebrate.

The opening of 63d street, from Stony Island avenue to West Lagoon drive in Jackson park, is another improvement included in the small park budget. Most of the work on this project is completed and the new roadway will be opened as soon as it can be paved with a celebration by the members of the Woodlawn Business Men's association, according to Theodore Berker, president of the organization.

One hundred thirty-seven thousand dollars will be spent for the construction of comfort stations in Jackson and Washington parks, while $102,000 will be spent for the construction of comfort stations at 41st street and South Park way, 41st street and Drexel boulevard, Garfield boulevard and Prairie avenue, 64th stret and Loomis boulevard, Garfield boulevard and Stewart avenue, and 49th place and Western avenue.

WEEKLY EVENTS OF 111TH ST. "Y" DRAW CROWDS

Increasing attendance is the response of the community to the outdoor Saturday evening programs at the 111th Street Y. M. C. A. Last Saturday evening six hundred men, women and children witnessed the program consisting of movies, slides and singing.

C. A. Singleton, 40 East 100th street, chairman of the committee in charge, announces the following members: Prof. J. R. French, 226 West 109th place; George Premer of the Y. M. C. A.; Elmer Erikson, 258 East 101st place; Frank Budzinski, 316 West 109th place; George Reid, 10211 St. Lawrence avenue, and Elmer Seyffert, 214 West 111th street; James Swanton, 1 East 111th street; and Arthur Eisele, 16 West 110th street, are assistants.

REMAKE CHURCH INTO QUARTERS FOR RETREATS

BY THOMAS WREN.

Parishes of the Roman Catholic archdiocese throughout Chicago's south side and suburban towns are organizing classes of retreatants to participate in the opening of the St. Francis Laymen Retreat league's new city headquarters at Corpus Christi church, 49th street and South Park way.

Workmen have been engaged for several weeks remodeling the Corpus Christi school building to meet requirements of retreat classes. It is expected all will be in readiness for an opening retreat class on or about Labor day. These classes are being organized through the coöperation of the south side councils of the Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies, Catholic Order of Foresters, and other church organizations.

Mayslake Retreats Continue.

Retreat classes conducted by the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league will continue to be held at Mayslake, Hinsdale, Ill., every week-end from Friday evening until early Monday morning. The establishment of the city retreat house at Corpus Christi church will augment the work that is being carried on by the Franciscan priests at Mayslake.

Corpus Christi church is regarded as one of the most beautiful Catholic edifices in the United States. It was founded in 1901 in what was then considered one of the best residential sections in the city. But of recent years the neighborhood's complexion has changed and in May it was given over to the jurisdiction of the Franciscan order of monks to be used as the city headquarters of the retreat league.

Father Valerius, O. F. M., one of Chicago's most widely known Franciscan fathers and former retreat master at Mayslake, is to take charge of the new retreat house. The work of class organization will be in charge of the Rev. Patrick Maloney, O. F. M. Father Maloney grew up in Chicago and maintains at 115 Polk street an office where reservations to attend the retreat classes at either Mayslake or at Corpus Christi this fall may be made.

Inaugurated by Mundelein.

Realizing the benefits that result from a weekend spent in contemplation and prayer, Cardinal Mundelein inaugurated the retreat movement in Chicago about five years ago. The first retreat class was held at St. Francis Retreat house at Mayslake March 5, 1925. The response to the "sixty golden hours" was immediate. Men from all walks of life found peace and consolation within the walls of the retreat house.

The Rev. Giles Strub, O. F. M., was the founder of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. Its purpose was to spread the benefits of a retreat once a year for every Catholic man in the archdiocese. Today the league has a membership of approximately 5,000.

Labor, Knights of Columbus, Holy Name societies and business organizations list many members in the league. Parishes, too, have coöperated and last year Chicago was awarded first place in retreat attendance in the United States. Members of the Asbestos Workers' union have the honor position for attendance at Mayslake. Hughie Mulligan, business representative of the labor organization, is also president of the St. Francis Laymen's Retreat league. He is one of the most enthusiastic workers in behalf of the league's activities in the archdiocese. He is serving his second term as president.

Move Spreads Among Labor.

With Mulligan's coöperation Father Maloney was able to spread the work of the league into many labor organizations, especially among the building trades. Working under the league banner today are such labor officials as Bernard Cruice, Stephen Bailey, Bernard Rubbery, Charles Mulcahy, Patrick Cullen, Martin Durkin, Frank Kane, John Durkin, Thomas O'Donnell, John Murphy, and John Stretch.

The Knights of Columbus have coöperated with Father Maloney and many councils have sent individual classes to Mayslake. Some of the leaders of this movement are Edward Houlihan, state deputy of the K. of C.; Frank Enright, president of the Chicago chapter; Leo Flynn, Judge John P. McGoorty, Patrick Woods, John Reiner, Joseph McMahon, Frank Walsh, Arthur Donohue, James Carney, Austin O'Malley, and P. J. J. McCarthy.

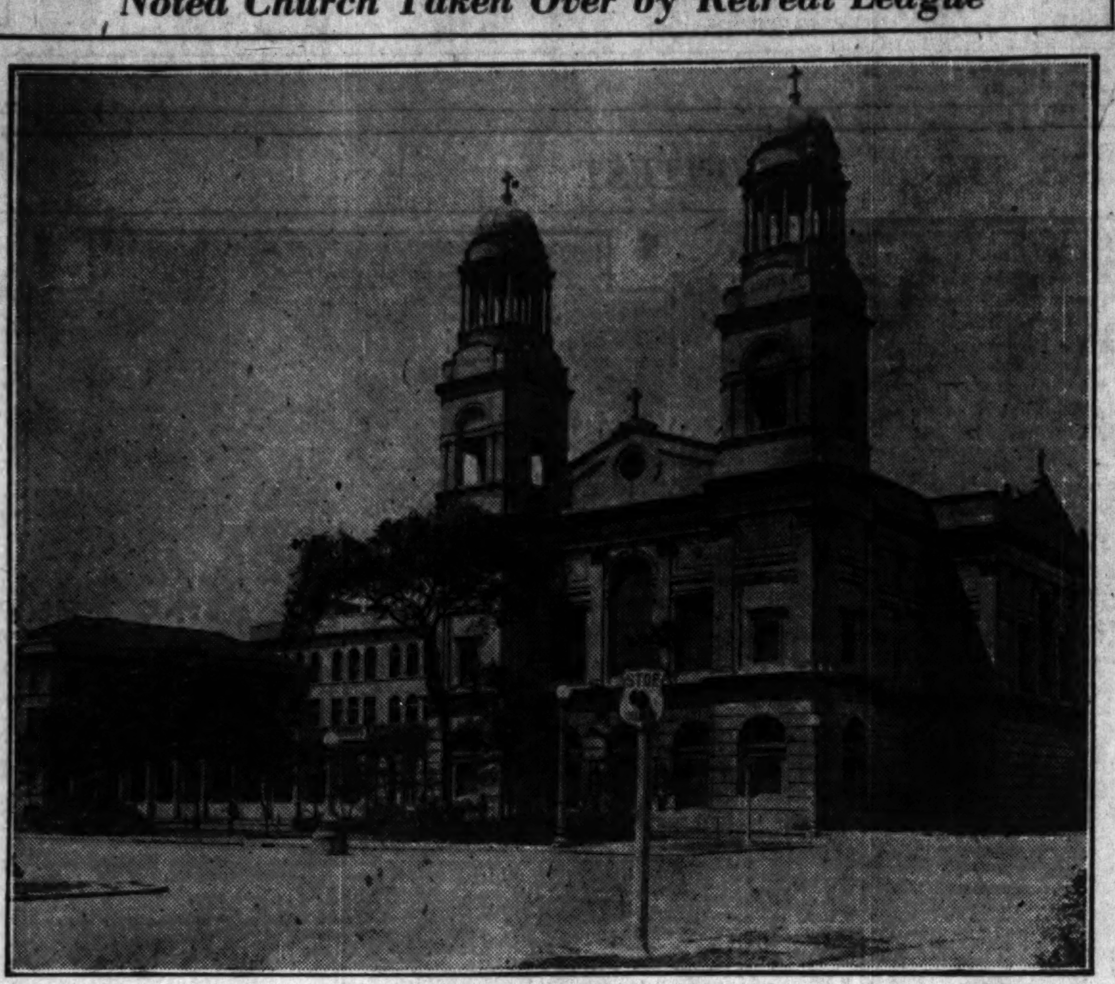
To date only a few parishes have done pioneering work in behalf of the Retreat league, and these include St. Jerome's, of which the Rev. T. F. Farrell is pastor; St. Ignatius, with the Rev. F. G. Dinneen as pastor; St. John the Baptist, with the Rev. P. T. Gelines as pastor; St. Joseph's, with the Rev. J. V. La Marre as pastor, and St. Kilian's, with the Rev. James M. Leddy as pastor.

Benefits Early Workers.

A retreat class lasts from the close of business on Friday evening until Monday morning. Conclusion of the spiritual exercises is arranged to permit retreatants to be at work at 8 o'clock Monday morning. However, to many of the workers in Chicago it is necessary for them to be at work Monday morning as early as 5 and 6 o'clock and it is to facilitate their return that the Corpus Christi retreat house will be opened.

Aug. 30 has been set by Father Maloney as the date for a city fire fighters' class.

Noted Church Taken Over by Retreat League



Corpus Christi Roman Catholic church, 49th street and South Park Way, regarded as one of the most beautiful Catholic churches in America, has been taken over by the St. Francis Laymen Retreat league. The first retreat there is to be held early in September.

DEDICATE TRACT FOR PROTESTANT CHILDREN'S HOME

First Building Scheduled to Start in Fall.

MRS. W. S. HART. [Monfort Photo.]

Dedication ceremonies of the site for the proposed National Protestant Children's Home and Training School at Illiana Heights, Ill., which were held last Sunday, were attended by many south side residents. Other Chicagoans who are interested in the movement and who aided in the campaign to raise funds to purchase the site also attended.

Board Secretary Presides.

W. R. Jasper, 6400 Normal boulevard, secretary of the board of trustees of the institution, was in charge of arrangements for the dedication exercises and presided at the service.

Following the ceremony, persons attending the dedication held an outing on the grounds, which are on the Kankakee river. Swimming, boating, and fishing were features on the picnic program.

Construction of the first of a group of buildings which will make up the institution is scheduled to be started in the fall. According to Mr. Jasper, the structure will be ready and in full operation early next year. Donors of the site are residents of the south side and other sections of the city who own summer homes at Illiana Heights.

Similar to Mooseheart Home.

The institution will be operated on a plan similar to the children's home at Mooseheart, Mr. Jasper explained. Dependent children will be kept at the home until they have had sufficient training to make their own way.

The home and training school will be unique in that no single denomination is sponsoring it, Mr. Jasper pointed out. Protestant children of any denomination, he stated, will be cared for at the home and educated at the school.

Wimer, West End. Members of the southwest camping committee who will also attend are A. C. Flenner, Arthur Demond, H. G. Weir, and A. J. Porzel.

CLUBS OF WOODLAWN PLAN DINNER TO START ACTIVITIES IN AUTUMN

MRS. D. J. STEVISON. [Kellogg Photo.]

Plans for a dinner to open the fall activities of the Associated clubs of Woodlawn were made at a meeting of the organization last week at the home of Mrs. D. J. Stevison, 6424 Greenwood avenue, president of the organization.

Mrs. Howard L. Ray, who is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the dinner, has selected the Jackson Park Community center, 67th street and Blackstone avenue, as the place to hold the affair. Oct. 23 was named as the date.

According to Mrs. Stevison, meetings will be held on the first Monday of every month, beginning Sept. 9.

Officers of the organization, in addition to Mrs. Stevison, are: Vice president, the Rev. Fred Merrifield of the Jackson Park Community center; treasurer, George W. Skeeles of the Woodlawn Optimist club; recording secretary, Mrs. G. G. Rehfield of the Sexton Parent-Teacher association; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jesse Goss of the Hyde Park Parent-Teacher association, and publicity chairman, Mrs. P. A. Gray of the Woodlawn Study club.

FATHERS, SONS OF 111TH ST. "Y" PLAN OUTING

"Food cooked just like mother's" will be the aim of a score or more fathers and sons of the 111th Street Y. M. C. A. who will auto to Palos Park next Tuesday and prepare their supper out-of-doors.

Each couple will take along their own food. Fathers and sons who have no automobiles will be taken care of by those who have. They will leave the "Y" at 6:30 and expect to be back before 10 o'clock. Mr. Edward Menke, 41 West 1112th place, is chairman of the evening.

LAUNCH PLAN TO ENHANCE BEAUTY OF 95TH STREET

Ridge Civic Council Will Push Improvement.

Contending that the 16 foot space which will be left unpaved when the 76 foot 95th street is completed will mar the beauty of Beverly Hills' thoroughfares, members of the Ridge civic council are considering plans for the beautification of that street from Western avenue to Ashland avenue, according to Robert Blackburn, president of the organization.

The 16 foot space will be left unpaved with the hope that it will be used in the future for a car line. Mr. Blackburn, however, pointed out that he could see no future possibility of using this stretch as a car line and it would be to the best interests of the residents of the community if the space were beautified by the planting of low shrubs and grass.

Suggests Improving Street.

The suggestion that the street be improved was made by J. William Howard, 9351 Pleasant street.

"The plan is a good one," said Mr. Blackburn, "and a practical one. It will be another way in which to guard the beauty of Beverly Hills. The financial end of it could be handled by the civic council at an estimated cost of one dollar to each property owner for one-half mile north and south of 95th street. The total cost of the improvement will probably amount to $1,000."

Alderman Backs Plan.

Mr. Blackburn brought the matter to the attention of Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th] in order to learn whether the city would permit the beautification of the street. The alderman expressed himself in favor of the improvement, but could not put any light on the subject in regard to gaining the city's permission. He promised, however, to do everything in his power to gain the permission of the city council.

Gives Sermon on Faith.

"The Shipwreck of Faith" will be the subject of a sermon by the Rev. Clinton C. Cox, pastor, at the services this morning at the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 64th street and Marshfield avenue.

SOUTHWEST SIDE BODY AIDS MOVE FOR TAX REFORM

Arrangements have been completed for a meeting at the city hall Tuesday night at which representatives of civic organizations throughout the city will discuss means of obtaining reductions in taxes through reforms in local government, according to T. P. Quinn, chairman of the committee in charge. The tax reduction movement is being sponsored by the Northwest Federation of Improvement Clubs, an association of the leading civic groups of the northwest side.

Civic, business, and improvement clubs of the south side and foreign language newspapers, more than 700 organizations in all, have been invited to attend the meeting, which will be held in the city council chambers at 8 o'clock. M. A. Seymour, secretary of the Southwest Federation of Improvement Clubs, has announced that his group is prepared to lead south side organizations in support of the tax reduction movement.

The program of the meeting will include an introductory address by Mr. Quinn and general discussion of the problem at hand by delegates from the various groups represented. Temporary officers of the civic body will be elected and the drive for reform will be launched.

The new association will be composed of private citizens and no office holders will be affiliated, according to Mr. Quinn.

STONY ISLAND PASSES; AVENUE PRESERVES NAME

'Twas Coral Reef Eons in Past, Geologists Say.

BY ELEANORE GRAFF.

Swamps, seemingly bottomless, were one of the handicaps with which pioneers of Chicago had to contend before building their permanent streets and homes. Not the least of these was the slough completely surrounding the Stony Island, an oblong strip of land with a rocky surface which encompassed much of what today is South Chicago.

Considered an engineering feat at the time of its construction in 1869 by the board of trustees of the town of Hyde Park, the Stony Island avenue showed the possibility of such construction as has provided a part of the outer drive. Where only birds or muskrats previously had crossed in safety, one mile of Stony Island avenue, which extends four and a half miles from the northwest corner of Jackson park to Lake Calumet, was built on the quagmire at the western end of Stony Island. An old report issued by the president of the board of trustees of Hyde Park tells of the board platform first laid on the surface of mud and water, which in turn was covered by a thick layer of swamp grass and reeds on which gravel was dumped and pounded until it ceased to sink.

Name Easy to Select.

The name of Stony Island was logically given to the new avenue and today it has come to refer exclusively to the street, and the old island for which it was named has been forgotten.

Stony Island lay between 91st and 94th streets and from Stony Island avenue on the west to Kingston avenue on the east, a distance of one and one-quarter miles. Its greatest width was little less than one-half mile. A flattened dome of limestone rock which covers the surface in most places to a depth of between two and eight feet, obviously contributed to the naming of the area. Originally it stood out at an elevation of ten to eighteen feet from the surrounding swamp.

The history of Stony Island can be traced back to the dark ages, according to geologists, who explain that millions of years ago Stony Island was a beautiful coral reef displaying its shades of purple, green, yellow, brown, and pink colors in the warm waters of the Silurian sea. This sea is supposed to have been part of North America before the forming of the limestone area which includes Chicago and much of the surrounding territory.

The continent gradually emerged from the sea, bringing the coral reef nearer land, and pounding waves broke up the pieces of coral into sand and threw other stones and rocks upon its gleaming surface, according to geologists. Then came the era when great glaciers passed over Stony Island, cutting its already marred surface, and eventually submerging it when the glaciers melted into a lake designated as Lake Chicago.

Rocky Ridge in Swamp.

The lake was gradually drained by rivers pouring into the Atlantic and Stony Island again came to view. When the waters receded to form the present Lake Michigan Stony Island was left as a ridge of rocks surrounded by swamps filled with decaying vegetation.

Today the city has been built over and around Stony Island until it is no longer distinguishable from the remainder of Chicago. Only two abandoned stone quarries, one at the northwest side of the island near 92d street, and the other at the foot of Euclid avenue, remain to expose the curious rock strata beneath the surface.

WOMAN PLANS OAKLAND ASS'N STREET PROGRAM

Heads Committee Seeking Many Improvements.

Members of the Oakland Business Men's association, headed by A. J. Kolar, have concluded that a woman's place is on the street improvement committee. Mrs. Cora A. Graham, 4033 Ellis avenue, recently appointed chairman of that committee, has completed a survey of conditions in the Oakland district and has arranged an extensive program of improvements to take place within the next few months.

The survey was made of the district bounded by Cottage Grove avenue, 43d street, 35th street, and the lake. With the coöperation of Ald. Robert R. Jackson [3d], Mrs. Graham is confident that her improvement program will be completed.

Promise Street Repairs.

City officials have promised the immediate repair of Berkeley avenue between 41st and 43d streets, Oakland crescent, and 41st street between Ellis avenue and Drexel boulevard. New curbs will be constructed wherever needed throughout the district, according to Mrs. Graham.

In addition to street repairs, orders have been entered with the department of gas and electricity for stop and go lights at Cottage Grove avenue and 35th street, Pershing road and 43d streets, and at Oakwood boulevard and Vincennes avenue, Mrs. Graham said, and ordinances against heavy traffic on side streets in the district are being enforced.

A campaign has been launched by Mrs. Graham to prohibit merchants from displaying their wares on the sidewalk, and, with the coöperation of Ald. Jackson, she expects to maintain presentable business streets.

Destroy Obsolete Buildings.

To make romo for improvements in the district before the fair in 1933 Mrs. Graham is seeking the help of property owners in tearing down obsolete buildings.

Better playground and school facilities are also being sought by the Business Men's association, according to Mrs. Graham, and the board of education is studying the district to determine the best location for a school and playground to take the place of the portables now in use at Lake Park avenue and 41st street.

Scout Leader Returns.

200 SCOUTS FROM SOUTH SIDE WILL LEAVE FOR CAMP

More than 200 Boy Scouts of the south shore and Calumet districts are leaving for Camp James E. West, one of the Owasippe scout camps near Whitehall, Mich., Camp Director Frank O. Bergquist announced yesterday. This will be the largest group attending the camp this year, Mr. Bergquist said.

Scouts who left the camp yesterday established a record for passing the greatest number of canoeing merit badge tests of any of the Owasippe camps. The proficiency of the boys in handling water craft is due to the efforts of Herbert Pratt, leader of troop 514 and "water front" director of the camp, according to Mr. Bergquist.

While airplanes are breaking speed and endurance records, while crack trains are carrying travelers to distant corners of the country in time that would amaze railroad passengers of twenty years ago, and while automobiles are traveling at a 35 mile an hour clip over boulevard systems, Louie Shadduck, who has been stable foreman for the south park commission more than thirty-three years, still uses a horse and buggy for his daily tours.

Residents in the vicinity of Jackson and Washington parks know Louie well, for every day, rain or shine, for twenty years he had taken a ride through those parks. He has watched automobiles slowly crowd him to the far right hand side of the road where his horse trots along today, keeping out of the way of the gas buggies and smiling at the speeding motorists who throw back good natured remarks as they pass him.

Bought His Buggy During Fair.

Louie purchased during the World's fair the buggy he still uses every day, while his horse, Tom, is more than ten years old. Louie allows nobody but himself to harness Tom for his daily ten mile trot.

When Louie was asked why he would not purchase an automobile he said that at the age of 74 and after working around horses all of his life he could not forsake his friends for their successful rival, the automobile.

"I'll stick to Tom and the old buggy," Louie asserted.

When Louie went to the south park commission stables more than 41 years ago as a hostler, a fine horse was the mark of a man's position in the world. Nowadays, Louie declared, a man must have three $15,000 automobiles and an airplane before he is recognized as a "somebody."

Compares Horses in Fairs.

Louie recalled that during the 1893 World's fair the south park commission used more than 130 horses. He regretfully remarked that during the 1933 World's Fair there will be no need for horses and that even the thirty horses that remain will stand in the stables or do odd jobs around the parks while trucks do the work at the fair grounds.

He is one of the oldest employés of the park board and he has watched the system, which in 1888 included Jackson, Washington, Gage and McKinley parks, add more than thirty small parks.

"After working with horses for more than forty-one years," Louie said, "and after watching the automobiles crowd them out of their rightful place, I could not possibly join that parade and leave them. Although I have taken one ride in a car to see how it feels, I will never buy one nor do I believe I ever will get into another one. I am content with Tom and the buggy."

In addition to her husband and two chilren, Mrs. Murdock was survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy D. Smith, also of 8814 Hamilton avenue, and a brother, Stanley C. Smith. Mr. Murdock is in the printing business at 205 East Grand avenue.

Mrs. David M. Anderson Taken by Death in Arizona

Last rites for Mrs. Margaret M. Anderson, who died July 27 in Phoenix, Ariz., were held Wednesday afternoon from Lain & Son's chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue. Burial was at Oakwoods cemetery. Although Mrs. Anderson was for many years a resident of the south side of Chicago, she had spent the last two years in Arizona, where the climate was considered beneficial to her health. She was 39 years old. Mrs. Anderson is survived by her husband, David M. Anderson, and her mother, Mrs. Pauline K. McGill of 6873 Crandon avenue. Mr. Anderson's temporary addrss is at the McGill residence.

VOICE of the SOUTH SIDE

CALL IT DEVER DRIVE.

Chicago, July 24.—In a recent issue of the Metropolitan section I was happy to read that the south park commission has finally started construction of the long awaited route from Jackson park to the Indiana state line.

Your paper calls this route Southeastern boulevard. I do not know where you received your information on the name, but the people out here have been talking about the contemplated route as Dever drive, in honor of our former mayor.

We who are interested in the proposed boulevard system because it means much to the future development of the territory in which we live, believe that the route should be named after the man who was really responsible for making this route possible.

According to reports from my neighbors, it was through Mr. Dever's influence that the 100th street bridge was constructed after all of us believed that the city would not go to the expense of erecting the structure. Without this bridge there could be no boulevard system and therefore I believe that I am voicing the sentiments of the thousands of residents of the southeastern section of Chicago when I urge that the new route be officially named Dever drive.

STANLEY R. LEEDS.

PROPOSES HUBBARD ROAD.

Chicago, July 30.—If the name of Jeffery avenue must be changed when the new boulevard connecting Jackson park with the Indiana state line is completed, I think every public spirited citizen should object to the commonplace and cumbersome name of Southeastern boulevard. Such a name is nothing more than a signpost and carries no other significance.

A through boulevard such as this one promises to be should carry a more distinctive name which would give character to the street, with perhaps some historical significance behind it. There were a number of persons closely connected with the early history of the south side of Chicago, among them the famous Elijah C. Hubbard, who originally laid out much of the territory through which the new boulevard will pass. As far as I know there is no street in Chicago now carrying the name of Hubbard. I suggest Hubbard road as a name for the boulevard. Picturesque names including the addition of "road" or "drive" are all too rare in Chicago, although neither London nor New York hesitates to designate streets as roads or drives instead of merely street, avenue or boulevard.

Again I urge that the name of Hubbard road be used as it would add picturesque, historic and individual qualities to the boulevard.

MRS. EARL DEAN.

NAME FOR NEW BOULEVARD.

Chicago, July 29.—Southeastern boulevard! Surely the south park board and residents of the south side are not going to permit the proposed boulevard leading southward from Jackson park to be given so hideous a name as Southeastern boulevard.

There is something in a name, Shakespeare's lines to the contrary notwithstanding. A name should be as short as possible. A short one, easy to say, to write and to remember, is pleasing and popular. A name that is characteristic of the thing named is better than one that is arbitrarily bestowed. A name that stands as a memorial to a man or a group or an event has a special appropriateness.

I propose for the boulevard a name that will combine all of these qualities. Name it Cannon drive. It's short. It is suggestive of the speed of boulevard traffic. It will honor the memory of Joseph Gurney Cannon, the beloved "Uncle Joe," who for half a century honored Illinois by his distinguished service to the nation.

LUTHERANS OF WOODLAWN GIVE HAVEN TO YOUTH

Immanuel Provides Social Activities.

Buy Site Near U. of C.

In 1917, in order that a Lutheran church might be located near the University of Chicago, the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the general synod, purchased a lot at the corner of Kenwood avenue and 64th street. The frame dwelling on the lot was repaired and preaching services begun with the Rev. John St. John as pastor.

Because of the rapid change in conditions in the neighborhood of the Immanuel church on 43d street, and the Rev. Mr. St. John having accepted a call at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, it was thought advisable to continue the work in Woodlawn with the assistance of a lay reader and to hasten the sale of the old church that all efforts might be put into the work at Woodlawn.

Dedicated in 1924.

Services were held in the Woodlawn Masonic temple until the new parish house was ready as a temporary place of worship. The new church was dedicated Sept. 21, 1924.

The membership and the council having worked harmoniously and faithfully to move forward in the face of difficulties summed up their feelings over their success with the words, "This is the Lord's doings and is marvelous in our eyes."

The Rev. Mr. Paulus is president of the church council and building committee; C. W. Howe is vice president; C. E. Braum, recording secretary; H. P. Johnson, financial secretary; A. L. Mortensen, treasurer, J. A. Hauder, treasurer of the building fund.

WINDOW SHADES COST 19 CENTS; STILL GOOD AFTER 22 YEARS' USE

Chicago, July 30.—Twenty-two years side of the paper, and print your ago I purchased a dozen window shades, 19 cents each, at a sale in a 63d and Halsted street store. Nine of these shades, all in excellent condition, are still hanging at my windows and they look as if they're good for another ten years. I doubt if you could find many bargains equal to this.

MRS. LIZZIE BALLER.

BARGAIN IN SACKS.

Chicago, July 29.—My best neighborhood bargain was a dozen flour sacks that I purchased at a bakery. They cost me 85 cents and, of course, I had to soak them in kerosene to remove the printed matter. After washing them out in the usual manner, I made them into attractive muslin aprons, tea towels and baby bibs with colored pipings of bias tape.

MRS. RAYMOND J. GALLAGHER.

A FAIR EXCHANGE.

Joliet, July 28.—Last summer I bought a dark blue bathing suit at a neighborhood shop for $5. It was guaranteed not to fade but toward the middle of September, after I had worn it for several months, I noticed that the sun had begun to affect the color. I took it back, was received most courteously and given a $6 model to replace it.

SALE OF RADIO LICENSES BARRED, COUNSEL HOLDS

Is Violation of the Act of 1927.

Radio licenses, like automobile tags, cannot be sold, mortgaged, or leased without the consent of the federal radio commission, Bethuel M. Webster Jr., general counsel of the commission, holds in an opinion of section 12 of the radio act of 1927. The legal view has been given on account of the raising of the question upon the presentation of petitions for renewals. In one instance recently the commission found an applicant who apparently was making a business of obtaining and selling licenses at a profit.

Section 12 is intended, Mr. Webster says, "to prevent development of the theory of property rights in the use of frequencies or in the right to communicate by radio"; also "to prevent the making of any profit based on the sale of a license" and the acquisition of stations by ineligible or undesirable persons.

"The actual assignment of the license itself without consent of the commission," Mr. Webster said, "is clearly a violation of section 12, since it amounts to a transfer of control. Moreover an outright sale of station apparatus, where the effect is to put an unlicensed vendee into possession and control is not permitted.

"During the license period the act prohibits any termination of the mortgagor's control, whether that control is terminated by default, repossession or foreclosure.

"A lease which is so drawn as to constitute a mere sale of time allows the lessor to retain control of the use or operation of the station, to continue financially responsible for the debts of the station and to continue its management is not objectionable.

"On the other hand, a lease which puts into the hands of a lessee the station management, which the commission in issuing a license has placed in the hands of the lessor licensed in accordance with the standard of public interest, would, in effect, be an assignment of license and therefore void."

Ask Rezoning of Half Mile Section for Apartments

An ordinance to rezone for apartments a half mile square in the neighborhood of 63d street and Crawford avenue will be taken up next month by the city council committee on buildings and zoning. Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th] recently presented to the committee an ordinance rezoning the district bounded by the alley north of 63d street, the alley west of Crawford avenue, the alley south of 59th street, and Keeler avenue. A public hearing will be held on the proposal early next month.

Inside the Loud Speaker

BY QUIN RYAN.

Let's pretend that we're back in the days of the war again, and we're listening to the radio on the afternoon of July 27, 1918. The announcer is speaking to us from the ringside of the Jack Dempsey and Fred Fulton fight at Harrison, N. J. Jack Dempsey was not yet champion, nor even much of a celebrity. It was a whole year before Dempsey met Willard. Here goes:

ANNOUNCER — Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. This is W-G-N, broadcasting the Jack Dempsey-Fred Fulton fight direct from the baseball park in Harrison, New Jersey!

They're rioting out here in this ball park right now! We can hardly hear ourselves talking, this howling, screaming mob is making so much noise. There's been a rush on the high price seats down there in the baseball field by the customers in the less expensive sections, and the Harrison police force has just been helpless. Look at 'em go!

Wait a minute—there's somebody scrambling up into the ring now—wait'll we see who it is. It's Ed Curley, and he's raising his hands for silence. Don't look as if he'll get it—there comes another mob down from the grandstand in a raid on the ringside seats! Listen to 'em howl!

Ed Curley is the man who brought Fulton and Dempsey together for this fight, that will unofficially give one of them the heavyweight boxing championship, since it seems to be the general opinion that Jess Willard will never leave his Kansas farm and the cows and the chickens to come out and defend his title.

It's almost seven o'clock, and since Curley has promised to start the fight promptly at that hour, we've got very little time left to tell you about the details of this scrap. Jack Dempsey is the twenty-two year old youngster who's come up in heavyweight circles like a flash in the last two years. He's been bowling over the star heavies right and left, winning most of his contests with a K. O. sock in the first round. He's trimmed the best of the lot—Willie Meehan, Gunboat Smith, Porky Flynn, Billy Mike, Bill Brennan, and Carl Morris.

Very nearly we didn't have a fight here today. Fred got himself into something of a mess with the draft board early this week, and for a time it looked as if Fulton would be grabbed by the government sleuths and slapped into the army. Fred hadn't appeared before the New York draft board owing to the fact that the notices sent him had strayed on the way, but everything has been satisfactorily explained, and Fred was given a clean bill of health.

This fight means a lot to Fred Fulton. Only Dempsey stands between him and Jess Willard. While Jess has been loafing out on that Pottawatomie farm of his in Kansas, Fred has been making fistic hay in the ring, and everything is set for his scrap with Willard if he puts Dempsey away. He may have to wait until the end of the war, but if he can put "One Round Jack" to sleep decisively this afternoon, he'll have first crack at the titleholding Kansan's crown, which Willard packed away in the moth balls after he won it from Johnson, and which has rarely been seen since.

Jack Kearns, the man who is managing Dempsey thinks that Jack is head and shoulders above Fulton and every other heavyweight in the field —even Willard—and he's willing to let his protégé try to prove it.

Both men appear fairly well matched, and many experts figure that they'll last out the full ten rounds. They're hard hitters, but neither looks to be a hard enough hitter to knock the other down. If anybody's got the edge, it's Fulton.

Whee! There's a yell! It's Fulton coming down the aisle on his way to the ring! Fred Fulton, the big, tall, lean Minnesota boy who wants to win the world's championship! The crowd is giving him a great cheer as he comes up the aisle and swings through the ropes and into the ring!

Mike Collins, his manager, is with him, and a gang of seconds, water boys, trainers and camp followers. They think he's the coming champion of the world. Fred is showing the crowd a great big grin.

Fred looks fit and ready for the battle, and Ed Curley, the promoter, has joined the little crowd in Fulton's corner and he's talking to him. Curley probably wants to promote the Willard-Fulton fight for the championship.

Wait a minute! What's that! There's more noise! It's Dempsey this time—Jack Dempsey, the twenty-two year old bruiser from Nevada, who has been heaving the best of the heavies right and left for the last two years. He's coming down the aisle to the ring, almost fighting his way through the mob that's clogged up the passages ever since they raced in from the cheaper seats at the edge of the field.

Jack Kearns is with him, and a group of seconds and trainers. Dempsey looks like a big surly boy. He's wearing an old torn red sweater, and there's a two day's growth of whiskers on his chin and jowls. His face and body are brown—he's been doing a lot of training in the sun. He's just scowling—not smiling as Fulton was when he came in the ring, and he looks every inch the fighter.

Now the new chocolate-colored boxing gloves have been dumped on the floor, and the seconds are sorting them out. Jack Kearns has wandered over to Fulton's corner to take a look at Fred's bandages on his hand, and Mike Collins has gone into Dempsey's corner to do the same thing. Jack has pulled off that red sweater, and now they're fitting the gloves on the hands of both the fighters.

Here comes the announcer signalling for quiet. Here's the dope as he shoots it to us with that megaphone voice—ten rounds, no decision, between Jack Dempsey, 189 pounds, and Fred Fulton, 202 pounds.

Now the referee is calling the men to the center of the ring for their final instructions. Fred comes out of his corner with his bathrobe draped over his shoulders, and he's smiling as he steps to the center of the ring. Jack still is wearing that scowl, and he's looking at the floor as the referee talks to them. Ten rounds—no decision—eight ounce gloves—and behind the smiling face of Fred Fulton and the scowling mask of Jack Dempsey there 's the same thought—that a decision won't be necessary. A few weeks ago in Chicago, Jack Dempsey told THE TRIBUNE's boxing editor that he intended to knock out Fulton in one round, and he looks as though he intends to do it.

Now they've gone back to their corners. Ed Curley is up in the ring now, the announcer is introducing him, and he's getting a hand from the crowd! Ed is saying something, but we can't hear what it is in all the din.

Now they're clearing the ring for action. Jack Kearns is whispering into Dempsey's ear as the two fighters face each other across the ring and wait for the gong. The seconds are scampering out of the ring.

There's the bell! Round one! Dempsey is out of his corner and in the center of the ring in a flash. Fulton comes out with a smile on his face. They spar for a moment! Fulton sticks out his left hand with a widening grin. What's this Dempsey got? he asks himself. Wow! That's what he's got! Dempsey lands a hard right to the heart! It hurt Fulton. He didn't expect it. A clean blow just above the heart! Look at Dempsey tear in. He's forcing Fulton back against the ropes—Dempsey lands a left hook to the jaw—Dempsey has Fulton groggy—Dempsey has him groggy from two punches! Now their wrestling a bit—Fulton is still groggy . . . Dempsey starts a right hander from his shoes. . . . . on the jaw. . . . . Fulton is down. . . . Fred Fulton is on the mat. . . . He's just crumpled up and gone down . . . . there's the count. . . . he strains his body. . . . there's a look of pain on his face. . . . three . . . . four . . . . Mike Collins, his manager, implores him to get up. . . . Dempsey stands over him scowling. . . . seven . . . . eight. . . . Fulton writhes in pain. . . He lifts his body a foot from the floor. . . . his head hangs over the lower rope. . . . Dempsey is waiting, fists clenched. . . . Jack Dempsey has knocked out Fred Fulton! Dempsey wins in the first round!

Bring on Jess Willard!

CALUMET PARK BOYS ORGANIZE ENGINEER CLUB

Twenty-five boys at Calumet park, 98th street and Lake Michigan, have organized the Junior Engineers club, under the direction of W. J. Dempsey, park director. The boys are busily engaged these summer days in constructing model bridges, skyscrapers, electric trains, elevators, and complete towns from one of the largest Meccano sets in the city. The latest achievement is the construction of a model airplane that runs by electricity.

SPECIALISTS NOW HANDLE PROGRAM MAKING DETAILS

Radio Advertisers Look to Agencies.

Radio broadcast's evolution into the field of big business has gradually brought about a segregation of activities until nearly every department is in the hands of specialists. One of the most significant markings is the creation of program specialists.

Nto so very long ago the making of programs was wholly in the hands of broadcasting stations. The trend is now in the opposite direction; program sponsors either directly or through their advertising agencies seek to build up their entertainments as a complete entity and take it to the station ready to use its air facilities and nothing else.

William B. Murray, vice president and general manager of an organization specializing in program building, recently explained how program making came to be a specialty.

Like Editorial Department.

"We do the sort of work that the editorial department of a publication does," he said, "or you might limit it even more than that and say we are like the art department of a publication.

"But naturally, as sponsors came to have a better understanding of radio broadcast, they wanted to control their representation on the air. The result was that their advertising agencies began to study radio very intensively. Some advertising agencies have built up what are really very good radio departments. But even with expert script writers, expert production men, expert musical impresarios, they still need artists to express the ideas they create and so naturally they have to come to us or whoever controls the talent they wish."

Mr. Murray told how program services at first were merely booking agencies for talent.

"But," he said, "we soon learned that we would have to go the whole route in order to fairly represent our artists as well as satisfy the sponsors who engaged them.

Like Theatrical Production.

"Each radio period is a complete theatrical production. It requires the combined and related effort of all the wisdom and experience and talent that any such enterprise deserves. Consequently it became necessary to organize a group of experts in every phase of radio production, quite apart from the artists who finally appear before the microphone."

This means not only a large permanent staff of professional radio folk, but also a considerable physical equipment, such as studios, library, technical equipment. The musical library of Mr. Murray's organization for radio use solely is reputed to be worth more than a quarter of a million dollars. It is the largest and most complete collection of its kind in the world.

"Nowadays," Mr. Murray stated, "advertising agencies are the point of contact in most of radio's important programs. The broadcasting stations and the broadcasting chains sell "time on the air" to sponsors through the advertising agencies. The sponsors no longer look to the stations for entertainment facilities; they look to their advertising agencies. Some of these agencies have created export radio departments. These look on us as an expert art service, ready to supply them with talent to fit the copy they create. Other advertising agencies lean on us entirely, asking both copy and art service, so to speak."

Request for Prisoner's Song

Chicago.

Gentlemen:

I understand that you solicit criticism. Here it is. We are absolutely unable to listen through one of the performances of the Hungry Five. If there ever was an assinine program, this is it. If the five were sentenced to the federal prison for a stretch, few of your patrons would refuse to join the celebration.

W-G-N FAN, S.

Discontented

Wauconda.

Dear Hungry Five:

If I could but express in a convincing way the admiration I have for your work, and tell you how thoroughly I enjoy your fun making, I would be content. I can never retire until I have heard what you boys have to play and say. May I live long to hear, "Ein, zwei, drei, spiel!

Very sincerely,
GRANDMA BUSCHEIEK.

CHILDREN'S CONCERT

They play their best music for the children. Sometimes lazy tunes that shepherds have sung or piped on eerie pipes. Sometimes laughing songs that elves have learned from water tumbling over stones in a young brook. Stories, too, there are. They speak familiarly of Pan and his ilk who have youth sealed up safely within them. The music is by the W-G-N Symphony Orchestra responding enthusiastically to the baton of Gaston Du Moulin. Be gay and begin the concert at 5:45.

JEAN GOLDKETTE . .

A bomb has dropped in the dance music world. Victor Young, prominent young orchestrator and violinist—Van Fleming, inspiring tenor and guitarist—Bill Herring, who plays an elastic trombone that croons as Sophie Tucker wishes she could—Jack Codaro, who licks out the dirty runs on any of half a dozen saxophones and toots a merry break on a clarinet—they're all members of Jean Goldkette's most famous of radio bands. Sunday's their big day. 1:30, 2:25, and 11

More Maytag Washers Are Sold Here Than Any Other Two Standard Makes Combined!

No hand-rubbing even on cuffs and collar bands—
Big balloon wringer rolls never break buttons—
Solid cast aluminum tub, will never wear out!

Over One Year to Pay for the MAYTAG

The most recent improvement on the Maytag is the Roller Water Remover—the safest, handiest and most efficient method of soap and water removal known. It is altogether different from the ordinary wringer with two large soft rolls. The upper roll of the Maytag is soft, the lower roll hard. The large upper roll being elastic and springy, easily yields to pressure, molding itself over seams, wrinkles and lumps of clothing, always maintaining the same even contact at all points no matter how irregular, thus removing the soap and dirt-ladened water evenly from all parts of each garment. Buttons and snaps are not broken or even loosened.

To You
To Whom the Berlitz School Doesn't Mean a Thing.

Berlitz is the greatest name in languages . . . the name of a school that develops yearly more than 150,000 linguists . . . the name of a teaching Method that has been famous the world over for more than a half century. Learning a language by the Berlitz Method will prove to be a revelation to you. You learn by conversation . . . through the ear . . . not through the eye. Your mother tongue is left behind . . . you speak only the language you are learning. So you THINK as well as talk in the foreign language. Round table discussions . . . conversations based on normal situations and everyday topics of interest provide you with a vocabulary and pronunciation essential to easy and fluent speech. You learn quickly, positively, and enjoy every minute of your course. Our free bulletin gives you additional facts. Write, call or telephone Harrison 0392.

SALESMEN Are Absolutely Making Daily $25 TO $100 THE FIRST DAY THEY WORK

Bigger Earnings Later A WORLD'S RECORD

Out of the first hundred salesmen who started to work, men from every walk of life, of all ages, 18 to 65, of all kinds of experiences, not one has failed to sell and to make big money the first day in the field. No man here, not one, makes less than $25 for a day's work. Some of them make $50 and up to $100 per day or more.

We mean what we say. Every man makes $25 or more for a day's work. There are no failures, no exceptions. Dozens, scores of these men are coming in our office every day, every hour, some of them are in every few minutes. Meet them, talk to them, and you will not find a single one making less than $25 for a day's work. Every one will tell you that he is on the fastest selling proposition, the biggest money making deal he has ever seen.

We dare any man of ordinary intelligence and good appearance to work a day here and fail to make at least $25.

We recently secured over a half million dollars' worth of merchandise which was stored in a warehouse here at about ten cents on a dollar. It is merchandise easy to carry and easy to demonstrate. It is the most popular, the most appealing, and the most attractive line in America today. National sales in this line are increasing $3,000,000 yearly and have done so for the last five years. It sells like wild-fire, at two to three to four hundred per cent profit to the salesman.

R. E. W. just started this week and made $60 clear cash profit his first day. He made 27 sales and worked only 4 hours. The next day he worked 3½ hours and made 18 sales with a $40 profit.

T. J. R. made over $100 in his second day in the field. He made over $50 his first day.

Mrs. G. W. H. made 34 sales on one day this week with an average profit of $2.50 per sale—$95 commission for her day's work.

Thousands of men are making big money here. Some work two hours a day and make $10 to $12. Some make from $10 to $15 up to $25 of an evening.

Orders are pouring in by mail, by air mail, and by wire from all parts of the country.

The day before this ad was written we made over 1,800 sales and almost every day all records are broken. We expect to be making 5,000 sales a day long before the 1st of September.

We started in business about July 4th. At our present rate we will pay out over $150,000 in commission in the month of August alone.

Come in and meet the fastest growing, biggest, surest money making sales organization in America. We have set our mark at 100,000 sales in August. We have another merchandise proposition, just as good as this one with a million sales to be made, which we want to start September 1st.

Men who are high caliber salesmen, men who are without experience, men with crews all are cashing in. Remember that no man of ordinary intelligence and good appearance who will work can make less than $25 a day and a good man makes up to $100 a day or more.

LINCOLNWOOD APARTMENTS
OFFER THE HOME THAT YOU have wanted to find for years, in three, four, or five rm. ap'ments.
This beautiful Evanston building is being completed in a charming wooded garden spot, new to apartments. Yet the location, a residential community of fine homes, does not sacrifice convenience. Transportation, shopping facilities, schools, and churches are within ready reach. The building offers many interesting features not usually found in apartment buildings—for instance:
A court sixty-five feet wide.
Wood-burning fireplaces, gas igniters. Raised dining rooms. Steel casement, plate glass windows in dining rooms. Kitchens electrically ventilated. Ornamental radiator covers in dining rooms and living rooms. Tile baths with showers and shower stalls.
Rentals are no more than you have paid for apartments offering much less in facilities and happy living when compared with the Lincolnwood.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

Occasionally the impression has been conveyed that we observe very rigid practices in the making of second mortgage loans.

Let us see how such an impression might come about.

In setting up our second mortgage plan we were primarily interested in the smaller home and in the smaller apartment building—we only consider loans on a three flat or less—and in our aim to only extend our service to this type of property we sought to finance second mortgages at a cost that was somewhere near comparable with the charges of a first mortgage, if humanly possible.

Suppose we took thirty-six flat buildings, apartment hotels, commercial properties, new and speculative projects; it is quite obvious, if you will think of the many hazards and contingencies, that the rate which would necessarily have to apply against these larger units would be considerably higher, and such a practice would naturally incline us, as the lender, to let the higher rate prevail in the smaller properties.

Now comes the owner of even a smaller property, who desires to borrow right up to the hilt. Occasionally we persuade such a borrower that a loan of the size which he desires would make an unsound loan at the rate which we charge, and we suppose occasionally the charge is made that we are rather "choosy" in our requirements.

But what does this "choosiness" do for the A Number 1 small home or three flat building owner? It gives the small home owner an edge, a very real edge, against the cost which might be imposed upon him if we did not highly restrict the type of property upon which we will consider a second mortgage loan.

We are very frankly not interested in any "over-loans" on any kind of property. We are not interested in any loan simply because the property value is sufficient to margin the loan, if the owner of the property is not of good standing and if he cannot show how he is going to pay out. We are not primarily interested in loaning money on second mortgages in order to have the home owner up to his ears in debt. We are first and always interested in financing the smaller home owner in order to help him to acquire a greater equity in or complete ownership of the property which he holds.

The suggestion that our terms are somewhat rigid is really the highest compliment which could be paid us in our aim to be of constructive help to the small home owner.

You know our rates, but we will tell them to you again. 6% interest accrues on the outstanding balance, and it is paid monthly, along with the serial payments which are applied against principal. When the loan is first made we deduct a commission—a straight commission—not one that fluctuates, of $35.00 a thousand for one year, $65.00 a thousand for two years, $90.00 a thousand for three years.

If we have not made ourselves quite clear in trying to show the benefits which the second mortgage borrower obtains under our plan come down to our office at the corner of Madison and Clark and meet our courteous and experienced staff, any one of them; ask any question which may be in your mind. We know we will satisfy any inquiry which you may have, and of course there is never any obligation in making an inquiry.

The Chance of a Lifetime

STUDEBAKER IS CHANGING HEADQUARTERS

Moving to big and better quarters.

All used cars must be liquidated within 30 days—but first come first served.

An Opportunity to Save $200 to $500 No matter what you buy

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT—Here is the chance of a lifetime. A well known lawyer, in a hurry for a new Studebaker Str. 8 Brougham, traded in this late model Studebaker President Big Six 7 pass. Sedan at only $885. The appearance is beautiful and the engine was checked over and now it carries a 30 day free service guarantee. Equipped with 4 wheel brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc.

HUDSON SEDAN—A late model 7 pass. sedan that's probably the best Hudson value in Chicago. The motor was just carefully overhauled and now it's O. K. in every detail. The finish, upholstery and tires appear in the original new condition. Equipped with 4-whl. brakes, driving light, spare tire, shutter front and many other extras. A real buy at $745.

BUICK SEDAN—We have ten 1926 to 1928 sedans priced at $550 to $985. These cars have been carefully checked over and now they are in wonderful condition. The motors are smooth and the appearance of each car is exceptionally clean. Every one is very fully equipped. These Buicks come in five-pass. and seven-pass. models and will please the most exacting buyers.

PEERLESS SEDAN—1929 seven-pass. with unusually low mileage. This car appears as though direct from the factory. Every feature is positively 100%. Has 4-whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, 6 wire wheels and tires, fender wells, 2 spare tires, etc. Special for $1,350. Also a 1927 Peerless Sedan for $645.

LOCOMOBILE SPORT SEDAN—Late model 8 cyl. that originally cost over $2,000. This car is in magnificent condition today. Every feature of the upholstery, finish, tires and motor will please the most exacting buyer. There is a wealth of extra equipment. Will not remain long at $585.

HUPMOBILE SEDAN—This car was formerly owned by an actor who actually only used it for a short time. It's a beauty. Equipped with shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, seat covers, etc. This car was traded in at a low figure and we're willing to pass on the saving to you. Only $545.

AUBURN BROUGHAM—Late model Str. 8 that is in new car condition. The finish is bright and shiny and the expensive upholstery appears unused. Tires have little mileage. Motor has been carefully checked over and today it's in topnotch condition. At $485 this is a bargain. 4-whl. brakes and many extras.

ESSEX SEDAN—Now in new car condition. Extras are driving light, bumpers, spare tire, shutter front, etc. The finish is bright and shiny and the expensive upholstery appears unused. Tires have little mileage. Motor has been carefully checked over and today it's in topnotch condition. $395.

PACKARD SEDAN—A six that's exceptionally clean throughout. Equipped with snubbers, spare tire, etc. The motor is excellent and the upholstery appears unused. Will be sold at once for $450.

ERSKINE SEDAN—A recent model that is in new car condition. By acting quickly, you can get this practically new Erskine at a tremendous saving. Equipped with 4-whl brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $545.

LINCOLN SEDAN—Here is an expensive car at an inexpensive price. The finish is a beautiful light green and the luxurious upholstery appears new. Was owned by a wealthy family who had it oiled and greased every 500 miles. Equipped with trunk, spare tire, shutter front, etc. Will not remain long at $750.

WILLYS-KNIGHT CABRIOLET—This late model 6 is priced hundreds of dollars under its real market price. This is a sport car with a world of power and pep. Rumble seat. It's equipped with 4-whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Finished a handsome color. The motor is just broken in. This is a sensational value at $645.

OAKLAND SEDAN—This 1928 was driven so little that today it is the last word for sparkling performance and beautiful appearance. Because of business reasons, the former owner told us he wanted a bigger car and that's the only reason he traded in this car. If you examine it carefully you'll be forced to admit that it's top notch in every respect. Has 4-whl. brakes and very full equipment. Only $745. Also a late model Oakland roadster, rumble seat, for $495.

STUDEBAKER DICTATOR—1927, five-pass. sedan that's one of of the best used car buys in Chicago. The motor has been reconditioned by expert Studebaker mechanics and it carries a 30-day free service guarantee. The upholstery has not a worn spot and the finish is bright and shiny. Equipped with 4-whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, heater, etc. $645.

CADILLAC COACH—This car looks and runs better than many new cars selling for $1,500. It is a beauty. The finish, upholstery and tires appear in the original new condition. Has a sweet running motor. Equipped with 4-whl. brakes, snubbers, spare tire, etc. For today, only $650. Also a late model Cadillac 7 pass. for $685.

NASH COACH—1927 Adv. 6. A famous actor owned this car and took care of it personally. He certainly kept it in top notch condition for today it appears like a new Nash. The tires have little mileage and the motor has a world of power and pep. The appearance will satisfy the most exacting buyer. Has 4-whl. brakes, bumpers, snubbers, spare tire, etc. $685.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER — A late model 5 pass. sedan that was just traded in by a Lake Forest millionaire. He owned this in conjunction with a Pierce-Arrow and a Packard, so this beautiful Commander received very little mileage. A trained chauffeur inspected and checked it over carefully every day and now it absolutely looks and runs like a brand new car. The finish glistens like a new dollar. The tires are practically brand new and the motor is in such splendid condition that it carries a new car guarantee. Equipment includes 4-whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire and other valuable extras. Offered at $745.

YOUR Want-Ad-Market grows constantly with the Tribune

IN JUNE, 1928, the daily Tribune's circulation averaged 803,153 copies—the greatest standard size daily newspaper circulation in the country. With its tremendous mass of readers, the Tribune made Want Ads pull profitably for advertisers. They could reach thousands more buyers—tenants—employes than through any other newspaper in Chicago.

Every month so far this year, the Tribune's circulation surpassed that of the same month in 1928. And in June, 1929, it struck 856,892—a gain of 53,739 in twelve months.

Now when you use Tribune Want Ads you flash your offer before 53,000 more families than you could reach a year ago. You can place your used car, your apartment, your real estate or your service before three out of every five families in metropolitan Chicago. You speak to more families than read any other full-size daily newspaper in America. Your gain over last year alone is greater than the circulations of 82% of the newspapers in the United States!

Tribune Want Ads Can Do the Job Alone!

More readers for Want Ads mean more answers. And added readers come to you steadily through the Tribune's expanding circulation. Use Tribune Want Ads to bring answers to your door and telephone! Call
